BOB KIRBY, SECRETARY-TREASURER of the student body, joins with KA members from State, Duke and Wake Forest in the revival of the Confederate States of America before the KA ball in Raleigh last weekend. The 24-hour period, during which the four chapters "seceded" from the union, featured a reception, banquet, parade and ball. Signing the secession papers in the picture are, left to right, Bill Dodson, converted rebel from Pennsylvania; Robert Dew, Wilson, Joe Baker, Columbia, S. C.; Kirby; Tommy Allison, Statesville; LeRoy Martin, Raleigh, Wake Forest; and Robert Spilman of Statesville.

Scott Tuition Stand Is Answered By Bryant

Gov. Kerr Scott reaffirmed his stand yesterday that he would "ask and insist" that tuition rates be raised for the three units of the Greater University, but at the same time Victor Bryant, member of the Board of Trustees, pointed out that the North Carolina constitution said benefits of the University should be provided "free of expense for tuition" if possible.

Scott said he would insist on the tuition raise so state-supported schools will not be put at an advantage over church schools which do not receive state funds. The governor said the Greater University should not compete with state denominational schools. But the state constitutional passage Bryant referred to, article 9, section 7, reads:

"The General assembly shall provide that the benefits of the University, so far as practicable, be extended to the youth of the state free of expense for tuition."

President Frank Porter Graham of the Greater University would make no comment yesterday on Scott's stand on the tuition question.

Scott said the matter "is entirely up to the Board of Trustees. The legislature," he continued, "can take no action. I will make the recommendation as stated before and it will be up to the board to act."

Expanding his remarks, Scott said, "I feel that in the light of the economic situation of state institutions, with a great demand for increased service, it is necessary at this time to provide the funds."

"There is no attitude to penalize these institutions," the governor explained. "It's just the idea that the legislature is giving a big appropriation to carry on their program and it is all under the taxpayers' expense."

Scott pointed out that tuition has not been changed in 25 years "and it should be changed now."

"Certainly the economic situation has changed considerably in a quarter of a century," the governor concluded.

In answer to Scott's tuition stand, an official who refused to be named remarked that a number of state-supported institutions throughout the country are tuition-free to in-state students. Among them he named the Universities of Kansas and Wisconsin.

Theologist Will Address Students, Townspeople

Dr. Reinhold Niebhu, author, professor at the Union Theological seminary and one of the world's outstanding theologians, will speak to students and townspeople in Hill hall tonight at 7:30.

Dr. Niebhu, who is the editor of the quarterly "Christianity and Society" and of the bi-weekly "Christianity and Crisis" will speak this morning at Duke university's chapel in Durham and will lecture tomorrow in Durham and Raleigh.

REINHOLD NIEBHUR

Born in Wright City, Mo., in 1892, he was educated at Elmhurst college in Illinois and Edent Theological seminary in St. Louis. He received his bachelor of divinity degree at the Yale divinity school and has been given honorary doctor of divinity degrees from Grinnell, Wesleyan, University of Pennsylvania, Amherst, Yale, Oxford, Harvard, Princeton, Glasgow university and New York university.

He has written such books as "Does Civilization Need Religion," "Moral Man and Immoral Society," "Beyond Tragedy," "An Interpretation of Christian Ethics," and many others.

Time magazine said about Dr. Niebhu, "Reinhold Niebhu's new orthodoxy is the old-time religion put through the intellectual wringer. It is re-examination of orthodoxy for an age dominated by such trends as rationalism, liberalism, Marxism, fascism, idealism, and the idea of progress."

University Book To Be Dramatized

"Dorothea Dix, Forgotten Samaritan" by Helen E. Marshall, published by the University press, will be dramatized on the Cavalcade of America program over the NBC network on March 21, it was announced here yesterday.

According to spokesmen for the E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., which sponsors the program, the dramatization will be broadcast originally from 8 o'clock to 8:30, with a repeat performance from 11:30 to 12 midnight the same evening.

Dorothea Dix, for whom Dix Hill is named, has been called one of the great humanitarians of her time.

South Building Clarifies Stand On Green Forms

Students in the General college and the Commerce school whose green forms for spring quarter registration required changing have already been notified and the changes made, registration officials announced yesterday.

Contrary to a previous announcement from South building, General college and Commerce students should not check with Venable X during the readjustment period next week. Any changes these students wish to make must be made during the regular drop and add period.

However, students in the Graduate school and Arts and Sciences whose winter quarter registration was so changed that their spring quarter registration is no longer complete must make the readjustment Monday through Saturday in Venable X.

These students may see their green forms, which are on file in the registration office, beginning at 9 o'clock Monday. The readjustment period ends at 4:30 Saturday, and no changes will be accepted late.

Students in the graduate school and the College of Arts and Sciences go to their faculty advisers to have the green form change slips prepared. The change slips are then carried to the registration office where they are posted to the green forms.

Dickieson Trio To Play Tonight

The Dickieson trio from WCUNC will present the second in a series of Sunday evening concerts under the sponsorship of Graham Memorial in Hill hall tonight at 7:30.

The trio is composed of Professor George Dickieson, violin; Elizabeth Cowling, cello; and Philip Morgan, piano. Their selections will be Trio in B Flat Major, Opus 11, by Beethoven; Trio in C Minor, Opus 101, by Brahms; and Trio by Piston.

Truman Pays Tribute To Abraham Lincoln

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(UP)—President Truman paid tribute to Abraham Lincoln today at an impressive ceremony at the Lincoln memorial.

The president stood gravely with his head bare, as his military aides placed a presidential wreath at the foot of the marble statue of the Civil War president.

New Columnist

Beginning Wednesday, the Daily Tar Heel will carry a bi-weekly column by Miss Adelaide Addle, well-known counsellor on human relations. Miss Addle's advice column will answer personal problems received from students.

The daughter of a missionary couple, Miss Addle spent her childhood in northern China. She returned to this country for her education and received a B.S. degree in social psychology in 1924 from Nevada Normal, and then went to the Fairfax institute for graduate work. Fairfax is a school which specializes in readjustment problems.

After teaching there for several years, she received a fellowship from Fairfax to study marital problems among Southern tenant farmers. Since that time she has had numerous articles and books published dealing with courtship, marriage and family life.

Stroud Will Deliver First of Lectures

Dr. William D. Stroud, heart specialist of Philadelphia, Pa., and former president of the American Heart association, will deliver next week the first in a series of lectures by outstanding medical authorities to North Carolina doctors in the Goldsboro area.

The series will be one of a number being sponsored this spring by the University of North Carolina Medical School and Extension Division.

Rotary Plows Chew Into Snowed Valley

ANDERSON RANCH DAM, Ida., Feb. 12—(UP)—Rotary plows today chewed their way through the last few miles of snow clogged roads into this terrorized valley.

Officials Get Latest Attack On Dr. Frank Pamphlet Is Sent From Washington

An unsigned attack against Dr. Frank Porter Graham turned up yesterday in the mailboxes of members of the University faculty and administration, and presumably of the Greater University trustees and members of the General assembly.

The attack, mailed from Washington, D. C., included the complete text of a speech made on the floor of the United States House of Representatives on Feb. 3 by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, Democrat from Louisiana. Hebert charged at that time that Dr. Graham was being used as a tool of Communists, and that he was loaning Communist-front organizations the name and prestige of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Graham did not receive a copy of the letter which appeared in the mails yesterday. It was in the form of a four-page pamphlet, with bold lines proclaiming, "If you are an American, if you love your country, read this: The case against Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina."

It could not be definitely ascertained yesterday just how widespread the circulation of the letters was. Paul Cheek, employe of the Chapel Hill post office, said a large number of the letters were handled in the early morning mail yesterday.

Cheek estimated at least 40 or 50 letters were sent to Chapel Hill which had to be forwarded to persons throughout the state. He said he recognized the names of state legislators and members of the Board of Trustees. One of the letters was addressed to ex-Governor R. Gregg Cherry.

The prologue to the pamphlet pointed out that the Atomic Energy commission's security board recommended that Dr. Graham not be approved for access to atomic secrets.

After the text of Hebert's speech, the pamphlet continued, "There is no evidence that Dr. Graham is a Communist. No one has charged that he is a member of the party. But it is argued and proved that he has been a dupe of Communist and Socialist revolutionary activities."

Carter Announces Air Reserve Meet

Maj. C. C. Carter, president of the local Air Reserve association, announced yesterday that there will be a meeting of the 601st Air Force reserve composite squadron at 7:30 tomorrow at 103 Bingham hall.

According to Major Carter, the purpose of the meeting is to complete the organization of the newly-formed squadron, make duty assignments, bring the personnel records of squadron members up to date, and to discuss the reserve training program.

Tables Turned

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Feb. 12—(UP)—The University of Virginia got a telegram from Dr. Nathan Van Patten, famous expert on the frozen north, cancelling his speech scheduled here tomorrow night. He was snowbound in Utah, Dr. Van Patten explained.

Naval Reserve Unit Will Meet Tomorrow

The Naval Reserve air unit will hold its regular meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in Bingham hall, Lt. R. E. Simpson, USNR, said yesterday.

Topics to be discussed are organization, program, planning and individual training prospects.

A membership campaign to include the Durham-Chapel Hill area will be undertaken soon by the group.

'We Mean Business'

Grandmotherly Mother Leads Task Force on Comic Books

By Barron Mills
ARLINGTON, Tenn., Feb. 12—(UP)—A grandmotherly, silver-haired mother is leading a task force of nearly 6,000,000 parents to wipe out comic books which bypass the funny bone and "rely on blood-thirsty violence and scanty-clad females" for amusement.

She is Arlington's Mrs. L. W. Hughes, the national president of the Parent-Teachers association.

The fight, Mrs. Hughes said, is not a new one, but one which was begun in 1941, halted briefly because of the war, and resumed with new vigor.

"And we mean business," Mrs. Hughes said. "If the publishers won't listen to reason, perhaps they will heed their pocket-books."

It's not the family newspaper comics that are so disturbing to the parent-teacher group, but the unfunny funnies which instead of producing giggles are "sex horror serials."

The kindly mother explains that every month "one million dollars are taken from the pockets of America's children in exchange for graphic insanity."

For the parents who merely smile when junior plunks down his dime for the "funny book," Mrs. Hughes said their hair would stand on end if they only flipped the cover.

"Frankly we were not perturbed when we first heard about the rise of 'action' comics. We imagined, as do most parents, that they were not worse than the 'funnies' in the newspapers."

P.T.A. board is unanimous in thinking that the time is ripe to "take serious notice of the menace to our children from over-stimulating motion pictures, hair raising radio programs and in particular corrupting comic books."

Of the 108 comic periodicals examined they found that at least 70 per cent of the total was "of a nature no respectable newspaper would think of accepting. We found that the bulk of the lurid publications depend for their appeal upon mayhem, murder, torture and abduction—often with a child as the victim."

The Morning After

Imports Prefer UNC, Six To One

By Don Maynard
With imports who know their universities best, it's Carolina's ratio, six to one. So quoth three of the fair visitors yesterday after their first big evening of TD-style dancing at the Mid-winter Germans.

Peggy Strickland, Jinx Schwartz and Judy Sanford, three "typical" imports, vehemently backed up the statements they made Friday afternoon that the University is "impressive, beautiful and wonderful."

Peggy, from Bayhead, N. J., about-towning with Bud Sawyer, Phi Gam, said one of the things that attracted her was the way Carolina men cut in all the time at the dances. She said, "It was a lot of fun, dancing with all those different boys, and it gives a girl a line on the Southern style of dancing."

Jinx, of Hazelton, Pa., sitting alongside ATO host Jimmie Burns didn't like the custom too well. "It's all right for a man to break a couple if the girl isn't enjoying her date. But when she enjoys her company, it's not such a good idea."

Jinx and Peggy disagreed on the gentlemanly manners of the Carolina male.

Said Jinx, "The men here cut in too fast. They don't give a girl the chance to say yes or no; they just take hold of her and that's it."

They just when they cut in. They're just as much a gentleman as those up north. In fact, it seems that a Carolina boy appreciates a girl more than fellows at home."

Judy, of Chatham, N. J., sophomore and psychology major at Woman's college, is looking forward to perhaps attending the University next fall. She said, "I'm a dandy, and proud of it."

Jinx was overwhelmed by the University buildings. "I just stood looking at the campus buildings like a visitor would stare at the skyscrapers of New York," she said.

And all three said in one voice, "I'm in no hurry to go home!"

Episcopal Church Begins Sessions

Beginning a five-session study of the Book of Common Prayer, members of the Episcopal church will hear a symposium tonight on "The Struggle for the Prayer Book."

A brief worship service will be held in the church at 8 o'clock and the discussion will take place in the parish house, ending by 9:45.

Speaking on tonight's symposium will be Charles Henderson, Jr., speaking on "The Upheaval of the Reformation"; Lyman A. Cotten, "The First English Prayer Book"; Miss Mary Henderson, "Later English Prayer Books"; Mrs. Lawrence F. London, "Archbishop Cranmer—Architect of the Prayer Book"; U. T. Holmes and the Rev. David W. Yates, "The Power of the Prayer Book."

Past History

Dorsey Says It Seems That 'All Is Forgiven'

By Lincoln Kan
"Looks like all is forgiven, hey?" said smiling Tommy Dorsey to the students who greeted him. It was his second night's appearance at the mid-winter German dance set of 1949.

He was referring to the "late unpleasantness" of 1946 when the Order of the Grail brought suit against him for not bringing his complete band to Chapel Hill.

Dorsey said, "It was an unnecessary mix-up in which both of us got hurt. But frankly," he grinned, "by the faces I have seen at the concert and last night's dance everything is well and is past history. It always has been with me!"

The mellow trombone artist first came to Carolina in 1935. A repeat performance was given in 1936 and in 1938 he was brought back again. A year before the boys began wearing khaki, T. D. showed up bringing the hit parade number "I'll Never Smile Again" to the Tar Heels after its initiation at the University of Georgia, during the fall of 1940. Carolina contributed to the Dorsey popularity, when Bruce Snyder, a member of Freddie Johnson's band, was hired by T.D. to fill in the then vacant baritone saxophone spot. Snyder was from Monroe. Dorsey said, "He was really good. I wish he had come back with us after his hitch in the Army."

"Times have changed since the days before the war," Dorsey sighed. "It used to be, a band could be identified with some number and gain prominence that way. Now, the record companies and music publishers are one jump ahead of us. A song is popular before it can be identified with any one band," he complained.

Answering the requests of the many dancers crowded around him, Dorsey said, "See what I mean about the identification? I'm going to have the boys play Marie and Song of India. Those are the two pieces of music that put us into the big time."

Dorsey remarked that he liked the Tar Heel state very much.
