

Tar Heels Top Lenoir Rhyne In Opener; Frosh Win

Carson Notches 28 to Lead Carolina to 68-51 Victory

By Buddy Vaden

With Coy Carson hitting for 28 points, Carolina's Tar Heels opened their 1948 season with an impressive 68-51 victory over a scrappy Lenoir Rhyne quint in Woollen gym last night.

Lenoir Rhyne captain Leo Kantorski sent his mates into a short-lived lead with a charity shot in the opening minutes of the game, but Dan Nyimicz came back with two free baskets to put Carolina ahead. Wells sank a free shot for Lenoir Rhyne and the game was all tied up at 2-2 after three minutes of play.

"Nemo" Nearman dropped two free baskets, Wells came back with the first field goal of the game, Carson slipped his first two field goals through the net, and Carolina was off to the races.

Carson Hogs Show

Rip Ryan and Nearman swished the fibers with action baskets after Kantorski had scored on a push from the left side for Lenoir Rhyne. Carson began his one man show at this point and completely dominated the play during the remainder of the first half. In the ensuing 14 minutes, the Asheville hotshot slipped 21 points through the hoop to give his mates a 37-20 half-time lead.

The Tar Heels held a 17-point lead at intermission, and with Coach Tom Scott substituting freely in the last half clung to their margin throughout the final stanza to win by 17 points.

At the beginning of the second half, Nyimicz again inaugurated the scoring with a neat set shot from way out after 2 minutes had elapsed. Ryan followed with an action basket to give Carolina a 41-20 lead, and the visitors began their biggest spurge of the night.

During the next two minutes Kantorski staged a one-man show, scoring seven points to bring the Bears within striking range of the Tar Heels. But the Tar Heels, with floor shots by Charlie Thorne, Nearman and Carson, managed to maintain a good lead.

Battle on Even Terms

With four minutes and 20 seconds of the second period gone, and with the Tar Heels sending in reserves, both teams were on even terms. Carson scored from the floor to make it Carolina 43, Lenoir Rhyne 31. Newsome sank one for the Bears and Nearman countered with two foul shots. Carson added two more and the Bears kept the Tar Heels in reaching distance with two of their own shots.

But with eight minutes gone the Tar Heels had a substantial 16 point lead. Shots by Hugo Kappler, Norman Mitchell, and Howard Deasy put the Tar Heels 19 points up with only four minutes left in the game.

In the next four minutes Tommy Wells got hot for Lenoir Rhyne and added two foul shots and a field goal and teammates Newsome and Kantorski added a shot apiece. Carolina came back with three two-pointers to make the score 68-51 as time ran out. Carson's first half show was the greatest point-scoring spree seen on the Woollen gym floor in many a moon. In his 25 minutes of playing time he collected 28 points, 22 of which came during the initial period. Of 29 shots from the floor attempted, he made good on 12 to give an accuracy percentage of .413.

A GREAT FLOOR GAME, and some fine backboard work were Nemo Nearman's main contributions to the Carolina cause last night. In addition, his 10 points was second highest for the Tar Heels.

Next home game will be on Saturday evening when the Tar Heels face Guilford College at 8 o'clock.

Beauty and Brawn

With All-American teams going the rounds these days, Len Szafaryn has been finding his name on quite a few of them. He has been named among AP, UP, and Collier's All-American teams, but his latest honor was a great deal different from any of the previous laurels that had been heaped upon him.

An All-American Glamour team was announced yesterday and Szafaryn was named to a first-string tackle berth on the "Dreamboy Team." The team was picked by Miss Mary R. Weir of West Chester, Pa.

Frosh Swimmers Drop First Meet To State College

Carolina's freshman swimming team suffered defeat in its first outing yesterday at Bowman Gray pool, losing to State college, 46 1/2-26 1/2.

The visitors copped six of 10 first places and rolled up enough seconds and thirds on the side to easily outdistance the locals.

Kirby Ambler paced the losing cause turning victories in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events.

The summary: 50-freestyle: 1-tie between Ambler (C) and Lojko (S); 3-tie between Williamson (S) and Capro (S), 0:24.9.

100-breaststroke: 1-Smith (C); 2-Lewald (S); 3-Raskin (C), 1:14.5.

220-freestyle: 1-Milton (C); 2-Wilson (S); Moody (C), 2:29.5.

100-backstroke: 1-Mandel (S); 2-Martin (S); 3-Fulwiler (C), 1:13.5.

100-freestyle: 1-Ambler (C); 2-Lojko (S); 3-Marcus (C), 0:56.6.

150-individual medley: 1-Martin (S); 2-Easkin (C); no third place, 1:55.5.

Diving: 1-Capro (S); Walsh (S); no third place.

Medley relay: State (Madel, Lewald, Lojko), 1:28.

200-freestyle relay: State (Jones, Randall, Martin, Capro), 1:48.9.

Justice Is Honored By Norfolk Sportsmen

It was revealed yesterday that Charlie Justice has been given another grid honor by enthusiastic football fans. This time it was the Norfolk sports club that heaped honors upon the diminutive Carolina tailback.

He was picked by the Virginians to receive the Leigh Williams Memorial trophy which is awarded annually to the "most outstanding player within the boundaries of the Southern conference."

Justice is expected to journey to Norfolk on December 13 to receive the trophy in the annual sports club jamboree.

Justice Only Tar Heel Named On Collier's 1948 All-America

By Frank Allston

In the day of the wholesale selection of All-American teams, many people have learned to take most of the teams with a grain of salt. But there are four big ones that carry the most prestige. They are the Associated Press, the United Press, Grantland Rice's and Collier's Coaches' All-American.

The latter of these, the third of the big four to be released, came out yesterday. Like most of the others, Collier's 59th All-American eleven was paced by Carolina's little triple-threat tailback, Charlie Justice.

But as readers thumb through the December 11 issue of Colliers, one thing becomes most apparent. This team is very much different from other All-American teams. It's different in several ways.

Mentors, Movies Decide

First and foremost is the fact that this team of eleven gridiron stalwarts was selected by the coaches themselves and not by the sportswriters, who sometimes have cause to become somewhat prejudiced. Eight of the more prominent of the pigskin masters spent three days reviewing movies and conferring on the relative merits of the different players.

The eight are very representative of the coaching fraternity. They were led by the brilliant Frank Leahy, coach of the 1947 mythical champion Notre Dame eleven; Minnesota's Bernie Bierman; Lou Little, of Columbia; "Weeping" Wally Butts, of Georgia; SMU's Matty Bell; Southern Cal's Jeff Cravath; Harvey Harman, of Rutgers and Tuss McLaughry, of Dartmouth round out the expert board of selections.

Walker and Burris Chosen

True, Doak Walker, SMU sensation and winner of the '48 Heisman trophy, and Buddy Burris, Oklahoma's star guard, made this team like most all of the others. But the rest of the boys, with one or two exceptions, may come as a big surprise to most readers.

No other All-American team selected Sam Tamburo, Penn State's great end; or Georgia Tech's star flankman, George Brodnax, or Notre Dame's Marty Wendell, a terror in the center of the Irish forward wall. Few picked back Clyde Scott, of Arkansas.

Chuck Bednarik, Penn's outstanding center, and fullback Jackie Jensen of California were also picked by the coaches for their '48 team. The tackles came as a surprise to some with Al Wistert, of Michigan and Minnesota's Leo Nomellini as the choices.

Collier's sports editor Bill Fay said of Charlie Justice:

"Justice of North Carolina: . . . a breakaway runner, especially dangerous on kickoff and punt returns. A deft ball handler, particularly artful at faking ball to another back on the "crossover" after catching punt. Runs with ball behind hip. The only solution for puzzled opponents is to try to tackle Justice and his twin safety partner. This attempt to get both safety men spreads defense and gives Justice opportunity to get under way in open field. Top punt return: 84 yards for touchdown that whipped Georgia. Splendid passer, especially on optional plays to right that develop into pass or run. A real triple threat."

Royall Denies Army Sugar Bowl Rumor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)

Secretary of Army Kenneth Royall, replying to a statement that he had given Army permission to play in the Sugar bowl football game, said today that he had done just the opposite.

"The question of the Army team playing in the Sugar bowl was discussed with me by Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Superintendent of the Army Military Academy," Royall said. "It was decided negatively after careful consideration of all of the factors involved."

Earlier, Hap Glaudi, sports editor of the New Orleans Item, said that Royall had given Army permission to play in the Sugar bowl but that Coach Earl (Red) Blaik refused because of the possibility that the opponent might be Notre Dame.

Blaik, he said, "considered, hesitated, then refused."

In New York, Blaik, who was there to accept the Lambert Memorial trophy, emblematic of Eastern football supremacy, said that "For the past several seasons, Army has received invitations to play in the Sugar, Orange and Cotton bowl games."

"These invitations have been declined with thanks," he said, "because Army's policy is against post-season games."

"Permission for Army's participation had been granted by Royall, a North Carolina alumnus, who is a Sugar bowl admirer," Glaudi said.

"He also assisted in securing a chain of approval of all academy officials until the invitation finally reached Coach Blaik."

Kids to Benefit

TUCON, Ariz., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Arizona university's football team today agreed to play Drake in the Salad bowl—but only after getting an okay on its demand that the gate receipts go to charity.

Actually, the demand was largely unnecessary because profits of the Phoenix, Ariz., New Year's day game already were earmarked for an underprivileged children's fund.

The team at first was reported to have demanded a cash share for each player for participation in the game.

Justice, Weiner, Szafaryn Named On All-Southern

Results of the Southerner Magazine All-Southern football poll announced yesterday showed three Tar Heels on the first team and one on the third team. Charlie Justice, Art Weiner, and Len Szafaryn were the Carolinians named to first-string berths, while Hosea Rodgers landed on the All-Southern third team.

The poll was conducted throughout 16 states below the Mason-Dixon line, and the final results showed Justice leading the list of Dixie grid greats. Barney Poole, of Mississippi, now in his seventh year of varsity competition, was runner-up in the magazine poll. Georgia Tech's brilliant guard, Bill Healy, placed third in the balloting. Justice was a near-unanimous choice for the All-Southern eleven.

Buddy Burris and Jack Mitchell of Oklahoma, Carolina's Sugar bowl opponent, were also named on the team. Burris received a first team guard berth, while Mitchell led the third team backs.

Tar Babies Win Over Louisburg By 76-53 Score

By Lew Chapman

Carolina's freshman basketball team inaugurated their season with a roaring start last night at Woollen gym when they decisively trampled Louisburg junior college by the runaway score of 76-53.

Although a preliminary to the varsity contest, the game provided the assembling crowd with some fast and deadly shooting that would be equal to midseason form.

The action started slow as both fives were slightly nervous, but after several minutes the pace picked up and a pair of future Tar Heel cage greats, Buddy Johnson and Johnnie Bowersox, combined to give the Tar Babies a close 17-15 first period lead.

That proved to be Louisburg's brightest moment for from then on it was all Carolina. Coach Jim Hamilton's yearlings then mixed up smooth functioning plays with a devastating fast break that left their opponents reeling. Carolina led 40-23 at the intermission and lengthened the margin to 61-32 at the three quarter mark.

The lineups: Carolina (76) Pos. (53) Louisburg Harter (12) F (10) Cole Johnson (17) F (13) Usery Guyes (6) C (4) Cooper Reuning (2) G (7) Gaster Bowersox (11) G Evans

Carolina substitutions: Pascal (2), Smith, Eckert, Cheek (8), Redding, Hill, Crowder (11), Slomp, Gradman (2), Godwin (2), Barr (2). Louisburg substitutions: Carter (6), Griffin (10), Snyder, Miles (1), Shotwell (2), Thomas.

Holdash Honored

Irv Holdash, Carolina's top line backer and defensive center, has been chosen as the sophomore of the week in the Southern conference by the Associated press.

Holdash has been playing top notch defensive ball all year and will be counted one heavily in the Sugar bowl contest. Holdash's nomination as the soph of the week followed his performance in the 34-12 win over Virginia last Saturday in Charlottesville.
