IN THIS AIRVIEW the remnants of a two-story four-family house in Flushing, New York, appear split to kindling size following a terrific gas explosion. With one person dead and eight injured, rescue workers dig in the ruins for other possible victims. The blast was caused when a piano, being moved into a basement, broke a gas connection. A number of other dwellings in the section, occupied almost entirely by veterans, were wrecked or damaged. Among vehicles at the scene are a moving van and ambulances. (International)

Merchants Producing Motion Picture Of Chapel Hill, Carrboro, University

A documentary movie of Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and the University is currently being made by Don Parisher productions of New York city under sponsorship of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants association, according to Mrs. Lois Cranford, secretary of the association.

Lloyd McComber and Ted Ramo are heading the six-man crew of cameramen which began shooting scenes yesterday. These men wish to request that students and townspeople cooperate in filming the movie inasmuch as some have appeared to be a little camera-shy, they said.

The finished product, with narration by Norman Broken-shire, prominent CBS announcer, will be shown in the local theaters for about two weeks and will be retained in town for future showings.

Cameramen disclosed yesterday that the project should be completed within three or four weeks, good weather permitting.

The production will cover the various business, civic, religious, agricultural, industrial, and social activities of the community.

A considerable portion of the movie will be devoted to the University, tracing its growth and development up to the present time along with the growth of the town.

The original will be filmed on 35 mm. film for use with standard theater projection machines. In addition, a 16 mm. copy of the film will be provided in order that alumni clubs, civic organizations, and other groups here and throughout the state may view the film.

Hugh Wells Heads Slate of Officers For UVA Group

Hugh Wells, sophomore from Shelby, was elected president of the University Veterans association at the last meeting of the group. Wells replaces Johnny Clappitt in the UVA presidency.

Other officers of the association are Jim Chesnut, from Clinton, vice-president; Fred Gates, Hillsboro, secretary; and Larry Ashby, Memphis, Tenn., secretary.

The new officers will take over on June 1. Meanwhile, Wells said that the organization is now making plans for the social program for the summer session.

In speaking of the plans, Wells said, "We hope to make the UVA club a vital part of the social activities on campus for the summer sessions."

Students Organize Club for Stassen

Adrian W. Smith, junior from Philadelphia, Pa., was elected chairman of the Students-for-Stassen club at the organizational meeting of that club on Thursday afternoon. Babs Kerr, coed junior from Alexandria, Va., was elected secretary of the organization at the same meeting.

Plans were laid for increasing the membership of the organization and all students interested in the nomination and election of Harold Stassen are invited to attend the next meeting of the club, which will be held Thursday.

The club resolved to go on record as supporting Mr. Stassen primarily and not necessarily the Republican party. It was also urged that the club cooperate with the Carolina Political union and the Young Republicans club in an effort to bring Stassen to this campus for an address sometime in the near future.

The club decided to promote Stassen's nomination and election through both individual and group action.

AVC Seaker Cancels Public Address Here

Richard Bolling, national vice-chairman of the American Veterans committee who was scheduled to give a public talk on the campus next Tuesday on "The Veteran in Politics" practices what he preaches.

This was emphasized yesterday when George Tindall, chairman of the local chapter of this veteran's group said he had been informed that Bolling would not appear as scheduled because the South Pacific veteran has resigned his national position with AVC in order to campaign for Congress in Kansas City, Mo.

Glee Club Tickets Are Ready For Sale

Tickets for the annual spring concert of the Women's Glee club, which will be presented in Hill hall Thursday are on sale at the glee club box office in Hill 109.

The concert, presented by the Music department and directed by Paul Young, associate professor of music, is the third and final concert of the 1947-48 glee club series. Holders of season tickets must turn in stubs for reserved seats. Single admissions are on sale at 85 cents, including tax.

Miss Mary Helen zum Brunnen, contralto, will be featured as soloist.

The program will include Brahms' six liederlieder waltzes; standard choral works by Handel, Mendelssohn, and Liszt; opera choruses from works of Purcell, Mozart, and Moussorgsky; a group of folk songs; and modern compositions by William Schuman, Randall Thompson, and Vaughn Williams.

WC FESTIVITIES

All students interested in going to Woman's college for supper, the May festival and dance this evening are asked to call the Y information office before noon today. All persons going must furnish their own transportation. The affair will begin at 3:30 this afternoon in front of South Spenser dormitory, Woman's college.

Broughton Predicts Turnout Of Young Voters in Primary

Raleigh, May 7—(UP)—Former Governor J. Melville Broughton, campaigning at Williamston for the United States Senate, has predicted a record turnout at the May 29 primary. Broughton said more young men and women of early voting age will vote than ever before.

Broughton said the interest is not just casual. He claimed the younger voters are definitely interested in better, progressive government and are intolerant of out-dated political machinery.

The candidate cautioned young voters to study the ideals and principles of democracy so that their eagerness for progress will not result in the overthrow of what he calls "established and worthy principles."

Broughton said the nation needs the vision and enthusiasm of young people.

COMMERCE 71

The Commerce 71 book-keeping quiz scheduled for Monday will be postponed until Saturday of next week, according to the Commerce department. It will take place at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Graduate Students Being Polled On Negro Application Question

CHOPPY SEAS DASH WAVES of water over the boat which rescued three Navy fliers during maneuvers in the Mediterranean. The airman were flying a torpedo-bomber from the U. S. S. Valley Forge when their plane crash-landed. They are shown attempting to board the destroyer U. S. S. William C. Lawe which sent out the small boat for them. (International)

SDA Hopes to Have Results by May 17 When Trustees Meet

An opinion poll of all graduates and professional students in the University in regard to whether or not Negroes should be admitted to the various departments here, is now being made by the local chapter of the Students for Democratic Action.

A committee composed of graduate students Tom Parkinson, Kenneth Moreland and Margaret Healy are conducting the poll. The survey is designed to contact every student in the various graduate or professional departments, including medicine, law and pharmacy. There are, at present, approximately 30 of these departments.

The SDA plans to complete the survey before Monday, May 17, when the University trustees will meet in Raleigh to review three Negro applications which are now on file here. Two have been submitted for admission to the Law school, and one to the Medical school.

Contacts in the poll are being made through individual students. The faculty is not included and individual secret ballots are being used.

The ballots read, "If Negroes were admitted to graduate or professional study in my department: (1) I would not object to having them in my classes. (2) I would object to having them in my classes. (3) I have not made up my mind whether or not I would object to having them in my classes." Students are requested to check one of the three statements.

Officers of the SDA are Bob Lindsay, president, and Wilmer Dutton, vice-president.

Western Powers Accuse Soviet Union Of Stalemate Atomic Bomb Regulation

Lake Success, May 7—(UP)—The Western powers warned today that the world is doomed to live under the continued threat of an atomic war.

The United States, Great Britain, and France said the U-N would have to suspend its fruitless campaign to set up machinery for control of atomic energy until Russia alters its entire foreign policy and is willing to become part of the world community.

Because of the Soviet Union's attitude, the Western powers said the world must resign itself to an uncontrolled race for atomic armaments. The three-power report served notice that the United States would continue manufacturing A-bombs and other secret weapons until Moscow's present policies are reversed.

The report recommended that the U-N Security Council endorse the American plan for world atomic control that Russia has refused to accept. Soviet officials turned down the Bernard Baruch program on the ground that it

Students Demonstrate Against Enforcements Of Parking Rulings

Lincoln, Neb., May 7—(UP)—Police used tear gas today to disperse a crowd of more than 2,000 University of Nebraska students, demonstrating against a parking law enforcement, and some students invaded the governor's office to protest directly to him.

The demonstration began when students at classes spotted wreckers towing away students' cars that were double-parked.

They swarmed out of buildings to protest and began dismantling a wrecker.

A police squad car and a motorcycle appeared, and the car stopped. Students let the air out of a tire.

Police let go with a tear gas bomb to break up the crowd. A university official said the wind blew the gas back into the faces of the policemen.

Young Republicans Outline Program To Support Presidential Candidate

The Young Republicans club outlined a program Thursday night which is designed to give full support to the presidential candidate to be named at the Republican national convention in June.

Bill Hipple, president of the club, presided over the meeting held in Graham Memorial and attend by 66 members and visitors. Among those participating were Parrott Parrish, vice-president of the club, and Coline Smith, one of the club's founders.

The Taft-Hartley act served as the topic of a discussion by members of the club. A vote was subsequently taken in which the group voted overwhelmingly in favor of the labor measure.

In supporting the act Hipple said, "The Taft-Hartley act will establish an equitable basis for arbitration between labor and management. I believe the November election will indicate the American public strongly favors this type of legislation."

The labor bill was the first in a series of issues to be debated at the club's weekly meetings, said Hipple. "At previous meetings we have discussed candidates for the nomination in an attempt to select a specific one as the club's choice for the presidency."

"We decided recently that more could be learned about the candidates by first discussing issues, from which should evolve the exact political standings of those seeking the nomination," he continued.

The meeting disclosed that a majority of the group will attend the convention to be held in Philadelphia on June 21. Club activities from June until November will constitute a drive toward boosting the Republican candidate into the White House, it was decided.

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse is scheduled to address the meeting in Graham Memorial next Thursday, the club announced.

Community Plans Worship Service For Whitsunday

"This is the Father's World" will be the subject of a community worship service to be held next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Episcopal church on the anniversary of Pentecost, or Whitsunday.

This is one of many similar services being held throughout America in preparation for the first meeting of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, Holland, August 30 to September 5. Official representatives from churches in 39 countries will meet at this Constituting assembly.

Discussion at the Amsterdam conference will center around four important areas of Christian interest: the universal church in God's design, God's design and man's witness, the church and the disorder of society, and the church and international affairs.

Dr. Shelton Smith of the Duke divinity school will be the speaker at Sunday night's service, which is given in response to a request by the American committee for the World Council of Churches. Music will be by the combined choirs of Chapel Hill churches.

GENERAL COLLEGE

All general college students who expect to attend summer school, either one or both terms, will register for their courses by appointment with their advisers during the period May 10 through 15. Appointments may be made by signing an appointment sheet at the information desk, main lobby of South building.

Those students who have been notified of their transfer to the upper college should not make an appointment with a general college adviser, but should register in the College of Arts and Sciences or the School of Commerce.

Nationwide Railroad Strike Set On Tuesday, Pending Arbitration

Washington, May 7—(UP)—It is still touch-and-go tonight in the threatened railroad strike—a walkout that would be felt in almost every American home.

The three operating unions involved are still poised to walk out Tuesday at dawn. However, President Truman's top labor adviser, John Steelman, has made some headway to break the stalemate. He talked with union leaders in the White House for most of the day.

During this time, the Brotherhood chiefs secretly laid down the terms on which they would call off the coming strike. Late today, the huddle was broken off. Neither the President's labor adviser nor the union heads would give any details.

Yet Union President Alvanley Johnston of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said Steelman has promised to talk to the railroads, "and then let us know." The White House added that the talks produced, as it puts it, "no definite results." However, the union leaders are being asked

Colleges Report Pretty Brunette Stealing Things

Fred Weaver, dean of men, received the following letter from Henry I. Stahr, president of Hood college, Maryland:

"On Tuesday, April 27, two of our residence halls at Hood college were visited in the late afternoon by a young woman who stole $337 from about 30 student rooms and also took an old yellow gold diamond ring worth about $150. Students who saw her say that the young woman has light hair, is about 5 feet 3 or 4 inches tall, and weighs about 110 to 120 pounds; that she is attractive in appearance, and has a pleasant voice. She was very clever in posing as a casual visitor and spoke in a friendly manner to the students who met her in the corridors or on the stairways. We have just learned that she got away with $112 at Dickinson college, and also stole small sums at Gettysburg college and Wilson college.

While here she wore white shoes with soft rubber soles, and a light raincoat and scarf. At Dickinson college she is reported as having worn black shoes. It is reported that the young lady is traveling in a Lincoln-Zephyr car with a California license and the Pennsylvania State police are on the alert.

We hope that she can be apprehended because she appears to be a professional who makes a business of robbing college residence halls."

to stand by for another call tomorrow, presumably to be told management's answer.

President William Faricy of the Association of American Railroads and other top railroad men have already been summoned to tomorrow's White House meeting. No definite time has been set for this pow-wow.

Before the union leaders went into the White House talks today, the government laid down a clear-cut warning that it would seize the roads, if necessary, to keep the trains running. Johnston though, said this threat was not mentioned by Steelman.

The three unions have been demanding a 30 per cent raise, plus changes in their working rules. The railroads have been standing firm on a pay offer of 15 and a half cents an hour—the same increase already accepted by more than 1,000,000 other railroad men.

While the peace talks are going on, both the government and the carriers are getting ready for a strike. The post office has drawn up a general order covering mail handling if the emergency comes. In all, 41 railroads have embargoed shipments of livestock and food that is likely to spoil. Most of the big roads have served notice that the strike would shut them down tight as a drum.

North Carolina Symphony Appears Today On Coast-to-Coast Broadcast Over NBC

National recognition will be given the North Carolina symphony orchestra in a coast-to-coast broadcast of one of its programs from 2 to 3 o'clock this afternoon over the NBC network.

The program will originate in the studios of Station WSJS of Winston-Salem and will be a feature of the National Broadcasting company's popular "Orchestras of the Nation" program.

The invitation to appear on this series is regarded as a coveted honor by orchestras throughout the country, and in this case it is a high compliment to the orchestra and to the entire state. It also offers concrete proof of the increasing interest in the North Carolina symphony throughout the nation.

The purpose of the NBC series "Orchestras of the Nation," which was inaugurated in 1944, is designed to acquaint music lovers with the fine work being done by symphony orchestras, both old and new, in all parts of the United States and to indicate the part each orchestra plays in the musical life of its community.

The program planned for Saturday's broadcast will be, Rossini—Overture to The Thievish Magpie; Beethoven—Symphony No. VII in A Major, Opus 92; Bach—Andante Lento (second movement); and Powell—"Natchez on the Hill."

University Hour to Feature Life Story Of George Washington Carver Sunday

The University Hour will be aired over a state-wide network at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon in a presentation of "The Sainly Scientist," a life story of George Washington Carver, famed Negro educator. It is an original radio biography written by Robert Rolnick, senior from Brooklyn, N. Y.

The program, which will be carried by radio stations WPTF, WDUK, and WTKI, is being produced and directed by Robert Epstein, senior from New York City, assisted by Frances O. Hooks, graduate student from Whiteville. The show is being sponsored by the radio division of the communications center.

John Ehle, senior from Asheville, will play the part of Carver and the show will include a cast of nearly 30 performers, the majority being students of the University.

Carver, who became famous largely through his great work in the peanut industry, will be portrayed first as a boy and then as a man. Of significance will be Ehle's change in the middle of the script from the part of the young Carver to that of the aged man.

The show will trace Carver's life from the time of birth and will include the incident in which the young man was traded into slavery in exchange for an old horse.

The story will seek to show that Carver's incentive to work was at all times built around his profound belief in God.

Epstein presents Carver as a completely self-centered man who turned down monetary gain in order to help the Southern people whom he loved.

The script will describe Carver's scientific discoveries and will explain his methods in extracting 307 different products from the peanut.

Music for the program will be provided by a singing group in a selection of spiritual songs.
