

Catawba Team Takes Playwright's Award

RUTH GROCE and Johnny Young (bottom) of Catawba college, were awarded the $100 first prize last night in the Carolina Dramatic Association's Betty Smith playwriting award for their comedy 'While the Milk Clabbered.' Betty Barksdale (top right) of Lee Edwards high school, Asheville, was awarded $50 second prize for her play, 'Oh, Brother,' and Lou Harshaw (top left) of West Asheville, received the $25 third prize for her play, 'The Man Who Looked Like God.'

A young playwriting team, composed of two Catawba college students, Johnny Young and Ruth Hubbard Groce, won first prize of $100 in the coveted Betty Smith Awards with their play, 'While the Milk Clabbered,' it was announced last night at the final program of the week-long State Drama Festival held at the University of North Carolina under the sponsorship of the Carolina Dramatic Association.

Wallacites Hear Convention Report

Bill Exans and Claude Dunningan, local delegates to the National Students for Wallace convention held last weekend in Chicago, presented a detailed report of the convention at the Wallace club meeting last Friday.

In his report Dunningan said that a delegation to the convention from the University of Oklahoma was stopped three times by the police, and once taken to headquarters and detained two hours without any charges.

At Northwestern, according to Dunningan's report, three students were suspended for thirty days for posting Wallace handbills.

Dunningan reported that several resolutions were adopted at the convention, including one against Universal Military Training and another against the suppression of free speech on American campuses.

In the business session of the local meeting, the group defeated a motion to participate in a mock UN assembly to be sponsored soon by the CCUN.

Jacobson Announces Mag Contest Is Over

According to Fred Jacobson, editor of the Carolina Magazine, the photography contest is 'all over except the shouting.'

In referring to the contest that the mag has been sponsoring, Jacobson said that 'the only photographs which we could accept now would be the ones for whose lateness the photographer had an extraordinary excuse.'

Jacobson also said that the mag has been 'very well satisfied' with the response to the contest and expects to publish the names of the winners in the May issue. The winning picture will also be published at the time, with the photographer who entered the picture winning $25 in merchandise from Foister's camera store.

Golden Fleece To Tap New Members Tomorrow Evening

Student Government Officers Take Oath On Tuesday Evening

All newly elected student officers will be inaugurated at a mass meeting in Gerrard hall Tuesday night at 8:30. President Tom Eller said yesterday that arrangements were being made to secure the services of Dr. Frank Graham in making the charge and administering the oath to new campus leaders.

'The inauguration will represent the conclusion of the 1947-48 Student Government administration, and as of that meeting the responsibility for Student Government will be in the hands of the new officers,' Eller brought out.

An informal banquet will be held for student leaders and University administration officials at 7 o'clock in the Carolina Inn preceding the inauguration. The banquet, which is being sponsored by the Student Orientation committee, will give new students a chance to become acquainted with administration officials. Eller said that reply cards had been mailed to approximately 50 student officers and 12 University administrators.

Jess Dedmond, newly elected president of the student body and Tom Eller, retiring president, are scheduled to speak at the inauguration ceremonies. Vice-president Jack Folger will preside over the meeting.

Urging the attendance of all new campus leaders, Eller said that although many of the officers would be sworn into office with their own organizations he hopes that as many as possible would be present to take the mass oath which will be administered Tuesday night.

Eller also pointed out that the inauguration ceremonies were being held at 8:30 so that coeds would be able to attend the meeting.

Geologist Society Appoints Huddle To Lecture Group

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists, which sponsors distinguished geologists on lecture tours in various sections of the country, has appointed Dr. John W. Huddle of the University Geology department as a member of the lecture group this spring.

Dr. Huddle, who has done a large amount of work for the United States Geological Survey, will speak on 'Devonian and Mississippian Paleogeography of Northeastern Arizona' before geological societies in 11 cities in six states between April 23 and May 15. These lectures are sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in cooperation with local organizations.

Other original plays entered in the competition were given special CDA awards, along with the Betty Smith Award winners. They were: 'Will of the Gods', by Bob Grahl, Lee Edwards High, Asheville; 'Disturb Not the Dead' by Lemuel C. Roberson, Atlantic Christian College; 'One for the Book' by Dorothy Sumner, Florence Young and Naomi Cunningham, all of Gastonia; 'Trail of Tears', by Elizabeth Welch, Salem College, and 'Lis-buth', by Naomi Cunningham, Gastonia.

Awards in play production were given to The Masque and Wig, Boyden High School, Salisbury; The Dramateers, Greenville High; The Spotlighters, Tabor City High; the Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers; and the Beaux and Belles, Lee Edwards High, Asheville.

Honorable Mention: Awarded honorable mention: Laurinburg High School, Flora MacDonald High Players; Rock Springs High School, Denver; Meredith College Little Theatre; Reynolds High Players, Winston-Salem; Hendersonville High Dramatics Club; Greensboro Senior High Playmasters; Gray High Dramatics Club, Winston-Salem; and Campbell College Dramatics Club.

Officers elected to head the CD A during the coming years are president, Mrs. Doris C. Hollsworth of Atlantic Christian college in Wilson; vice president, Hubert Philpott of Central high school in Charlotte; and executive secretary, John W. Parker, head of the University Bureau of Community Drama.

Eventful Session

State Student Legislators Pass Elections Bill, Subsidy Increase For All Instructors

By Chuck Hauser (Special to the Daily Tar Heel) Raleigh, April 17 - The upper and lower houses of the State Student Legislative assembly adjourned shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon after having passed 14 laws, resolutions and resolutions.

The lower house of the 11-year old assembly, under the direction of Speaker Charlie Long, triumphantly wound up its last piece of business at 4:40 by abolishing the 'gag rule' in the House of Representatives. The bill was passed by the Senate earlier in the day.

One of the most controversial bills to come before the two assemblies was a measure to change the North Carolina elections laws. Passed overwhelmingly in the Senate yesterday, it was defeated in the House at about the same time; but when the bill was brought onto the floor for reconsideration today the delegates of the mock lower house approved it with a 46 to 30 vote.

Advocacy of the measure by two Wallace-buttressed students from Duke university apparently had no effect of the passage of the measure today, because unexpected sources from all parts of the floor began pointing out that the proposal would not only permit Henry Wallace to get his name on the state ballot with ease, but would allow gubernatorial candidates such as Mayne Albright or Kerr Scott, if defeated in the primaries, to run for the post as independents.

Approximately 200 delegates from 20 colleges and universities in North Carolina attended the two-day meeting which convened in the House chambers of the State capital and in the auditorium of an Episcopal church across the street, where the Senate sat after it was discovered at the last minute that neither the regular Senate chambers nor the Wake county court house were available.

The student Capitol hill lawmakers also passed a bill today which grant 20 per cent salary increases to all state public school teachers, but they were careful to amend it first to include professors and instructors in state-supported colleges and universities.

To support the extra cost of the salaries to the state, the mock assembly passed another amendment to provide for a one per cent sales tax on luxury items costing over $100. The tax was

The bill, introduced by delegates from Catawba college, was brought to the mock General Assembly by Pfeiffer college, but the Pfeiffer delegates received last minute orders from their school administration that it would definitely be frowned upon if they were to introduce such a bill.

Another important bill given the green light by the two assembly houses was a measure to provide for state-wide alcoholic beverage control stores. The proposal abolished county option and installed the new ABC setup without state-wide referendum.

The doors to Memorial hall will be locked the moment the tapping services begin to avoid late comers' spoiling the solemnity and suspense. To attend the tapping of the Valkyrie Sing which follows it immediately, the audience should be seated by 7:50.

Names Secret

Prior to the initiation rituals in the Fleece's one public meeting of the year, the names of the new members are kept secret, leaving those who are to be honored completely unnotified beforehand.

During the tapping Fleece officers for '47-'48 will be revealed for the first time.

Black-robed figures with fleece across their shoulders will stalk around the auditorium, searching for those men whose character and service has qualified them for membership in this 45-year-old organization which has worked secretly for University welfare and advancement.

Coates, J. B. Linker, C. P. Spruill, E. H. Hartsell, J. M. Saunders, W. T. Couch, E. A. Cameron, W. S. Spearman, H. T. Lefler, H. K. Russell, W. M. Shuford, and F. W. Hart.

Newly-Elected Coed Officers to Inaugurate Organizational Training Sessions on Tuesday

Newly elected officers of all coed organizations will attend training sessions Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week at which speeches on general topics and informal discussions of particular offices will be held.

All coeds are invited to attend the mass meetings in connection with the program, to be held in Graham Memorial's main lounge Tuesday at 7 o'clock, Wednesday at 5 o'clock, and Wednesday at 7. Leadership and fellowship, student government, and parliamentary procedure are the topics of these sessions.

New officers are especially urged to attend these meetings, will be followed by the informal discussions led by students who have held the positions to be discussed.

Ruth Evans and Bill Lloyd will lead the discussion on presidents and vice-presidents; Julia Ross and Betsy Ann Barbee, secretaries; and Marshall Spears and Helen Xanthos, treasurers, all on Tuesday night.

Wednesday at 5:20 Annie Ben Beale will speak on Student Legislature, Barbara Cashion on Coed senate, and Donleen McDonald on Women's council.

At 7:30 Wednesday Bootsie McWilliams and Norma Hotard will discuss house presidents; Scotty Dellinger and Cattie Holt, social chairmen; and Sally Woodhull and Miriam Evans, publicity chairmen.

The program will close with a formal banquet Thursday night at the Carolina Inn, at which Chancellor Rober House will be the speaker.

Cups to Be Offered in Valkyrie Sing; Organizations Here in Competition

The annual Valkyrie Sing, sponsored by the highest women's honor society on campus, will be presented tomorrow evening in Memorial hall, immediately following the tapping of the Golden Fleece.

The Sing, presents many campus organizations in competition for the silver loving cups. The groups which have entered are, Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Ku, Sigma Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Pi Lambda Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon and Everett dorm.

Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Sigma Alpha Iota, music sorority, Smith Dormitory and McIver dormitory.

Judges for the Sing are Robert Schenckan, of the Radio department, Gene Stryker of the Music department, and Robert 'Spike' Nelson, assistant pastor of the University Methodist church. The judges will rate the contestants as to music, originality, and stage presence. Last year's winners were Phi Gamma Delta, in the men's group and Alpha Delta Pi in the women's group.

Valkyries is the highest women's honorary society on the campus, its membership being limited to two per cent of the total coed enrollment. Membership is based on outstanding leadership, sound judgement, character, unselfish service to the campus, and fine scholarship.

Tomorrow students will be given the opportunity to buy a membership to the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra series at an all-time low price of $1. Dean Fred H. Weaver, chairman of the drive to help raise money to support the orchestra, reports. The orchestra will perform here next Friday, April 23, at Hill hall.

Tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday tickets go on sale at the 'Y'. The lowest membership to the series is $2, but students can buy this same membership, which entitles the owner admittance to any concert by the orchestra, for $1. Tickets will go on sale at the door next Friday night to students for $1.20, and to non-students for $2.50.

Dean Weaver pointed out that any person holding a membership card is entitled to attend any concert given by the N. C. Symphony. Last season the orchestra performed 115 concerts in 53 cities and towns, and more than 100,000 children and 50,000 adults heard them.

One of the principle objectives of the N. C. Symphony is to make available to people of the entire state the best in orchestra music, according to Dean Weaver.

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under Dr. Benjamin Swalin, receives a subsidy of $12,000 a year from the state. Other support is derived from a membership that numbers 13,000; the orchestra depended almost entirely on the services of volun-

Science Readers Will Reorganize Tomorrow Night

A reorganizational meeting of the Carolina Science Fiction association will be held tomorrow night at 9 o'clock in the Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial.

The association is a club composed of students interested in speculative fiction, called 'science fiction.' These studies are based on science, usually speculative.

'They are based on possibilities, not probabilities,' explained Fred Burgess, member of the association which has been inactive on the campus since fall.

'An example of this type of story,' said Burgess, is the work of Jules Verne of H. G. Wells. In later years, however, names frequently associated with science fiction are Philip Wylie, A. E. van Vogt, Robert Heinlein and Willy Ley.'

An invitation to attend is also extended to fans of fantasy or the supernatural.
