Rankin, Hebert Are Victims of Purge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(UP)—House Democrats today ratified a leadership "purge" of two anti-administration Democrats from the controversial Un-American Activities committee.

The victims were Reps. John E. Rankin of Mississippi and F. Edward Herbert of Louisiana, both of whom supported the State's Rights ticket against President Truman in the November election.

Rankin accepted the decision calmly but Herbert protested vigorously.

When he received the bid from members of the 1949 Inaugural committee, the President jotted down a little memo in the upper corner, which read: "Weather permitting, I hope to be present—HST." Second will be "What difference does my religion make in thoughts, actions, and purpose?"

Council Meets, Plan Program, Picks Officers

Fowler Elected Group Chairman

By Sam McKeel

Meeting at State college in Raleigh Sunday night, the Student council of the Greater University of North Carolina adopted a constitution, elected temporary officers, and discussed future activities.

Elected to fill temporary posts until the last meeting in the spring, when the constitution states that officers will be elected, were: chairman, Martha Fowler, president of the student body of the Woman's college; vice-chairman, Virgil Mims, of State college; secretary, Marilyn McCullom, of Woman's college; and treasurer, Page Harris of the University.

The constitution, drawn up recently by a constitutional committee received much discussion and many minor changes before being passed. As it stands, the constitution is so worded that it will prevent any one of the three schools from monopolizing the leadership and meetings of the council.

The constitution further states that there shall be at least one officer elected from each school, and for the sake of expediency and efficiency the chairman and secretary shall be elected from the same school. The constitution also states that each school has equal representation.

Two committees were formed at the meeting. The first was an interim committee to meet with University officials and discuss ways and means of the council, and to hear any suggestions that the officials may have on the future activities of the group. The second committee was a project committee to handle all future projects that may be suggested by members of the council.

'Prove It's There'

'Finding Of Fort Raleigh' Is Topic of Harrington Speech

By Laura Hearne
"It has been a thrilling experience to actually find Fort Raleigh—to prove that it is there," said Dr. J. C. Harrington, regional archeologist of the National Park service, in his talk on "The Finding of Fort Raleigh" at the 16th annual meeting of the North Carolina Archeological society Saturday afternoon in Wilson hall.

Heretofore, there has been only the legend and " tantalizing documentary evidence" that the fort actually existed. However, in the summer of 1947, Dr. Harrington, directing the work of a small group of laborers, found tangible proof of the Fort's site on the northern end of Roanoke Island. He has reconstructed the size and type of fort in a small model which was on exhibit at the meeting. The search was continued last summer but as yet no structural material used on the fort has been found. Among the articles that have been discovered are "two brass buckles, a lot of wrought iron nails, quite a few big iron spikes about 8 inches—which we know from Jamestown excavations are typical of that period, and a few lead balls for muskets that were not dateable." Being able to tell what period to assign the discoveries to is sometimes a major problem of the archeologist.

"Contrary to popular belief that the fort constructed by the "Lost Colonists" for protection against the Indians, we don't think so at all. The English weren't afraid of the Indians; they were disdainful of them. We believe it was built for protection against attack from the sea by Spanish raiding parties," the speaker stated.

Winslow Talk Will Concern Public Health

Noted Authority Speaks Tonight

Dr. C. E. Winslow, noted world authority on public health, will address a Gerrard hall audience tonight at 8 o'clock on "The Task of Public Health in the World Today."

Here for an examination of the School of Public Health, Dr. Winslow will speak under the joint auspices of the Carolina forum and the School of Public Health.

Former professor of public health at Yale university, Dr. Winslow retired three years ago and has since then been editor of the Journal of Public Health. He is in charge of the American Public Health association, of accrediting schools of public health. At the present there are nine such schools in the United States, and one in Canada.

Dr. Winslow said, "We are tremendously interested in the University of North Carolina. It is the only school in the South and takes care of the whole Southeastern part of the United States."

SDA to Discuss Action by House

The recent action taken by Chancellor House in denying the use of Memorial hall to John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker, will be the topic of discussion at the Students for Democratic Action meeting tonight at 7:30 in Horace Williams lounge.

Prior to the discussion, Hugh Marshall, instructor in the political science department, will deliver an address on civil rights and Communism. The purpose of the address will be to present a political and legal background for the discussion of Chancellor House's action in the Gates affair.

Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Letters to this effect have been mailed to students living in these dormitories at the request of the committee, Steve Millikin, chairman of the committee, said yesterday.

Millikin pointed out that action of the Board of Trustees reserved central parking areas on the campus for faculty members, commuting students, and others approved by the University Safety council.

Since the decision to restrict these parking areas came after students had made arrangements for dormitory rooms for the year, Millikin continued, the Safety committee approved the issuance of campus parking permits to the residents of dormitories adjacent to these parking lots for the duration of the current academic year.

However, since the parking space is inadequate and since the trustee regulation is expressly intended to restrict these lots from the parking and storage of automobiles owned by students living in centrally located dormitories, the Safety committee has found it necessary to take action, Millikin said.

A recent meeting of the Safety council approved a recommendation to Chancellor House which would place the area behind Hill hall from Cameron avenue to the County Health office and also the area from Cameron avenue to the Alumnae building on the restricted areas. If House approves the recommendation, he will in turn recommend this action to the board of trustees.

Another recommendation made by the council to House, and in turn to the trustees, is that no parking be allowed on the west side of Raleigh street from Cameron avenue to Raleigh road. Parking on the west side of Raleigh street from Franklin to Cameron avenue is already prohibited.

The 12-man Safety council is made up of three students, two faculty members, two town representatives, and one representative from both the highway department and the administration.
