Horton Nominated For Vice-Presidency By SP

Brenengen Will Not Run As Presidential Candidate

Would Have Run As Independent In Spring Battle

Student council member Wayne Brenengen, whose name has been pushed vigorously throughout the past week as an independent candidate for president of the student body, said yesterday that he would definitely not be able to run.

"I would like to tell everyone who has supported me how much I appreciate it," Brenengen said, "but I cannot possibly run. Please tell everyone thank you for me."

Brenengen supporters made strong bids to gain the University party and Campus party nominations for the presidency for him after Bill Mackie received the Student party backing for the top executive post.

When Dick Gordon and Charlie Long captured the UP and CP nominations, a number of persons immediately pushed Brenengen as an independent. It appeared fairly certain that the well-known campus personage would declare his candidacy within a short while, until his statement yesterday knocked his hat out of the ring for good.

Supporters of Brenengen said yesterday they were extremely sorry he could not run. They insisted he was the most qualified man for the presidency, but said they would agree to his wishes and would not push the issue.

In the meantime, the other three presidential candidates promised a spirited campaign in the month and a half before spring elections, even though things have been relatively quiet on the political front so far.

Committee Would Use Draft To Expand Guard

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(UP)—A special civilian-military committee recommended today that the Army expand the National Guard and the draft to bring them up to full strength.

In a report to Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall, the committee proposed a 154,300-man increase in the combined authorized strength of these units to boost the guard to 475,000 men and the reserves to 579,000.

Under President Truman's new military budget, the guard would be limited to 350,000 men and the reserve corps to about 550,000.

The committee said that in order to build up the guard and the reserves to the new ceilings, "The provisions of the Selective Service law (should) be made applicable to the reserve components." It did not specify how the draft law should be applied.

The committee told Royall it was aware that the proposed expansion would be expensive. But it said bluntly that "we firmly believe we cannot afford a cheaper program."

The committee noted that its investigation was necessarily limited by existing Army recruitment laws. It emphasized that the expansion program was not to be considered as a substitute for universal military training, the "On the contrary," it said, "we feel strongly that until we achieve universal military training, the nation will not be fully prepared."

The committee limited itself to a consideration of the reserves. It made no recommendation about the active strength of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Commissions At Y Retreat Make Reports

Recommendation Given by Leaders

Recommendations for improvement in student government, recreational facilities and many other phases of campus life were put before students yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Gerrard hall by leaders of eight commissions held at the Y retreat at Montreat last weekend.

Reporting on the commission, which dealt with the effect of religion on man's life, Sue Stokes said, "We pointed out the difference between a religion of life and a philosophy of life, and set up three points as a basis for judging actions as religious: Respect for self, respect for others, and striving toward an ideal."

Bill Mackie reported that the lack of recreational facilities on campus was the main topic of the group discussing the social aspects of a student's responsibility on campus. The group set up an eight-member committee to investigate the possibilities of further weekend recreation.

Sally Woodhull reported for the commission on political aspects of campus life which recommended that a training course be held for incoming officers, that nonpartisan selection of candidates by extended, and stressed the need for an effective functioning group to combat the self-interest groups which enter into campus politics. "We want more people working for the 'something bigger' in student government," she said.

"The aim of our group was to set up commissions to study specific problems of the atomic age and find a Christian response," said Tom Donnelly, reporting on the commission on the academic aspects of campus life.

The civil rights commission headed by Sandy McEarnen, recommended that students investigate and help in organizations working on the civil rights problem. The group especially urged cooperation with the Students for Democratic action.

The labor group, according to leader Dick Murphy, formulated a seven-point economic bill of rights. The group recommended the right of labor to band together, that the employee have the right to buy shares in the corporation for which he worked, and take part in the policy-making of the corporation. They set up as the ideal aim of industry the promoting of a greater material comfort for the masses.

Engstrom Talks To Be on Wolfe

"Thomas Wolfe at Carolina" will be the subject of a lecture scheduled for presentation two times today by Dr. Mary C. Engstrom of the University English department.

The lectures, given each quarter by Dr. Engstrom, will be given in Caldwell X, room 110 at 10 o'clock and again at 2 o'clock in Saunders 213. Any students interested are invited to attend, that it would be preferable for those who could to attend the afternoon lecture as space in the Caldwell annex room is limited.

From 16th to 20th

Varied Program by Glee Club Set for Hill Tomorrow Night

A program ranging from the ecclesiastical music of the 16th century to the dissonance and rhythmic drive of America's young composers will be presented by the Men's Glee club of the music department tomorrow in Hill hall.

Of special interest is a canon selection from the earliest choral music composed in America, "When Jesus Wept," by William Billings, appeared in 1770, the year of Beethoven's birth. Paul Revere did the engraving work for the publication.

Other early music will be Giovanni Gabrieli's Jubilate Deo, an antiphonal work, and Diffusa est Gratia by Nanino.

Modern works will include the Phillip James setting of General William Booth Enters Into Heaven. The famous Vachel Lindsay poem has been composed for men's chorus, two pianos, organ,

Dorm Council Wants Change In Procedure

Seeks Election Of Hold-Overs

The Men's Interdormitory council Monday passed a resolution to request the Student legislature to place before the voters at the next general election an amendment to the constitution calling for election of three hold-over members to the Interdormitory council each spring.

This action is necessary to eliminate the handicap of discontinuity under which the council has labored every year since its existence, Pete Gerns, president of the council, said.

Three men who have served on the council will be able to orientate 45 new members which take office each fall, Gerns continued, and assure consistency and continuity in the council's operation.

Dr. Ernest Mackie, dean of student awards and achievements, spoke to the group on scholarship. He stressed the importance of conscientious effort to apply to studies as the primary pillar of a university education.

"Mere getting by," and resulting grades of "D," cannot be condoned, he added. The speaker drew a parallel between a successful man and a "sleeper" as he pointed out that success comes only to those who work for it.

Brandis Speaks On Philosophy

Thirty people heard Henry Brandis, Jr., discuss the basic philosophy, aims, and proposals of the United World Federalists in a meeting held last Monday night of the United World Federalist chapter of Chapel Hill.

Brandis gave details showing the present state of the World Government movement throughout the nation as represented by the UWF. He is at present a member of the National Executive council of the UWF.

The group affirmed by common consent that they would have an active program of the local chapter of UWF. Officers of the organization include Fred Weaver, president; Jo Straley, vice-president; Mrs. English Bagby, secretary; and Henry Brandis, treasurer.

Weaver was authorized by the group to appoint three committees. They include committees on projects, membership and finance, and public affairs.

Famous Costumer

'Smart's Sweat Shop' Keeps Busy

By Sam Hirsch

Irene Smart, costume designer for the Playmakers, smiled and her eyes sparkled. "I'm looking forward to costuming 'The Little Foxes' because there are only a few to do!" she said. "There are four women's costumes to worry about this time, and after 19 in 'Pinafore,' plus all the others we've done since the beginning of this season for 'Mama,' 'Scandal,' 'Egyptian,' 'Inherit the Wind,' and three one-act plays, that's going to be practically a vacation with pay!"

Ching Postpones Scheduled Talk Here This Week

The Carolina Forum yesterday announced that the appearance of Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation service, has been indefinitely postponed.

In announcing the postponement, the forum said that Ching had notified them that he would be unable to appear on schedule. Ching said although he had appeared before the Senate committee of Labor and Public Welfare, that he had not appeared before the House committee on Education and Labor.

He said that he must also appear at hearings, which may begin at any time, before the appropriations committees.

Tryouts Planned This Afternoon

Tryouts for three student-written one-act plays will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Playmakers theater. Parts for 10 men and 3 women are open in these originals, scheduled for production March 9 and 10.

Sam Selden, director of the Playmakers, stressed that previous acting experience, membership in the Carolina Playmakers, or the dramatic art department were not necessary before trying out. "We are a community theater," he said, "and we welcome anyone in Chapel Hill to come and read for a part."

"A Brighter Star," by Nancy Henderson, is a gentle domestic comedy about the troubles a Scotch girl has in adjusting to the land of her GI husband's birth, and also to his mother.

ARC Committee Maps Out Plans For Campus Drive

Presidents and representatives of various campus organizations met yesterday with Bill Pritchard and Dick Gordon, co-chairmen of the local Red Cross campaign, to map out preliminary plans for the 1949 drive, set for March 1 through March 4.

The group decided that no goal will be set this year. Co-chairman Pritchard explained that contributions should be made with the "spirit of giving to a worthwhile cause."

Organization heads present were asked to assign helpers in their respective groups, and a check list system was outlined whereby each contributor would be contacted a minimum amount of times. A meeting of all solicitors was called for 4 o'clock today in Gerrard hall where Dr. Frank P. Graham will address the group.

Mrs. Mable Britain, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, said that each contributor during the campaign would receive a lapel button, and each person giving $1 or more would receive a membership card.

The co-chairmen outlined their plans, after Pete Gerns, president of the Interdormitory council, asked, "How will we avoid asking people for contributions twice?" Pritchard said that he and Gordon would issue check sheets to all campus solicitors who would, in turn, check off names of people whom they had asked to contribute.

The Orange county Red Cross committee will put on a drive in addition to the fund-raising campaign being directed by the campus committee.

Candidate Is Bill Mackie's Running Mate

Now Serving As SP Floor Leader

The Student party yesterday announced the nomination of Harry Horton, Jr., of Asheville for the vice-presidency of the student body.

Horton will be the running mate of Bill Mackie whose nomination was announced three weeks ago for the student body presidency.

A rising junior and political science major, Horton is the Student party floor leader in the Student legislature where he serves as member of the Elections and Archives committee.

He is a member of the Carolina forum and the Dialectic senate. During the war he served in the U. S. Air Force in the ETO where he was awarded the Air medal. Horton is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

The SP's nomination of Horton practically rounds out the three party slates of top officers. The spring election ballot will carry the names of Mackie and Horton on the SP ticket, Dick Gordon and Ted Leonard on the University party ticket and Charlie Long for the presidential post on the Campus party slate.

As yet, the CP has not released the name of its candidate for vice-president.

Other major nominations released to date include Norm Sper who was nominated for re-election as head cheerleader by the SP, Chuck Hauser who is triply endorsed for the office of DTH editor, and Nat Williams, UP, for the office of student body secretary-treasurer.

No independent candidates have announced their intention to seek an office so far.
