Emerson Scuttlebutt Razed As Negotiations Prepared

600 Students Sign Petitions To Reopen Shop

By Gordon Huffines

The Armory store "Scuttlebutt" was torn down by a wrecking crew yesterday as student-signed petitions poured into the Student Government office requesting the University administration to reopen the store, which has been closed since the beginning of the fall quarter.

Student government officials said the order to tear down the building, which is located near Emerson stadium, was given by University Controller William D. Carmichael, Jr. The building has served as a refreshment center for students on the east campus since it was turned over to the University by the Navy Pre-Flight school.

A delegation of student leaders had an appointment to see Carmichael yesterday afternoon, but were told that he was out of town for the afternoon.

President of the Student Body Jess Dedmond protested the issue to Assistant Controller C. E. Teague yesterday afternoon presenting petitions signed by approximately 600 students requesting the reopening of the store.

At that time Teague issued a statement prepared by the administration. According to the statement the administration had planned to replace the Armory store with a permanent structure as soon as it was possible. "After thorough consideration, it was felt that the best location for permanent, sanitary, and healthful refreshment facilities for the expanding east campus would be in the area of the Monogram club building. At that time the Monogram club very graciously consented to permit the club to be opened as a recreation facility for the entire student body, particularly serving the east campus, and work was immediately begun to build quarters which we believe are as handsome and healthful as are to be found in any university in America," the statement read.

Protesting to Teague, Dedmond and Worsham maintained that the facilities of the Monogram club were inadequate to handle the increased number of students on that section of the campus. In his protest Dedmond stressed two points: (1) That the administration was not considering the welfare of the students, and (2) Student sentiment was not consulted before the building was removed.

Commenting on the situation earlier in the afternoon, Dedmond said, "I can think of no good reason why the Scuttlebutt should have been closed. It is my belief that the University administration and student government are here in the interest of student welfare and I do not believe that this action is in accord with this principle."

Dedmond also stated that he had conferred this summer with Carmichael on the matter and had been told that the Armory store would remain closed on a three month trial basis to see if the Monogram club could furnish adequate facilities.

The foreman of the wrecking crew said that the building would be completely removed by last night. According to the University Buildings office the materials salvaged from the store are being removed to 603 Park Place drive.

House to Speak

Chancellor Robert B. House will be the speaker at this morning's freshman assembly at 11 o'clock in Memorial hall, fourth in the series of programs designed to increase unity and campus spirit in new students. Chancellor House's subject will be "Your Responsibility to Your Own Mind."

Final Plans Are Laid For University Day

By Lincoln Kan

Final plans were made yesterday for the University day celebration on Oct. 12 at a luncheon meeting at the Carolina Inn.

Spike Saunders and Norm Sper announced that the entire service will be held in the area in front of the South building.

A MEMBER of Marshal Vasily Sokolovsky's policy committee in Berlin, Herlin R. Schdarnov is reputed to be the man the Russians selected to drive the Western Powers from Berlin. Schdarnov is held to be the person who engineered the Berlin blockade.

AP Bureau Head Delivers Speech To Rotary Club

Relman Morin, chief of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press, last night told a meeting of the Chapel Hill Rotary club that "the Russians don't want war, they want the fruits of war."

Morin was invited to be guest speaker of the club in observance of National Newspaper week. He has served with the AP in Los Angeles, New York, London, Algiers, Tokyo, Cairo, New Delhi, Italy and France.

"I don't believe anyone will deliberately start a war between the United States and Russia," Morin said. "However, the explosives are there, and there are matches lying carelessly around. But if a war begins, I believe it will be by accident."

Morin said there were two reasons for the Russian blockade of Berlin. He said one was to gain control of Berlin, the "psychological capital of Germany," and the other was retaliation against American policy in the Western sector of Germany.

On the United Nations, Morin said, "We have come to a period of diplomatic bankruptcy. They have reached the bottom of the barrel."

Mardi Gras Back on Campus as S & F Holds Tryouts, Completes Show Cast

Mardi Gras will come a little early this year. All the romance, gaiety, and music which symbolizes the famous New Orleans festival are contained in Pete Strader's musical comedy, "Mardi Gras," which will be presented by Sound and Fury Nov. 4 and 5.

Members of the chorus and dancers have not yet been announced. There are still some openings in the S and F orchestra and anyone interested in playing in the orchestra is asked to come by Memorial hall any night this week between 7 and 9 o'clock.

Anita Gates is cast as the heroine, Meg de Tourville, and Bob Thomas as the hero, Beau St. Charles. Other members of the cast include: Gladys Levenson as Zenobia; Fred Young as Charon; George Grizzard as Art; Bonnie Davis as Maggie; Alice Ferebee as Cora; Nancy Norton as Millie; Jim Hämmerstein as the Judge; and George Stephens as Art Jr.

HPB Rules Are Signed By Officials

The office of the dean of students, headed by Fred Weaver, and the office of the dean of women, Katherine Carmichael, yesterday approved the House Privileges board visiting agreement, and said it would be available for distribution to fraternities today, according to Jack Thompson, president of the Interfraternity council.

If the agreement is acceptable to the fraternities, it will go into effect tomorrow at noon.

The IFC has asked coed house presidents to familiarize coeds with the terms, and fraternity presidents are to present the agreement to members during chapter meetings. If the agreement is approved by the fraternities, the presidents will sign it and return it to Dean Weaver.

Last week the House Privileges board met and drew up the visiting agreement, which is identical with the one drawn up and passed last year.

At the regular meeting of the IFC last Monday, the members selected seven from their group to serve on the IFC court. Those elected include Andy Cornish, chairman; Allison Pell, Tommy Jordan, Marshall Roberts, Bill Wilson, Charlie Loudermilk, and Jack Brantley.

The newly elected IFC court met Tuesday night and tried the Kappa Sigma fraternity for violation of last summer's visiting agreement. The fraternity was found guilty by the board, and it forfeited the $50 visiting bond, and was put on an indefinite suspension of visiting privileges.

Special Session Of Legion Post Called Tonight

There will be a special executive session meeting of the Chapel Hill American Legion post No. 6 tonight at 7:30. Paul H. Robertson, legion member, announced yesterday.

Although this is an executive session meeting, Robertson urged all Legion members to be present. The calendar, for use of the hut during the fall and winter, will be worked out at this time.

All veterans, whether members of other veterans organizations or not, are invited to drop into the Legion hut on Rosemary street at any time during any meeting.

Draft Offices Are Open on Thursdays

Students who reach their 18th birthday today or within one week of today can register for selective service in 208 South building.

The office will be open each Thursday from 9 o'clock until 4:30.

Radio, Not Brain Reception Comes Over 'Eeg' Machine

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 6—(UP)—Jefferson-Hillman hospital's "brain waves" had patients and personnel in a dither today. Incidentally, the World Series broadcast was coming in without benefit of radio sets.

It all started when a technician fitted a special machine on a mental patient to measure his brain impulse. But instead of a brain impulse, the startled technician heard a distinct "Ball one, strike one."

While he looked around for a hidden radio, the program changed from the ball game to lively jive. That was a week ago and ever since the hospital experts have been trying to tune out the radio programs coming in on their brain-wave machine, known technically as the electroencephalograph, or just "eeg."

The machine has no amplification gadgets but the reception apparently comes in via extremely sensitive needles. These needles are supposed to register

Drawings Begun

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 6—(UP)—A firm of Winston-Salem architects today began working drawings for the new $5,000,000 four-year medical school at the University of North Carolina.

Preliminary building plans were approved by the University Building committee.

The local firm of Northrup and O'Brien said the new 400-bed seven-story hospital would be built east of the present infirmary on the campus at Chapel Hill and would incorporate the infirmary and the present Medical school.

The 1947 General Assembly authorized construction of the new building and expansion of the medical school from a two to a four-year course.

Fruchtman Slated To Play Sunday At Hill Concert

Efrim Fruchtman, violoncellist, accompanied by Jeanne Fornoff at the piano, will present a recital in Hill hall Sunday afternoon at 4:30. Seven variations on a theme from Mozart's "Magic Flute" by Beethoven, a Debussy sonata, and Suite No. V in C Minor by Bach are among the selections to be played.

Fruchtman, a Juilliard School of Music graduate, has joined the University Music department as an assistant instructor in music, a graduate assistant, and an instructor in cello. He has also attended the University of Florida and Teachers College of Columbia University.

At the University of Florida, Fruchtman was assistant to the director of the band and orchestra and appeared as soloist with orchestra. He performed with chamber music groups in and around New York.

Town Men's Group Sets Meeting Today

The Town Men's association will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial, John Van Hecke, president, announced yesterday.

All members who have joined during the past three days are especially invited to attend the meeting.

Van Hecke also announced that the membership drive which has been in progress since Monday will be extended through today. A table will be set up in the Y for the convenience of any town men who wish to join.

Fiction Group To Meet Tonight

The Carolina Science Fiction association will meet tonight at 9:30 in Roland Parker lounge 3, Graham Memorial.

NSA, Summer Session Work Will Be Reported Tonight

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE Harry Truman (arrow) is welcomed on his return to Washington, D. C., by a large crowd with a sign spelling out "Our Man." Truman had just returned from a trans-continental speaking tour.

Student Solons To Hear Rodman, Lowenstein Talk

A report on summer action of the Student Legislature, one on the National Student association convention, and the filling of several vacancies will occupy the time of the first fall meeting of the Legislature this evening at 7:15 in Di hall, New West building.

George Rodman, presiding officer during the summer, will present the report of summer activities. During the first term two bills were passed, the first an appropriation of $40 for registration fees for University delegates to the National Student association, and the second establishing an order of ascendancy to the temporary duties of president.

The only bill passed in the second term was a resolution petitioning the administration to rescind an order banishing dogs from the campus.

Al Lowenstein, one of three University delegates to the NSA convention at Madison, Wis., will present a report of the meetings, at which there were nearly 800 representatives from schools throughout the country.

Several vacancies in the legislature will also be filled at tonight's meeting. Two names already submitted, which will have to be approved, are Monroe Landreth, to replace Ben Kistler, and J. W. Anderson, to replace Bill Jernigan.

Housing Office Names New List

The names of 25 students have been released from the housing office as eligible for dormitory rooms. They must contact the office by Saturday for assignments. Those who do not contact the office by that date will have their deposits refunded, for it will be assumed that they are not interested in obtaining dorm rooms.

Quarterly Staff Will Meet Today

The entire staff of the Carolina Quarterly will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 3 of Graham Memorial, according to Editor Bill Sessions.

The subscription drive, manuscripts, and progress of the magazine thus far will occupy discussion. It is urgent that all staff members attend, and that they bring in their subscription books.

Chow Line

The cafeteria on the Wake Forest campus will open Saturday morning at about 10:30, according to Manager E. T. Cummings, in order that University students going over early to avoid traffic may eat lunch before the game.

The staff estimated that they can take care of about 2,000 people. They will remain open as long as seems necessary before the game, and open for supper immediately after the game.

At Least Eight Dead In Bomber Wreckage

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 6—(UP)—A B-29 bomber exploded over Waycross today and at least eight of its occupants perished but "three or four" others miraculously survived by pulling their parachute ripcords as they were blown into space.

The big superfortress was believed on a secret experiment flight, possibly involving cosmic ray research, when it met disaster high in the clear blue air over this south Georgia city.

Thirteen men, some of them believed civilians, were reported aboard the plane when it left the Warner-Robins test base near Macon, Ga., an hour earlier.

The disintegrating bomber crashed in smoking fragments covering 20 acres of marshland on the edge of the Great Okefenokee swamp.

With a roar like a clap of thunder, the blast ripped the big bomber as it cruised at 8,000 to 10,000 over the heart of Waycross, eyewitnesses reported.

There was one report that the B-29 trailed a plume of black smoke just before the blast.

The B-29 fluttered down and began falling apart, witnesses said, but the momentum carried the larger pieces of the wreckage beyond the city.

"It fell to pieces," said A. C. Harvey, Jr., a filling station operator who served with the air force in the war. "It was about 8,000 to 10,000 feet in the air. I saw at least one parachute, but the plane was falling in so many pieces that there may have been more."

John Pobola, manager of radio station WAYX, said he ran out and "saw pieces of metal flying about high in the air. The explosion left a long vapor trail."

All parents who need the service for their children are urged to be present at a meeting this evening at 7:30 in the student lounge of the Baptist church.

Charles Eaton Will Speak at Meeting Of Chi Delta Phi Literary Sorority

Charles Eaton of the English department will be guest speaker at the first open meeting of Chi Delta Phi, Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial, President Sally Woodhull said yesterday.

Planned especially for girls interested in joining the group, a national literary sorority, the meeting will be devoted to a discussion of the opportunities for young writers on the campus and in national fields. All coeds interested in writing are invited, whether or not they plan to join this year.

Members of the sorority are chosen on the basis of their writ-

Brazen Pillars Slate Meeting

The regular meeting of the Brazen Pillars will be held in Phi hall tonight at 7:30. All student masons are cordially invited.
