Daniel Elected YW President; Davis to Be Vice-President

Mary Anne Daniel, junior political science major from Weldon, was elected president of the YWCA for the coming year in Thursday night's election. Maria Davis of Wilmington will serve as vice president next year.

They will succeed Ruth Evans and Emily Von Borries, respectively.

Other officers elected include Sally Woodhull, secretary; Virginia Nash, treasurer; and Peggy Egerton, membership chairman.

These officers will make up the executive council, and will be installed, with other coed officers, at a ceremony to be held April 12 in the Presbyterian church.

Within the next few weeks the incoming president will select her cabinet, made up of approximately 30 committee chairmen, and other committees such as the Religion in Life, World Student Service fund, Clothing drive, Y-Teen, and office assistants.

Cabinet members, as well as the executive committee, were chosen from the Y junior council, a group of about 50 outstanding junior girls who received training and orientation in Y program and ideals in a six-week course during winter quarter.

Some of the newly-elected officers will attend the leadership training conference in Greensboro today sponsored by the Southern division of the National Student YWCA. To be held at the Greensboro YW, the conference will have as its theme "The Christian Student at Grips with the Issues of Today," and will be attended by colleges throughout this area.

Civil rights and responsibilities, European Recovery Plan, Atomic energy, and southern economy will be discussed in workshop groups at the conference, and reports will be given on summer projects.

Burwell to Head IRC This Quarter

International Relations club officers for the spring quarter have been elected and delegates chosen to attend the state IRC meeting to be held at Queens college in Charlotte April 17, according to an announcement yesterday.

New officers are as follows: James Burwell, president; John Sanders, vice president; Mary Bates Sherwood, secretary; Francis Winslow, treasurer; Banks Tally, speaker and forum chairman; John Bristow, membership chairman; Ann Beale and Peggy McKinley, social chairmen.

At an organizational meeting held Monday plans were made to hold a membership campaign during the spring quarter.

Aims, Plans of Yack Nominees Published

Gene Blake

"A yearbook, in order to be a successful publication, must contain those essentials which create enjoyment when looking over it after it is first received by the student; give additional pleasure a few years from then; and, in later life, stand as a lasting testimony to past pleasures. I believe that I can give the rising senior class and other classes such an annual — a yearbook of which they can be proud.

"If elected to the position of Yackety Yack editor, I shall, with eager endeavor:

"1 Apply close scrutiny to the spending of Yack funds, eliminating wasteful spending where found, and exercising general over-all economical spending.

"2 Enlarge the Yack staff so as to obtain more and varied opinions and ideas.

"3 Award staff positions on a basis of individual initiative and qualification, rather than on a 'friendly' or organizational-affiliation basis.

"4 Make scheduled (in the full sense of the word) appointments for individual Yack photos at the beginning of the new school year, in order that the publication may be completed and distributed before the last few days of the school year.

"5 Work diligently and unceasingly for our mutual benefit in giving all of us a 'book of memories' of which we can be proud."

Bill Duncan

"In order to present an annual which will not just be stored in an attic, I promise, if elected, to publish a complete book with the accent on human interest.

"I believe that it requires experience to compile such a book. Believing that, I should like to present to the students the following qualification:

"Coordinator for the 1948 Yackety Yack.

"Personnel manager for the U. S. Civil Service.

"A years study at the Philadelphia school of Industrial Art.

"Associate editor of the Catawba college Pioneer.

"Active part in high school publications.

"Because I believe that the students have a right to know just what I intend to do if elected editor, I present as my platform the following specific aims:

"1. I will give more space to informal snaps, encouraging equal representation of all groups.

"2. I will strive to have a large capable staff thus training others to be able to edit subsequent books.

"3. I will not set deadlines that the staff cannot meet but will require delivery of the annual in May.

"4 I will do my utmost to give the students a book of which they will be proud."

Spring Attendance Falls Below 7,000 In Sub-Normal Drop

The number of students at the University this spring has dropped from last quarter's total of 7,116 to 6,974, according to the official registration figures released yesterday by Chancellor House. Even this decrease in enrollment, though, is "far less than was customary during pre-war years," Central Records Director Edwin Lanier commented.

A partial breakdown of this figure shows that 500 of the total are in the professional schools; with 270 in law, 94 in medicine, 106 in public health and 30 in library science.

The registration office enrolled 6,899 before the opening of the quarter and picked up 557 during the March 24-29 registration period. Cancellations and students failing to return reduced this total to its current 6,794.

The enrollment has been decreasing since its all-time high of 7,528 this past fall.

FRED BLACKWELL is running for the junior seat on the Men's Honor council. Blackwell, nominated by the non-partisan selection board, is a transfer from Brevard college and a veteran of four years' service in the navy.

Grades Held Up By Official Snarl

The distribution of last quarter's grades to the student body has had to be postponed, Central Records Director Edwin Lanier said today, due to the regular registration and the extensive drop and add work that is being done by the staff of the registration office.

"We are recording the grades now," Lanier explained, "and we hope they should be ready for distribution next week."

The exact date and time when students may pick up this information will be announced later.

STUDENTS FOR STASSEN
All students who are interested in forming a Students-for-Stassen club here on campus are requested to come to the Horace Williams lounge on the first floor of Graham Memorial, on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock.

John Brockmann, who is in charge of arrangements for the Freshman Friendship council-Women's college freshman picnic and dance to be held here this afternoon and tonight, said yesterday that a few tickets were still available. Tickets will be on sale in the Y information office until 1 o'clock today. Tickets for both the picnic and dance combined are one dollar.

The girls from W. C. are expected to arrive at 4 o'clock by bus. Local students with tickets are asked to be at the Forest Theater picnic ground by 4:30.

After the picnic supper is served the group will move on to Woolen gym at 8:30 for informal dancing.

Playmakers Co-Sponsoring Theater Meeting Beginning Here April 12

By Mark Sumner
University and community theater leaders from 14 southern states will meet here April 12 and 13 for the Southeastern theater meeting sponsored by the Carolina Playmakers in collaboration with the National Theater Conference, according to an announcement released today by Samuel Selden, director of the Playmakers.

The states to be represented are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and also from Washington, D. C. Selden said that small colleges, as well as large universities, have been invited.

"Purpose of the meeting is to compare notes and exchange information about theater activities in the South," he said, "but we also intend to explore the possibilities of founding a Southeastern Theater conference."

The two-day program which will open with a luncheon address by Margo Jones, Theater 48, Dallas, Texas, on April 12, will be followed by the four-day drama festival of the Carolina Dramatic association.

Other features of the program will include reports on Southern theater activities by Leo Brady, Catholic university, and Howard W. Bailey, Rollins college. Playwright Paul Green will speak on "Our Opportunities."

On the evening of April 12, the Playmakers will present a new play, "Call Back Yesterday," by Gene McLain, as an example of experimental staging.

The second day's program will include a panel discussion by Selden, Harry E. Davis of the (See THEATER, page 4)

Eighteen Candidates Are Disqualified By Elections Board

Eighteen candidates for office in the spring elections have been unconditionally disqualified, according to Al Winn, chairman of the Board of Elections.

The 18 listed were absent from each of the three compulsory candidates' meetings held in Gerard hall Tuesday, Thursday and yesterday.

The disqualified people are: C P. John Miles, Dan Martin, Jake Lamberts; UP: Dick Bunting Gene Turner.

Compulsory Meeting For SP Candidates

Chairman Gran Childress has announced a meeting of the Student party tomorrow night at 7:30 in Graham Memorial Roland Parker lounge 1. Childress emphasized that the meeting is compulsory for all candidates of the Student party in the elections on Tuesday. There are several matters concerning party literature that must be attended to and worked out. Childress requested that all candidates endorsed by the Student party also be present at this meeting. Also announced was the regular meeting of the Student party on Monday night at 9 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 1.

High Wind Forecast For Monday in Hill

A band and high-powered politics will reign supreme in Hill hall Monday evening at 7 o'clock, according to Elections Board Chairman Al Winn.

Short talks will be made by candidates for president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and for campus publications. The entire meeting will last only one hour.

All candidates for other offices will be present, but will not address the meeting, which is open to everyone on campus.

PARLIAMENTARY COURSE

A non-credit course in parliamentary procedure, given under the auspices of the Political Science department, meets every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in Caldwell hall.

Although the course is open to all students, it is particularly urged upon student leaders and fraternity officers.

It was explained yesterday that the course is authorized on a contingent basis only and may not be given if interest is not high enough.

Head Cheerleader Race Reduced To Three As Wofford Withdraws

BILL BUCHANAN AND CAM WEST are Student party nominees for member-at-large to the Publications board and Student council, respectively. Buchanan is writing for the Daily Tar Heel editorial page at present, while West is a member of the Dialectic Senate and the Elections committee of the Student Legislature.

Philharmonic Conductor Helfman to Give Recital-Speech Under Hillel Sponsorship

Max Helfman, distinguished composer, lecturer, and conductor of the People's Philharmonic Choral society of New York, will give a unique lecture recital in Hill hall tomorrow.

Sponsored by the local Hillel foundation, Helfman's program is entitled "Jewish Music and Jewish Survival."

His program is not a lecture in the usual sense of the term. He illustrates at the piano a running dialogue, comprising early Bible cantillations, old synagogue chants, tunes of Jewish folk life, as well as from modern works of contemporary Jewish composers. Described by critics as a "memorable experience with an impelling message," the program points up the significance of music in Jewish history.

In addition to being a conductor of the People's Philharmonic society of New York, Helfman is nationally known as music director of the Brandeis Camp institute and Music Director of Temple B'nai Abraham of Newark, N. J.

Mind-Reading and Mirth Billed as Features Of SEC-Sponsored Polgar Appearance Here

By Sally Woodhull

"Miracles of the Mind," a unique exhibition of mind reading, mystification and mirth, will be presented Monday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall by Dr. Franz J. Polgar, renowned hypnotists and mental telepathist.

Sponsored by the Student Entertainment committee, the show is an attempt to pay off the debt incurred by the group earlier in the year when students failed to support their shows. Graham Memorial Director Bill Shuford is supervising ticket sales for the committee.

Admission price to the entertainment will be 50 cents, and tickets may be obtained at the Graham Memorial office as well as at the door.

Called the "most perplexing personality on the stage," Polgar presents a program made up of telepathy, amazing demonstrations in thought transference; memory feats, exhibiting the photographic mind in a series of rapid fire tests; and power of suggestion, with volunteer subjects from the audience.

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post, James Pence tells how the doctor hypnotized the Georgia Tech football team the day before they were slated to play Alabama. Georgia Tech won the game. The next Saturday, Polgar was hundreds of miles away, filling an engagement. The Georgia Tech team lost. "Coincidence, no

Former Candidate Expresses Regret, Thanks to Friends

By Chuck Hauser
Only three candidates for head cheerleader out of the original four now remain in the race, it was learned yesterday as Dick Wofford, Campus party aspirant to the post announced his withdrawal.

Tuesday's general elections battle will now feature a three-cornered fight between Jerry Pence (Ind.), Norm Sper (SP) and Charlie Stancell (UP).

Wofford, a member of this year's squad under the direction of Head Cheerleader Myrt Sherard, stated that he did not plan to back any of his former opponents at the present time.

Although Bob Haire, chairman of the Campus party, could not be located last night, it was learned that the CP has made no plans to endorse any of the three candidates still running.

In a statement released to the Daily Tar Heel yesterday, Wofford stated, "Although reluctant to do so, I am forced to withdraw from the race for head cheerleader due to recently arising circumstances which make me ineligible to hold the position.

"I wish to express my sincere gratitude to the Campus party," Wofford continued, "and to all my friends for the support given me during my recent campaign."

BINGO TONIGHT

"Joker John" Van Hecke will be on hand to call for the weekly Saturday night session of the popular game of Bingo in the Graham Memorial main lounge at 8 o'clock tonight.

DTH Editorial Aspirants State Planks

Ed Joyner

"My platform as a candidate for the editorship of the Daily Tar Heel is one of practicality rather than wild promises which cannot be fulfilled.

"The only promise I will make to anyone is this: 'If you, the students of this University, select me to edit your newspaper for the coming year, I shall do my best to give you the best newspaper I can.

"Entailed in this promise are the following points:

"1. Assembly of the best staff possible to give you the best paper possible.

"2. Complete coverage of campus news, accurately reported and impartially presented.

"3. Complete and interesting coverage of news in sports.

"4. A strong editorial stand on all campus questions. In contrast to the news pages the editorial page will be as partial as I can make it. This partiality will be directed not for or against individual persons and organizations as such, but for or against the individual actions — or inaction — of those persons and organizations.

"5. The staff of the Daily Tar Heel shall always bear in mind that this paper belongs to every student at the University and that we, the staff, are here to serve you, the students."

Art Melton

"I pledge to the students this: 'I will make the Daily Tar Heel a good paper by the students and should I fail to rally or find sufficient talented students to publish the quality of paper the student body is entitled to I will resign as editor.

"The Daily Tar Heel shall carry the news of interest to the students, that is, if enough students desire two crossword puzzles daily — they'll get the two crossword puzzles daily.

"I pledge to the men students — a sports page that is a real sports page — not so much canned Carmichael-Goldwater stuff.

"I pledge to the women students — a coverage of women's sports and a decent prominence in print and recognition of the women's athletic association.

"I pledge to the students — I will use more pictures in next years paper and will try during the year to carry at least one item containing the name of each student. Space will not be delegated to just a few students.

"I will fire both Carmichael and Goldwater from the staff of the Daily Tar Heel.

"Publishing the Daily Tar Heel under the above pledges will not be a one-man job and it will only be with the help and ability of the many outstanding journalists on the campus that such can
