Tar Heels Tangle With Texas In Kenan Today

Probably No Saturday Classes Until Fall Of 1949--House

May Start Extra Day Next Year

An official statement concerning the long-rumored Saturday classes was released by Chancellor Robert House yesterday. The statement disclosed that there is little chance of Saturday classes being instituted here in the 1948-49 academic year but that a five and one-half class week is almost a certainty for next September.

Desperate need for classroom space, which would be increased under a semester system, may be the determining factor in the final decision, the statement indicated.

At present the University is studying the situation and will make a report to the mid-winter meeting of the board of trustees.

Complete text of House's statement follows:
"At the June meeting of the Board of Trustees a resolution was passed that the Administration set in motion immediately a plan looking toward the resumption of Saturday classes as early as practicable.

"The academic deans of the University began immediately to study the question and to call faculty and students in to consultation. Sentiment and opinion here overwhelmingly favored the 5-day week. Moreover, the question arose whether the trustees had issued a mandate to students and faculty to resume Saturday classes.

"Mr. William Horner, the mover of the resolution, was consulted on this question. He stated that he had no intention of moving a mandatory resolution. What he wanted, he stated, was recognition by students and faculty of the fact that the 5-day week plan was in question in the Board of Trustees, and a serious study and plan to be initiated by the students and faculty to resume the 5 1/2 day plan.

"At the meeting of the Executive committee of the Board of Trustees on September 17, President Graham reported that the studies were going forward and would be a matter of faculty business in the fall quarter. In discussion of the report the sentiment of the board for resumption of Saturday classes was emphasized. At the same time it (See CLASSES, Page 4)

Cheering Students Stage First Rally For Snavelly, Team

By Herb Nachman

Carolina spirit flamed through Memorial hall last night and followed more than 4,000 cheering students to Fetzer Field where Carl Snavelly and his mighty eleven told them what they wanted to know.

It came from Charlie Justice who said to a hushed crowd, "I haven't got a prepared speech, but tomorrow afternoon you're going to see this football team up here, go out and beat Texas!"

A short talk by Coach Snavelly, Joe Romano, Hosea Rodgers and others put the finishing touches to a pep rally that shook Memorial hall to the rafters and brought students to sit in windows and bulge out through the doors of the over-crowded auditorium.

Head Cheerleader Norm Sper rallied the thousands from the first yell and kept spirits high for over an hour and a half with cheers and songs, old and new.

The program in Memorial hall included the appearance of Norman Cordon Metropolitan Opera star, who led the singing of "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," and "Hark the Sound."

Vic Huggins, who led the University's cheering section in 1925, brought the entire student body to its feet with a yell in tribute to Sper, Frank Matthews, music student, introduced a new fight song to the crowd.

The highlight of the entertainment program was the Sigma Chi sextette in their singing of "Tradition" with words by Hank Beebe.

Sper introduced a new yell to the students called "Yackety Yack" which he said had been worked out for the squad by Kay Kyser. Sper described the cheer as a "talking yell."

The University band provided background for all the cheers and songs which rocked the auditorium. Earl Slocum directed the band in a novelty number entitled "The Swing Blues."

Familiar sounds of "Carolina," "Blue and White," "Let's Go Carolina," "We Want Snavelly!" and "Here Comes Caroliniana" rounded out the program that makes any pep rally a success.

Grail Dance Scheduled In Gymnasium Tonight

By Charlie Gibson

Most important of the organized post-Texas game celebrations on campus tonight will have Woollen gymnasium invaded by Tar Heels tapping their heels from 9 o'clock till midnight to music by Roy Cole and his 15-piece orchestra.

The initial Grail dance of the '48-49 school year will be a semi-formal affair, all men being required to wear coats and ties. Admission will be open to the student body at large.

Tickets were on sale in the court yesterday and will be sold again tonight at the door for $1 each to couples and stags alike. Proceeds will be added to a scholarship fund with which the Order of the Grail, honorary service organization of annually chosen student leaders, assists needy University enrollees in financing their education here.

Cole has the oldest of the campus orchestras now in operation. Original arrangements of the latest in popular music has won the Cole clan a wide following due to appearances on various college campuses and at beach nightclubs throughout the Carolinas and Virginia.

Nationally known "name bands" to appear here for Friday and Saturday night dances and afternoon concerts are yet to be announced.

Highway Patrol Expects Crowd Of 50,000 Here

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 24—(UP)—Football fans who don't want to be late for one of the major games tomorrow were advised by the State Highway Patrol today to remain a discreet distance behind the car ahead.

Patrol officials said they expected a crowd of 50,000 at Chapel Hill for the North Carolina-Texas game and an additional 20,000 at Raleigh for the Duke-North Carolina State conference tilt.

Patrol Commander H. J. Hatcher said 90 highway patrolmen will be on hand to direct traffic at Chapel Hill. He said there would be oneway traffic east and west of Chapel Hill before and after the game.

Thirty patrolmen were scheduled to direct traffic at Raleigh.

Hatcher said intricate parking plans had been worked out for crowds going to both games. He said if the fans would cooperate there would be few if any traffic jams after the games.

Cost of Living Rising Steadily

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(UP)—The government reported a new high in the cost of living today while farmers rushed to protect themselves against an expected drop in grain prices.

The Labor department said the cost of living last month hit 74.5 per cent over the 1935-1939 average. Food costs fell one-tenth of one per cent, but other items in the home budget, including rent, rose.

The Agriculture department said that farmers are asking for government price support loans in what is growing into a record rush. There are bumper crops again this year after a long stretch of rich harvests, experts said, and farmers are recalling the depression after World War I.

Draft Violator Is Given Chance To Think it Over

NEW YORK, Sept. 24—(UP)—An 18-year-old draft violator was chided by a judge today and told he was "too young to have ideas."

Stuart Perloff, New York's first violator of the peacetime draft, was given a week to reconsider his stand as a conscientious objector. He failed to register last Saturday and surrendered to the FBI.

"He's too young to have ideas—He's only a baby," said judge Edward A. Conger. He added that "Those men going away are babies too."

"It's not up to you and me to make up our minds as to what we would do," Conger said. "The country may be in peril. I do not think I would be too proud if my boy had the same idea."

Assistant U. S. Atty. William Koerner said he would delay seeking an indictment because he wanted Perloff to think over the seriousness of draft evasion.

Five Students Escape Injury In Two-Automobile Collision

Two Sigma Chi's and three freshmen quonset hutters narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when their two automobiles collided on the Booker Creek bridge about two miles east of Chapel Hill on highway 15.

The automobiles were a 1948 maroon Chrysler club-coupe driven by University freshman John Bond of Los Angeles, Cal., and a 1939 green Dodge sedan driven by Carol Fisher of Greenville, N. C.

Here's how the wreck occurred: Fisher was coming toward the bridge heading east. Bond was on the bridge coming in the opposite direction. Fisher said, "When I saw the other car on the bridge, I swerved to give him more room, I was caught by the soft shoulders and the car went out of control."

Bond said that when he saw Fisher begin skidding he also swerved to get out of his way and they collided about 25 feet past the bridge. Bond then went over the 20-foot embankment on his side of the road and almost overturned. Fisher's vehicle continued to skid until it came to a halt just past the bridge. Fisher said he was thrown clear of the car when he was on the bridge but was uninjured.

The two drivers agreed that the wreck was unavoidable and both breathed a sigh of relief when they found no one was (See WRECK, Page 4)

Card Schedule Lists 13 Stunts In Game Today

Today is C-day. For this afternoon during halftime at Kenan stadium, the long-awaited Carolina color cards will be unveiled to northside spectators and neck cranes on the southside too.

Thirteen stunts will be used and the animated activity will get underway right at halftime with the University band slated to play a strong supporting role.

Forming the pictures is easy, according to Cheerleader Norm Sper, and none of the participants has a thing to worry about—except the fact that they can't see the spectacle.

Although only two sections of students will take part in the performance, Sper has asked that everyone sitting in student seats wear either white or a light color.

Rules for forming the pictures are:

1. No one in the card section may leave the stands at halftime.
2. Everyone should check his seat and row numbers with the seat and row numbers on his instruction card.
3. Each person must have four color cards and an individual instruction card.
4. Everyone should follow the instructions on his own card and not worry about what those near him are doing.
5. Everyone must follow the leader.

Truman Restored To Ballot in La.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 24.—(UP)—The House of Representatives unanimously agreed today that President Truman's name should be restored to the November ballot in Louisiana but it specifically forbade that he be called any variety of Democrat.

The House passed, 89 to 0, in five minutes a bill that would permit President Truman's name to be put back on the ballot if 100 voters sign a petition. The bill was sent on to the Senate, where final passage was expected Sunday night.

The bill said the president could not have his name under the picture of the roster that is the traditional Democratic party symbol in Louisiana. Nor can electors for Mr. Truman and Sen. Alben W. Barkley, his running mate, be listed under a party name "Similar to that of the Democratic party."

Legislators who wrote this provision said it was specifically designed to keep Mr. Truman's electors from calling themselves crats. They said Truman-Barkley electors could not refer to themselves as Democrats in any fashion.

Progressive Party Ballot Petition Blocked by Illinois Supreme Court

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—(UP)—The Progressive party was rebuffed by the Illinois Supreme court today in one attempt to get on the state ballot, while it launched another try in Federal District court.

At Springfield, the high court denied a petition for permission to file a mandamus action to put Henry A. Wallace and Glen Taylor on the ballot.

Texas Rated Slight Edge Over Locals

By Dick Jenrette

Twelve months of waiting comes to an end for Carolina's grid Tar Heels at 2:30 today, but whether they get revenge for last season's 34-0 shellacking administered by the Texas Longhorns remains to be seen.

The experts pick the Longhorns by a single touchdown, but the 42,000 fans expected for the game won't be satisfied with anything less than a Carolina victory.

Both teams are primed for the game and in good physical condition. One Texas player, center Dick Harris, probably will miss out on the action because of a bad knee, but the Longhorns have a capable replacement in Dick Rowan. Harris, an All-American prospect, is particularly adept on defense. Rowan appears his equal on defense however.

Largely responsible for Texas' pre-game rating as favorite is the 33-0 triumph the Longhorns recorded over LSU last week. Coach Blair Cherry's boys gave convincing evidence that this current Texas team is on a par with last year's outfit.

Moreover, today's encounter will be the first test of the season for Carolina. Although Coach Carl Snavelly has an ample supply of veterans from last year's outfit, the team can't be expected to function with the finesse which the 1947 eleven exhibited near the close of the season.

Yet no one is mourning in the Tar Heel camp, unless it is Coach Snavelly, who possesses the typical coaches' pessimism. Pre-season predictions have the Tar Heels rated as high as third in the nation—ahead of Texas—and no worse than ninth in any selection. Charlie Justice heads a talented contingent of 34 lettermen who romped through their last seven opponents in '47.

Carolina is considered a match for the Longhorns on power plays through the line, but can't equal the Texans' speed. In Byron Gillory, Billy Pyle, and Perry Samuels the Longhorns have three of the fastest backs in collegiate football. Both teams have good kickers. Carolina's Justice has an established reputation and Texas' Frank Guess can boot with the best.

Pole Asks Refuge From Police State

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(UP)—The Polish military attaché who broke with the Communist-dominated government yesterday probably will get sanctuary in the United States for himself and his family as soon as he asks for it, diplomatic sources said today.

These informants said the attaché, Lt. Gen. Izydor Mobeiski, has not notified the State department officially that he is severing his connections with the Warsaw government.

The department had no comment but it was recalled that President Truman and Secretary
