Unclad Coeds Are Awakened By Pranksters

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 4.—(UP)—Male students invaded a girl's dormitory at the University of Manitoba on Halloween, dumped the girls, some sleeping in the nude, onto the floor and covered them with soap flakes, mud and feathers, it was revealed today.

Dr. A. H. Gillson, university president, said today it was just a "student prank" and there was no truth to reports of a mass expulsion of the boys involved.

"It may have gone a touch too far in the matter of good taste," he said. "But it was a thing performed without malice or forethought."

The Manitoban, university newspaper, said the raiders discovered a number of co-eds sleeping "sans everything."

The raid was described as an annual halloween stunt. About 80 young men, hiding their faces in masks, participated.

A decoy lured the night watchman from his post while the other members of the raiding party crept into the dormitory. They took up strategic positions near the beds of the sleeping girls and then began dumping them when one of the "raiders" whistled the signal.

One coed confirmed that two girls near her were sleeping "raw."

"But it all happened so quickly I'm sure the boys didn't even notice," she said.

Dr. Arnold Nash Delivers Address Before Assembly

Dr. Arnold Nash, head of the department of religion of the University, spoke to the freshman class during assembly yesterday. President Jess Desmond announced that freshmen nominations will take place at the Tuesday assembly.

Dr. Nash, using numerous illustrations during his address, told the students, "If you wish to grow in religion, associate yourself with one or more of the religious groups in Chapel Hill."

He said the purposes of the department of religion are to give students a study of Christian religion with other phases of life.

"We have to make a decision as to what we are going to serve," he said, adding that there must be an ultimate goal behind that decision. A decision in religious activities on campus must also be made, he said.

Dean Fred Weaver introduced Dr. Nash.

Hot Time

STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 4.—(UP)—Students at Mississippi State college today were still joking about their donkey barn burning and trying to figure out if there was any significance that it occurred about the time it was announced that President Truman had surged ahead.

Fire broke out in the large wooden frame campus mule barn at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when tabulations showed Truman forging ahead. However, college officials said there is no suspicion of arson.

Flames destroyed the barn and stored equipment valued at $60,000 before the fire department arrived.

Williams Indicted By Student Party

By Bill Buchan

The Student Party will prosecute Thurman Williams, chairman of the Student Legislature Rules committee before the Student council for negligence of duty in his committee, Gran Childress, party spokesman, said yesterday.

Williams replied to the charges immediately, accusing the SP of mudslinging and of lowering the dignity of the councils. He also accused Legislature clerk Jack Worsham of negligence of duty.

In their regular party meeting this week, SP members voted unanimously to charge Williams with negligence on two counts after evidence had been presented by party members.

The two counts on which Williams will be charged, Childress said, are (1) failure to conduct regular Rules committee meetings and failure to ascertain if members who have been absent from the legislature have proper excuses for their absences, and (2) failure to publish the names of the absentees in the Daily Tar Heel. Both of the charges are required by the by-laws of the Student Legislature.

In a report obtained from Legislature clerk Jack Worsham, Childress said "Evidence was shown that Williams had picked up only one list of absences after the four meetings held this year. This list," he added, "was for the last meeting and was not obtained until four days after the legislature." The by-laws require the list to be picked up by the rules committee chairman after each meeting.

When questioned about the charges yesterday afternoon, Williams stated, "I charge Worsham with negligence in keeping the records of the Student Legislature. When as chairman of the

Defense Alliance

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(UP)—Lester B. Pearson, Canadian minister of external affairs and chief of his country's delegation to the United Nations General assembly, said today that the U.S., Canada and the Western Union nations might get together "any day now" to draft an Atlantic-defense alliance.

U. of Miss. Prexy OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 4.—(UP)—Charles William Dean, Shaw, Miss., today became president of the University of Mississippi student body upon the resignation of George Worthen, Union.

Rules committee, I requested lists of members absent from meetings this quarter; Worsham replied that he had misplaced the official attendance records and they were not available.

"I am guilty," he continued, "of not submitting lists of absentees to the Daily Tar Heel for publication. This was purely an oversight on my part. There is no provision in the by-laws of the legislature for expelling a member regardless of the number of meetings missed. The University party believes that there should be such a measure and in next Thursday's meeting, the party plans to sponsor such a bill."

"As for the taking this matter before the Student council," he added, "I feel that no honor council should be called upon to decide a matter which is purely an effort on the part of the Student party to smear the name of the University party. The University party is not a name-calling party and does not intend that the dignity of the council should be lowered by trying matters which are simply political maneuvers."

Requests will be made, Childress said for excuses of absentees who have missed two or more meetings of the legislature this fall. If the legislators cannot furnish satisfactory information, they will be asked to resign from (See POLITICS, page 4)

Torch Rally Set Tonight At Y Court

"Let's all get lit!" is the clarion cry of Head Cheerleader Norm Sper and the University club who will lead the campus on the initial pre-game torchlight parade of the pigskin season beginning at 7 o'clock tonight.

The procession will assemble in Y court where the fiery beacons will be distributed to all marchers on a first-come basis.

From that point the group will begin its tour through the village streets and dormitory areas. Supplementing the illumination of the fire-sticks will be the usual array of horn-tooting, yelling, cymbal-clanging and music-making.

The procession will end at the portals of the Forest theater where a knock-down, drag-out pep rally will be held and also the crowning of the "Mardi Gras" queen.

Dan Stiegman, Tar Heel co-captain, will serve as master of ceremonies for the program which will present to the crowd Sound and Fury's "Miss Mardi Gras," whose identity has not been released. Also taking part in the program will be other members of the football squad.

Joe Ward, president of the University club, and Jerry Weiss, president of Sound and Fury, announced yesterday that co-captain Hosea Rodgers and Charlie Justice will be on hand to do the honors of crowning the "Mardi Gras" queen.

Tookie Hodgson, vice president of the University club, said yesterday that students need have no fear the pep rally will cause them to miss any part of the Elliot Lawrence dance which will be touched off in Woollen gym tonight. It is expected that festivities will be over in plenty of time for all to change to formal attire before dance time.

Victorious Truman Cheered By Thousands Along Route

ELLIOT LAWRENCE

Elliot Lawrence Slated In Weekend Festivities

A weekend of football and musical fanfare begins today with dances scheduled for tonight and tomorrow night in Woollen gymnasium with music furnished by Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra.

The two-day score will be touched off from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon in Memorial hall when Lawrence and his musical group will present a concert.

The dances are being sponsored by the German club and constitute the annual fall presentation of dances by that group. A host of attractive girls will serve as sponsors for the dances.

Tonight's dance will be held from 9 until 1 o'clock with coeds attending having late permission until 2 o'clock in the morning. Tomorrow night's dance goes from 8 o'clock until midnight with coed hours set at 1 o'clock. Dances will be formal on both nights.

Members of the University Dance committee wish to remind those attending the dances that rules and regulations as set up by the committee should be closely observed.

Rules state that no intoxicating drinks will be allowed and that any girl leaving the dance with the intention of returning must be chaperoned during her entire absence. Also no smoking will be permitted on the dance floor.

Elliot Lawrence and his group are commonly typed as a sweet band but Elliot insists that they feature all kinds of music on one-nighters and college dates. The band has scored enough of a hit in just one year to win the No. 1 spot in both the disc jockeys' and college polls of new bands, as conducted by Billboard magazine.

Red-Backed Progressives' Showing Is Poorest Since Turn of Century

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(UP)—The election showing of Henry A. Wallace's Communist-supported Progressive party was the poorest of any highly organized third party movement since the turn of the century.

The Wallace-Taylor ticket polled little more than 1,000,000 votes—a mere two per cent of the combined Truman-Dewey total. Wallace had predicted he would get "millions."

But he had hoped and expected to go into the election with broad labor support. Instead, among labor, he was backed only by the left-wing minority of the CIO. Most of the rest of organized labor fought the Wallace party as a creature of the Communists. Wallace's own hopes for future success assume that he can enlist labor support. He believes the present labor split over the Communist issue must be healed but he does not know how that will be done.

He is depending on factional differences to cause a crackup of the Democratic party, with his party inheriting its labor backing. But he knows there is little chance of getting that support while labor is divided by the Communist issue.

Wallace has said many times that his party will keep going whatever his vote this year.

Voters Turn Out To Cheer Humble Man They Backed

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Nov. 4.—(UP)—The voters who kept Harry S. Truman in the White House turned out by the thousands tonight to cheer him on his triumphant return to Washington.

But the President was humble in his victory. He said he would not "crow" over the election sweep, and it was learned from friends that he was not interested in a third term.

At St. Louis, a big town in the President's home state, a cheering crowd of 10,000 jammed union station in an impromptu victory celebration.

Again at Vincennes, Ind., where the President's train made a five-minute service stop, a crowd estimated at 10,000 was on hand.

Mr. Truman appeared on the rear platform at Vincennes and told the cheering throng that "when I get back to work, I hope you people won't be disappointed with the results."

He was in high spirits and beaming jovially, but earlier as his train moved eastward from his home at Independence, Mo., he said he would not "crow" over his sweeping election victory.

He had been scheduled to meet only about 1,000 political leaders and others at St. Louis, but when he saw the big crowd gathered at the station he ordered the gates opened. The crowd crushed around his train.

He told the crowd at Vincennes that "I'm elated over the election results as I am overwhelmed with responsibilities."

A Hoosier mail carrier, Dave Reeves, stepped to the platform which the President used to carry his campaign fight across the country and handed Mr. Truman an old bank note on an Independence, Mo., bank.

"I have just received an old fashioned bank note," the President laughed, holding up the bill, "and the man tells me if I ever get broke to bring it to him and he'll redeem it."

Friends aboard the train said they thought it would be out of character for Mr. Truman to seek a third term, although he would be exempt from the anti-third term Constitutional amendment.

All along his route the President seemed filled with a deep sense of humility and the tremendous responsibility of conducting the nation's affairs for the next four years.

Freed to Give Lecture Sunday In Person Hall

A lecture by Ernest Freed, well-known artist and instructor at Fairmont State college, W. Va., will highlight the local celebration of National Art week, Sunday afternoon at Person hall.

In addition to Freed's address, "Space, Contemporary versus Renaissance," there will be a showing of 23 of his etchings and linoleum block prints.

New shows by North Carolinians Claude Howell and Philip Moose will open today and continue until the end of the month. Howell, of Wilmington, is now painting in New York on a Rosencwald fellowship. His group includes 17 oils, a gouache, and six water-colors.

Artist Moose is a Pulitzer prize winner from Newton. He will show seven oils and 19 water-colors.

Freed's etchings, two of them very large, will remain on exhibit until Nov. 26. The Friends of Person hall will give a reception for Freed immediately following Sunday's gallery talk. All students and Chapel Hill residents are invited to attend.
