Hill Establishes New Library Trust Fund; Other Gifts Discussed At Dinner Meeting

The establishment of a new library trust fund by John Spout Hill, Durham capitalist and philanthropist and long-time member of the Board of Trustees of the University, and a number of other important gifts were announced here last night at the annual dinner meeting of the Friends of the University Library.

Mr. Hill has donated to it some valuable business property in Chapel Hill, and the net income from this will be used for the acquisition of materials for the North Carolina collections. The gift will be known as "The Hill Endowment of the North Carolina Fund."

More than 4,000 books from the library of Josephus Daniels, including his collection of materials relating to Mexico, presented by his four sons, Josephus, Jr., Jonathan, Worth, and Frank Daniels.

Collection of "The Haywood Papers," begun by John Haywood (first treasurer of North Carolina), continued by Dr. E. Burke Haywood and his son, Ernest Haywood—presented to the Southern Historical collection by Burke Haywood Bridges of Wilmington.

Six Shakespeare books of research relating to Shakespeare and of his period by Dr. Hardin Craig of the University.

Recent study materials in English literature useful in both study and instruction—given by Dr. Norman Forester of Chapel Hill.

Three groups of books relating to Chinese history and travel, art criticism, and early New England history—given by Dr. George F. Horner, Chapel Hill. Collection of 1062 items dealing with public health, medical history, travel in the Far East, Americana, North Caroliniana and fine printing—presented by Dr. William P. Jacobs of the Public Health department.

For Binding, Repair One thousand dollars for the binding and repair of books presented by the donor within the past year—given by Dr. Jacobs. Collection of the official transcripts and documents of the International Military tribunal at Nuremberg, 1945-46, collected at the trial by the donor, 1,030 items—given by Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte.

MERCHANTS' HOLIDAYS Merchants of Chapel Hill and Carrboro will observe half-holidays on Wednesday afternoons commencing June 9 and extending through September 1. The announcement came yesterday from Mrs. Lois Cranford, secretary of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants association.

HIS HONOR FINES HIMSELF FRANKLIN, O. (UP)—Charles G. Black, council president, was acting mayor in the absence of Mayor J. T. Riley. Black received a parking ticket. The acting mayor, also serving as municipal judge, fined himself $1.

Chapel Hill Chamber of Commerce Might Have Hard Time With Small City Issue

If Chapel Hill had a chamber of commerce—and it does not—it probably could still claim for the town a village atmosphere with trees, and shrubbery and beautiful flowers in profusion, but it might have a hard time convincing folks that Chapel Hill isn't on the threshold of the small city stage.

The Junior Service league has just completed a population survey and school census, one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken here by a volunteer group, and has found, among other interesting facts, that the population of the school attendance district is 17,729, including University students. This would include Chapel Hill, Carrboro, and the close-in rural areas.

The population of Chapel Hill, which has not extended its corporate limits in 25 years, and its suburbs is reported at 3,285, including some 6,000 students living in this area.

Population of Chapel Hill within the corporate limits is 9825, including students, and 4453 if students are not included, indicating that the population increase within the town is 799 since the 1940 census.

The census, which was under the supervision of the University department of City and Regional Planning headed by John W. Parker, was made with great care by nearly 300 volunteer workers (40 section captains and 260 interviewers) and was directed by Mrs. M. R. Evans, president of the league, and Mrs. Walter Spearman, chairman of the census committee.

They and their co-workers spent several days over the cards checking and rechecking. Eric Hill, a graduate student in the University planning department, made the maps and was in immediate charge of the canvass. Daniel O. Price, associate professor of sociology, directed the enumeration. Members of the census committee, besides Mrs. Spearman, were Mrs. Henry Brandis, Mrs. M. M. Timmons, Mrs. W. D. Perry, Mrs. Carl Smith, and Mrs. R. L. McKee.

The report shows that the non-student population for the entire survey area (Chapel Hill corporate limits, suburbs, Carrboro and the country areas) is 9,257. Of this number, 2,743 are Negroes, making the non-student population 30 per cent Negro and 70 per cent white.

The report shows 1,451 houses in the city limits of Chapel Hill, 747 occupied by white families and 302 by Negroes. A total of 3,004 houses were reported for the entire survey area. There are 125 trailers within the city limits, mostly concentrated in areas prepared by the University for that purpose to provide housing for student families, and a total of 247 trailers in the survey area.

The census shows 855 student households, 1,116 student roomers, 3,691 students residing on the campus, and 565 in sorority and fraternity houses.

Y Offices Are Now Taking Applicants To Christian Meet

Student registrations are now being accepted for the Southern Student Christian conference at Berea college, Berea, Kentucky, June 7 to 14. Interested students should apply at either the YMCA or YWCA office.

"The Task of a Christian Student in Today's World" will be the theme of the conference and approximately 400 men and women from colleges throughout the 10 southeastern states will attend.

Ruth Evans of Carolina and William Kyle of Virginia State College are co-chairmen of the conference, and Sam Magill, vice-president of the YM here, was a member of the planning council. Rev. Mr. Charles Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be among the speakers, as will Dr. Ira Reid of Atlanta university; Dr. R. W. Edwin Espy, YM-YW executive secretary from New York; and Bill Kitchen, executive secretary of the World Student Service fund in New York.

Sponsored by the Southern division of the National Student YWCA and the Southern Area Student council of the YMCA, this conference is the first time that all students from the southern area have met together at one official conference.

Summer Session Pre-registration Starts Tomorrow, Lasts One Week

Pre-registration for the summer session will begin tomorrow, according to an announcement by Edwin S. Lanier, chairman of the Registration committee.

Only students who are registered for the spring quarter are eligible to pre-register for the summer session. Students should see their faculty advisers sometime before Wednesday to have the green forms prepared.

Deadline Set According to Lanier, no green forms will be accepted in registration hall after Monday, May 17.

Students who do not plan to attend summer school, but who will return for the fall quarter, may pre-register for the fall session May 17-22. The procedure is the same as for the summer, from faculty advisers to the Registration hall, Venable "X".

All General college students who will not attend one or both terms of the summer school should register for the fall quarter during the period, May 17-22. Registration is by appointment with the student's General college adviser.

These appointments may be made by signing an appointment sheet at the information desk, main lobby of South building during the period May 11-15.

On Appointments General college students who failed to make appointments for the summer school pre-registration should see Mrs. Adams in 308 South building before Wednesday.

Students who desire exemption from classes at certain hours for the summer school or the fall quarter should secure petition blanks from their deans. Students are instructed to attach the completed petition to the green form and turn both forms in at the same time to registration hall.

Weeds Start Those Trembles

ATHENS, Ga., May 8—Smoking even half a cigarette will make your fingers tremble, if you inhale. This was shown by experiments here on 100 college students of the University of Georgia, 50 of whom were smokers and 50 non-smokers.

The smokers show more finger tremor as a result of the smoking than do non-smokers. Dr. A. S. Edwards, who conducted the experiment, reports in the Journal of Applied Psychology. This he attributes to the fact that the habitual smoker generally inhales. For non-smokers, the finger trembling went up 18 per cent. For smokers the increase was 39 per cent.

Carl Sandburg Addresses Library Group On Value of Books, Their Inspiration

The value of books, as the inspiration for new ideas that often lead to great achievements was stressed by Carl Sandburg, noted poet, who now makes his home at Flat Rock in Western North Carolina, and who was the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Friends of the University Library, held at the Carolina Inn Friday.

More than one hundred persons attended, some of them from Durham, Raleigh, Greensboro, and other cities.

"You never can tell when some book one reads is going to give a life motivation and light the fires of imagination," said the silver-haired poet, who emphasized the importance of enlarged library facilities for this and other universities.

Sandburg also read a number of favorite poems from two of his volumes, "The People Yes" and "Poems of the Midwest," and concluded a delightful program with several songs in which he played his own guitar accompaniment.

Special guests included Dr. James W. Patton, head of the Department of History and Political Science, State college, who comes to the University next fall as assistant director of the Southern Historical collection, and Mrs. Patton; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh editor, and Mrs. Daniels; Dr. Sylvester Green, Durham editor, and Dr. Robert W. Christ, Dr. Newman I. White, and Dr. Harry Stevens of Duke University.

Dr. Louis R. Wilson, University of North Carolina, was re-elected president of the organization, and Paul Green Chapel Hill; Dr. W. P. Jacobs, Raleigh, and George M. Stephens, Jr., Asheville, were named vice-presidents. Dr. Hardin Craig, UNC., was named to the executive committee, and ex-officio officers are Charles E. Rush, UNC Librarian, secretary, and J. A. Warren, UNC., treasurer. John Sprunt Hill, Durham, was elected honorary chairman; Mrs. Lyman A. Cotten, Chapel Hill, honorary secretary, and Dr. J. G. DeR. Hamilton, Chapel Hill, honorary life member.

Huffman is Elected Phi Kap President

Floyd Huffman, Jr., of Hickory, was elected to the presidency of the local chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity at the last regular meeting, and Claude Cocker, Winston-Salem, will serve with him as vice-president.

Other officers elected at this time include: Morris Knudsen, Los Angeles, Cal.; Sigma; Charles Lowincore, Jr., Wilmington, Tau; Dan Willetts, Jr., Leland, Pi; Tom Alspaugh, Greensboro, Iota; Jack Brown, Durham, Upsilon; Bill Egehn, Sea Girt, N. J., and Charles Homan, Swedesboro, N. J., Theta.

CHI DELTA PHI

Manuscripts to be submitted in Chi Delta Phi's spring membership contest should be submitted before Friday to Sally Woodhull in 202 Alderman. Short stories, poetry, book reviews or other forms of creative writing may be submitted as try outs for this national honorary literary society. Present members of the society will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Grail room.

ally advertised "denicotinized" cigarettes. Results were practically identical as with the standard tobacco. But when corn silk was used no increase in tremor resulted even after an hour of smoking. The corn silk was smoked in pipes, because the students had difficulty in making cigarettes of it.

Dr. Edwards also tested out the claim made by some students that they should not be expected to go through a two-hour examination without a smoke. After two hours of deprivation of cigarettes, the finger tremor was measured. If there was any nervousness as a result of going without smoking it did not show up in trembling finger tips.

Literary Magazine 'Factotum' Slated To Appear May 20

"Factotum," non-profit, non-partisan literary magazine, will come out for the first time on May 20.

The magazine will consist of 48 pages, 6 by 9 and will be priced at 35 cents. Editors of the new quarterly are O. B. Hardison, Harvey Honig and Paul Ramsey, Jr., all students at the University. The magazine is privately supported by certain residents of Chapel Hill.

Included in the first issue is an article by Norman Foerster and poems by Charles Eaton. In addition, it contains poems, short stories and critical articles by new writers. Primary purpose of the magazine is to bring work of new writers before the public.

Approximately two-thirds of the space of the first issue is devoted to writers in Chapel Hill. There are also contributions from New York, California, Georgia, Florida and Washington, D. C.

Professors, University Affiliates Are Elected to Town Precinct Posts

Six men affiliated with the University have been elected to posts in precinct politics in Chapel Hill. They are Walter Spearman, Clyde Carter, Bill Cochran, Paul Wager, W. E. Thompson and R. W. Linker.

Elections were held yesterday afternoon for precinct posts in the North and South districts of Chapel Hill. Chairman of the North precinct committee is Brack Creel, who was re-elected. Paul Wager, professor of political science, was picked as chairman of the South precinct.

Mrs. Roland McClamrock was chosen for the vice-chairman's spot in the North precinct, and the members of the committee in that area are Walter Spearman, journalism professor, Clyde Carter, economics professor, Bill Cochran, of the Institute of Government, and Mrs. J. S. Henninger, a member of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. W. O. White is vice-chairman of the South precinct, with W. E. Thompson, Fletcher Green of the history department and R. W. Linker, French professor, on the committee.

Carl Durham, Congressional representative, and John Umstead, member of the North Carolina Assembly, spoke at the North precinct meeting, both urging a large turnout of voters for the primary May 29. It was decided at the meetings

CCUN Meeting Here Slated To Emphasize Strengthening US, UN

"The young people of the world will be the leaders of the United Nations," stated Lincoln Kan, local student who is state director of the North Carolina Collegiate Council for the United Nations, in keynoting the CCUN state-wide conference to be held here Friday and Saturday.

Colleges and universities in the five state districts of the council will be represented at the two-day meeting, which will feature radio forums, panels, discussions and speeches by distinguished statesmen of foreign nations, representatives of the U. S. State department and the office of the air secretary, according to George Drew, public relations director for the state CCUN organization.

The discussions during the fourth state conference will emphasize strengthening the power of the United States and the United Nations as a step to insure peace in the present international situation.

The speeches are expected to concern the national and international influence on the conditions existing between the Western Bloc and the United Nations. Main speaking events are scheduled for Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday noon. Radio coverage will be handled through the University Communications center.

A United Nations ball will be held to honor the speakers in Graham Memorial Friday night. A reception will also be held that evening in the student union. Members of the local CCUN group expressed the hope yesterday that all students here will attend as many phases of the convention as possible. They stated that the program was planned to help inform the public of current UN problems.

GEOGRAPHY MEETING

Four members of the Department of Geology and Geography faculty attended a meeting of the Southeastern Section of the American Society of Professional Geographers at Knoxville, Tenn., Friday and yesterday.

They are: Dr. Samuel T. Emory, Dr. J. S. Gibson, William N. Turner and Thomas P. Field.

YW Group Will Hold Open Meet Tomorrow

The Public Affairs committee of the YWCA will hold an open meeting tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Y building. The program features three speakers.

Wallace Meeting Discloses Names On N. C. Ballot Petition Total 200

A meeting of the Wallace-for-President club Friday night disclosed that club members have thus far secured an estimated 200 of the 500 valid signatures set as the Orange county quota in the drive to place Wallace's name on the North Carolina ballot.

Vice-chairman Paul Morehead presided over the meeting which heard plans for continuing the program now underway for getting 2,000 signatures in Durham county and for registering potential Wallace voters in the two counties.

Sidney Shanker, graduate student from Brooklyn, N. Y., reported he had placed approximately 100 names on the Wallace petition while canvassing the Negro areas of Chapel Hill last week. By using a local map he suggested to the group his ideas for extending the drive for signatures to points of the area not previously covered. Club member Dan Harris spoke

Women Choralists Slated to Present Old Compositions

Choral works ranging over four centuries of musical composition will be performed under the direction of Paul Young, associate professor of music, when the Women's Glee club presents its annual spring concert on Tuesday.

Mary Helen Zum Brunnen, contralto, will be the featured soloist on the program, according to the Music department.

Thursday's concert will begin with a group of sacred and secular work by William Byrd of Elizabethan England, Handel, Mendelssohn, and Liszt; and will continue with three choruses from operas by Henry Purcell, Mozart, and Modest Mussorgsky.

A highlight of the program will be the performance of six waltzes from Brahms' cycle of love songs. These will be followed by Randall Thompson's "Pueri Hebraeorum," a modern work by the composer of the well-received "Testament of Freedom" which the Men's Glee Club performed here last month.

Following intermission, the glee club will sing a group of folk songs and three modern choral works of Elinor Warren, Vaughan Williams, and William Schuman.

This concert is the third in the 1947-48 glee club series of concerts. Holders of season tickets are asked to present stubs for reserved seats. Single admissions are also on sale at the box office in 109 Hill. Reservations will be held until 8:20 on the evening of the concert.

Mary Ann Daniels, Newly Elected President of the YWCA, Will Speak on the Qualifications of Harold Stassen for President that any member of a precinct in good standing may attend the county convention in Hillsboro and vote as an official delegate, since the 40-man quota of Chapel Hill is not expected to be officially filled.

Mary Ann Daniels, newly elected president of the YWCA, will speak on the qualifications of Harold Stassen for president. Patsy McNutt will review Thomas Dewey's qualifications for the forthcoming presidential election. Tomorrow's meeting will also feature a talk on Vandenberg by Barbara Dalton.

to the club in a denouncement of the Mundt-Nixon bill now being proposed in Congress by the Un-American committee.

The group as a result appointed a committee to publicize throughout the state what it deems the unfairness of the proposed measure. Letters concerning the bill will be sent to other organizations on campus, it was decided.

Harris vehemently proclaimed, "This measure if passed would outlaw nearly all of the basic principles being advocated by Henry Wallace and the third party."

He said the measure is merely an attempt by Wall Street to intimidate the common worker and to prevent persons from verbally attacking the Marshall plan and Wall Street activities.

Harris said further that the bill proposes to jail any individuals who attempt to abolish Jim Crow laws.
