Special Session Of Solons Urged

Sen. Bridges Would Also Send MacArthur Or Other Top-Flight Military to China

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—A special session of Congress to provide immediate emergency help for Communist-threatened China was proposed today by Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. H.

He also urged prompt dispatch of a top-notch American military adviser to China, such as Gen. Douglas MacArthur or Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, to help stiffen Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's shaken defenses.

Bridges' move coincided with the disclosure that Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo called on Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett yesterday to deliver an urgent plea for immediate American help.

The envoy said he spent 45 minutes with Lovett explaining "the gravity of the situation in China and the importance of immediate American aid—both material and moral—to the Chinese cause."

He said the United States is doing her best to speed up deliveries of the $125,000,000 worth of arms and $275,000,000 worth of economic goods ticketed for his country under the $400,000,000 China aid program passed by the 80th Congress.

Bridges said the situation in China is "desperate," although Chiang's forces are claiming victory in a critical battle with Communist armies on the northern approaches to Nanking.

He called on President Truman to summon the 80th Congress to receive the "real facts" and take whatever action is needed.

"A positive and effective American air program is urgently needed to prevent the Communists from taking over the whole of China, lock, stock and barrel," he said.

A White House spokesman at Mr. Truman's Key West, Fla. vacation retreat said the President had no comment on the special session proposal.

Bridges, who is chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee and of the joint Congressional committee created to keep tabs on American foreign aid programs, gave no indication that he had cleared his proposal with the Republican leadership.

He put the decision squarely up to President Truman, although the Republican high command also can recall the lawmakers for a lame duck session between now and the end of the year, when the 80th Congress dies and the Democrats come into power.

But there appeared little likelihood that either the President or the GOP leaders would issue a special session call.

School Students To Collect Paper In City Sunday

A waste paper drive will be conducted tomorrow afternoon by members of the Chapel Hill high school student body to obtain funds for the high school recreation center, Roy B. Barham, adult chairman of the drive, announced yesterday.

Mr. Barham and Bill Bland, student chairman, urged the local residents to put their bundles of waste paper in front of their homes by 1:30 Sunday afternoon. Trucks furnished by merchants of Chapel Hill will be used to pick up the paper. Mr. Barham stated that the drive Sunday should raise the amount of the recreation fund to over $1000.

The collection of the waste paper was started by the high school students about a year ago to support their recreation center. The drive is conducted each month, and the paper is sold to the Manchester Board and Paper Company in Roanoke, Va.

Zionists Hear Rabbi Gulstrom At Initial Meet

Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America held its first general meeting on Thursday night at Graham Memorial. Rabbi Simon Gulstrom of the Beth-El synagogue in Durham spoke on the influence of Zionism on the American Jew.

Morton Rubin, educational director of the IZFA, summarized the purposes and plans of the organization, after which Irving Greenspon, IZFA president, introduced Rabbi Gulstrom. Rabbi Gulstrom pointed out that in influencing the Gentile, Zionism seems to have quelled anti-semitism.

Zionism uplifts Jewish morale, the Rabbi said. Jewish history is no longer a tragedy but an epic creation, he added.

Summing up the progress the Jew has made in his struggle for freedom, the Rabbi declared, "In spite of many failures in the history of the Jew, he can always look back to Palestine and say, 'The hope is here in the land of Israel!'"

WEARING SPECIAL ARCTIC ATTIRE, units of the Second Marine Corps Brigade hit a Newfoundland beachhead after pouring out of landing craft nosed well up into the shore. This mock attack was aimed at taking over a theoretical major airport held by the enemy. The maneuvers were part of U. S. naval exercises in the North Atlantic, the largest of their type since the end of World War II.

Fraternity Authority Will Speak On Campus

Dr. Mosely Will Hold Two-Day Program Under Auspices of Fraternity Group

Dr. John O. Mosely, president of the University of Nevada and the foremost authority in America on the social fraternity, will begin a two-day discussion program on campus Monday afternoon, Jack Thompson, president of the Interfraternity council announced today.

"We have invited Dr. Mosely to Carolina to aid us in preparing a more complete fraternity program here," Thompson said. While here, Dr. Mosely will lead seminar discussions with campus leaders on all phases of fraternity life.

A banquet is scheduled for Monday night at the Carolina Inn, at which fraternity leaders and faculty members will be present. Dr. Mosely will address the freshmen assembly Tuesday morning and further discussions will be held that afternoon. Plans are being completed for a meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 in Hill Hall in which the entire campus will be invited.

Dr. Mosely, who is a member of the permanent committee of the National Interfraternity conference, is former Dean of students at the University of Tennessee. At the University he instituted a program called Greek Week, a substitute for the now defunct Hell week. This program has brought Dr. Mosely national recognition.

President Thompson requests all members of social organizations on campus, fraternities as well as sororities, to attend the Tuesday night meeting.

Cosmopolitan Club to Hold Meet in GM

The Cosmopolitan club, composed of foreign and American students, will hold an organizational meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Horace Williams lounge, club sponsors announced yesterday.

Ken Lowry of Plymouth, England, will speak on "Progress of Socialism in England," at the opening meeting. Election of officers and a social hour will follow.

Dr. Guy H. Wells To Speak to YWCA

Dr. Guy H. Wells, president of Georgia State college for Women at Milledgeville, will speak at the YWCA cabinet meeting Monday on the educational program in Germany.

Wells, who was educational adviser to military government in Germany, will speak on the educational program in Germany.

The speaker is president of the Georgia Historical society, and president of the Georgia Association of College Presidents.

Sexually Sick

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—The "Kinsey Report" on the sex life of the human male was characterized today by a British sociologist as "a picture of sexual behavior in a sexually sick society."

In the first cautious comment from England on Dr. Kinsey's work, Dr. David Mace, secretary of the Marriage Guidance council, said the report emphasized the "disturbed state of family life in America."

Mace's remarks to a forum on British family life were reported by the British Medical Journal. Other speakers at the forum also attacked the Kinsey report for its "non-idealistic outlook."

Mace said that his own experience in council cases opposed Kinsey's conclusion that pre-marital relations did not cause subsequent marital adjustment. He said there was a greater tendency for those with pre-marital histories to break away from marriages under stress.

Nathan Cooper To Speak at YW Coffee Klatsch

Nathan Cooper, executive secretary of the Family Service agency in Durham, will be the speaker at the regular Coffee Klatsch which will be conducted Tuesday at 7:30 at the Y office.

Everyone is invited to hear Cooper, who received his AB at UCLA and his MA in psychiatric social work at the University of Chicago. He served five years in the army, working in the Adjutant General's office and recently came to Durham from New York where he worked for the United Service for New Americans and the Jewish Family Welfare service.

Gordon Blackwell Speaks in Durham

Dr. Gordon W. Blackwell, director of the Institute for Research in Social Science at the University, will deliver the keynote address of the annual Resource-Use Education Conference of the Piedmont region at North Carolina college in Durham today. The program will begin at 10 o'clock this morning and run until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Participating schools from 14 counties have been invited to attend the conference and will be welcomed by Alfonso Elder, president of N. C. C.

More Liberals Needed In GOP States Morse Face Other Defeats, Senator Warns Party

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, R., Ore., said today the Republicans face more elections defeats unless "constitutional liberals" within the party work together to bring it closer to the grass roots.

Morse joined the growing ranks of GOP critics who blamed the party's turndown at the polls Nov. 2 on failure to get close enough to the thinking and wishes of the people.

At the same time the Westerner attributed part of the election upset to failure of the "Republican organization" to take "unequivocal yes-and-no stands on a series of specific issues which were disturbing large groups of voters."

He said he hopes the more liberal elements of his party—Morse calls them "constitutional liberals"—in contrast to Democratic liberals—will work effectively together in the new Congress.

Medal Of Honor Given Widows Of War Heroes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—America gave its highest honor today to two Pennsylvanians who helped to win World War II.

The men, Staff Sergeants John W. Minick of Mechanicsburg, Pa., and Gus Kefurt of Sharon, Pa., both died in action in Germany.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, hung the prized congressional medal of honor ribbons around the necks of their widows, Mrs. Mary R. Minick and Mrs. Frances E. Kefurt, and said softly to each:

"Congratulations. A awfully sorry he is not here to receive it himself."

He shook hands solemnly with Robert and Patricia Kefurt, Kefurt's 9 and 7 year-old children.

Minick led a platoon through an enemy mine field near Hergen, Germany, on Nov. 21, 1944. That was when things were still tough for the invading Allied armies.

Under heavy machine gun fire, he killed 20 Germans and took 20 prisoners. Then he was killed by an exploding mine.

Gus crept through an opening in a stone wall, and ran smack into 15 German SS troopers. He raised his tommy gun and killed 10 of them, taking taking the rest prisoners.

Capacity Crowd Due For Capital City Battle Carolina Is Odds-on Favorite Over Once-Beaten Terrapins

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Coach Carl Snively and his undefeated but once-tied North Carolina Tar Heels arrived here late yesterday afternoon after a fast plane trip from Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels retired to their hotel immediately upon their arrival and began last-minute preparations for today's game with Maryland Terps in Clark Griffith stadium. The kick-off is slated for 2 p.m. and a sellout crowd is anticipated.

Summer Session Registration To Begin June 9

The first summer school session for 1949 will begin with registration on June 9 and will close on July 19, it was announced yesterday by Dean Guy B. Phillips. The second summer session will begin July 20 and end August 27.

A large enrollment is expected in the professional and graduate schools, and a program will be planned for students beginning at the freshmen level and continuing through to the graduate level.

Over 350 different courses will be offered with special activities for different groups desiring further educational opportunities.

Dean Phillips, director of the summer school, is attending the meeting of deans and directors of summer sessions at Nashville, Tennessee this week-end and will return Sunday.

Spivak Tickets Continue on Sale

Tickets for the Duke-Carolina weekend dances, featuring Charlie Spivak and his orchestra, will go on sale again Tuesday morning in Y court.

Dance books are available at $5 each. Tickets for the Friday afternoon concert in Memorial auditorium are $1 each.

The Friday night dance will be from 9 until 1 o'clock, and the Saturday night dance from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Lansing Shield Killed in Crash In Oklahoma

Lansing P. Shield Jr., a former student at the University, was killed in a plane crash on Monday, Nov. 1, at Muldrow, Okla.

Shield was a transfer student from Rutgers university and had come here in the spring quarter of 1948. He lived with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. O'Neal, at 410 Church street, while in school here.

Late News Bulletins

Calls Strike

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(UP)—A strike of 45,000 longshoremen in every port along the Atlantic coast effective at midnight tonight, was called today by Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association, AFL.

Standing By

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—Nurse Helen Rowe took "command" of the Buckingham Palace staff today and ordered an extra vigil until the birth of Princess Elizabeth's baby. She is the registered midwife who will attend the Royal birth, expected Sunday or thereafter. Sir William Gilliat, who will deliver the baby stood by for the summons to move into the palace.

'Real' Leader

TOKYO, Nov. 12.—(UP)—The Australian judge who passed sentence on 25 major Japanese war criminals today bluntly denounced Japan's Emperor Hirohito as the real "leader of the crime." Sir William Webb, president of the war crimes tribunal, indirectly criticized allied leaders for the fact that Hirohito, "although available for trial, had been granted immunity."

No Comment

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 12.—(UP)—The White House declined to comment today on a request by Sen. Styles Bridges, R., N. H., that President Truman call a special session of Congress to give more aid to China. The President spent another restful day at his usual vacation schedule of a swim, a nap and a stroll. He was joined at his vacation retreat late in the day by his wife and daughter, Margaret.

England Society Honors Dr. Craig

Dr. Hardin Craig of the University English department has just been elected a fellow in the Royal Society of Literature of the United Kingdom, it was learned here yesterday.

Dr. Craig received word of his election to the Society at the University of Missouri where he is serving as guest professor and lecturer.

He is the third living American to be honored by the distinguished literary organization.

Dr. Craig said that his election was probably a gesture of appreciation in view of his recent visits and lectures. As a guest lecturer at the Stratford-On-Avon Shakespearean conferences during the past two summers, Dr. Craig established acquaintances with various members of the Royal Society.

Ferne Hughes Tells Of Big City

By Bill Buchan
How does it feel to have an expense-free week in New York packed with photographers, hairdressers, fashion editors, George Murphy and Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club? And how does it feel to receive one full carton of Drene Shampoo every three weeks? Carolina's Drene Girl, Ferne Hughes, knows all the answers.

Last spring Ferne was selected along with five other girls from Southern and Western colleges to model in New York for Drene Shampoo ads. The stories of her adventures in the big city are still continuing, as we said, with the arrival of the Drene every three weeks and not-so-witty cracks about her haircut.

According to Ferne, the now famous hair-cutting scene was executed on Tuesday, her second day in New York, when both hairdressers and photographers agreed that shorter hair would be more becoming.

The cutting scene was preceded, however, by a spree of trying on clothes on Monday and a visit to Radio City Monday night. Tuesday night included a radio broadcast, and Wednesday, Ferne accompanied two of the other girls on a tour of the big town. That night, all six girls, complete with dates, set up headquarters in the Stork Club and were presented cologne by Mr. Billingsley, himself. The "meeting" with George Murphy occurred Wednesday, too, when the actor entered the elevator with the Drene girls and accompanied them to an upper floor.

Thursday's activities consisted of a session with New York fashion editors on the college girls' ideas on fashion. "My main comment," says Ferne, "was merely that I prefer long dresses and short hair." The Thursday program ended with an afternoon cocktail party for the girls, given by the Associated Press and a television broadcast, followed by another nightclub tour at night.

The week's program ended with a tour of the advertising plant of Compton's and choice seats for "Brigadoon." The group's chaperone climaxed the week with a party after the show Friday night. Saturday mornings, bright and early, the temporary models were on their own again.

However, the results of the week in New York are yet to be seen by Carolina students and the rest of the United States. Ferne and the other five girls will be smiling from magazine ads during the month of May, if present plans work out. The girls are being featured also in radio commercials. (See Ferne Hughes, page 4)
