SENATOR ALBEN W. BARKLEY, Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency, is shown here as he finished his famous keynote address at the convention this week. The speech, which was well received throughout the country, caused the delegates to give their first real impromptu demonstrations of the convention.

Kirby To Serve As Acting Student Body President

Freshmen Chapel Plan Snags On Attendance

Plans are rapidly taking shape for the freshman chapel program to be re-instated this fall, announced Ed Lanier, member of the chapel committee.

Garvin Explains Use of DDT Spray

Dr. O. David Garvin, District Health Officer for Orange, Person, Chatham and Lee Counties, has issued the following information on the use of DDT spraying for insect and fly control:

"Experience with DDT spraying for fly and insect control has produced effective results when the spraying has been done correctly," Dr. Garvin said. To be effective the spray should be applied by trained workers and a good DDT mixture and pressure sprayers should be used.

Dr. Garvin pointed out that the use of flit guns for spraying is not satisfactory because the spray is not applied in an even, covering coat. Much of the spray is wasted when applied in this method.

When the DDT is applied directly to the walls and ceilings of houses, privies, barns and porches by trained workers it is a worthwhile measure in controlling flies and insects.

In regard to spraying as a polio preventive measure, Dr. J. W. R. Norton, State Health Officer, has said, "It must be pointed out that the part played by the fly in the spread of polio is still not clear. It is the opinion of most authorities at this time that the most important method of spread of this disease is by person to person contact and that spread by flies is only of secondary importance." However, Dr. Norton goes on to say that, "flies are known to play a part in the transmission of several filth borne diseases so that year round fly control is a valuable public health program for its over-all benefit."

Greeks, Customs, Pins And a Candle in Hand

It's an old Carolina custom for a fraternity to serenade a coed when one of its members pins her up, but when a sorority turns the tables and serenades a Greek, then it must be leap year.

In the case of the Chi Omegas serenading Bobby Stockton at the Beta house Wednesday night, however, leap year wasn't the cause. The sorority girls were just relating for a practical joke the Betas pulled last Sunday.

It seems Mr. Stockton was having dinner at the Chi Omega house, one lonely male in a sheik's heaven. This was too good a chance for the Beta's to miss. First they called up, asked for Miss Roberta Stockton and read a telegram which purportedly said: "So glad you pledged Chi O. Love Mother." Then, en masse, Mr. Stockton's brothers appeared at the sorority house and serenaded during dinner.

Wednesday night the sorority returned the compliment. Just before 11 o'clock they showed up at the Beta house with a pledge pin for Roberta Stockton. The pin was 10 inches wide and a foot high. Then while Kenny Powell and Chan Highsmith held the struggling Robert before a window with a candle in his hand, the girls serenaded him with "Our One Chi O Boy," "Hush Little Baby," and "We're Rushing You Chi Omega."

Afterwards they moved slowly away, softly singing, "Crawl into your trundle bed and cover up your little head."

Citizens Warned Against Dangers Of Spotted Fever

Five cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever have been reported in the last ten days, with two of the instances fatal, Dr. David O. Garvin, health officer of Orange, Person, Chatham, and Lee Counties, stated today, issuing a warning to the residents of the area in regard to the disease.

Dr. Garvin urges that the people of Orange-Person-Chatham and Lee Counties be vaccinated against Rocky Mountain Spotted fever by their private physician or at the Health Department.

Many families have overlooked the necessity for protection against this disease that is carried by ticks. People working out-of-doors and children who play out-of-doors in areas where there are wood, grass and weeds, should have the protection given by the vaccine.

Dr. Garvin pointed out that many people will visit tick infested areas for picnics and on vacations. Any individuals or families planning outings should have the protective vaccine.

The vaccine is injected under the skin in the upper arm. Three injections are given, one each week for three weeks.

Health Department clinics in Orange County are held at the Hillsboro and Chapel Hill Health Departments every Friday from 2-4 p. m. and every Saturday from 9-12 a. m.

Orientation Work To Begin June 21

Chairman of the Orientation Committee Bill Miller said today, "Even if the number of new students is going to be small this coming second summer term, we will not neglect our duty to orient them."

"The orientation program will start Wednesday June 21 at 7:30 p. m. in Gerrard Hall," Miller said. It is expected that Dean of Men Fred Weaver, President of the Student Body Jess Dedmond and a representative of the coeds will be attending the meeting for the new students.

Up to the present time it is reported that the admissions office has approximately 25 newcomers registered.

Atomic Age Exhibit

"Atomic Energy," a 24-panel photographic exhibition compiled by Life Magazine in consultation with the United States Atomic Energy Commission, will open in the large gallery at Person Hall on July 18.

French Consul Emphasizes Need Of French Summer School

The increasing role of French Summer schools, corresponding to the increasing importance of the study of French was stressed Wednesday night at a celebration of Bastille Day by Rene de Messieres, cultural adviser to the United States at the French Embassy offices in New York. Chancellor Robert B. House responded to the speech which was delivered at a banquet sponsored by the French House of the University of North Carolina at the Carolina Inn.

Mr. de Messieres, formerly professor of French Literature at the University of Lyon in France and at Wellesley College in New York, said that international relations have become so complicated that only complete comprehension can be the basis of mutual understanding. Realizing this, the UNESCO commission decided on English and French as the official international languages and is now working on a project which will require the teaching of either of these languages.

At the present time in France, 80 per cent of the students in secondary schools are learning English, and in England a parallel situation exists. He said it is important that the United States create a similar situation here.

France, he said, "is the keystone because it is geographically the center of it. It is the keystone because it is historically the epitome of it. It is the keystone of it because its spiritual destiny seems . . . to permit its diverse fundamental traits to be assimilated with one another, as well as to try to organize this inorganic or disrupted Europe."

But, he added, that France is also an entity of its own, with a "particular genius for clarity" and a quality of restlessness which "has always kept it from being satisfied with ready made formulas."

Prof. Hugo Giduz, director of the French House since its formation in 1945, presided at the banquet which had as its invited guests Chancellor and Mrs. Robert B. House, W. M. Dey, head of the Romance Language Department.

Secretary-Treasurer To Take Dedmond's Duties During Second Summer Session

Bob Kirby, senior for Charlotte and present secretary-treasurer of the student body, will serve as the ruling student government leader during the last session of summer school, according to an announcement yesterday by Jess Dedmond, president of the student body.

Council Repeals 1-Way Road Rule On Daniels Street

Acting upon a petition signed by more than one-half of the residents of Daniels Road, the Victory Village Council last Monday night repealed the one-way traffic regulation for that street.

There had been many complaints from the residents of the street who owned automobiles. The complainants stated that the act forced them drive far out of way, down King Street and Johnson Road before entering Daniels Road.

Last week Mayor Bill Goulding issued a request for all persons residing on Daniels Road who wished to object to the regulation to appear before the council at its Monday night meeting. He also stressed that many persons on the street were in favor of the act.

The residents replied to the request by circulating a petition, and finding a majority of objections, they presented it to the council for action.

Chorus Rehearsal Starts on Monday

The Summer School Chorus will have its first meeting Monday, July 26, at 5 p. m. in the auditorium of Hill Music Hall. Rehearsals are scheduled for 5 p. m. Mondays and Wednesdays throughout the remainder of the summer session.

The program, as selected, includes a Bach Cantata, the Polvetzian dances and choruses from Prince Igor by Borodin, and selections from the oratorio, The Peaceable Kingdom, by the contemporary composer, Randall Thompson.

All interested persons are urged to attend.

French Exam

The French Reading exam for students in the School of Commerce will be given Friday, July 16, at 2:30. The exam will be in room 308 of Murphy.

Merchants To Pay For DDT Spray Program

With the number of poliomyelitis cases throughout the state hitting above the 600 mark yesterday, the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Merchants Association announced that it is sponsoring a campaign to clean up and spray every business establishment within the city limits of the twin towns as one hope that the disease may be stopped here.

L. V. Huggins, president of the association, in making the announcement stated that the work is being done in cooperation with the District Health Department, and while there was no proof that the dread disease is being spread by insects, it is known that insects can spread it.

Officially the campaign begins this morning with the first business house getting the works to be Ab's Book Shop on East Franklin street. The garbage houses, garbage cans, porches, doors, and surrounding area of each merchant will be cleaned up and sprayed with DDT.

A spraying team, trained by the Health Department, will do the work, with the Merchants Association underwriting all of the cost for DDT and labor. The Health Department will lend its spraying equipment to the association for the use of the project.

District Health Department Engineer James Westbrook, commenting on the project yesterday, said that he thought it could do a lot of good toward preventing spread of the feared infantile paralysis from insect sources, but warned that the greatest number of cases come as the result of contact with the disease.

It's Inaccurate . . .

'Mardi Gras' Promises To Be A Show Of Hell

By Doris Weaver
Sound and Fury has taken a leap ahead of the science and the religion department to give Carolina an inaccurate but encouraging prevue of Hell in "Mardi Gras" which promises to be a (censored) of a show. This comic fantasy (or is it fantastic comedy?) is to spread its flames of laughter in Memorial Hall in the coming two nights.

The new and unique version of that hot-bed of happy sin and gin which is presented in "Mardi Gras" would cause even Billy Sunday to roll back his stone and change his resting place.

This lively comedy of death offers everything from anything (goes) to exotic Dusty Moore and

Union Board Seeks Permanent Head

The Student Union Board of Directors, acting as a committee of selection for a new director for Graham Memorial, is not interested in appointing any person not willing to assume the position on a permanent basis. Dean Fred H. Weaver, Chairman of the Board, revealed Wednesday morning.

"We have written various alumnae of the University hoping to find a suitable man for the job," Dean Weaver said. He added that "the committee of the board has decided to wait as long as necessary to get the right man."

It is the intention of the board to find a man who will operate the union on a professional basis. The size of the job will depend on how far the director carries the operation of Graham Memorial and the Student Union beyond the obviously nominal functions, according to Weaver. "We want to put this Student Union on the same footing with Unions everywhere," the Dean asserted.

. . . But It's Encouraging

Many High School Candidates Apply For Scholarships

Dean D. D. Carroll announced yesterday that over 200 applications from 150 high school graduates were received for the Andy Bershak and Smith Scholarship, and that the winners will be chosen by July 24.

The Andy Bershak Scholarship which totals $2,000 for four years was conceived by fraternity men on the campus and awarded each year to deserving high school graduates who need help and who have evidenced high scholarship and leadership. The award is in memory of one of Carolina's All-Americans, who had one of the highest scholastic averages of past students.

Last Saturday thirty-nine applicants were here to be interviewed and were entertained at a luncheon in Lenoir Hall. Forty had been invited however at the last moment it was reported that the candidate had joined the Navy.

Single Term Vets Should Visit VA

All veterans who registered for both terms of Summer School and have decided to attend only the first term, and drop out the second, are asked to check by 315 South Building and arrange to have their subsistence stopped for the second term.

The Veterans Advisor stresses that this applies only to veterans who registered for both terms and are not going to be here the second one.

Gras' proposes to encourage early suicide, but this particular conception of that gay city is just as pleasant as the journey."

Mrs. R. J. Wherry of the Wherry Dance studio has spent countless afternoons drilling a chorus line of tired, aching girls. They have spent the following moments in a state of collapse moaning, "This ballet is as hot as the theme of the show!" One of the discouraged amateurs was heard remarking during the course of a rehearsal, "Ballet dancers look like swans—I resemble a miniature elephant."

The curtain goes up on "Mardi Gras" tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. In the words of author Strader, "Come on down—we'll have a Hell of a time!"

Students and Faculty members attending the annual French House program in Chapel Hill are shown here on the steps of the house. Students are not allowed to speak anything but French while in the house. The annual program will end tomorrow.
