Carolina Folk Festival Begins This Afternoon In Stadium

Di Senate Issues Invitations And Announces Plans

The Dialectic Senate in its initial meeting of the current session Wednesday night formulated plans for an active summer program, inviting new members to join in electing its officers.

The Di made its first summer bill an open invitation to all members of the Philanthropic Assembly who are now in school. Unanimously the Senators present offered all those whose own forensic club is to be inactive until fall the opportunity to "think of the Di as their summer home."

Anyone who desires to join the Di at this time either for the summer alone or permanently may obtain information about submitting membership blanks from Gran Childress, Di speaker, or Richard Bowen, chairman of the membership committee.

Beginning next Wednesday night at 9 o'clock, weekly open forums will be held in the Di hall, third floor, New West. At these discussions on current campus, national, and international issues, all interested students, townspeople, and faculty members are welcome to listen and to contribute their own opinions.

Other officers elected Wednesday in addition to Childress, who was chosen at the last Di meeting in the spring quarter, were Don Shropshire, speaker pro tempore; Jerry Pettigrew, clerk; William Harding, critic; Bill Jernigan, treasurer; and Charlie Gibson, sergeant at arms.

Edwards Elected SP Vice-Chairman

Harold Edwards was elected as temporary vice-chairman of the Student party at the first meeting of the group Monday night. A junior from Leaksville, Edwards was one of the many newcomers at the meeting. He is a transfer from Catawba College, where he was president of the freshman class. Kay Ledford of Asheville was elected as temporary secretary.

Plans for a Student party dance, to be held in the Roland Parker lounges of Graham Memorial next Friday night were made. Bill Anderson, chairman of the dance, announced that refreshments would be served and that the dance would be open to all students.

Victory Village Adds Three Roads

Approval of three additional one-way streets was made by the Victory Village Council at its meeting Monday night, according to Mayor Bill Goulding.

Tentative plans call for traffic on King Street to enter from Mason Farm Road and proceed north in direction of Daniels Road. Traffic on Johnson Street will enter from King Street and proceed east to the junction of Johnson Street and Daniels Road. Except for the portion of it lying east of the Johnson Street junction, Daniels Road will take care of traffic traveling west to Mason Farm Road.

CPU Meeting

"The record of the 80th Congress" will be the discussion topic of the Carolina Political Union when it meets Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. All interested persons are invited to attend the meetings.

The U. S. Weather Bureau is part of the Department of Agriculture and was established in 1890 to collect reports of weather conditions.

A GROUP OF DELEGATES to the annual Boys' State, now being held on the Carolina Campus, are shown here receiving instructions from their counsellor. The boys, who have been studying state, local and national government during their stay here, climax their session tonight with the election of a state governor.

Dr. Graham To Speak To Boys' State Today

By Clyde Osbourne

Praised as "the best yet" by its leaders and a large number of observers, the eighth annual American Legion-sponsored-Institute of Government-directed Boys' State moves into its fifth round of activities today. Included in today's program is a talk by President Frank P. Graham at 1:30 this afternoon in Memorial Hall.

Since the first call for calisthenics Monday morning at 6:45, 285 teen-age boys, representing every section of the Old North State, have been hard at work learning and practicing to be Americans.

Quonset Hut State Under the direction of Terry Sanford, Assistant Director of the Institute of Government, the Boys' State delegates have established a "state" replete with "counties" and "towns" in the quonset area where they are billeted.

There the boys have published a daily newspaper, divided into political parties and elected local officials for each of their "cities," held party conventions complete with caucus meetings to nominate "county" and "state" candidates, and sounded off in oratorical contests.

Graham To Speak President Graham's talk this afternoon climaxes a full week of lectures by distinguished experts in the fields of politics, government, and education, which have been heard by the youths. Professor E. J. Woodhouse, Lt. Governor L. Y. Ballentine, Dr. Archibald Henderson, Dr. Albert Coates, Director of the Institute of Government, Secretary of State Thad Eure, and Dr. Frank Hanft, of the University Law School are among those advising the youths on good government and clean politics.

Chancellor Robert B. House, speaking to the boys on Wednesday, stressed the need for each of them to develop a good hobby plus the habit of reading, stating that both were essential to good living.

An added attraction to yesterday's program for the future State leaders was a talk by Major General Byers, Commanding General of the famed 82nd Airborne Division. General Byers stated a need for well trained and healthy young men on the political as well as the armed front.

Time Out For Fun The week hasn't been all work for the boys. Breathing time has been provided each day with all the facilities of Woollen Gymnasium at the command of the delegates. Movies of the Carolina-Virginia football game were shown to the group by Coach Crowell Little in Memorial Hall (See DR. GRAHAM, page 4)

Playmakers Urge All To Tryout For Summer Plays

By Violet LaRue

Students and townspeople desiring roles in the forthcoming Playmaker production, "All My Sons," and other summer plays will be given tryouts at 4 o'clock and 7:30 today at the Playmakers Theatre, according to an announcement by Sam Hirsch, director of the play.

"All My Sons," a Broadway Critics Prize play by Arthur Miller, has five parts open for men and four for women, and a small part for an eight-year-old boy.

The play will be presented for three consecutive days beginning July 14 at 8:30 o'clock at the Playmaker Theatre.

Kai Jurgensen, self-dubbed "office boy for the summer session," gave a sneak preview of proposed summer productions at a meeting of the Playmakers on Tuesday afternoon.

Tryouts for a one-act show to be given in conjunction with Sound and Fury will be held at the theatre Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This production will be given on July 1 as a benefit performance for the World Student Service fund.

Featured during the second summer session will be an adaptation of "As You Like It" and a bill of several experimental. Further announcements will be made concerning these plays, said Jurgensen.

Norman Cordon Is New S&F Advisor

Norman Cordon, North Carolina's famous Metropolitan Opera star has been named faculty advisor for Sound and Fury with Mrs. R. J. Wherry as assistant advisor, announced Jerry Weiss, president of the campus musical comedy organization yesterday. Mr. Cordon has returned to his home state to further its music appreciation through his association with the new North Carolina music foundation.

Mrs. Wherry, the new assistant advisor, will specialize in Chorography direction. She once taught in the Blair Dance and Expression school in Columbus, Ohio, and is now with the Wherry dance studio in Chapel Hill. Well prepared for stage direction, she has starred in radio, stage, and dance productions.

Colombian Visits UNC on US Tour

Dr. Pedro I. Vargas, prominent Colombian medical official who will head that Latin American country's new health program, has been in Chapel Hill for the past 10 days visiting local university and state health offices in order to gather data which he will use in the organization of his country's health service.

Dr. Vargas, who plans to leave Chapel Hill today, has been touring the country under the auspices of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs in Washington. He has been in this country for several months and plans to continue his tour until his return to Bogota about the middle of July.

Band Rehearsals

Rehearsals for the University band for this summer have been scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:30. Earl Slocum, director, has announced that no auditions will be held and anyone who plays a band instrument is invited to participate in these practices.

THE SWIRLING SKIRTS OF THESE teen-age Texas square dancers will add to the colorful exhibition of folk dances during the Carolina Folk Festival, which begins this afternoon in Kenan Stadium. Dancers and musicians from over twelve North Carolina counties will take part, in addition to the Texans.

HPB Regulations Will Take Effect For Coeds Today

The House Privileges Board Visiting Agreement for the first summer term goes into effect today for all women students and fraternity members. A copy of this agreement is posted in each women's residence and in each men's fraternity house.

Stipulations by which women may visit in men's fraternity houses are, "Women students may be entertained only in the social rooms approved by the House Privileges Board. Approved houses shall be open to women students from 12:00 noon until the dormitory closing time for women. There shall be no consumption of alcoholic beverages in the presence of, or by, women students in the house or on the premises of any fraternity."

The following fraternities have been approved to participate in the Visiting Agreement for the first summer term: Chi Psi, DKE, KA, Kap Sig, Lambda Chi, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Gam, Phi Kappa Sig, PiKA, Pi Lambda Phi, SAE, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, TEP, ZBT, and Zeta Psi.

Anthropologist Speaks Saturday

Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, noted anthropologist of New York University, will speak on "Sense and Nonsense about Race" in the main lounge of Graham Memorial tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The public is invited.

Dr. Alpenfels is at the University in the interest of the Workshop on Human Resources and Intercultural Education. She will meet with this group on Friday to discuss human relations from an anthropologist's point of view.

Ex-Lord Mayor Will Speak Today

"Britain Today" will be the subject of a speech to be given by Norman Tiptaft, former Lord Mayor of Birmingham, England. Tiptaft will speak in Gerrard hall at 4 o'clock today. He is sponsored by the Summer Session, directed by Dean Guy B. Phillips, and the North Carolina World Peace Forum. Chancellor R. B. House will introduce the speaker.

Norman Tiptaft is touring the United States for a period of four months and intends to visit several major cities of the nation. He has been a world traveler, having visited the Far East, Near East, Europe and Canada. During the war he was the chairman of the Birmingham civil defense committee. After serving as Lord Mayor, he became chairman of the civic reconstruction committee. Recently he has become an author and writer for the British press.

Chapels Will Be Held For Freshmen In Fall

Tentative plans for freshman chapel, beginning next fall, were announced this week by Jess Dedmond, president of the student body. According to Dedmond, the chapel will be held twice a week on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Deans C. P. Spruill, William Wells and Fred Weaver are working on technical parts of the plans at the present time.

House to Welcome Chamber Visitors

Chancellor R. B. House will welcome over 300 delegates at a "get acquainted" meeting of the Fifth Annual Southeastern Institute for Chamber of Commerce Executives to be held here June 20 through 26. The first meeting will be held at the Institute headquarters at the Army.

The Chamber of Commerce Institute is one of the six regional meetings held throughout the United States. The southeastern region comprises nine of the southern states. An extensive program has been planned for the delegates and will end with examinations to be held on the last day of the Institute.

Not all of the program during the week will be of study as there will be a varied program of "Talent Night," "Fellowship Night" and a dance. There will be no night life scheduled for the night preceding examinations on June 26.

Banjo-twanging Lawyer Tours Country Telling Americans Of Carolina Folklore

By Sam Whitehall

If you're in trouble or just want to relax, all you have to do is go down to South Turkey Creek in Buncombe County, look for the house that has a "five string banjo built," and there you'll find Bascomb Lamar Lunsford, retired lawyer and more recently, one of North Carolina's more famous minstrel enthusiasts and director of the Carolina folk festival. If the gentleman of the house is away, two will get you five that he's off to some part of the country talking about the rich folklore of North Carolina.

Bascomb Lamar Lunsford is not a large man, but in his face and eyes, one can see the vastness of the mountains. His voice exerts confidence because he seldom says anything unless he is sure it is right. He is a man of prodigious memory, in fact, he told us that it was memory and the love for folklore which once secured him a victory in the state legislature.

It seemed that Lunsford was running for legislature reading clerk, but he had two opponents who came from Raleigh, the center of state politics, Lunsford,

Ten o'clock is being considered as the chapel hour, although the time has not been finally decided yet. Each chapel will last about thirty minutes and will include "educational" lectures and opportunity for the freshman to organize for "political" and "social" purposes, the student body president said.

Plans are already underway, it was announced, for meetings with representatives from State and Duke to lay plans for the prevention of vandalism during football games next fall. Last year, the season was marred by only one or two minor instances, as a result of these inter-collegiate conferences.

Dedmond also announced his plans to expand the responsibilities and duties of the student Attorney General. Dedmond stated that he wanted the officer to have the power to speak for the president in co-ordinating the activities of the Student and Men's councils. Ed Davenport of Winterville was appointed to the Attorney General position last quarter.

Dance Cancelled

The previously scheduled Summer School dance, slated for tomorrow night in Graham Memorial, was postponed yesterday afternoon by director Bill Shuford, in order that all students could attend the dance in Woollen Gym.

Dr. Grumman announced that advanced sale of tickets will be made in the lobby of Swain hall at the information desk. Season tickets may also be purchased. "For those who are unable to purchase tickets beforehand, they will be on sale at the entrance to the stadium and at the door of Woollen gym for the dances," he added.

The banjo-twanging lawyer of the western Carolina hills is not an ordinary "One-night-stand" musician. He has a deep and quiet understanding of human nature.

"I love humanity, but perhaps not to the degree that Will Rogers did. He loved or found good in everyone, but I have to draw the line sometimes when my principles are endangered," said Lunsford when he was asked to clarify his stand on humanity.

In the few weeks that he has been at Carolina Lunsford says he has been impressed with the high standards of the University and the students. His only advice to the younger folks is this, "plan your life as you would a good house. Select the timbers and supports with care as they must last you forever."

Nationwide Radio Broadcast Slated For Tomorrow

By Lincoln Kan

Texas will invade Carolina today as a pre-football guest of the Carolina Folk Festival which is being held this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow in Kenan Stadium, beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Texas square dance team and musicians will be featured in a broadcast at 2 o'clock Saturday over a nationwide hook-up with the Mutual Broadcasting company. "We hope to have Chancellor R. B. House on the radio program to play his harmonica," stated Bascom Lamar Lunsford, director of the festival.

Sponsored by Folklore Council

The first all-state Carolina Folk Festival is sponsored by the University folklore Council. The chairman of the council, Russell M. Grumman, said yesterday, "We plan to have the festival as an annual affair. We have much to offer here in North Carolina to the nation."

The festival will have square dancing of Western Carolina, cowboy dancing of the southwest and clog dancing such as the "Buzards Lope." On the musical menu there will be banjo picking, fiddling and ballads featuring songs like "Black Jack Davy" and "Barbara Allen." As a change of fare, novelty numbers featuring old timers on the Dulcimer, String Bow and harmonicas will be presented. The Fayetteville team, led by Christine Cherry and Billie Estes, will add an imported flavor to the show by presenting dances from the highlands of Scotland. Representatives of over twelve counties in North Carolina will participate in the activities.

Carolina Students

Two Carolina students, Hoyle Bruton, editor of the new Carolina Folklore magazine and Benedicta Santos from San Paulo, Brazil, will assist Lunsford. His son, Lamar Lunsford, Jr. who is now assistant district director of the Western North Carolina Vocational Agricultural department will also be assisting.

"All persons going to the Saturday afternoon performance should try to get to the stadium before 2 o'clock, as the broadcast will start at that time," Lunsford said, "the two evening dances will be brightened by the colorful costumes of the participants, and we hope everybody will come."

Peace Envoy

A proposal that Dr. Frank P. Graham be sent to Europe as a peacemaker for several years was offered by Reinhold Schairer, executive secretary of the World Education Service council, in an address at Woman's college on Wednesday night. Schairer said that Dr. Graham should join hands in the effort with a similar great humanitarian from Russia in a program of human assistance which he contends is desperately needed in Europe.
