Every Man Will Be Drafted, Says Bush

Washington, April 21 —(UP)—The nation's top atomic scientist, Dr. Vannevar Bush, said today every man will have to be drafted to work or fight in any new war. In a letter to the House Armed Services committee, he urged that legislation be passed to provide for a universal draft in case of an emergency.

3,000-Mile Shot

New York, April 21 —(UP)—Former General James Doolittle predicted today that guided atomic missiles will carry atom bombs as much as 3,000 miles in the future. Doolittle, who led the first air raid on Tokyo, told an audience in New York's Museum of Natural History that the rockets will travel faster than 3,000 miles per hour.

Snipers 'Had It'

Jerusalem, April 21 —(UP)—British troops in the Palestine port of Haifa turned cannon and tank fire on Jewish snipers today. Jewish militia men have been sniping at traffic on the one road the British use to pull their troops out of Haifa.

Palestine Mission

Lake Success, N. Y., April 21 —(UP)—The American delegation to the United Nations has proposed sending a UN truce mission to Palestine. The US proposal calls for a small UN police force to enforce the truce.

Italian Cabinet

Rome, April 21 —(UP)—Italian Premier De Gasperi is expected to form a new cabinet May 20. The Italian Minister of Interior claims the Christian Democratic party has won an absolute majority in both houses of the parliament.

Studebaker Strike

South Bend, Ind., April 21 —(UP)—Most of the Studebaker corporation's 15,000 production workers are idle because of what the company calls an unauthorized work stoppage. Studebaker President Harold Vance said today he doesn't know when production will be started again.

Redistricting Bill To Come Up At Student Legislature Meeting

By Herb Nachman

The University party will introduce a new redistricting bill on the floor of the Student Legislature when the group convenes tonight at 7:30 in Di hall.

The new legislation which splits the town men's area into four districts will be the third major bill to be introduced to the Student Legislature this year concerning the controversial redistricting issue.

Under the new bill, the men's dormitory districts will remain the same as will both the women's town and dorm districts. Reapportionment of legislators is not specifically defined in the bill but will be turned over to the Elections board in the event the bill is passed.

As proposed in the bill, students in town will be divided into four districts. The first district will include Victory Village and the Pittsboro Trailer Camp with 444 voters at present.

The second district takes in all students living in the southwestern portion of town, bounded by Pittsboro road and Columbia street north to the intersection of Columbia street and Cameron avenue. It will include all students living on both sides of West Cameron and on Fetzler lane. This district, almost twice the size of the first, includes 851 voters.

Town district three as set forth in the bill includes all students living in the northwestern section of town. All students living north of Cameron avenue and west of Old Fraternity row with the exception of those included in district two. It will also include students living in Carrboro, Greensboro, Burlington and other areas lying in its general direction. This district includes 827 voters.

District four with 856 voters would take in all students living in the eastern section of town. It is bound by Pittsboro road, Old Fraternity row and Columbia street and would include students living in Raleigh and Durham and other areas in the general direction of district three.

The five dormitory districts for men remain the same under the bill as does the dorm and town women's districts. Two proposals defining legislators' movement and free and open candidacy are also included in the bill.

In addition to the presentation of the redistricting bill, election of officers for the Student Legislature is scheduled for tonight's meeting. Officers to be elected are, parliamentarian, speaker pro tempore, clerk, sergeant-at-arms, and student representative to Graham Memorial. Also included on tonight's agenda will be the appointment of committees. All legislators, old and new, are requested to be present.

Under the new bill, a legislator would be permitted to change his or her residence within the constitutionally established district from which he was elected without being declared out of the district and would also maintain his seat in the Student Legislature.

Also, the bill states that it will not be within the jurisdiction of any legislative group on campus to prohibit any candidate for a student government office from filing independently or from accepting the nomination of any (See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

Lewis Orders Miners To Return To Pits; Government Issues New Strike Injunction

Washington, April 21 —(UP)—Miners are streaming back to the pits tonight in the soft coal fields.

In Pennsylvania, U. S. steel officials report they are reopening eight of their diggings for the night shift. A spokesman for the Pittsburgh consolidation coal company predicts operations will reach normal at his firm's pits tomorrow.

In northern West Virginia, mine owners report that virtually all of their mines are re-opening at midnight. Production also is reported on the increase in the middle and far west.

The miners are returning to their jobs on orders from their boss, John L. Lewis, but the labor chief still is in a tough legal spot tonight.

A federal court order has been obtained by the government outlawing another coal strike for an indefinite period. The injunction is aimed at the protest strike, which is ending. The mine owners have asked the court to throw out the pension agreement that Lewis won nine days ago by his mine walkout.

If both these court actions stick, John L. will be in a fairly tight position. He won't be able to call a strike without inviting new legal action. In addition, his miners may lose the pensions for which they went on strike.

Possible Cancer Cure May Lie Within Atom

Washington, April 21 —(UP)—The deadly atom has gone to work to relieve human suffering.

David Lillenthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, reveals that our atomic scientists have developed a better and cheaper method of treating cancer.

The scientists have discovered that they can make a common and plentiful industrial metal known as cobalt, radioactive to the point where it can replace radium in cancer treatment.

Lillenthal reported this momentous development in person to President Truman in the White House today. The atom chief emphasized that radioactive cobalt is not the long hoped for cure of cancer. There still is no such cure. Cobalt which has been baked in atom furnaces can be used in place of rare and expensive radium in treatment designed to arrest cancer growth. Furthermore, it can be used more easily and effectively.

Harold Stassen, Robert Taft Fighting For Nomination in May Ohio Primary

Cleveland, Ohio, April 13 —(UP)—Harold Stassen and Senator Robert Taft, Republican presidential hopefuls, are fighting it out in the political battle for Ohio.

Both Taft and Stassen are touring the State to get support for Ohio's May 4 primaries. Stassen explains his invasion of Taft's home state by saying, "It will give the people a chance to declare themselves on broad campaign issues."

He told an audience at Middletown that he wants only 23 of the State's 53 GOP convention delegates. He also defended the Taft-Hartley law but said several provisions should be changed.

Taft, who is almost sure of the other 30 delegates, has called for a stronger American drive for peace. He told an audience in Warren that the cause of free government should be just as aggressive as that of Communism.

THE NOSE OF A CAR, owned by Dr. Henry A. Wahn, the Bronx, New York, is shown after it went through the brick wall of the doctor's garage. The slight miscalculation was made by Dr. Wahn's 17-year-old daughter, Mary Ann, who was teaching herself to drive. Nobody was hurt, but the garage will need a major operation.

Chancellor House Will Address Coed Officers Banquet Tonight

By Sally Woodhull

Chancellor R. B. House will be the principle speaker at tonight's banquet of old and new coed officers, the conclusion of the Coed Leadership Training program. To be held at the Carolina Inn, the banquet is formal and will begin at 6 o'clock.

Barbara Cashion, outgoing speaker of the Coed Senate, will preside, and Betty Rose Dowden of the YWCA will give the invocation and benediction.

The banquet concludes a three-day intensive training program designed to orient new officers in their duties and to acquaint them with other girls who will serve as leaders of next year's coed student body.

Sponsored by Coed Senate, the program is a unified effort by all old officers to improve the functioning of coed organizations each year.

At tonight's banquet, new officers will be recognized, and outgoing officers will turn over to them written evaluation reports of the work of the respective organizations during the past year.

Sadie Pearson has acted as chairman of the Leadership Training program this year, and other members of the planning committee include the following: Betsy Ann Barbee, Barbara Cashion, Bootsie McWilliams, Fernie Hughes, Betty Houston, Betty Long, Joyce Jones, Ruth Evans, Twig Branch, and Cattie Swain.

FINAL CHEERLEADER

Final tryouts for the cheering squad will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Kenan stadium. In case of rain, the tryouts will be held in the Tin Can.

ELECTIONS BOARD

There will be a meeting of the Elections board in the Grail room tonight at 7 o'clock. The board will consider committee reports at the meeting.

CORRECTION

The North Carolina Symphony will appear tomorrow night in Memorial hall rather than Hill hall as previously announced by Graham Memorial. Dr. Benjamin Swalin is conductor of the orchestra, and Edward Cone will appear as soloist.

Progressive Vice-Presidential Candidate Appearing Under Auspices of Wallcites

Senator Glen H. Taylor, vice-presidential candidate on the Progressive party ticket with Henry A. Wallace, will speak here Monday night at 8 o'clock in Hill hall.

Senator Taylor is speaking under the auspices of the Wallace-for-President club.

Congress Is Asked For 66 Air Groups

Washington, April 21 —(UP)—Defense Secretary Forrestal today handed Congress a compromise defense plan which calls for 66 instead of 70 air groups.

The Air Force had asked for 70 groups, while Forrestal and many military leaders wanted 55. Chief aim of the plan is to boost the nation's air strength to more than 6,500 planes.

This compromise program adds $500,000,000 to the over-all bill for military expenditures and boosts the administration's manpower figure by 61,000 men.

While Forrestal was handing his blueprint to the Senate Armed Services committee, the corresponding group in the House received a drastic recommendation from Dr. Vannevar Bush, chairman of the research and development board.

Bush wrote the committee it should enact a "work or fight" bill at once. He described the military draft measure now under consideration as a stop-gap measure.

Wesley Officers Installed Sunday

Climaxing the Recreation conference held by U. N. C. Methodist students for G. C., W. C., State, and Duke last weekend was the installation of new Wesley foundation officers on Sunday night at the weekly supper and program.

Jim McAllister, president of Wesley foundation for the past year and present state Methodist Student movement president, presided at the candlelight ceremony.

The new officers are: President, Edward Buckner of Chapel Hill; vice-president, James Brockman; secretary, Katherine Hovis; treasurer, Ed Aldridge; and co-editors of the Wesley Worker, W. F. publication, Doris Weaver and Ray Mills.

The W. F. council has announced the following committee chairmen for the coming year in addition to the other officers: They are: Recreation, J. D. Foust; program, Bob Bunch; finance, Bob Parham; CRIL representative, Joe Beasley; commissary, Carol Brockman and Sam Langell; campus church relations, Jim McAllister and Ed Buckner; and librarian, Jo Eller.

The outstanding positions of the group have been held during the past year by Jim McAllister, president; Bob Allen, vice-president; Caroline Warren, secretary; and Basil Sherril, treasurer.

SP LEGISLATORS

There will be a caucus of all Student party legislators this afternoon at 4:30 in Graham Memorial. It is imperative that all representatives be present.

Reward Offers for Reuther's Attacker Reach $111,000; Manhunt Goes On Detroit, Mich., April 21 —(UP)—With reward offers totalling $111,000, Detroit police are staging one of the biggest manhunts in the city's history.

Word is out to "get the man who tried to kill United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who was cut down by a shotgun blast through the window of his home last night.

The UAW itself is offering $100,000 to anyone putting the finger on the man. Reuther's home UAW local offers another

$1,000, the Detroit city council offers $10,000 and the Michigan Communist party offers $500.

Representative Charles Kersten (R-Wis.), charges Communists with causing the attack on Reuther. He told the House in Washington today that Reuther is a symbol of the CIO's battle against Communism. Meanwhile, the Michigan Communist party charges that the attack could only have been made by enemies of the labor movement.

The Chapel Hill speaking engagement will be the second one in N. C. within two days for the Idaho senator. He will give the main address at the founding convention of the Progressive party of North Carolina in Winston-Salem Sunday.

Senator Taylor is well known for his fights against the Taft-Hartley Bill, against the seating of Senator Bilbo, and for his cross-country horseback trip to "warn" Americans of "the dangers of the present foreign policy."

He has introduced bills to restore price controls, for national health insurance, to raise the minimum wage, to investigate the real estate lobby, to make credit available to small business, to abolish discriminatory freight rates, to implement the UN Palestine partition plan, and to alleviate the shortage of low rent housing for veterans and non-veterans.

Gogol's Comedy To Be Presented

The Laboratory theater of the Carolina Playmakers will present Nikolai Gogol's satirical comedy, "The Inspector General," on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday nights in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. The production is being offered as an entertainment feature of the student union and no admission will be charged.

The play is a high-spirited satire on official crookedness and human stupidity. It has remained fresh on the stages of the theatrical capitals of the world and is today one of the most genial creations of the theatre.

It is under the direction of James Byrd, and James Shaver is stage manager. Technicians include: Marty Jacobs, Mary Jo Cain, Frank Echols, Betty Young, and Ellen Smith.

Playmaker Tryout Will Begin Today

Public tryouts for the last production of the year by the Laboratory theater of the Carolina Playmakers will be held this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Playmaker theater, according to Eleanor Ringer, graduate student who will direct the presentation.

The play, "Mr. Luck," will be the first original script produced by the lab group. It was written by Mildred Howard of Glasgow, Ky., a graduate student in the department of dramatic art.

Miss Ringer said that the cast called for five women and six men. The play will be the first modern show to be staged by the lab group and is a light domestic comedy.

She explained that because of the production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" in the Forest theater, the presentation of "Mr. Luck" is not set.

"All we know now is that the production will be during the last part of May," she said.
