Draft Cutback Means Reprieve For Thousands

Registrants Scheduled for Induction To Get Some 30-60 More Civilian Days

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The cutback in draft calls will mean a reprieve for more than 100,000 men originally slated for induction by next July.

It will also mean 30 to 60 days more of civilian life for many registrants who were scheduled to be called up in January and February.

These estimates were made today by some of the state Selective Service officials now holding their semi-annual conference at national headquarters here.

The Army originally had planned to take 20,000 men in January, 25,000 in February and presumably the same in the succeeding months. That would have provided 170,000 new soldiers via the draft route by July 1.

But the Army announced earlier this week that for lack of funds, it will take only 10,000 in January and 5,000 in February. If it sticks to the 5,000-man quota in the succeeding months, it will enter July with only 60,000 draftees in uniform. An Army source said, "There is no prospect for an increase in the quota."

Registrants 23 and younger apparently will benefit most from the draft curtailment. The November and December calls in many states exhausted the available manpower in the 25 and 24-year-old age groups. A total of 10,000 men were inducted last month and 15,000 are scheduled to go this month.

Paradoxically, the cutback will mean more work for local draft boards. An official at the national Selective Service headquarters explained it this way: "When you're drafting everybody, you are taking nine out of 10 men. But when the draft call is small, you are examining 10 men to get one. Consequently, there is more paper work with less results."

Cops Puzzled Over Series Of Robberies

Bus Station Is Ransacked

Local police were still puzzled late yesterday over two robberies, one at the bus station and the other at the Morehead planetarium, both of which took place early yesterday morning.

Officers reported that the bus station was entered sometime between midnight and 7 o'clock in the morning. The thief came and went through a window in the front of the ticket office.

Apparently the window was left open the night before, since there was no evidence of force. Everything in the station was ransacked and $6 was discovered missing from the desk in the ticket office.

An official of the bus station who reported the robbery said that the thief tried to enter the lunch room but failed in the attempt.

The other robbery took place sometime during the morning on the site of the Morehead planetarium. Two night watchmen did not seem to bother the thief who made off with a roll of sheet lead with apparent ease. Employees of the Garrison-Hopkins Co., reported that the lead was worth between $100 and $200.

Police said yesterday they were working on several leads in the two robberies. However, no arrests had been made by 11:30 last night.

The Carolina chapter will act as host to the IZFA chapters of Duke, State and the Woman's college at the subregional meeting, program plans will be discussed, in addition to the report from the region executive committee.

Hill Hall Getting Even Noisier As Groups Prep for Concert

By Tom Kerr
Hill hall is an even noisier place than usual these days as Director Paul Young whips the combined men's and women's Glee clubs into shape for their annual Christmas concert.

Scheduled for Sunday and Tuesday, the Glee club concert expects to again sing to full houses. The Christmas concert, now a recognized campus tradition, drew packed houses last year and had to turn away several hundred from the repeat performance.

By popular demand the concert will add a new feature to their traditional program format. A group of favorite Christmas carols, chosen by popular request, will follow the intermission.

The program will lead off with the stately and eloquent "Stabat Mater" by Pergolesi, sung by the Women's Glee club with Barbara Young and Virginia Johnson as soloists.

As the final selection before the intermission the clubs will join in the Credo from Palestrina's "Pope Marcellus Mass, a beautiful work done in difficult six-part counterpoint.

After the intermission the combined glee clubs will sing a group of the most popular present day carols followed by several secular songs and carols of other countries. In these groups baritone Milton Bliss, John von Cannon, Dick Cox, and Tenor Carl Perry will be featured as

Mather Finishes McNair Lectures In Final Address

"It will require the good will of religion as well as the intelligence of science to take full advantage of the opportunities that are available in this age of potential abundance," Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, noted Harvard university geology professor, declared in his third and final address on "Religion in This Time of Crisis" here last night.

Dr. Mather who delivered the John Calvin McNair lecture series here this week, used "Perspective for Tomorrow" as the topic of his last address on the relation of science and religion.

"At the moment, there seems danger of unwarranted pessimism concerning the future of man than of too much optimism," said Dr. Mather.

He explained this pessimism as being the result of the "increasingly widespread acceptance of the 19th century philosophy of Malthus."

Malthus taught that population tends to increase faster than the means of subsistence, and that poverty is inevitable unless late marriage or prudent restraint lower the birth rate, and so check population.

Mankind is hardly justified in hoping and working for a world in which all men everywhere may live together in peace, prosperity and security if the Malthusian principle is valid," he said.

Dr. Mather was introduced by Dr. Arthur C. Nash, head of the Department of Religion. Dr. C. B. Robson of the Political Science department presided over the final lecture.

Tickets on Sale For Club Program

Tickets are still on sale for both concerts at the box office, 109 Hill hall or from members of the glee clubs. All holders of both season and single concert tickets are reminded that their tickets must be exchanged at the box office for reserved seats before seven o'clock the night of the performance.

House Committee Announces Plans For Next Quarter

Gene Turner, house discussion chairman for the YMCA, yesterday reported the completion of the committee's program for the first quarter and plans for a more extensive program for the second quarter.

Designed to "promote better fellowship among students and between students and faculty, as well as to provide information on the topics discussed, the sessions were begun last week and will be continued on a larger scale next quarter.

Groups reporting favorably on discussions already held include Sigma Chi, discussing labor relations with Prof. H. D. Wolf as leader; Delta Kappa Epsilon, host to Chi Omega for a discussion on problems of marriage with Mrs. Arnold Nash as leader; St. Anthony hall, discussing national political trends with Congressman Carl Durham as leader; and Phi Delta Theta, host to Pi Beta Phi for a discussion on marriage problems with Mrs. Nash.

On the basis of the success of these discussions a meeting has been planned for 2 o'clock Thursday when representatives from each fraternity and men's dormitory will meet to outline plans for the second quarter.

Each house will be asked to choose a house discussion chairman, select topics that it would like to discuss, recommend leaders, and indicate dates desired, after which the committee will plan a schedule for consideration of the houses. Turner stressed that each house will determine the subjects it will discuss and that his committee will endeavor to secure the desired leaders.

Members of the committee are Pete Burks, president of the YMCA; Warren Ashby, of the Philosophy department; Bill Friday, assistant dean of students; Ernie Martin, Joe McLeod, Sam McGill, Mrs. Arnold Nash, Bill Potat and Tommie Vestal.

Seven Students Are Arrested In Pre-Game Attack on Ala.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The heated rivalry between Alabama and Auburn flared early today with the arrest of seven Auburn students picked up on the University of Alabama campus.

Campus Marshall A. O. Rayfield arranged their release several hours after they were detained on charges of disorderly conduct.

The incident was the first reported pranks being played by the students since the announcement was made that the football teams of the two schools will meet Saturday in Birmingham in their first game in 41 years.

Two of the seven students were caught around the huge pile of trash arranged for a bonfire that will open the Alabama pep rally tonight.

Those two were traced back to an automobile containing five other students. A quantity of gasoline and kerosene, presumably to be used in lighting the bonfire prematurely, was confiscated.

Also, campus leaders said apparently other raids were made on the campus by Auburn students.

Rembert of Art Department Captures Award for Painting at Raleigh Show

John Rembert, assistant professor in the Art department, has won a purchase award of $200 for his canvas, "By the Winds Grieved," Lynette Warren, curator, announced yesterday.

The painting, which is included in the 12th annual North Carolina artists' exhibition in Raleigh, is one of three purchased from a group of more than 80 works shown this year.

Rembert's wife, who is represented in the current show, won an award last year which is similar to that given her husband's painting Wednesday. Mrs. Dahlia Rembert of Raleigh, mother of the prize winner, also has an entry in the exhibition, which is on display in the State library.

Chapel Hill residents represented in the show are Ben Williams (sculpture), Arnota Joyner, Joseph Bolt, Marianne Manasse, J. Louis Cobb, Archie Daniels and Fred Bank.

Mock Lawsuit Is Scheduled For Tomorrow

Lenoir Scuffle Results in Suit

A scuffle in Lenoir dining hall resulting from the discovery of a libelous letter the day after the national elections has produced a suit and a counter-suit which will be tried tomorrow morning in the Law building before Justice S. J. Ervin, associate of the North Carolina Supreme court.

The case involves Jack Chambers, who wrote an unpublished letter to Daily Tar Heel defaming the character of William Hannah. On Nov. 3, Hannah, who had seen the letter, encountered Chambers during the dinner hour at Lenoir hall. Harsh words were exchanged and a scuffle followed.

Members of the Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity happened to be on the scene, and the litigants agreed to submit the dispute to a jury for trial. Chambers is bringing suit against Hannah for assault and battery. Hannah is counter-suing Chambers for alleged defamation of character.

Attorneys participating in the trial are all third year law students. Representing Hannah are Jesse Sigmon, Jr., Bob Rouse, Jim Pritchett and Jim Chestnut. The case for Chambers will be handled by Paul Ridge, Arthur Utley, Ray Summerall and Harvey Luck.

Papers have been filed with Robert Swain, clerk of court, and Hannah and Chambers have agreed to abide by the decision of the jury. The trial will be open to the public.

Whitfield Asks For Cooperation About Parking

A dozen or so very humble students, mostly fraternity men, were charged costs in Recorder's court Tuesday after a lengthy lecture by Judge Henry A. Whitfield regarding sidewalk parking.

"I let the boys off as light as I could," Judge Whitfield said. "I don't even like to see them up here at all, but they must cooperate with us if we hope to relieve the situation."

"What we're trying to do is call it to the attention of all the boys that the pedestrian has to have somewhere to walk and the sidewalk is the only place," Whitfield said.

He explained, "A dangerous situation has developed because of sidewalk parking, mostly on Columbia and Cameron streets. We've had a lot of complaints."

"Of course there's nothing we can do about it but call it to the attention of the boys and hope that they are right thinking people and that they will cooperate."

"We have a bad situation here on account of limited space and a large number of cars. It just requires a little of the golden rule on the part of all to make it safe for everyone."
