Card Stunts May Be Taken To N.O.; 3,000 Plan Trip

By Chuck Hauser

Not only 3,000 North Carolina students, but a 100-piece marching band and maybe Head Cheerleader Norm Sper's celebrated card stunts will be going to the New Orleans Sugar bowl on Jan. 1, 1949.

Sper said last night that he would fly to New Orleans with Band Director Earl Slocum Monday afternoon to make plans for halftime entertainment. He said he would do his best to work out arrangements to take the card stunts to the bowl and, "Sugar bowl officials are definitely interested in having the stunts at halftime."

The head cheerleader also said plans were being made for a mass pep rally at the Roosevelt hotel Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. He said students should gather in the lobby of the hotel, where the University club will have an information booth set up and where exchanging of coupons for tickets will be going on.

Sper also said plans for a Carolina New Year's Eve party in New Orleans were being made. He said notice of the plans would be put on bulletin boards throughout the campus when decisions were reached on the matter.

The athletic office said yesterday that 1,500 student coupons have been sold. It was estimated, however, that at least 1,500 students had purchased regular tickets and planned to sit with family or friends outside the University at the game.

Approximately 10,500 alumni and relatives of alumni and students are expected to join the Crescent City caravan. The travelers will be going to New Orleans by every means from airplane flights and special buses to hitchhiking.

One party was definitely scheduled; athletic officials remarked yesterday. They said the team was invited to a Christmas party on Dec. 25, but they were scheduled to return to practice sessions at Hammond, La., the next day.

Jerry Pettigrew Is Di President

Jerry Pettigrew, pre-med senior, was selected president of the Di Senate for the Winter quarter by acclamation Wednesday night.

Other officers elected were: Banks Talley, president pro tempore; Dick Bowen, critic; Cam West, clerk; Sam Manning, treasurer; James McLean, sergeant at arms; and Don Shropshire, chaplain.

Harry Horton was elected Carolina forum representative and Don Shropshire will return to the Debate council.

The officers and representatives of the Di for the Fall quarter were: Jim Southerland, president; Gran Childress, president pro tempore; Jerry Pettigrew, critic; Cam West, clerk; Charles Long, treasurer and Carolina Forum representative; Bill Harding, sergeant at arms; and Don Shropshire, chaplain and Debate council representative.

Last Issue

This is the last issue of The Daily Tar Heel for the fall quarter. The DTH will resume publication on Tuesday, Jan. 4, or on the first day of classes.

University officials yesterday urged students to check dormitory, fraternity and sorority house bulletin boards carefully until the end of examination period, since that will be the only means of transmitting important information to the student body.

Head Cheerleader Norm Sper said further plans for pep rallies or parties in New Orleans would be posted on bulletin boards.

Eager Sooners Give Tar Heels Slim Chance

4,500 Students Will Make Trip

By Jim Trinkle

Staff Writer, The Oklahoma Daily NORMAN, Okla., Dec. 9— Approximately 4,500 eager Sooners are expected to storm New Orleans for the Oklahoma-Carolina Sugar bowl game, confident that the Charlie Justice-Jack Mitchell duet will make the trip worthwhile.

The Oklahoma head cheerleader and bandmaster will go to New Orleans this week to brew pep plans. The game itself is considered to be the biggest thing since Cherokee Run.

Most students are saving their money to buy spirits of alcohol in conjunction with football spirit. Oklahoma is very dry.

Students are wondering if Coach Wilkinson is showing the team new plays to cope with the Tar Heels. Some Sooners are angry over having to pick up their tickets in New Orleans while alumni are having theirs mailed to them. But cash is the main obstacle in the way of students who would like to attend the game.

The ticket situation is generally snafu. The first move was to give two tickets to each student, but it was soon cut to one because of the scalping scare. Faculty members were allowed four tickets to the accompaniment of gnashing student teeth.

On campus, the Tar Heels are conceded an outside chance to win the game, but everyone is sure North Carolina won't ever get a chance to put in their fifth team against the Sooners.

The belief is expressed at O. U. that the football polls are all wet. Revision is expected by Jan. 2. Oklahomans expect to send the Tar Heels back to Chapel Hill mumbling, "There ain't no justice..." And plans have already been made for a victory banquet.

Student Tickets Can Be Picked Up

Students may arrange for someone else to get their class tickets if a blue card is filled out at the time the tickets are picked up. However, the registration office will not be responsible if the class tickets are lost.

Students failing to make arrangements to get the tickets by 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, Jan. 4, in Memorial hall will be fined $5 for registration, and their class tickets will be returned to the class ticket boxes.

Children's Choir Schedules Program

The children's choir of the Episcopal church will present a program of Christmas music and scripture readings Sunday afternoon in the church at 4 o'clock.

Holiday Displays Are Now Complete In Business Area

Christmas decorations, placed in business sections in Chapel Hill and Carrboro, are now complete, the Merchants association announced yesterday.

Prizes of $10 and $5 will be given to the first and second place winners of the outdoor decorations contest sponsored among association members in the two towns.

Mrs. Mildred Cartee, the new secretary-treasurer of the Merchants association, will begin her duties tomorrow according to Vic Huggins, association president. Her office will be in the Tankersley building, next to the post office. She is the first full-time secretary in the history of the association.

Local stores will be closed on Christmas day and New Year's day. Closing hour during evenings of Christmas week will be 9 o'clock, beginning Monday evening, December 20.

Huggins said yesterday that it will be optional for merchants to be open the Monday following Christmas as a further holiday.

Ehringhaus Pays Tribute to Hanft In Law Address

Former-governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus paid tribute to Dr. Frank Hanft of the University law school Wednesday night in an address at Hill hall sponsored by the Law School association. Ehringhaus described economic conditions in 1933 and declared he had turned to Dr. Hanft for advice during his term as governor.

Speaking on "Common Sense in the Courtroom," Ehringhaus traced a law suit through the various legal steps. He advised audience of certain things in courtroom procedure that he had learned from experience as a trial lawyer.

The former governor defended trial by jury and expressed confidence in the ability of people who are regarded as uneducated to determine the true facts in situations. Some of the best jurors he had seen were relatively uneducated, Ehringhaus stated, whereas the two worst jurors he had ever seen were highly educated men.

Reading of 'Christmas Carol' To Be in Playmaker Theater

An old tradition started 31 years ago will be repeated in the Playmaker theater Sunday night at 8:30.

It will be the reading of Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol" by Sam Selden, director of the Playmakers. Selden is carrying on a time-honored tradition started by Frederick H. "Proff" Koch, founder of the Playmakers, who died in 1943.

As Selden reads the Carol from the stage, his manuscript illuminated by candles, sound effects will add to the color of the scene. Preceding the reading, Christmas Carols will be heard over the public address system. The public is admitted free and a full audience is expected. Up to the time of "Proff's" death he had given 278 readings of the immortal "Christmas Carol" from California to the coast of North Carolina. He had appeared four times in the New York City Town Hall and twice at Columbia University over a period of 38 years. In 1942 he gave the reading 19 times in 17 different North Carolina towns.

Selden, who is carrying on the tradition, has been here since 1927. Prior to his joining the University, he was a member of the Yale Playcraftsmen. While at Yale his play, "While the Horses Were Saddled" won the Sloan prize. After he left Yale he joined the Province Town Playhouse in New York where he played "Swanson" in O'Neills sea play "Moon of the Caribbees."

Tar Heels End First Practice Phase In Preparation For Sugar Bowl Test

Squad Drills Will Continue In Louisiana

Travel Plans Not Decided

By Dick Jenrette

With less than two weeks remaining before their January 1 date with Oklahoma in the Sugar bowl, Carolina's Tar Heels will conclude their pre-game drills in Chapel Hill tomorrow prior to taking time out for examinations next week.

After Saturday's workout, Coach Carl Snavely's charges will not resume their practice until they arrive in Louisiana for the big game. At present, Carolina officials have not determined whether the team will fly or go by train to New Orleans. The decision probably will be made this weekend.

Most of the traveling plans, however, are complete. The squad will embark Dec. 19, heading for Hammond, La., where they will set up training quarters. The athletic facilities of Southeastern Louisiana college were offered to the visiting Tar Heels by college President G. J. Tinsley, and the invitation was accepted.

Hammond, the site of the Tar Heel training camp, is situated about 50 miles north of New Orleans. The team will remain in Hammond at least until Dec. 27 and possibly later before moving into New Orleans. But the switch will be made early enough to permit the Carolinians to take several workouts in the Sugar bowl. In New Orleans the team will be quartered at the Roosevelt hotel.

When Carolina made its first trip to the Sugar bowl, the team had its training quarters at the Edgewater Gulf, between Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss.

Coach Snavely gave the team a day off from drills yesterday.

Jordan Re-Elected President of ATO

Tom Jordan of Fayetteville was re-elected president of Alpha Tau Omega for the next two quarters at the last chapter meeting. ATO spokesmen announced yesterday.

Mac Loftis of Tampa, Fla., was chosen vice-president and Pete Cochran of Newton was elected treasurer. Wallace Ashley of Smithfield was re-elected to the position of scribe.

Filling the position of keeper of the annals is Charlie Tate, Morganton, while John Bippart, Orange, N. J., was elected sentinel. Curt Youngblood of Washington, D. C., was chosen usher. Reporter for The Palm, ATO national magazine, is Charlie Joyner.

Charlie Durham, Monroe, is the new house manager.

Representing the fraternity in the German club is James "Jukie" Holt of Raleigh, while Rufus Bynum will represent ATO in the Interfraternity council.

Coupon Refund

Students who have purchased coupons to be exchanged for Sugar bowl tickets in New Orleans yesterday were urged to turn them back to the athletic office if they find they cannot attend the game.

Athletic officials said full refunds would be made on all coupons turned in before noon tomorrow. They added that many applications were on file for tickets already, so the quotas are badly needed.

Local Glee Clubs Selected by NBC For Radio Show

The combined Men's and Women's Glee clubs of the University have been selected by the National Broadcasting company to present a 15-minute program of Christmas music next Tuesday evening at 11:30.

The Communication center will originate the radio program for NBC through station WPTF in Raleigh. Jane Grills will produce the program.

Broadcast coast to coast, the University program will be the second presentation in a two week NBC series featuring outstanding college and university glee clubs.

Paul Young, director of the glee clubs, began his musical activity as a choir director while still in an Ohio high school. Later he studied at the Cincinnati conservatory at Ohio university, and has done graduate work at Columbia and Harvard.

During its short period of growth, the Women's Glee club of the University has given concerts in many sections of the United States. The women's group at present is composed of over 100 girls, selected because of their special musical ability.

At present 150 men make up the Men's Glee club, chosen for their ability as singers and musicians.

New Personnel Adviser for Women To Be Mrs. Dorothy Dashiell Smith

Dean Katherine Carmichael announced yesterday that Mrs. Dorothy Dashiell Smith will assume the duties of assistant personnel adviser to women in the office of the dean of women on Jan. 1. She is replacing Mrs. Robert S. Swain, who will be leaving at the end of this quarter.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Stephens college in Columbia, Mo., in 1945 and the University in 1947 with an A. B. degree in journalism. While a student here, Mrs. Smith was a member of the legislature, the Pan-Hellenic

Bids Over Funds For Library Work

By Lincoln Kan

University buildings officials, engineers and architects shuffled papers and talked in hushed tones in Gerrard hall yesterday as the bids for the proposed University library addition were opened and found to be far in excess of the appropriations for the project.

Figures in the thousands and over the million mark were read on bids for general construction, electrical installation, plumbing, heating and elevator installation, for the new addition. At the conclusion of the meeting it was ascertained that the final bids exceeded the appropriations granted for the project by about half a million dollars.

Officials said a request for more funds may have to be made. The figures were $1,315,000 appropriated and the lowest total bid $1,763,503.

The opened bids will next be considered by the Building committee, chaired by Collier Cobb, Chapel Hill. If any decision is made, the State Budget bureau must certify that there are sufficient funds. Then the state attorney-general will have to certify the legal aspects involved, before construction may be started.

As each bid was read, entry was made on the three percent posted bond. For general construction there were six bids with requests ranging from $1,265,825 to $1,570,000. There were six bids for electrical installation, three each for plumbing and heating and a lone bid from the Otis Elevator company for the elevator which is to go into the new addition. The above figures concerned the base bids only, as the alternate bids are ones which either include additional items or exclude items already in the original plans. The high costs were attributed to the increase in building costs and materials.

Raymond Weeks and Milton E. Harris, general architect from Durham were present. Others attending were E. B. Boynton and V. L. Wood of the Wiley and Wilson engineering firm with headquarters at Lynchburg and Richmond; Claude E. Teague, assistant controller; J. S. Bennett, director of operations; J. A. Branch, supervisor of purchasing department; Olan V. Cook and William P. Kellam, assistant librarians.

She was secretary of the Women's council her senior year and was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa. Since her graduation, she has been associated with the University press and also the Orange County News. Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Dr. J. F. Dashiell, head of the psychology department, and is married to Adrian "Duke" Smith, who is working toward an A.B. degree in political science.

Phi Bete Initiates Hear Dr. Graham Give Dinner Talk

Speaking at the Phi Beta Kappa banquet, Dr. Frank Graham recommended that the organization start now to work on plans to bring a special speaker on campus to deliver the Phi Beta Kappa address at the convocation exercise in the spring.

The honorary scholastic fraternity has accepted Graham's suggestion, and plans to start work on the project soon. They will work with the lecture committee which is chairmanned by Dr. Gordon Blackwell.

Chancellor R. B. House, guest speaker for the occasion, discussed the general theme of recreation's being used as relaxation from scholarly achievements. Fifty-eight University students were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, and Sidney Paul Brooks, former commerce student from Warsaw, who was killed in an automobile accident in Raleigh last spring, was awarded the honor posthumously.

Group Plans Entertainment For Foreign Students Here

A special meeting of the College Activities committee, a new organization within the Chapel Hill chapter of the American Red Cross, was held in the Alumni building Wednesday to discuss and plan entertainment for foreign students and students who are planning to spend the Christmas holidays here.

The College Activities committee is a new program added to the chapter which grew out of the need as seen by the chapter to bring the campus into closer relationship with the community.

Working with the community and campus in this move is committee chairman Bill Friday, assistant dean of students of the University. Friday's office is the center of activities of the committee, from which he will work to contact all students who are planning to remain here this Christmas season.

Present at the meeting, in addition to Friday were: Col. F. Carlyle Shephard, chapter chairman; John M. Foushee, vice-chairman; Mrs. R. M. Grumman, chairman of Volunteer Special service; Bill Brown, chairman of foreign students in the YMCA; representatives from the churches in Chapel Hill; Mrs. Mabel Brittain, Red Cross Home Service secretary and Gay Currie, YMCA Executive director.

Examples of concrete services the committee is performing may be shown by the entertainment rendered to the hospitalized Veterans Administration hospitals and the Fort Bragg Army hospital.
