

What's Up Doc?
Complete Coverage
Finish Investigation

The Daily Tar Heel

Mostly cloudy and mild with showers.

Students Heckle Klansmen During Columbia Meeting

Stink Bombs Are Thrown At Sam Green

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 24—(UP)—University of South Carolina students peppered a Ku Klux Klan meeting at suburban West Columbia with stench bombs last night while Grand Dragon Samuel Green was making a speech on white supremacy.

Burly Klansmen, assisted by police, dispersed the students but they kept up their heckling from COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 24—(UP)—Grand Dragon Samuel Green of the Ku Klux Klan said today he overlooked the group of hecklers who tossed two stench bombs in the circle of Klansmen to whom he was speaking last night.

The hecklers, many of whom were identified as University of South Carolina students, shouted remarks as Green's speech began, until KKK members and police told them to quiet down or leave.

"I was young once," Green said. "I did some foolish things then myself."

the edge of a vacant lot that the Klan had rented for their meeting.

At least two stench bombs landed in the ring of Klansmen around the stand on which Green spoke. Black acrid smoke rose around the sheeted figures and generally smelled up the proceedings.

Green continued to speak, reiterating his pledge to "shed our last drop of blood" to preserve white supremacy. His aides jumped off the stand to deal with the students.

A big Klansman wearing the regalia of a grand cyploc took charge. About 15 uniformed members of the West Columbia police force then told the students to move on.

One policeman explained that the Klan had rented the lot and was entitled to its use. The students reluctantly withdrew but continued to jeer and yell from the fringe of the meeting, attended by about 500 Klansmen. A small Klansman ran up to the group of about 30 students and challenged any one of them to a fight but his fellows dragged him back and that was the nearest approach to actual violence.

Green, who was introduced and applauded in the South Carolina legislature earlier in the day, shouted that if "you let President Truman ram this civil rights bill down your throats it will be legal for a Negro to come up on your porch and ask for your daughter's hand in marriage."

"She can always say no," chortled Green's hecklers in the student body.

Engstrom Speaks On Thomas Wolfe

Dr. Mary C. Engstrom of the University English department spoke to two overflow audiences Wednesday afternoon on "Thomas Wolfe at Carolina."

Dr. Engstrom reviewed interesting facts of Wolfe's life in Chapel Hill and read selections from "Look Homeward, Angel" in reference to his stay here. She has made an extensive study of Wolfe's works and life.

Although Wolfe spent four years here from 1916 to 1920, Dr. Engstrom said, there has been no recognition here of "Carolina's most famous alumnus" except a portrait in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial.

Dr. Engstrom suggested to her audience that a creative writing scholarship, a drama scholarship or a Wolfe professorship of English might be created in his name. "Any memorial to Thomas Wolfe," she said, "would have to be done in this manner for Wolfe is a living thing and cannot be seen through a stone building or a memorial plaque."

Coed Affairs Forum Opens On Campus

More than 35 delegates from nine colleges and universities will arrive here today for the opening session this afternoon of a two-day Woman's Intercollegiate Government forum, sponsored by the University Coed senate.

In addition to the University, institutions to be represented include Duke, Queens college, Sweet Briar, Hollins, Woman's college, St. Mary's Stratford college, Salem and the University of Florida.

Principal address will be given by Dr. James Madison Wood, president, Women's foundation, New York, and president emeritus of Stephens college, who will speak on the role of women in college today at the opening session in Hill hall this afternoon at 2:30.

Jess Dedmond, Cliffside, president of the student body, will address the first business session at 4 o'clock with Chairman Edie Knight, New Orleans, presiding. An informal supper and party will be held that evening in the American legion hut.

After a breakfast in the Methodist church tomorrow, the delegates will meet in workshop groups to discuss problems of student government.

The workshop topics, adult leaders and student leaders are: faculty-student relationships, Mrs. Albert Coates and Fran Angus, Brooklyn, N. Y.; honor system,

Enraged Drunk Wreaks Havoc In Trailer Court

A mysterious, enraged drunk who turned the University trailer court utility house into a scene of chaos at 6 o'clock yesterday morning disappeared as mysteriously into the early morning mists as he had appeared and left trailer dwellers wondering what had struck them.

Woody Reece, trailer resident, was awakened by the sound of shattering glass and upon investigation found that the man had driven his fist through six different window panes in the men's room. Not satisfied with this, the mysterious man also turned over garbage cans, tore up a wicker basket, distributed a generous supply of toilet paper over the premises and left a bloody trail behind him when he moved into the laundry room where he completed his fun by smashing an ironing board.

Policeman Bill Blake, who was called to the scene by Reece, searched the trailer court area but could find no further trail of the man with a grudge against the world.

One resident reported that he had seen an unidentified stranger "wearing GI clothes, very drunk, but minding his own business" in the men's room some two hours earlier. He said that no damage was visible at this time.

A check of the infirmary and local doctors revealed that the drunk had not gone to any of them for treatment of his battle-earned wounds.

Progressives To Hear Austin

Louis Austin, editor of the Carolina Times of Durham, will be the principal speaker at the Young Progressives meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial.

Austin will discuss the Shreve-Regan bill which has recently been introduced in the state legislature, making it a felony to belong to the Communist party.

A representative of the Communist party of North Carolina will be on hand to give his views on the bill.

Help to Be Given On Filing Taxes

C. F. Jones and M. B. Germain, of the North Carolina Department of revenue, will be in the Chapel Hill town hall Monday to assist taxpayers in filing forms.

DR. JAMES MADISON WOOD

Mrs. J. A. Warren and Lil Hotard, New Smyrna, Fla.; social rules and responsibility, Mrs. N. B. Adams and Anne Carlton, Atlanta, Ga.; orientation and leadership, Mrs. Frank Hanft and Teenie Royall, Goldsboro; extra-curricular activities, Miss Gay Currie and Sally Woodhull, Bethlehem, Pa.; entertainment, Mrs. R. H. Wettach.

University Party Secondary Post Given to Duncan

Bill Duncan of Narberth, Pa., was elected vice-chairman of the University party at a party meeting Wednesday afternoon. Duncan succeeds Carlyle Morris of Raleigh. Other party officers, elected recently, are Joe Leary, chairman, Faith Adams, secretary, and Jane Mills, treasurer.

Duncan is the present editor of the Yackety Yack and is an active member of the Phi assembly. He has served as president pro-tem and as treasurer of the Phi. The vice-chairmanship post is the first position he has held in the party.

Junior Debaters Win Over Elon

The University junior varsity debate team in its first debate of the season Wednesday defeated the Elon college teams on two counts, the University quartet winning both affirmative and negative decisions.

The J.V. affirmatives, composed of Hurshell Keener and Charles Dixon, defeated the Elon negatives, and the University negatives, Emily Baker and June Hurst, outspoke the Elon affirmative team.

The varsity squad is journeying to Atlanta this weekend to participate in the Agnes Scott Southeastern forensic tournament. The squad of Herbert Mitchell, Dave Pittman, Paul Roth and Herbert Yates will meet eight other southeastern schools.

Debate council chairman Earl Fitzgerald yesterday voiced the team's aim to win the tournament. "We certainly have the boys to win it with," he said.

The J.V.'s will travel to Hickory March 3 to March 5 to participate in the South Atlantic tournament at Lenoir-Rhyne college.

Help to Be Given On Filing Taxes

C. F. Jones and M. B. Germain, of the North Carolina Department of revenue, will be in the Chapel Hill town hall Monday to assist taxpayers in filing forms.

Student Gets Inside Story On Sororities

Is Now on 'Outs' In Coed Castles

BERKELEY, Cal., Feb. 24—(UP)—Mary Lou Ullrich was one of the most dazzling, most sought after coeds on the University of California campus during rush week.

Her charm, beauty and—ahem—figure made her the prey for virtually every sorority house on the campus. During a week of receptions in the best sorority houses, Mary Lou consumed 14 cups of tea, a dozen tiny sandwiches and received return invitations from seven sororities.

But tonight Mary Lou was no longer welcome in the coed castles that surround the Berkeley campus. If she so much as set foot on a sorority house front porch you could get good odds that she'd have her hair pulled out by the handfuls.

For it was discovered today that Mary Lou, so dainty, so cute, was actually flying false colors. Instead of French heels and the new look, Mary should have worn pants and smoked a pipe.

It turned out that Mary Lou actually was Walter Robert Ullrich, 21-year-old chemistry major now handing his Kappa Alpha fraternity brothers the inside dope about what goes on in a sorority house.

Ullrich reported his reconnaissance was very successful—so much so that he collected the telephone numbers of 27 coeds and one house nower.

There was only one narrow escape, he said. That was on the occasion when his false front slipped.

"Some of these trappings come loose easily. I looked lopsided but everybody was too polite to say anything," he reported.

Solicitors Meet For Instructions

Some 90 solicitors for the 1949 campus Red Cross campaign met yesterday in Gerrard hall to receive instructions and to hear an address by Col. F. Carlyle Shepard on the meaning of the American Red Cross.

Col. Shepard, chairman of the local ARC chapter, told the group that a special effort should be put forth this year to make the campaign a success. He called upon the solicitors to give wholehearted and conscientious support to "this worthwhile program" which runs March 1 through March 4.

In addition to Col. Shepard's talk, a movie was shown giving complete information about the work of the ARC.

Bill Pritchard and Dick Gordon are heading the drive this year as co-chairmen. They have initiated a "contact a contributor only once" program.

Real Southerner

Drawl Is Asset For Lillian Prince

By Sam Hirsch

A heavy Southern drawl is generally a handicap to an actress, but to Lillian Prince, born and bred in Birmingham, Ala., it has been a fortunate asset. Right now it is coming in mighty handy.

She is cast as Birdie, the Southern aristocrat, in the Carolina Playmakers' production of "The Little Foxes," to be presented next Wednesday through Sunday, in the Playmakers theater.

"I was married 16 years before I got interested in the theater," Mrs. Prince said. "We were living in Westport, Conn., and one day, the director called and asked me to come to tryouts. I went, just as a lark, and read for him. Well, he liked my reading. Only he wanted to know if I could

Men's Council Cracks Down With New Suspension Ruling

Finance Reports Delivered; Charges Itemized By Dees

A student government budget for the next fiscal year, totaling $103,170 and a reshaping of the current coed investigation issue highlighted the business of the Student legislature last night.

Page Dees, central figure in the Coed senate fight, went before the assembly and itemized part of her charges of careless coed spending which she made in the Daily Tar Heel yesterday morning.

Bob Kirby, secretary-treasurer of the student body and chairman of the Budget committee, submitted his budget to the legislature after stating that the committee had not considered any increase in student fees in compiling the budget. Dick Gordon, chairman of the Student Audit board, made the board's annual financial report to the solons and reported the financial status of student government as "good."

Miss Dees was granted the privilege of the assembly floor after Edie Knight, chairman of the investigating committee, requested that the committee be extended more time in making the report. Miss Knight stated that the committee had had difficulty in operating but that if given more time, a full report would be forthcoming.

Miss Dees, who resigned chairmanship of the committee in protest of the lack of cooperation in the group, told the legislature that the Town Girls' association spends $37 each year for fall and spring picnics and $5 for a seat on the steering committee of the University party; that the Kappa Epsilon pharmacy sorority spent $200 of coed funds last year to stage a national convention on campus (the local chapter has only four or five active members); the Carolina Independent Coed association, with 25 members, spends $239 on social entertainment, $100 for Yack space and $30.50 for gifts to new members and out-going officers; and that the Pan-Hellenic council is allotted $100 for Yack space and $77 for printing expenses.

Assembly members applauded Miss Dees' comments on the coed spending program.

Patsy McNutt, a member of the legislature, the senate and the committee, presented the bill requesting extended time.

Her bill died for a lack of a second at that time, but when she presented it again later, after agreeing that the committee would appoint two additional members who are members of neither the senate nor the Inter-department council, the bill was passed.

Marty Davis, a coed member (See LEGISLATURE, page 4)

Real Southerner

Drawl Is Asset For Lillian Prince

LILLIAN PRINCE

kill that Southern accent!" She "trahd," and got the part. After this taste of the theater she got the bug, and decided to study diction, and some acting, too. She studied with Harry Irvine in New York. And by strange coincidence, he played

Tenney Says Petition Out About Tuition

Glee Club Gets Money for Trip

Student legislator Ed Tenney told the assembly last night a petition was being circulated on this campus and at State college and Woman's college stating that the signers would use their vote and influence to defeat any candidate for office who supported the proposed tuition increase for the Greater University.

The petition, which Tenney had passed among the members of the legislature, read:

"We, the undersigned students of the Greater University of North Carolina, do hereby declare that we shall use our vote and influence to defeat any candidate in future elections, local state and national, who advocates a raise in tuition at any part of the University of North Carolina."

Also at last night's legislature meeting, the combined Men's and Women's Glee clubs received a $1,500 appropriation, effective May 15, to aid them in sponsoring a concert in New York on the Notre Dame football weekend next fall.

Tom Kerr, who explained the bill to the solons, said that 140 persons would be taken on the trip—70 men and 70 coeds. He said the concert would be held in either Carnegie or Town hall.

The legislature then passed a bill which will prevent all organizations, with the exception of the Publications board, which receive funds from the Student legislature, from lending or borrowing any money without the assembly's consent.

Another appropriation bill which passed last night gave $1160.60 to the Student Entertainment committee to pay a debt owed to Graham Memorial. This debt was pointed out when an attempt was made to exempt Graham Memorial, along with the Publications board, from the requirements of the bill on lending and borrowing money.

Dick Bowen proposed a committee to study means of listing instructors with courses in registration.

BULLETIN

GREENSBORO, Feb. 24—(UP)—Woman's college students today joined others in the North Carolina Greater University system in protesting a proposed tuition boost to $150 yearly.

The college's Student legislature adopted a resolution asking the General Assembly to hold the tuition rate at its present $85 level.

Earlier, student government units at both North Carolina State college in Raleigh and the University in Chapel Hill took similar action. The executive committee of the University's Board of Trustees approved the boost at a meeting last week.

Faculty Talk By MacMillan To Be Tonight

Winter Lecture Is in Gerrard

Dougald MacMillan, professor of English, will deliver the faculty lecture in the humanities for the current winter quarter in Gerrard hall this evening at 8:30.

This is one of a series of lectures begun several years ago as a means of presenting various members of the Humanities division faculty to the entire community, students, townspeople, University staff, and visitors. The series has proved successful and has included lectures representing all the foreign language departments, drama, art, music, archaeology, and English and American literature.

Professor MacMillan has chosen for his topic, "Speculum Comestudinis: The English Comedy of Manners." According to one of Professor MacMillan's colleagues, "no one who knows the lecturer or who knows the comedy of manners of the Restoration period will worry about the Latin title."

A graduate of the University immediately after World War I, Professor MacMillan received his master's and doctor's degrees here and has been a member of the faculty during his entire teaching career.

He interrupted his teaching for two years while he was residence fellow and then visiting scholar at the Huntington library in California in the mid-1930's.

He has recently been appointed a member of the advisory council of the Folger Shakespeare library in Washington, and he is at work as general editor in charge of dramatic works for the William Andrews Clark edition of the "Works of John Dryden" being sponsored by the University of California, owner of the Clark library with its rich Dryden holdings.

Five Contests Set For High Schools

The dates for five high school academic contests to be held this spring were announced here today by Secretary E. R. Rankin, who will conduct the contests for the Extension division and several departments of the University.

They are: physics contest, April 15; mathematics, April 22; Latin, May 13; Spanish, May 19, and French, May 20.

Participation will be open to students in all accredited North Carolina public high schools.

Harris Cites Honor Code Enforcement

Report Warns Of Punishment

The Men's Honor council yesterday heralded a crack-down on honor violations with the announcement that "any student found guilty of violating the Honor code should be suspended from the University for at least one quarter."

A report released by Chairman Page Harris of the council continued, "Anyone who cheats, lies, steals or fails to report violations that he sees must be dealt with severely."

"Our self-imposed Honor system is the basis of the freedom that we enjoy here, and without its proper functioning we cannot long retain these privileges."

Harris said reporting another student for cheating is "perhaps one of the most difficult things for us to do while we are here at the University." He said however, when the logical reasons behind the reporting are studied, it becomes evident that it is a vital part of the Honor system.

The council report pointed out that a cheater is not only violating the Honor pledge he signed when he entered the University, but is also cheating himself, his fellow-students, his instructor "and perhaps even his future business associates."

In the years the University has been in existence, Harris said for the council, many plans have been tried for controlling cheating, lying and stealing. "By far the best," the council chairman said, "is our present Honor system."

"Due to this Honor system there is a feeling of mutual trust and respect among us students and between us and the faculty and the administration. We must all work not only to abide by the Honor code ourselves, but to see that our fellow-students do their part, too."

Edwards Will Be Rendezvous Guest

Barbara Edwards, singing star of the "Beggars' Opera," will be the guest vocalist on tonight's Rendezvous radio show to be broadcast over station WDUK at 9:15. This will be Barbara's first appearance in the Rendezvous room this year.

A native of Troy, she is a graduate of Converse college and a former student in dramatic arts at the University. She played a leading role in the local production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" last year.

Appearing with Barbara on the program will be Becky Holton, tap dancing star of last week's competitive sorority floor show. Becky danced in the Alpha Gamma Delta portion of the show. Tommy Thomas and Dick Johnson, song and dance team, will also return for a repeat performance.

The Harmony Five quintet, composed of Bob Hurley, Jack Clinard, Lanier Davis, Dick Smith, and Milton Bliss, will sing several of Frank Matthews' original arrangements. The comedian for the show will be Herman Ethelbert Emshiviller, alias Ralph Mulford, who will interrupt the program with comic telephone calls.

Dr. Adkins Joins Symposium in D. C.

Dr. Dorothy C. Adkins, of the department of psychology, is participating in a symposium Feb. 25 and 26 in Washington. The program, on "Criterion Methodology in Personnel Research," is under the sponsorship of the adjutant general's office.