State Department Is Denounced in Senate For Radio Programs

Washington, May 26 — (UP) — The Senate rocked today with angry charges that individual states have been "slandered and libeled" by the State department's "Voice of America" broadcasts. The broadcasts to foreign countries are aimed at giving what the State department calls a "true picture" of life in a democracy.

Many senators, normally staunch administration supporters, joined in denouncing the State department for what they called "this terrible blunder . . . this downright tragedy."

For example, Senator Millard Tydings (D-Md.) suggested it might be, as he put it, a "calculated attempt to belittle and betray the United States."

It all started when GOP Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana began reading excerpts from a Voice of America series on the "History and Characteristics" of various states broadcast in Spanish to Latin American countries.

The series, said Capehart, depicted Texas as "founded in sin" and inhabited by a "completely different race than the rest of the United States." It said a Spanish settler with 600 cows made Texas the center of the cattle-growing industry.

Another broadcast, Capehart went on, said the oxcart is the "symbol" of the spirit of Alabama and that "in no other part of the United States has the colored race struggled and suffered so much as there."

One broadcast described Nevada as "a land of cowboys" and added, "Its two principal cities are in competition. In Las Vegas they get married and in Reno they get divorced."

Another called Pennsylvania's Quakers a "social problem" because they refuse to take oaths in court or perform military service.

TUESDAY CLASSES

A notice released by Chancellor House's office yesterday stated that regular classes will be held through Tuesday morning and that exams will begin that afternoon.

In addition to his work with the band and orchestral instruments, Fitzgerald has also done solo tenor work and has been an accompanist in the Music department here. He was soloist in the band concert this year and sang in a formal recital last year.

He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, music fraternity, the University band, orchestra, Glee club and Choral club. Albright to Arrive Here This Morning With 'Challenger'

By Roland Giduz

In his last major campaign swing before Democratic primary elections on Saturday, R. Mayne Albright, UNC alumnus and Raleigh gubernatorial candidate, will roll into Chapel Hill at 9:30 this morning for a brief stop in part of an all-day cross-state motorcade.

The motorcade leaves Raleigh at 7:30 this morning and will proceed to Durham for a 20-minute stop at the courthouse there. Chapel Hill Albright-for-Governor supporters will meet the "Challenger's" caravan at the city limits at 9:30 and lead the parade to the postoffice where Albright will make a brief talk.

Proceeding around the block to Cameron Avenue, the motorcade will again stop briefly in the Y court. This will be timed to coincide with the 10 o'clock class change. Candidate Albright will speak briefly from his trailer-headquarters "The Challenger" and students, faculty, and townspeople will have a brief chance to meet and question him.

Student supporters of Albright have urged all eligible voters in Saturday's primary to take advantage of this final chance to meet personally one of the gubernatorial candidates. During the campaign Albright and Oscar Barker, Durham gubernatorial aspirant, have been the only ones of the six Democratic gubernatorial candidates to publicly appear in Chapel Hill. In early April the two appeared on the same platform in Hill hall under sponsorship of the Carolina Political union.

Leaving Chapel Hill, after adding a number of local supporters to the auto motorcade, the caravan will proceed through 10 more towns during the remainder of the day. Stops will be made at Burlington, Asheboro, Thomasville, Lexington, Salisbury, Statesville, Mooresville, Kannapolis, Concord, and finally Greensboro and Raleigh tonight.

Both of the portraits, by unknown artists, are of members of the assembly. John Branch (1782-1863) graduated from the University in the class of 1801. He later served as governor of North Carolina, United States senator, Secretary of

Last Carolina Mag To Be Distributed Next Monday

The largest issue of the Carolina Magazine this year will be released next Monday, according to an announcement yesterday by Fred Jacobson, Mag editor.

Because of its unusual heaviness and bulk, the 48-page issue will only be distributed to dorms and fraternity houses. Town students and others not reached through the regular circulation system may get copies at the Y, Graham Memorial, Trailer court, Village Co-op, and the Carolina Inn, said Jacobson.

The Mag's editors have refused to reveal the theme of the forthcoming issue, but they hint it will carry the "proper impact" in view of the fact that this marks the ending of the 104-year tradition of the magazine.

The larger size edition was made possible through a special $350 appropriation by the Publications board, say the editors. They believe that through the extra funds they have been able to produce an issue which meets the standards of the combination magazine which the Carolina mag favored in the referendum several months ago.

In addition to a seven-page section dedicated to Thomas Wolfe, the edition will carry the results of the photography contest which was sponsored by the mag and Foister's Camera store. Also included in the issue will be a selection of interesting stories, both serious and humorous, and a variety of poems and articles, say the editors.

Joint Recital Slated In Hill Hall Tonight

Samuel Andrew, piano student from Albermarle, and Hilda Frances Lawrence, soprano from Asheville, will give a joint recital in Hill hall at 8:30 tonight.

It was erroneously printed in yesterday's issue of the DTH that the recital would be held last night. The error occurred because of misinformation beyond the control of the DTH staff.

Miss Lawrence, with accompanist Richard Rancourt, of Waterville, Me., will sing, "Sentinel core," Scarlatti; "La Chi vuol la zingarella," Paisiello, and other selections from Mozart and Bachet.

SP MEETING

The final spring meeting of the Student party will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounge No. 1. At this time party officers for the summer term will be selected and the summer program will be outlined and fully discussed.

All Student party members are urged to attend this meeting and be prepared to name their proxies for the summer term of the legislature.

Visiting Agreement Expires June 3; New Plan to Be Prepared for Summer

The House Privileges board visiting agreement will expire Thursday night, June 3, according to the office of the Dean of Women. These are the terms of the House Privileges board visiting agreement as established for October 16, 1947, and governs the visiting of women students in the fraternity houses.

A new visiting agreement will be drawn up for the summer session and submitted to the administration. If approved, it will then be taken to the individual fraternity chapters for their ratification or rejection.

Last Tuesday night Coed Senate approved a policy by which a revised House Privileges board visiting agreement may be applicable to the summer session, provided that it is properly drawn up and ratified by the administration and the various fraternities.

Wilkinson Is Scheduled To Air Policies Tonight

Dr. Woodhouse Will Present Candidate; Dinner Is Planned

John A. Wilkinson, Republican candidate for the United States senate and graduate of the University in 1931, will speak on his political policies in Gerard hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Wilkinson is appearing here under the sponsorship of the Young Republicans club and the Carolina Political union. Dr. E. J. Woodhouse will introduce the speaker and Bill Hipple, YRC president, will preside.

A dinner will be given honoring Wilkinson before the address and an open forum session will be held following the speech.

In 1942 Wilkinson was first prize winner in Scribner's Commentator National Essay contest. His subject was "What Would Be the Foreign Policy of George Washington Today?"

House, Lowenstein State Budget Views

Ernie House, former member of the Student Legislature and chairman of the Finance committee, and Al Lowenstein, member of the Legislature, made the following statement yesterday afternoon in regard to the 1948-49 budget, with respect to financial operations next year:

"We have consulted with Mr. Kear of the Student Audit office and it appears certain that there will be a surplus of more than $7,000 available to student government on June 30, the end of the current fiscal year. In view of this fact, it would seem that the financial plight of student government is far from as grave as we have been led to believe by the debates in the Legislature. We will not be able to determine the exact status of our finances until the profit and loss statements are available for the current year.

"In view of our experiences this year, it would be advisable, we feel, to work out some system by which a closer coordination in financial matters can be maintained between the Student Audit office and the Legislature. This might entail the hiring of an assistant to serve with Mr. Kear, which would, among other things, enable Mr. Kear to devote more time to student budgetary matters.

"A non-partisan approach must be adopted if we are to be able to cope adequately with our financial problems, and to insure that the individual student gets the most for his money. The administration in South building, which has so far been well-pleased with the manner in which students have handled their funds, must be approached with unity and maturity; and this can be achieved only if every legislator looks at budget problems objectively and without individual prejudices.

"Steps which might well be taken during the coming year include the extension of the principle of student administration of student fees to cover funds collected in the summer sessions. Student government is a year-round operation; the Honor Code cannot be made inoperative for three months; nor is there a 'summer vacation' for other student activities. Another matter which must be dealt with is the adjustment of the fees levied under the constitutional limit. For substantially the same benefits, coeds now pay $1 more per quarter than do men students, and graduate students now pay considerably less per quarter than do undergraduate students. And $15,000 desperately needed to carry on expanded student activities, which is constitutionally available, cannot be collected under present procedures. We should strive to obtain a budgeting system by which appropriations can be made in actual figures rather than on a pro rata basis. In this way organizations need not be concerned lest their revenue be less than estimated.

"These recommendations offer no panacea; nor are they to be construed as criticisms of the officers presently making student policy concerning the block fee. Not to learn from past mistakes, however, is a luxury which student government can ill afford, especially in problems of finance."

Lowenstein pointed out yesterday that the reason he voted against the budget-cutting bill passed in the Student Legislature Tuesday night was that his figures show that there will be a $7,000 plus surplus when student government operations for this year cease, and he believes that that money should have been used to balance the budget instead of inflicting cuts on campus organizations.

DORM KEYS

Manager of dormitories, Bill Smith, has requested the cooperation of all students who will leave school permanently or for the summer to leave their dormitory keys at his office in the basement of South building immediately before leaving school.
