Six Coeds, Dean Of Women Tapped Into Valkyries In Dawn Ceremony

By Ruth Evans

Six coeds and the Dean of Women of the University will be wearing golden Valkyrie keys for the first time today.

Frances Angas, Helen Bouldin, Mary Anne Daniel, Teenie Royall, Sue Stokes, and Sally Woodhull joined the ranks of outstanding Carolina women students this morning when they were tapped into Valkyries in a dawn ceremony.

A highlight of this spring's tapping was the selection of Miss Katherine Carmichael, Dean of Women, as an honorary member. Miss Carmichael went through the same secret ordeals of being awakened by an ominous gong at 4:30 just as light was breaking this morning.

Secret ritual involving black-clad, hooded figures of the senior members of the group and frightened honorees were held early today in the annual affair at which outstanding juniors are chosen and named into the highest honorary organization for Carolina coeds. This group is the equivalent to the national organization of Mortar Board.

Members are chosen from the whole junior class on standards of leadership, character, attitude, sound judgment, service, and scholarship. Throughout the years, girls tapped by this women's honorary have had broad records in all these fields.

Newly-tapped members hail from many states, and have varied interests and records in their work at the University. Frances Angas, from Brooklyn, N. Y., was chosen speaker of the Coed Senate in recent elections, and was just being crowned Sweetheart of Sigma Chi. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Helen Bouldin, from Clarksdale, Miss., is the new chairman of the Women's council, and will be in charge of coed orientation in the fall. She is a member of Chi Omega, and has been active in several branches of student government this year.

Mary Anne Daniel, newly-elected president of the YWCA, is from Weldon. She has been a member of the Phi, the CCUN, and has served on the public affairs committee of the Y all year. She is an Alpha Gamma Delta.

Katherine "Teenie" Royall, who is from Goldsboro, has a record of service through many channels of activity. She has been a member of the Coed Senate, the worship committee of the Y, an officer in the Canterbury club, and will be in charge of coed student advisers during orientation next fall. She is a Pi Beta Phi.

Sue Stokes hails from Raleigh, and is new president of the Women's Interdormitory council. She is president of McIver dormitory, having already served one quarter. She is new president of Theta Psi Epsilon, honorary chemistry sorority, member of the Women's council and the Coed Senate. She is a new member of the Y cabinet, and an officer in the Canterbury club. She is an Alpha

Planetarium Workers Leave Jobs

Strike Is Against J.A. Jones Company All Around State

By Jim Dickinson

Approximately 125 A.F. of L. union workers walked off their jobs at Morehead planetarium yesterday morning and spokesmen for the group said they are striking for hourly wage increases of 25 and 37½ cents.

The strikers, employees of the J. A. Jones Construction company of Charlotte, left work at 7:30 and formed picket lines fronting the project grounds along Franklin street.

Strikes in State

Officials at the A.F. of L. Labor temple in Durham said the strike is a general one in which skilled and non-skilled union workers are leaving the company's jobs in Charlotte and Greensboro. Other strikes were reported at a Liggett and Myers project in Durham and at Duke university. G. W. Wise, superintendent of the company's local construction unit, said the workers had left their jobs but declined to make any comment on the reason for the union action.

Sympathy Strikers

Striking iron workers, hoisting engineers and cement finishers said their groups are seeking a pay hike, but that other workers including bricklayers and carpenters are on sympathy strike.

Representatives of the latter group said their wages were increased recently, but also stated they would return to work only at such time as an agreement is reached between the company and those workers seeking a pay increase.

A picketing iron worker said, "The company offered to pay half the raise we are seeking but we intend to hold out for the full amount."

The union is seeking an increase of 37 and one half cents for steel hoisting engineers who now make $1.25 and $1.50 an hour, and an increase of 25 cents an hour for workers in other trades who now make $1.75 an hour.

Called a "Surprise"

A company supervisor at the project said the strike was "somewhat of a surprise" to the company executives.

Reports yesterday indicated that only unskilled workers who are not members of the union are still on their jobs here and at the Liggett and Myers project in Durham.

Union officials said another project at Neuse in Wake county will be affected today unless an agreement is reached between the company and union.

Leary Says Redistricting To Be Completed Today

By Chuck Hauser

"A redistricting bill to present to the Student Legislature will be completed by tomorrow afternoon," Joe Leary, chairman of the Elections committee, stated yesterday evening, following the adjournment of an open meeting of the committee.

The group considered the merits of three bills yesterday. The first was introduced in a recent Legislature meeting by Leary, and was written by members of the University party. The second was proposed to the Legislature last week by Lindsay Tate. The third was a surprise, being suggested during yesterday afternoon's hearing by Gran Childress.

Calls for Six

The latest measure calls for six town men's voting districts, while the UP bill provides for four and the Tate bill for nine.

The districts for dorm men, dorm women are substantially the same in all three of the proposals.

The Childress bill calls for the following six districts for town men: (1) Victory Village, Pittsboro road trailer camp; (2) Area west of Pittsboro road and south of West Cameron avenue, but including all residences on both sides of Cameron; (3) Area north of West Franklin and west of Old Fraternity row (Porthole alley); (4) Area north of West Franklin and west of Columbia road; (5) Area north of West Franklin and east of Columbia road; (6) Area east of Pittsboro road and Porthole alley and south of East Franklin street.

Districts Listed

The Tate bill drew up nine districts by doing a little re-arranging and a little cutting-up of the ones named above. The Tate district 3 is composed of the fraternity houses on West Cameron, including Little Fraternity court (Kappa Sig, Zeta house, etc.) and both sides of Pittsboro street from Cameron to McCauley. District 4 is all buildings on both sides of Columbia street between Franklin and McCauley, including Fraternity court (Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu house, etc.). District 5 is the entire business section of town, including everything north of the business district, running all the way out West Franklin (taking in both sides of the street) from the post office to Carrboro.

Gene Krupa Bids Still Available In Free Bargain

Bids for the Gene Krupa dance Saturday night are being distributed free of charge in the Y lobby to all students who purchase two tickets to Krupa's Saturday afternoon concert, according to Bill Tate, vice-president of the senior class.

Tickets for the concert, to be presented in Memorial hall at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, are 75 cents each and are available to all students, whether members of the senior class or not. Dance bids are free, and are available to all seniors and to underclassmen who show two concert tickets.

"Krupa has been informed of the tastes of the Carolina student body," said Tate. "We've asked him to really knock himself out for the concert, and to play lots of slow, danceable numbers Saturday night." The dance will be semi-formal in Woolen gym from 8 to 12 o'clock.

The senior class will be unable to meet expenses, Tate said, unless all tickets to the concert are sold. Sales are going well, so far, yesterday being the best day. Everyone, particularly seniors, is urged to support the class in their attempt to present to the campus an open dance at a low price. "You'll never find another bargain like this," Tate said.

The committee has planned very few decorations for the dance, since they cannot count on complete sale of tickets.

Unions Cancel Railroad Strike At Last Minute

Washington, May 10 — (UP) — The three railroad brotherhood unions tonight called off the nation-wide railroad strike set for 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The decision was announced at 9:23 (EST) by the wage committees of the three unions, the engineers, firemen, and switchmen. Representatives of the three brotherhoods were called into secret session tonight after papers restraining the strike had been issued by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Goldsborough's injunction directed them to call off the strike and to keep their 150,000 members on the job. The government order came just two hours after President Truman seized the nation's railroads and put them under Army control.

According to a spokesman for the three unions, "The three brotherhoods will obey the court order. Steps to that effect are being taken immediately."

Dr. Jan-Albert Goris, high commissioner of Belgium information services in this hemisphere, will be one of the main speakers at the state conference of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations in Chapel Hill Friday and Saturday.

His subject will be the recent European five-power military and economic pact, Belgium's part in international affairs, and intellectual cooperation between nations.

He is at present high commissioner of information for Belgium in this hemisphere, and a professor at the Ecole Libre des Hautes Etudes in Louvain, Belgium. He is a doctor of historical science and formerly was a professor of economic history at the University of Louvain, Belgium.

No One Injured

A quickly-put-out brush fire caused a great deal of excitement yesterday evening that the fire department didn't even hear about.

The alarm began squawking about 8:30 last night, and the Chapel Hill fire department took no great time in locating and extinguishing it.

For some reason, a lot of people had gotten some very strange ideas about that fire. The first call to come into the Daily Tar Heel office wanted to know how badly the bell tower was damaged. The second wondered if Frank Graham's house had been burned all the way to the ground or not. The third asked how badly the student was hurt who was taken away in an ambulance.

The last wishful thinker wanted to know how many people were injured in the Deke house fire.

Barrus Heads YM Program Starting Today

Recently Returned From Italian Post

By Sally Woodhull

Robert Barrus, new associate secretary of the YMCA, will start today as head of the entire program of the YM here during the leave of absence of Claude Shotts, who will be working with the American Friends Service committee in Germany during the summer months.

Barrus, who arrived in Chapel Hill last week, returned recently from Italy, where he had spent two years in the American Friends program of post war rehabilitation and reconstruction.

A graduate of the University of Rochester, Barrus went to Italy soon after the end of the war. He helped to organize an Italian volunteer service movement, engaging the aid of university and secondary school students to rebuild demolished homes and aid in rehabilitating the people. He has been active in YMCA ter Shotts' return in the fall.

Shotts will leave Chapel Hill today, and will sail from New York on May 14, landing at Southampton on May 19, and arriving in Berlin on May 21. There he will be attached to a neighborhood educational self-help home, somewhat like a settlement house in America. He will also be in charge of conferences and institutes which will be held there.

In the heart of the Russian zone, the settlement house is an old estate, reconverted to make a rest home for teachers and social workers, and to provide equipment for citizens to repair shoes, tools and other things.

Educational aspects of the work will include international institutes using American, British, and French visiting professors, and work with youths and adults.
