J. Strom Thurmond Will Speak Here Tuesday

House Says Scalping Will Not Be Tolerated

By Lincoln Kan
Saturday's booming ticket black market "is a clear violation of the University Honor Code and will not be tolerated," said Chancellor R. B. House yesterday. House asked for the cooperation of all students in future games here to correct the situation. The chancellor said he was sure Student Body President Jess Dedmond would do everything in his power to break the case. "It must be left up to the students and their representatives to get down to the truth," House added. Dedmond called a meeting yesterday afternoon with University Attorney J. A. Williams and Assistant Dean of Students Bill Friday in an attempt to sift the information thus far available to the authorities and representatives of the student body. Coach Bob Fetzer, University athletic director, commented yesterday. "The whole affair is deplorable." When asked about the sale of student passbooks which were going for "not a cent under $100," Fetzer shrugged and said, "I don't see how people can be so foolish as to buy student passbooks which are non-transferable and which will be confiscated if presented by persons other than those to whom the book was issued." Fetzer continued, "If students sell their passbooks, they are grossly misusing the privileges extended to them as members of the Athletic Association. The passbook is really an identification of their status as a University student, and are issued to protect the students and insure

Changes Made In Library Staff

Prior to the beginning of the fall term several changes were made in the staff of the University Library, according to an announcement coming from the library offices yesterday. Taking over her duties on September 16, Mrs. Charles C. Hopkins will be available in the general college reading room where her principal duty will be a reader advisor service. Library officials stated yesterday that this service will be of much value to freshmen students. Mrs. Hopkins replaces Mrs. Elizabeth Huggins who will work in the reserve room. The new staff member is a graduate of the Western Reserve library school, and has served in three libraries, including the public library in Burlington since 1942. Her husband, a graduate of the University, is a member of the local District Health department. Miss Ann Clifford Wheeler of Gainesville, Ga., a graduate of the University of North Carolina and the University of Michigan, has taken over her duties in the reference department. She replaces Miss Catherine M. Heniford, who resigned to accept a position with Northwestern State College in La. Succeeding Mrs. Joseph W. Reid in the reserve room is Miss Shelah O'Connell. Mrs. Reid resigned to accompany her husband, a graduate of the University, who will become professor of political science in Mercer university, Macon, Ga.

Testudo?

Students at Mrs. Burke's rooming house on Rosemary street yesterday wondered whether the turtle they discovered under one of the beds might turn out to be Testudo the Terrapin, mascot of the University of Maryland which has been missing for several days. Their wonderment ceased when they were informed that the Maryland mascot is metal and so large it requires the brawn of four men to take it out to the gridiron. The newly-discovered terrapin at Mrs. Burke's residence is of the "live" species and little larger than vest-pocket size.

Marriage No Ban To GI Aspirants For Rhodes Award

Marriage will not be a ban to applicants for the Rhodes scholarship of 1948 under the War Service scholarship rulings, announced Dean of the General College C. P. Spruill, Jr., yesterday. He urged that all who wish to apply for the Rhodes scholarship should see him for an application blank and further information in room 308, South building, as soon as possible. The deadline is October 8. The two-year scholarship tenable at the University of Oxford ranges between 400 to 500 British pound sterling, which is approximately between $1,600 to $2,000 for the two years. To be eligible a candidate must be a citizen of the United States, be between 19 and 25 on October 1, 1949, unmarried, and have completed at least his sophomore year by the time of the application. The War Service scholarship is open to the ex-serviceman candidate who is a citizen of the United States (marriage no bar), between 19 and 34 on October 1, 1949, completed at least one year of war service either as a soldier or a participant in civilian.

Freshmen Meet

The second in a series of freshman assemblies will meet this morning at 11 o'clock in Memorial hall. This meeting, called activities day, will feature talks on forensics by Charlie Long; dramatics by Bob Coulter; political activities by Nat Williams; political parties by Ernie House; fraternities by Jack Thompson; publications by Ed Joyner; and honoraries by Dean Mackie. All freshmen will be introduced into various forms of activities and will be given an opportunity to meet representatives of these activities. They will also fill out interest indicator blanks in the lobby. Tables in the lobby will be manned by representatives of the various groups. These tables will be open until 5:30 Thursday afternoon. Any group who wishes to have a table in the lobby may do so.

Sprinkler System Causes Confusion

Chapel Hill was going to bed after a hard Monday when the sharp "Wah-Wah" of the fire alarm sounded. All the fire-goers turned out. But to their disappointment it didn't amount to much more than a false alarm. Someone, accidentally or purposely, set off the sprinkler system in Danziger's. The kitchen got quite a shower, and some of the water trickled into the Rathskeller below. Firemen quickly turned off the system and everyone went home happy except one of the Danziger cooks who was convinced that nothing else could have caused the disturbance except "vandalism."

First Aid Course Being Offered Now

The Chapel Hill chapter of the American Red Cross is offering a course in advanced first aid, to be taught by Professor E. A. Brecht of the School of Pharmacy, chairman of first aid and accident prevention. The first class will meet at 7 o'clock next Wednesday in room 309 Howell hall, the Pharmacy building. There will be six classes of two hours each, to be held on successive Wednesday evenings. To be eligible for this course, a student must have passed the standard course in first aid within the last 3 years. Dr. Brecht is offering this advanced course in preparation for the instructors' course, to be taught early in January by an instructor from Red Cross headquarters. At least ten pharmacy students will be taking the course, and it is hoped that other students, both men and women, will be glad of the opportunity to enroll.

Durham Sun To Be Manned By Students

In observance of National Newspaper week, which begins tomorrow, 35 Carolina journalism students will comprise the staff on next Tuesday's Durham Sun, afternoon paper of the Herald-Sun newspapers. Headed by DTH Editor Ed Joyner as editor, the group will man the news and sports staffs, advertising and administrative departments and composing room. They will work with regular staff members to put out a single issue of the paper. A similar arrangement was made last year in observance of Newspaper week, when the staff of the Durham high school paper, "Hi Rocket," worked for a day in the local offices. Arrangements were made this year by Dante Germino, business manager of the Herald-Sun papers, other members of the staff, and faculty of the journalism department, who met yesterday with the student newsmen to give preliminary instructions. In addition to Germino, Herald-Sun staff members C. H. Cooper, photographer, and E. T. Rollins, of the business department, were present at the meeting. Journalism faculty members Thomas J. Lassiter, Joseph L. Morrison, Walter Spearman, Lola Mustard, and O. J. Coffin, department.

Barkley Strikes At GOP Regarding Inflation Issue

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Democratic vice presidential nominee, today denounced the 80th Congress for its failure to curb inflation and challenged the GOP to repeal the Taft-Hartley law. An address to a luncheon audience of 750, the Kentucky senator chided Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Gov. Earl Warren for evading the issues of the campaign. "The constantly rising cost of living," he said, "affects every family, every housewife, and their budget. The cost of living has gone up unnecessarily and it could have been curbed had the Republican 80th Congress been willing. "If it continues it may undermine the economic stability of our country." Sen. Barkley stressed that in his recent European visit he found that satellite nations have slipped behind the "Iron Curtain" because economic insecurity paved the way for Communism. He accused Congress of failing to follow through on President Truman's requests to stop spiraling prices, enact legislation for housing and other benefits for the people.

Playmakers Plan Five Productions

By Mark Sumner
Five professionally written full-length plays are to be presented as the major productions of the Carolina Playmakers' thirty-first season, Samuel Selden, director, announced last night. Three new student-written full-length plays will be given premiere showings as experimental productions. The announcement of the policy change, a shift of emphasis from one-act to full-length form for experimental productions, was coupled with the opening of the annual season ticket sale this morning. Three bills of one-act original plays are also scheduled. John Van Druten's comedy, "I Remember Mama," will be the first major production of the new season. Lynn Gault, director, cast the play yesterday, and rehearsals will start Monday. "I Remember Mama" will be presented on October 20 through 23. The second major production will be Sheridan's "School for Scandal," which is scheduled for December 1 through 4. "School for Scandal" will be toured by a Playmaker road company for nine days, January 6-15, and will be the first play to be toured by the theater group since Paul Green's "House of Connelly" in 1941. Harry E. Davis will direct the production of "School for Scandal." The third major production (See PLAYS, page 2)

Declares South Gained Victory In Rail Decision

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Gov. J. Strom Thurmond today said the federal court decision to uphold race segregation in railroad dining cars was "a victory for the South. To preserve our segregation laws, which we know are best for both races." The Federal Court at Baltimore held that racial segregation in interstate travel did not violate the constitution. "If the Supreme Court upholds this decision," Thurmond said, "I firmly believe that we will have turned the threat against these Communist and undemocratic attempts to tear down our segregation laws in the South." On another subject, Thurmond said he regrets that President Truman didn't accept an invitation to speak in South Carolina. The President's aides informed national party leaders here yesterday that the president could not stop here en route to Miami and make a requested talk. "I had hoped that he would come to our state and explain to our people why he saw fit to betray the principles of Jefferson and abandon the historic position of the Democrat party on states' rights by sending his so-called civil rights message to Congress," the Dixiecrat presidential candidate said.

Forum Will Sponsor Dixiecrat Candidate

By Sam McKeel
J. Strom Thurmond, governor of South Carolina and Dixiecrat candidate for the presidency of the United States will speak in Hill hall Tuesday night at 7 o'clock, the Carolina Forum announced yesterday. Herb Mitchell, forum publicity director, said Thurmond would be co-sponsored by the forum and the Carolina Political Union. Thurmond, a veteran of World War II, will speak here during his whirlwind tour of this state. Former lawyer, farmer, and school teacher, he was elected governor of South Carolina in 1946 over ten opponents. Nominated as candidate for president of the United States by the state Democratic parties of Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina on Aug. 11 he accepted the nomination the same day. Gov. Thurmond graduated from Clemson college in 1923 with a B.S. degree. He served as state senator from Edgefield county from 1933 to 1938. On November 7, 1947 he married his former secretary, Miss Jean Crouch. His appearance will mark the first in a series of speeches to be sponsored by the Carolina Forum. Thurmond will speak in Durham at 5:30, Chapel Hill at 7 o'clock, and Raleigh at 8 o'clock.

GOV. STROM THURMOND

Selective Service Announces 8,584,963 Have Registered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Selective Service said today 8,584,963 men 18 through 25 years have registered for the peacetime draft. It said about one of every four appears eligible for military service. The final registration figures covered all 48 states and the U. S. territories. In the states, 8,398,713 young men registered. The territories signed up 186,250 for possible military service. Single, non-veteran, non-fathers 18 through 25 totaled only 2,147,813. Of these, 2,048,626 were registered in the United States and 99,187 in the territories. It is from this group that the Army will call about 250,000 men in the next 12 months to swell its forces to 790,000 men. But even in this group many will be deferred under regulations laid down by President Truman. The Army wants 10,000 men drafted during November, and 15,000 in December. Thereafter it will try to bring in about 25,000 a month until the quota has been filled. The Navy and Air Force have no present plans to take draftees. As Smith puts it: "The Democrats of the District of Columbia, who have no vote, wish to take this occasion to cast a vote of confidence in their candidate, President Harry Truman."

Discrimination Ruled By Court

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 29.—(UP)—Atlanta school officials today faced a federal court ruling that Negro teachers should not be discriminated against in pay. Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood handed down the decision in a case begun five years ago by Samuel L. Davis, a Negro teacher. Underwood said he did not take it upon himself to fix salaries, but held that "salaries may not be discriminatory of color of race." His decision said a study of pay scales revealed "a great differential between the pay of white and Negro teachers in favor of the former." One example listed was a median pay of $348 per month and a mean salary of $340 for White high school principals. Negro principals had $240 as both mean and median, Underwood said. Underwood said he would allow a reasonable time for the city school board to comply, and board sources indicated that an appeal would be taken.

D. C. Democrats To Greet Truman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(UP)—Voteless Democrats in the nation's capital are planning to give President Truman a whopping big celebration when he returns Saturday from his western "Give 'Em Hell" tour. Arthur Clarendon Smith, chairman of the District of Columbia Truman-Barkley club, said it would be the "largest demonstration" the president has ever received in the capital. Government officials and employees, along with representatives of various independent organizations, will gather at Union station for a "Welcome Home, Harry" when Mr. Truman's special train pulls in. The reception committee has arranged a motorcade procession from the station to the White House.
