

Crisp Gives Report On Chicago Forum

By Gordon Huffines

Bill Crisp, one of three University delegates to the Inter-collegiate Conference on the United Nations held in Chicago March 24-26, reported on the actions of the mock assembly to the last "lameduck" session of the Student Legislature last night.

Sponsored by the University of Chicago, the conference was attended by delegates from 51 colleges, each representing a member of the UN. The University delegation, John Stump, Ann Wells, and Crisp represented New Zealand.

Reporting on the assembly, which he presided over as president, Crisp said that the mock collegiate assembly was "uncannily realistic." The delegates gained an impression of the obstacles confronting the UN and the conflicts which come before the General Assembly daily, he asserted.

Russian Columbia

Crisp said that the actions of the Columbia university delegation, which represented the Soviet Union, greatly added to the realistic effect of the conference. The "Soviet" delegation quickly organized the delegations representing the Slavic countries and presented an united bloc on all the issues that came before the assembly.

Reporting on the actions of the conference, Crisp explained that the work was accomplished in three main committees. The issue of race relations came before the Human Rights committee in the form of a proposal that the "UN" look into the racial issue in the United States.

Objection Over-Ruled

Crisp, as president of the assembly, objected to the proposal on the grounds that the problem was not within their jurisdiction. Over-ruling his objections, Crisp said, the committee reported out a favorable bill recommending that the UN recommend Truman's Civil Rights program to the United States.

Official representatives of various organizations also appeared before the assembly, Crisp reported. He also stated that Wallaces and Communist members picketed the mock UN assembly for two days.

Only definite action taken by the Legislature last night was the passage of a bill to present Speaker Jack Folger with a key for his services as presiding officer during the past year.

Melton Protests DTH Election; Charges Expense Account Filed Incomplete

An 800-word protest filed by Art Melton, defeated independent candidate for the editorship of the Daily Tar Heel, has been reviewed by the Elections board. The protest concerns the election of Ed Joyner to the position.

Melton protested the election on the grounds that a classified ad which appeared in the DTH on the day of the general election, and signed by Bob Goldwater and Billy Carmichael III, had not been included in Joyner's expense account as campaign publicity.

Al Winn, chairman of the Elections board, said that the case will come up before the Student council at its next session. Winn said Melton's statement was reviewed by the board and the report which will be submitted to the council will be unfavorable to the protest.

Scotty Venable, attorney general for student government, will be present at the council session.

Melton lodged his protest on the grounds that the ad carried the words, "Vote for Ed Joyner," and should therefore be submitted as an expense.

Fleece Founded To Improve Campus Spirit

By Charlie Gibson

For the 45th time in University history Memorial hall will be the scene of a Golden Fleece tapping next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the campus's one opportunity during the year to see a public ceremony of its leading honorary organization.

Black-robed figures with fleeces across their shoulders will stalk among the audience, followed by spotlights as they search for an undisclosed number of men whom the organization has selected for membership on the basis of character and service to the University.

The Jason of the Fleece for the past year as well as other officers will be revealed for the first time. However, there will be no reference to the work the group has done jointly on campus since all possible accomplishments for the University's good are made individually and secretly, according to the ethics of the order.

A little younger than the twentieth century itself, the Fleece was founded by Dr. Henry Horace Williams, Carolina's famous philosopher-scholar, in 1903 with the initiation of eight students, including Phillips Russell, now a member of the English department.

The Fleece was founded to satisfy a definite campus need, according to Dr. Williams. In an editorial in the Daily Tar Heel for May 8, 1938, he stated, "On the campus at the time of its

Eleventh Annual State Student Legislature Meets In Raleigh Today; 32 Delegates Represent Carolina

Bicameral Assembly To Meet in Capitol, County Court House

By Chuck Hauser

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel) Raleigh — The 11th annual State Student Legislative assembly convenes here this morning with colleges and universities all over the state represented.

The student General Assembly will meet in the regular assembly chambers in the capitol building while the Senate will perform its functions in the Wake county court house across the street.

Meeting in Rotunda

All Carolina delegates will gather in the rotunda of the capitol at 11 o'clock this morning, preparatory to registering for the assembly. The first session begins at 1:15 this afternoon. Representatives will have to provide their own transportation here from Chapel Hill, for which they will be reimbursed by the Debate council. The council will also handle all registration fees for University delegates.

Second session of the legislature will meet at 7 o'clock this evening and continue until 9 o'clock. The third session is scheduled for 9 to 12 noon tomorrow, and the final meeting from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

President of the temporary executive council of the group is Charlie Long, UNC student, and the secretary is Frances Thompson of Meredith college here in Raleigh. Chet Zum Brunnen of Carolina is a member of the Executive council.

Begun in 1937

The legislature was begun in 1937 by the Pi Kappa Alpha debating society at State college and was carried on by that organization until the 1945 session, when the executive council gained control of the project.

During the 1945 meeting the decision was made to admit representatives of the following year from Negro colleges in the state. According to observers the interracial group worked together in perfect harmony, but the race question was admittedly part of the cause for the attempted cancellation of this year's assembly by State college students on the executive council last fall.

Cancer Society Is Now Staging Drive on Campus to Raise Funds

The American Cancer society is staging a drive this week at the University to solicit funds to be used by the society to combat the cancer menace. According to the society, 178,000 Americans, or one every three minutes, will die of cancer this year. Cancer strikes, on the average, one out of every two homes.

Johnny Clappitt, chairman of the student drive, said yesterday that he is contacting the dormitory presidents to ask that they help collect money for this cause.

"I hope that each dormitory president will appoint a man on each floor to make the rounds to get any amount the students feel they can give. The dorm presidents that I have already contacted have been very cooperative," Clappitt said.

In the fraternities each president is urged to ask one of the members to take charge of the collections. Any contributions made are to be turned over to Mr. Roy Armstrong on the second floor of South building or to Johnny Clappitt at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

The A.C.S. reports that the price of cancer to this nation runs as high as $2,000,000,000 a year. Cancer's toll means a cost of $14 for every man, woman, and child in the United States.

An annual expenditure of 18 cents per person for research, clinics, detection centers, public education, and services to those afflicted with cancer is made. During World War II, which cost each American $640 a year, cancer killed more than twice as many Americans as were killed in combat, according to the A.C.S.

"Our Living Earth," a color film designed to show the meaning and importance of conservation, also will be shown. Sprunt, a native of Charleston, S. C. and a graduate of Davidson college, has long been active with the Audubon society. For many years he supervised the work of Audubon wardens in the society's tremendous sanctuary areas. Vast colonies of birds, among them the most beautiful and spectacular in this country, egrets, spoonbills, cranes and herons of many kinds, have been saved from complete extinction by the protection the sanctuaries afford.

Currently Sprunt is at work preparing a book on the birds of South Carolina. He was awarded a Guggenheim grant to enable him to prepare the book. A collection of his scientific articles and stories of the out-of-doors has been published under the title "Dwellers of the Silences."

Coed Officers Are Installed By Candlelight

"Each coed officer, because she is looked to for leadership by fellow coeds has an obligation to fulfill not only the duties of her office but to set an example in personal conduct," said Miss Twig Branch in her charge to new officers at the candlelight installation ceremony at the Presbyterian church Wednesday night.

Miss Branch pointed out further that each girl has an obligation to all other coed organizations as well as her own, because one cannot function without the cooperation of all.

Donleen McDonald presided at the candlelight ceremony, which saw some 70 coeds installed as campus leaders. Retiring president of the various coed associations lighted the candle of the incoming president who in turn lighted the candles of the other officers. Following the candlelighting the old president gave the oath of office to the incoming officers.

Among those installed were new leaders in the WAA, Legislature, Coed Senate, YWCA, Womens Honor Council, and Inter-dorm Council.

Teenie Royall, chairman of the program committee said yesterday that the joint installation would become an annual affair with the purpose of helping coeds realize their position as campus leaders rather than merely heads of single groups.
