

Triple Threat Tailback Turns Into Judge Of Beauty Queens

(This column by Charlie Justice, Tar Heel football star turned beauty judge, is being reprinted by special permission of Smith Barrer, Sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News. Justice wrote it for the News while Smith was vacationing at the beach last week.)

By Charlie Justice

Wrightsville Beach, July 18.—For the first time in my life I'm beginning to understand how Gabe Hill felt after that Carolina Georgia Sugar Bowl game down in New Orleans. According to the newspapers and some 70-odd thousand fans who saw the game, Mr. Hill made but one glaring mistake.

Right now I feel that I've just finished making 25 serious errors. There were 26 of those North Carolina beauties, Smith, and there's no need to tell you that for you were there helping do the judging. And anyone of those 26 queens—well they rated "Miss North Carolina" in my estimation. But like the Jaycees told us, we could select but one and that we did. Beautiful wasn't she?

What a tough assignment that was, trying to select one out of that 26. Why, I'd rather try and carry a football through the Chicago Bears' line than have to go through it again. But just in case any of the Jaycees who invited me to help out this year might be reading this epistle I might add that I doubt that I'd turn down the opportunity to do it again next year.

Also I must admit that Miss North Carolina, while most attractive, still rates No. 2 with me. You've met No. 1, Smith. She's my wife, Sarah, a petite young lady with a twinkle in her eye, one who has contributed greatly to my success with the pigskin.

Let me talk about Sarah for a paragraph or two. All those newspaper clippings about the ability of the Tar Heels can have a funny effect on a young fellow like me. And when there are a lot of write-ups with comments about No. 22, I discover that my chest starts to swell just a little without my ever realizing it.

Sarah To The Rescue

This is where Sarah, bless her soul, comes to the rescue. She sees those things, and kinda puts me in my place, makes me realize that carrying a football for Carolina will not make a successful businessman. And then she usually points out that I'd better hit the books or there won't be anymore football.

It works from another angle. After those Texas and Wake Forest defeats last year, the student body and coaches and Tar Heel supporters got to feeling pretty low. Members of the football squad were even lower. They knew they had the makings of a great team, but something was missing.

That's when I needed Sarah most, and it was swell to go home at night and receive the assurance from her that everything would work out okay.

I could write you several columns about Sarah, but that would be just a little too personal for the readers of your fine column. But down here at Wrightsville I couldn't help but think about something that she has pointed out to me many, many times.

Selecting beauty queens and playing football is one and the same in the Justice family. You see down here we couldn't select but one queen, and she alone will receive all the pictures and headlines. But it wouldn't even have been a beauty contest if the other 25 girls hadn't put in their appearance.

It Takes Whole Team

The same holds true on a football field. The only criticism I've ever had of the fine sports writers of North Carolina is that they seem to forget those other 10 men on the Carolina eleven sometimes. And those other 10, well, they have to sweat and fight and scrap and block and tackle and run and pass and hustle—more often than not, a lot more than I do. The linesmen have to participate in every play while I carry the ball once or twice in a series of offensive plays.

I'm not trying to say that a tailback has it easy—no one does in this game of football—but I am saying that a lot of Carolina players take terrific punishment Saturday after Saturday without getting the Sunday morning headlines.

This will probably be my first and last opportunity at newspaper columning, so I'd like to forget beauty queens and talk a bit of football just a line or two more. Those second, third and fourth stringers at the Hill take as much punishment as any of the rest of us, and the fans—unless they are personal friends—never even know their jersey numbers. Our football team will never be any better than the third or fourth stringers. If they don't furnish us tough competition during those practice sessions, we can't go out on Saturday and hold our own against teams like Duke and Georgia and Texas.

It took more than poise and beauty for Miss Patty Osbourne to be named Miss North Carolina. It took a bit of luck. I'm happy that she had that good fortune for I know exactly how she feels. I've been lucky these past few years, lucky to have Sarah, lucky to be getting an education at Chapel Hill, lucky to have a man like Coach Snavely, plus his capable assistants, teaching me the million and one things I don't know about football.

And come to think of it, the time isn't far off before they'll be teaching me a few things once again. Now it's only 42 more days until the first practice session gets under way, and some 67 sunsets before the Texas skirmish. Which reminds me I'd better forget about beauty queens and turn the thoughts to football once again.

Tandy Is Signed To Football Post At Reynolds High

Winston-Salem—John Tandy, who starred for four years as an end in football with the University of North Carolina Tar Heels, yesterday was named new head gridiron coach at R. J. Reynolds high school.

The announcement of the appointment of Tandy to the post was made by John W. Moore, superintendent of city schools. He was recommended for the post by athletic leaders at Chapel Hill.

Tandy, a native of Westfield, N. J., played four years of outstanding football for the Tar Heels. He is 27 years of age, married and has two children. Tandy will assume his new duties when football practice is called at Reynolds high August 20.

After starring at Westfield high, Tandy entered Carolina in 1940 and played two years before entering the navy. He returned to Chapel Hill after the war and played as a regular end in 1946 and 1947. While in service, Tandy coached a service football team at Honolulu. He was a chief petty officer in the navy.

Tandy also was an outstanding track star at Carolina, running the middle distance for Coach Bob Fetzer's Southern conference team.

The new Reynolds coach played under three coaches while at Carolina. He starred for Ray Wolf's team, played under Jim Tatum, and for the last two years as a key man on Carl Snavely's powerful teams, playing both offensive and defensive end.

The Jersey flanker grabbed a pass to score the touchdown which gave Carolina a victory over the University of Georgia last year. He was considered an able running mate in the pass-catching department with tall Art Weiner.

Being graduated this spring, he is considered one of the keenest students of football at Carolina. His year of coaching in the navy gives him needed experience in this field.

He is also a Phi Beta Kappa. He weighs 175 pounds and is six feet tall.

He will succeed George Thompson who resigned several days ago to accept the athletic directorship at Edenton high. Thompson had agreed to terms to replace Hal Bradley, who coached Reynolds last year, but asked to be released to take the job at Edenton.

John Kirk, Appalachian State line star last fall, will assist Tandy in the coaching of the Black Demons.

US Entries at Work

London—America's Olympic forces, now settled on the scene, got down yesterday to the serious business of trying to reach peak form for the games just a week away.

The largest delegation yet to report, the United States' 341 athletes, representing seventeen different teams, are all safely quartered in the London area.

Ex-Princeton Star Eliminates Seixas In Straight Sets

Philadelphia, July 21—Unseeded Bill Vogt pulled an upset today by eliminating defending champion Victor Seixas, Jr., in a third round match in the 49th Pennsylvania men's tennis championship.

The six-foot, four-inch Princeton university graduate beat the former University of North Carolina tennis captain in straight sets, 9-7, 6-4. The top-seeded Seixas had won the title the past two years.

Second-seeded Tom Brown, of San Francisco, moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 8-6 victory over Andy Paton of the University of Michigan. Third-seeded Harry Likas, Jr., also of San Francisco, joined him with a 6-3, 6-3 decision over Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J.

It marked the fourth time this summer that the tall 25-year-old Southern Conference singles champion has been dumped from the tournament ranks by the upset route. At times he has flashed some excellent form but in losing it has always been a case of his conqueror displaying the better game.

Others advancing were:

Herbert Behrens, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who beat Clarence Carter, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2; Sam Match, Los Angeles, 6-4, 7-5 winner over Frank X. Shields,

Former Duke Star Victor Over Ward

Charlotte, July 17—Jimmy McNair of Aiken, S. C. today annexed his second Carolina's amateur golf championship by scoring a decisive 6 and 5 victory over Keely Grice, Jr., of Charlotte.

Playing with rapid assurance under a sizzling sun, the Duke star played a steady par golf most of the way while Grice was battling with bogeys.

Yesterday the South Carolinian eliminated North and South amateur champion, Harvie Ward of Tarboro and the University of North Carolina, 4 and 3 in one of the semi-final round tussles. Grice duplicated the score in defeating Erwin Laxton of Charlotte in the other match.

McNair experienced a little trouble with his putting but was consistently deadly with his irons. Grice completely lost the sure touch displayed in earlier rounds.

It marked the second time McNair was crowned the Carolina's amateur champ. He also copped the title at Winston-Salem in 1946. Studies at Duke, from which he graduated last month, kept him out of last year's play which was won by Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown.

Patton lost in an early round tilt this year.

Chapel Hill Juniors In Area One Victory

The American Legion Juniors of Chapel Hill continued their mastery over Wake Forest here Wednesday, punching out a 6 to 3 victory over the visitors, thanks to the one-hit relief pitching of Louis McBryde for six innings.

Wake Forest caught on to Chapel Hill starter Billy May in the third inning for three runs to take the lead. However, Wake Forest ace Billy Hawks was sent to the showers in the fifth when the hometown boys dished up an even more thunderous uprising to score four times.

From there on, Chapel Hill coasted in behind the brilliant chunking of McBryde who has posted two wins in his last three starts.

A smashing two-run homer by shortstop Bobby Steward in the eighth inning accounted for the locals' final runs.

It was the third victory for Chapel Hill in five starts in the second round of Area One play. Wake Forest has won two games and lost three, while Wilson con-

Mural Schedule Set For Second Session; Play Begins Aug. 2

Intramural activities for the second summer session in five different events are scheduled to get under way Thursday, July 29. The five events scheduled for the second session include softball, tennis, horseshoes, archery, and bait casting.

Entries for the different events can be made at 311 Woolen gymnasium or by calling F-3321. Entry dates for the events are: softball, July 23 to July 29; tennis, July 23 to July 31; horseshoes, July 23 to August 3; archery, July 27 through the tournament; bait casting, August 3 through the contest.

Play is scheduled to start on Monday, August 2, in softball and archery. Tennis will get under way the following day, Tuesday, August 3. Horseshoes will open Thursday, August 5, and bait casting will not begin until Wednesday, August 11.

A meeting of all softball team managers has been called for Tuesday, July 27, at 7:30 in room 302 Woolen. The intramural department is anxious that all those interested in softball attend this meeting. All phases of second session activities will be discussed as will ground rules and procedures followed in softball play. Team entries can be made at this meeting.

There will also be a short meeting of all softball umpires on Wednesday, July 28, at 5 o'clock in room 302 Woolen gymnasium.

All persons connected with the University in the capacity of student, faculty, or administration in any way are eligible for second summer session intramural activities.

Play in all events will be

Pros in Penn.

Reading, Pa.—Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum brought their duel for golf's money winning honors down to the Berkshire Country Club's long fairways and well trapped greens yesterday in the first round of the $15,000 Reading Open tournament.

Nearly 150 other top-ranking pros and amateurs also have entered the four-day tourney but Hogan, U. S. Open and PGA titlist, and the long-hitting Mangrum are favored.

The field numbers just about every name golfer in the country with all of the sport's ten leading money winners matching drives, chips and putts in the same tournament for the first time this year.

Scheduled four days each week from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock, Monday through Thursday. Schedules will be posted in the intramural office, and will be sent out to all intramural managers. Pertinent notices will be placed on the main intramural bulletin board located on the walk between Woolen gymnasium and the Tin Can. Notices also will be placed on smaller intramural bulletin boards at both Scuttlebutts.

Plans for the bait casting and archery events have not as yet been completed, but all interested persons are asked to contact the intramural office to discuss these events. Plans call for accepting entries in the archery and bait casting events during the holding of the contests.
