Re-Organizational Meeting Is Slated Today To Revive Town Men's Group

By Chuck Hauser
The Town Men's association, the one-time strong representative of non-fraternity men living off campus, may be established here again, according to John Van Hecke, who has called a re-organizational meeting at 4:30 this afternoon in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial. Van Hecke urged yesterday in the group were Barry Colby, Roy Strowd and Mel Jordan during the several years it remained on campus before the war finally killed it in 1944. The fact that all non-fraternity men are present at this afternoon's meeting. The association was first established in 1939 by Pat Winston of Chapel Hill. Other student leadership held successful dances, had high-ranking intramural teams, put representatives into the Student Legislature and had representation on the Dance committee and in the University club, according to Van Hecke.

Intramural Teams

"We hope to get representation again in the Dance committee, University club, Graham Memorial Board of Directors, and other groups," Van Hecke stated yesterday, "and we would like to see intramural teams in all sports next year.

"The reason the organization is being limited to non-fraternity men is that fraternity members already have the IFC as their representative group on campus," he continued. Van Hecke explained that the association would strive to keep from favoring any one political party but would try to get representation on all three of the present political groups.

To Increase Interest

"Our aims are to increase town interest in student government and campus activities, and to help students who live over widely-scattered areas to get to know each other better by frequent social functions.

"I hope that we can get organized this quarter so that by fall we will be ready to roll," Van Hecke concluded.

It was learned yesterday that student body President Jess Dedmond and Graham Memorial Director Bill Shuford have commended the proposed reorganization of the Town Men's association as a boon to student government and campus spirit.

UNC Is Compared To Columbia

By Dan Wallace

Mr. Henry Schley, controller of Columbia university, visiting here for a couple of days, outlined the administrative system at Columbia and pointed out a few of the differences in the administrative set-up of Columbia, an independent organization, and Carolina, a state-sponsored institution, in a short interview yesterday.

Presiding over Columbia's administration is a board of trustees, similar in scope to UNC's system, but unlike in that it is made up of 24 members in comparison to the more than 100 members of the UNC board of trustees, Mr. Schley related. There are only five members on the Columbia board who are not life-time trustees, and those are alumni elected for five years by other alumni and approved by

Block Fee Increase Is Proposed; Elections Committee Hits Snag

Carrboro District Causes Dissension At Group's Meeting

No decision was reached on the controversial redistricting bill at a closed meeting of the Elections committee of the Student Legislature yesterday due to dissension over a proposed Carrboro voting district, according to Chairman Joe Leary.

Since the Carrboro proposal was not officially settled, the redistricting bill is not ready to be presented to the Student Legislature which meets tomorrow night.

Six out of the eight committee members were present. The proposed inclusion of Carrboro in the student voting districts was defeated by a 3 to 2 vote, with one member abstaining. However, at the end of the heated discussion members decided to adjourn without making the rejection on the proposal official. The question will be brought forth again at the next Elections committee meeting.

Before adjournment, it was argued by the opposition that Carrboro, having only approximately 250 students residing there, should not be a separate voting district.

JACK GIRARD, chairman of the Finance committee of the Student Legislature, yesterday announced the committee's decision to propose a measure which would increase by 75 cents the student block fee for next year.

Griffith, Brinegar Will Give Recital Tomorrow Night

Andrew Griffith of Mount Airy and John H. Brinegar, Winston-Salem, music majors, will give a joint recital in Hill hall Thursday night at 8:30.

Griffith, bass, a student of Prof. Paul Young, has been prominent in musical entertainments on the campus for the last two years and is a member of the Methodist church choir.

Brinegar, tenor, also a student of Professor Young, was director of the French Broad Avenue Baptist church choir in Asheville while a student at Mars Hill college, and for the last two years has been choir director of the Carrboro Baptist church. He, too, has been active in campus musicals.

The singers will be accompanied by William Waters, Roanoke Rapids, and by Charles Stevens, Mt. Gilead, at the piano.

Latest Returns Show 15 Taft Delegates, Five Stassen Men Leading in Ohio Vote

Columbus, Ohio, May 4 (UP)—Fifteen delegates pledged to Senator Robert A. Taft and five Harold Stassen delegates were leading at midnight, EDT, in Ohio's 10 contested congressional districts, on the basis of reports from 472 of 4,834 precincts in the Republican primary. The populous 14th district at Akron had not reported by midnight.

Early returns showed that the candidate for delegate-at-large pledged to Stassen dropped to 10th place in the primary. Only nine delegates-at-large are to be chosen.

Stassen has entered his supporters to oppose Senator Taft in 23 contests. The other 30 are generally conceded to Taft, Ohio's favorite son. The state will send 53 delegates to the GOP convention this summer, two each from 22 congressional districts and nine at large.

Election officials report heavy voting in Cleveland, the state's largest city. Here in the capital the total vote is expected to be larger than any since 1940. Primaries also took place today in Indiana, Alabama, and Florida. The turn-out was small in the Hoosier state due to inclement weather, and the fact that no presidential convention delegates are being chosen there.

Finance Committee Discusses Deficit Amounting to $6,600

The Student Legislature Finance committee yesterday planned a proposed 75-cent increase in the student block fee for next year in a move to facilitate activities the committee deems necessary during that period.

The increase proposal will come out of the Finance committee at tomorrow night's meeting of the Student Legislature, announced committee Chairman Jack Girard following the meeting in Graham Memorial.

Said Girard, "The Finance committee considers this action necessary in view of the increased cost of publications and the increased number of organizations on campus. The present 1948-49 budget, as set up, will not be sufficient to take care of proposed activities and will stem the expansion of individual organizations."

A report of the committee's recent investigation of this year's budget showed a current deficit of $6,600. The committee expects $5,700 of this amount to be made up in returns, leaving a deficit of $900 for the year.

All interested students and townspeople are invited to take part in the discussion on lobbying in Washington. Lobbyists would be subject to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Senatorial Candidate Says Red Party Cannot Be Constitutionally Outlawed

By Charlie Craven

With strong, calmly-spoken words, J. Melville Broughton, candidate for the United States Senate, last night condemned the current rash of Red philosophy which has shown itself in various aspects of today's politics.

During an address in Gerrard hall, the former governor of North Carolina urged veterans to take advantage of their government's educational aid not only for personal betterment but also to further the nation's progress.

"I have no sympathy for the Communist doctrine or the system it would develop," Broughton declared. "From the precinct meeting to the ballot box is the range of democratic activity as embodied in our party system," he said. "And as long as there is broad participation in party work, then I believe our democracy is secure," he continued.

The former governor expressed gratification that young people are becoming more and more concerned by the political deliberations of today.

"One of the reasons that some of the old political regimes have become impotent is because young people have tired of political machines," he said.

In answer to the question of outlawing the Communist party by federal legislation the senatorial candidate asserted that he would instinctively do so. He continued to say, however, that outlawing the Reds might cause them to flourish underground. He pointed out that many lawyers of his acquaintance have declared that outlawing the Communist party could not be done on a constitutional basis.

"We should have respect for our country's traditional past. I don't mean we should be tied to precedent. But there are many precious things embedded in the historical ideals of our nation," the speaker declared. "These ideals have given us ascendancy through the years."

Touching on U. S. foreign policy, Broughton said, "In the last few years we have witnessed a complete departure from our former foreign policy. This is because our commitments have encircled the globe."

Broughton spoke under the auspices of the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan political discussion group. The speaker was introduced by Herbert Alexander, chairman of the CPU.

SP Head Brands Rumors as False That Party Is Anti-Fraternity

By Herb Nachman

In a statement following Monday night's Student party meeting, Ed Tenney, chairman of the party, reiterated the SP's stand on the anti-fraternity issue.

When questioned concerning the party's being anti-fraternity, Tenney replied, "The Student party is not anti-fraternity. It has never been anti-fraternity and statements to that effect are malicious rumors intended for political purposes and for political purposes only."

The chairman went on to say, "If there is any doubt in anyone's mind concerning this issue, I would like him to come to one of the party's meetings and find out exactly what the situation is. I am sure that mere attendance at one of the meetings would clarify any doubt or suppositions as to the party's stand on this matter."

West, Swaim, Hennessee During the meeting Monday night, the party elected Cam West, Bill Swaim and Bob Hennessee to complete the SP slate of new officers. The three were elected party treasurer, personnel manager and publicity chairman respectively.

Officers of the party will be advised by the Executive council consisting of D. F. Blackwell, Patsy McNutt, Al Lowenstein, Charlie Long and Gran Childress. The council was elected at the meeting along with the other officers.

Principal officers elected at last week's meeting are Ed Tenney, chairman; Lindsay Tate, vice-chairman; and Emily Baker, secretary.

Reorganization

In addition to election of officers, the SP has announced a re-organizational set up which divides the party into two separately functioning groups. The first division includes the five officers of the party to be headed (See SP, page 4)

Wallaceites Plan For Registration In Local Counties

The Wallace-for-President club met in Bingham hall Monday night and laid plans for registering all available Wallace voters of Durham and Orange counties between May 1 and the deadline date of May 15.

Phi Couch, local affairs committee chairman, appointed groups to canvass 16 Orange county precincts, three of which are in the Chapel Hill and Carrboro areas. Several club members volunteered to render extra service in the Durham precincts.

The club set next Saturday as top registration day and scheduled an overall coverage of precincts in both counties.

Mike Pochna, transportation director, announced he had arranged for 15 cars to be used by canvassing groups on Saturday.

A Wallace supporter from Duke university, Al Meolitzer, addressed the club and reported that a program is underway in Durham for registering voters and also for securing 2,000 valid signatures, the Durham quota of the 10,000 names necessary for placing Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot.

He told the group he considers the Durham area a highly industrialized center, of key importance to the third party in its effort to nominate Wallace for the presidency, and requested that the local club send as many members as possible to augment the Durham campaign.

Edie Knight, Charles Sellers Are Guest Speakers at YWCA

Monday's meeting of the Public Affairs committee of the YWCA featured two student guest speakers. In line with the agenda drawn up by the committee which designated that the group would hear various speakers discuss potential presidential candidates, Charles Sellers reported on Eisenhower's qualifications for the forthcoming elections.

Edie Knight, who represented the University at Mademoiselle's College forum in New York, told the group about the convention and discussed the speeches delivered there concerning European Relief Program.

European Aid Necessary In discussing the convention, Edie said that of utmost importance was the general feeling that aid to Europe is necessary. Different reasons, either political, economic, or altruistic, justify this need, she said.

According to Edie, six guest speakers discussed the various phases of the E. R. P., and the 54 representatives of the various colleges questioned them after their speeches. Among the most interesting to Edie was a talk by Vera Micheles Dean, research Director of the Foreign Policy Association and author of "United States and Russia."

European Economics She discussed the economic situation in Europe at the end of the war and the steps taken by the European countries themselves to get on their feet, together with an estimate of the progress that has been made. Miss Dean asserted that the United States would be making a beneficial economic move if it built up Europe.

Russell Hill, of the New York Herald Tribune and author of "Struggle for Germany," spoke of the "Problems of Germany." He thinks that Germany, or its Western regions, must be revived enough to provide an industrial base for the rest of Europe. Edie reported that he does not think that Germany will become a war threat.

Fifty Local Men Invited to Attend WC May Festival

Fifty Carolina men have been extended an invitation by the ephemeral club of the Woman's College YWCA to attend May Day festivities at W. C. and have a dance given in their honor on Saturday.

Interested men may sign up in the YMCA information office, and will be accepted on a "first come, first served" basis. They will be responsible for their own transportation, but once at W. C., a full schedule of entertainment will be provided.

The men will meet their dates at 3:30 at South Spencer, the large dorm facing on Walker avenue, and will go directly to the amphitheater near the lake. After the pageant the group will adjourn to the "Hut" for a picnic supper. An informal dance in South Spencer's game room will complete the day.

IRC Slates Seminar On Communies Tonight

Beale, History department, John W. Myers, French department, Professor James L. Godfrey, History department, and another speaker whose name will be announced later.
