

WEATHER
Partly Cloudy and Milder

The Daily Tar Heel

EDITORIALS
Don't You Trust Them, Dean?
Here for the Taking

VOLUME LVI

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., TUESDAY, JUNE 22, 1948

Phone F-3371-F-3261

No. 182

Prizefight and Quiz Show To be Featured By Vets Wednesday

The University Veteran's Association Board of Governors today announced plans for a July 4 program, co-sponsored with the Chapel Hill American Legion and a new type of their regular open house, with the atmosphere of a night club, a world heavyweight championship fight, and a Dr. I. Q. quiz show.

July 4 Program

The July 4 program will be held on the lawn under Dave Popular, and will feature a concert by the University Band. A prayer will be given by the Reverend Joyce of the Carrboro Methodist Church, and a short talk will be given by Chancellor House.

The program, starting at 8:30 will be presided over by Hugh Wells, president of the UVA. R. L. McMillan, ex-state commander of the American Legion will be the principal speaker.

The open house, which will begin Wednesday night, June 24, will be a regular feature of the UVA. The program will start as a regular night at the club, with dancing of course, but will be interrupted at some point for the quiz show. Contestants will be picked at random from the audience and will receive appropriate gifts for answering questions correctly. At the end of the first round there will be a jackpot question. If the jackpot question is not answered then the jackpot will be carried over until the next week.

Louis-Walcott Fight

Since Wednesday night is the night for the Louis vs. Walcott championship fight, arrangements have been made to broadcast the bout.

Two new men, Gene Braswell and Bud Hampton, have been named to the Board of Governors.

Summer Council May Be Appointed

Discussion of what action will be taken toward appointment of a temporary student council to serve during the summer months will be the main business at a meeting of the Coalition Advisory Cabinet in the Grail room at 3 p.m. Wednesday, President of the Student Body Jess Dedmond stated today.

In commenting on the possibility of such action, Dedmond said, "We are faced with an unusual situation, in that not one member of the elected Student Council is in school for the summer. And while the constitution makes no provision for such appointments by legislative enactment or past precedent, the President of the Student Body fills vacancies which normally occur during the regular school session.

"And in view of the fact that the Men's Council is now handling a case which may possibly be appealed," the president continued, "it seems desirable that some action be taken."

Members of the cabinet who are in school for the summer term are Scotty Venable, Thurman Williams, Bill Miller, Ed Davenport, Bob Haire, John Rosser, and Ed Tenney.

English Group Holds Meeting

There will be a meeting of the English Institute on Monday, June 28 at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker lounges of Graham Memorial. Speaker for the occasion will be Kai Jurgensen, acting head of the Dramatic Arts department during the summer.

All English teachers and friends are invited to attend the meeting. There will also be a short business meeting, after which refreshments will be served.

Bankers to Hold Annual Meeting At University

A number of prominent authorities on banking from this and other states have accepted invitations to lecture and lead discussions at the 12th annual Carolina Bankers Conference to be held at the University of North Carolina July 11-16 under the sponsorship of the North and South Carolina Bankers Associations, the North and South Carolina Banking Departments, and the University.

For the first time since the Conference was inaugurated, a full five-day study of trust operations, entitled the Technical Trust School, will also be held to run concurrently with the regular sessions.

Strictly an educational program, the Conference will have this year a faculty of nine lecturers and instructors who are members of the faculty of the Graduate School of Banking of Rutgers University.

These Rutgers faculty lecturers are M. J. Brines, special lecturer, Fordham University School of Business; Carlisle R. Davis, American Institute of Banking and author of Institute's text, "Credit Administration"; T. Allen Glenn, Jr., former member of Reconstruction Finance Corporation and now president of the Peoples National Bank of Norristown, Pa.; Louis S. Headley, former member of the faculty of St. Paul College of Law, now president and director of the First Trust Company of St. Paul, Minn.

William H. Neal, Winston-Salem, past president of the North Carolina Bankers Association and chairman of the Carolinas Bankers Conference for 10 years; Gilbert T. Stephenson. (See BANKERS, page 4)

French Pictures Now on Exhibit

Person Art Gallery is now featuring 41 watercolors painted by French children during the last 11 years. These paintings depict Paris street scenes and country landscapes, workers of farms and cities, churches, fairs, sports, the liberation—in short, the life of France as seen by her school children from five to sixteen years of age.

The exhibition was selected by the Museum of Modern Art from the collection of the French color manufacturing firm of J. M. Paillard in Paris. The firm has held annual competitions since 1935 to encourage children to paint their ideas and impressions of the world about them. A different theme for paintings is given each year and a jury of distinguished artists and art critics selects the best painting for exhibition in Paris. Later the paintings are displayed in museums and schools throughout France as well as other countries.

The exhibition of paintings by French children will remain on view at Person Hall until July 12, after which it will continue its tour of the country under the auspices of the Museum of Modern Art.

CPU Hails Congress As 'Best' Group Yet

Facts of the 80th Congress meeting were given Sunday night at the C. P. U. by Bill Patterson who concluded that this was one of the best Congress meetings thus far. Following these points was a general discussion which centered around the congressional accomplishments and failures, although the members often digressed leading to the Russian and Palestine problems.

NOT TO BE LEFT OUT OF THE CAROLINA Folk Festival in Chapel Hill this week-end was a lively hometown square dance team composed of townspeople and university students. Calling themselves the Greenwood Team of Chapel Hill, the 16 high steppers led off the performances at the festival Friday night with a mountain square dance. Kneeling in front of the group are Bascom Lunford, director of the festival (left), and George Pegram of Denton (right), folk singing and guitar playing favorite of the festival. Left to right the participants in the Greenwood team are: Linda Wilson, Arnold Wilson (caller), Pat Gravatt, Earl Page, Katherine Hovis, Hibbard Thatcher, Janet Green, Jess Wilson, Mary Ann Rhodes, Gene Hall, Sue Carter, Rex Reckendorf, Ginger Callahan, Bob Callahan, Stella Bruton and Nathan Booe. The group was formed several weeks ago under the direction of Arnold Wilson and Hibbard Thatcher, both university students and square dance hobbyists.

Stirling, Drew Represent CCUN At National Meet

Roberta W. Stirling and George Drew of the University are representing the Carolina chapter Collegiate Council for the United Nations and the state headquarters of the CCUN at the third annual national institute of the CCUN now in progress in New York.

Miss Stirling, who has been selected as the North Carolina nominee for state directorship of the CCUN 1948-49, heads a five man delegation composed of representatives from the CCUN districts of the North Carolina state organization. The members will attend United Nations meetings at Lake Success, study the Charter under authorities invited to lecture to the institute and formulate plans and policies for the national, regional and state headquarters for the coming year.

The North Carolina delegation will be joined by the former state director Lincoln S. H. Kan, who is now in charge of the summer office of the CCUN. "No specific program has been planned for the summer school until we can have a representative group decision," announced Kan. He urged all former members of the CCUN from other campuses and those who are interested in United Nations study or work to contact him in the CCUN office in Graham Memorial before 3 p.m. Wednesday.

BSU Chooses New Summer Officers

At a supper meeting Sunday night, the Baptist Student Union chose the following officers to fill the temporary vacancies for the summer term.

The new officials are Bill Kochline, President; Dot Nelson, Music Director; Don Shropshire, Secretary; and Frances Green, Social Chairman.

The Union also voted to continue their Sunday night supper meetings throughout the summer at 6 o'clock. The meals will be followed by a vesper service for all interested students. A social hour will follow the service.

A hayride to Hogan's Lake has been scheduled for next Friday afternoon at 3:30. All students are to meet in front of the Baptist Church at that time. A weiner roast will follow at the lake. In case of inclement weather, the ride will be held the following Friday.

Vet's Club Closes

The University Veteran's Association announces that the clubhouse will be closed this Thursday night for a meeting of the Secretaries of the Southeastern Chambers of Commerce.

First Folklore Festival Is Called "Howling Success" By Lunford

4,000 Attend Shows; Dancers, Fiddlers, Singers Featured

Crowds of more than 4,000 attended the first Carolina Folk Festival, held in Kenan Stadium last Friday and Saturday, under the sponsorship of the University Folklore Council. Bascom Lunford, director of the program, proclaimed the festival a "howling success."

Chancellor R. B. House and Dr. I. G. Greer, executive vice-president of the North Carolina Business Foundation were featured Saturday afternoon with others in a nationwide broadcast from the stadium that was carried by the Mutual Broadcasting Company over 400 stations.

A special invitation has been issued to all those who are interested in joining the Di at this time, either for the summer alone or permanently. Members of the Philanthropic Assembly will also be welcome since their forensic group is to be inactive until fall.

PETE GERNS

Gerns Appointed Business Manager

Pete Gerns, senior from Canton, Ohio, has been appointed to the position of business manager of the 1948-49 University Directory. Gerns was one of several applicants for the position and was picked by the publications committee of the YMCA, which annually publishes the Directory, on basis of his qualifications and experience with publications. He is secretary of the Publications Board, business manager of Tarnation, and columnist of the Daily Tar Heel, and has served as assistant editor for the 1946-47 Yackety Yack.

Sound and Fury Groups Named For 'Mardi Gras'

Committees for the new Sound and Fury summer production, "Mardi Gras," have been named by Jerry Weiss, S and F president.

Publicity is headed by Doris Weaver and Vel Taylor, co-chairmen, with Mary Lou Williams, Jane Hunter, Helen Beam, Dan and Emily Ogburn as staff members.

Membership committee consists of Ann Humphrey and Emily Ogburn, co-chairmen, Dot Charles, Alice Ferebee, Betty McDonald, Paul Kaziah, and Pat Ellis. Stan Fox, business manager, and Al Wehrhahn, assistant-manager for the show, are aided by Fred Swartzberg, Violet LaRue, Dot Charles, Rita Loeb, Helen Beam, and Ann Tucker.

Lighting is under the direction of Colbert Leonard, designer, Walt Johnson, master electrician, Ig Henifree, Roy Wilson, and Tyson Taylor.

Some Swim ...

Some of the summer students with an eye to beat the heat are daily turning their attentions toward Kessing outdoor pool and the parade of the Carolina mermaids.

Lounging there on hot sultry afternoons (and any other time) can be seen the young and the old, the fat and lean, the shapely, the non-figured and all other types of woman and manhood.

They're there for various reasons. Some like an occasional retreat from classroom monotony while others feel the need of sunshine and vitamins not contained in the Chapel Hill and campus eating diet.

Because of pool regulations the men must use the gym-furnished bathing trunks, a green-colored and scanty bit of cloth which even fits on rare occasions.

The pin-ups, on the other hand, are permitted to bring their own in a gesture which indicates sound judgment and foresight on the part of whatever officials may be involved. These last range anywhere from calico to gingham

House Featured

Chancellor House, playing on his popular harmonica, played "Old Log Cabin in the Lane," followed by Dr. Greer who sang "Black Jack Dave in Sourwood Mountain." Dr. Greer was accompanied by his wife on the dulcimer, an old three-stringed instrument similar to a double violin.

George Pegram, a Denton "banjo pickin', buck dancing, singing" mountaineer was the hit of the show with his first rendition of that good ole "Mountain Dew."

Because of his instant popularity, Pegram was forced by the insistence of the crowd to give repeat performances during the festival.

Pete Strader, also co-author and director of "Mardi Gras," will design scenery assisted by Roy Wilson, Tyson Taylor, Al Wehrhahn, Bob Plumb, Mary Lou Williams, Rita Loeb, Ann Humphrey, and Pat Ellis as crew members.

Some Sun ...

for an afternoon of sun basking, where she intended to go from the start. She and on-looking men agree she is more effective at that point, anyway.

The overseer has never seen the farm or a tobacco crop but is perfectly at home beside the pool. He believes the age of chivalry is still at hand and stands by to give the ladies a pull when they decide to emerge from the brink. The birds-eye view is his reward for patient waiting.

Lady splashes have the mermen typed as lookers and dreamers and seers. A rare type is known as the "bs-seener," they say.

In answer to a question about gym swim suits, Dusty says they're "straight and terrible and not fit for a girl to be seen in—to the best advantage."

As Dusty sums it up, "Some wear suits to go swimming but others swim to wear the suits." Dusty has a bit of advice for those who have not yet attended the pool. "Go there for this reason or that, but if you want to swim go someplace else—it's too crowded."

Student Leaders Named NSA Congress Delegates

C. of C. Meeting In Session Here; 185 Men Attend

More than 185 delegates from 10 states will begin their second day of classes today in the fifth annual Southeastern Institute for Chamber of Commerce executives, now in session on the University campus.

The purpose of the meeting, according to L. P. Dickie, manager of the institute, is "to acquaint the delegates with the newest material on organization, promotion and management of chamber of commerce activities."

The courses offered the "students" are divided into three year sessions. Credits at these sessions are honored at similar institutes throughout the nation. Delegates who pass the three years work are required to take an examination at the end of each institute and are awarded a diploma upon completion. Many of the men attending this session are graduates and have come back to get a refresher course.

Chancellor R. B. House greeted the delegates Sunday night with several selections on his harmonica. Professor Rex S. Winslow of the University Extension Division also welcomed the visitors. Preston E. Foster, president of the Southeastern Institute, spoke on "Why We Are Here."

J. Everett Rogers, president of the Institute Student Body said that adult education was an important part in the chamber of commerce program. He estimated that there will be over 275 participants in this year's program.

A daily bulletin recording the activities of the group will be mimeographed for the delegates by Walker Owens. Entertainment in the evenings have been planned for every night except Friday, the night before examinations.

May Call Meeting Of Legislature

A session of the Student Legislature may be called within ten days or two weeks, George Rodman, parliamentarian, announced yesterday.

Rodman, who is ranking officer of the student legislature during the summer term in the absence of the speaker and speaker pro-tem, request that all members and appointed proxies submit their summer school addresses to him in care of the student government office.

Lowenstein, Haire, Dedmond, Godwin Davenport Selected

Five Carolina student government leaders have been appointed as official UNC delegates to the annual National Students' Association Congress, to be held in Madison, Wisconsin the week of August 23. Some six hundred students from schools and colleges throughout the United States will attend the session.

In addition to Al Lowenstein, appointed by the student legislature last quarter, student body president Jess Dedmond has appointed Jim Godwin, vice-president of the student body, Ed Davenport, attorney-general, Bob Haire, former chairman of the Campus party and himself as the delegates. The students will attend the Congress at their own expense.

Discussion Panels

During the meeting, discussion panels will be conducted on student cultural and economic welfare, student government activities, student government functions and structure and international affairs.

The NSA constitution was approved by the group at its national meeting last summer, which was attended by Bill Miller, Johnny Clampitt and Herman Baker from Carolina. The local legislature ratified the constitution on May 27.

During the meeting last year, Clampitt was elected as regional treasurer of the group and Baker, now out of school, was elected regional chairman. Carolina is recognized as a regional leader in NSA activity.

Comedy Try-outs Slated for Today

Try outs for "Close Quarters," a one act comedy by Catherine McDonald, are scheduled for 4:00 p. m. this afternoon at the Playmaker Theatre. The play will be presented on July 2 as a part of the benefit program for the World Student Service Fund.

"Close Quarters," to be directed by Walter Merserve, is the story of life in a trailer on the campus of a university. There are three parts for men and three for women.

It is urged that all students and non students interested please be on hand for the try outs.

Campus Mermaids And Males Parade At Pool

By Jim Dickinson

Scores of summer students with an eye to beat the heat are daily turning their attentions toward Kessing outdoor pool and the parade of the Carolina mermaids.

Lounging there on hot sultry afternoons (and any other time) can be seen the young and the old, the fat and lean, the shapely, the non-figured and all other types of woman and manhood.

They're there for various reasons. Some like an occasional retreat from classroom monotony while others feel the need of sunshine and vitamins not contained in the Chapel Hill and campus eating diet.

Because of pool regulations the men must use the gym-furnished bathing trunks, a green-colored and scanty bit of cloth which even fits on rare occasions.

The pin-ups, on the other hand, are permitted to bring their own in a gesture which indicates sound judgment and foresight on the part of whatever officials may be involved. These last range anywhere from calico to gingham and lastex. Some are translucent and others tend a little toward the transparent.

Shapely mermaid Dusty Moore, journalism major from Gastonia, says some of the gals' suits "fit the figure" and philosophizes further that others are especially designed to "squeeze the figure."

Types of suits, says Dusty, are almost as numerous as Republican candidates for the White House seat. These range from one-piecers to two-piecers and include the backless and strapless models. The stomachless and split-up-the-sides versions are the ones which currently keep the dry goods retailers smiling and the more conventional groups gossiping, she says.

Seen along the tile banks of Kessing are two typical groups known as the male "overseers" and female "tipplers." The tippler is the lovely who slips into her suit and dashes toward the 5-foot marker as if to plunge in for a dip.

She tips her thermometer-toe into a quarter inch of water and lets out a sizeable "Ouch!" Then she saunters over and lies down