

Alpha Gams Honor KAs At 'New' Fete

By Don Maynard
Jasper had a night off Tuesday. About 7:15, he put the lid on his cracked-ice-box in the Rendezvous, tamped a handful of ice securely into his hip flask, and trudged off to the Alpha Gamma Delta-Kappa Alpha "pah-ty."

He had met his girl, Orphelia, earlier that day and she had asked him over.
"But I'm not a KA," he protested through a mouthful of cracked ice.

"That's all right," Orphelia retorted, "you won't be noticed. Everyone will be eating, singing, playing spin-the-bottle, chewing marshmallow strings, acting out charades and eating."

So, Jasper went to the Alpha Gam house. The moment Orphy and he entered the door, they were wedged into the molding by the surging 45 Alpha Gams and 80 KA's.

"Jove," Jasper murmured, twisting around and glancing back at the door through which he had entered. "They're calling this the 'New South Pah-ty.' What happened to the Republicans?"

The house was all bedecked in crimson and gold, traditional colors of Kappa Alpha. The girls were all bedecked.

Jasper wandered through the rooms, getting underfoot, until he found himself a niche and spectated Bob Kirby and Barbara Crawford gobbling a piece of candied string, trying to beat each other to the coveted marshmallow suspended half-way between them.

"Barbara got it after a tussle," Jasper said. "Course, she cheated. You can't trust these coeds. And do you know what she said after all that illegal holding and chewing? 'It was well worth it!'"

Jasper watched Bill Moore and Bunny Davis, "chomping the string," with awe.

"Why, what's wrong, Jasper?" asked Allene Warren.

"This is a most ravenous pah-ty. . . ." Jasper whispered.

"Dortch (you-knew-he-would) Warriner won the string-gobbling contest with Eleanor Hope Newell. And all he had to report was, 'Wuff!'" said Jasper.

Jasper said the "pah-ty" then moved to the floor, where three spin-the-bottle games were going on. "Senator" L. P. Martin was the first to break the House ruling that all KA's were obliged to kiss the ladies' hands. No one spotted when or where he broke it, but Jasper was firm, "He broke it, all right, all right."

Discontent zephered through the participants, and Tom Able typified the feeling when he said, "OK, now let's all start playing quarter and half, instead of this five and dime stuff."

"Yeah, the girls had a few chances to kiss the boys—gently on the guys' cheeks," Jasper complained.

Charades took the spotlight, and several, hot all, of the bidders moved from their rooms to the large living room to take part in the representations of "Dark-ton Strutter's Ball," "Down at The Station," and the brain-stumper of them all, "Red Sales in the Sunset."

"I kept looking for Charlie Justice taking off into that sunset, but then, he's not a KA, is he?" Jasper reflected.

"I got a kick from John Cooper's burlesque of a patent-medicine testimonial, and I looked forward to singing 'Hark the Sound,'" but when three KA's waved a coke bottle over my head and made me stand in reverence for 'Dixie' I wuz there, but I wuz through. All we Jasper Tutes hail from Brooklyn, USA, the heart of the world."

Jasper and Orphy waved good-night and thanked housemother Mrs. Clark for the "Russian" tea and cookies, but Jasper could be heard repeating as he walked into the night, "I wuz intimidated."

Honored at Tea

The program will include a Beethoven quartet, "Dover Beach" by Samuel Barber, with words by Matthew Arnold, and a Ravel quartet.

SPE, Alumni Hear Address By R. B. House

Chancellor Robert B. House spoke before the Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers and alumni at a Founder's day dinner Saturday, playing his harmonica, relating anecdotes of his own college experiences and then turning to the more serious aspects of the college career.

House extended a challenge to fraternities saying that fraternity men must strive individually for the good of the group. In this way, he said, they will gain from their college experience the implements, both cultural and social, which will make them leaders in the country and prove the worth of the fraternity system.

Fraternities must set their scholastic standards higher than the University standards, he added. By doing this, the individual fraternity will enhance its name on campus as well as among universities of America, House said.

Among alumni present were J. S. Massenburg, a state attorney; Carlton Pitman, speaker pro-tem of the State legislature, and Hearne Swink, secretary of Cannon Mills.

The local Sig Ep chapter was founded in 1921, but was inactive for seven years during the war. The chapter was reactivated in the summer of 1946.

McIver Dance Set Tomorrow Evening

Against a background of shamrocks and green coloring, McIver dormitory will give a St. Patrick's day dance in its parlor tomorrow night from 8:30 until 12 o'clock.

Carrying out the theme, McIver coeds will place card board shamrocks on the curtains and table cloths and will serve green-colored punch and cookies. Music will be furnished by a record player under the loud speaker system.

During intermission, Lucille Arnott, senior from Persia, Tenn., will sing Irish songs.

With blanket invitations sent to the University fraternities, approximately 400 guests are expected at the dance. Grace Snead, social chairman of McIver dormitory said. Marjorie Norris is chairman of the decorations committee.

Lenten Observance Heads Church Plans

In observance of Lent, a penitential period extending from Ash Wednesday to Easter, members of the Episcopal church celebrated Holy Communion yesterday morning at 7:15, and the Rev. David Yates spoke on the Beatitudes yesterday afternoon at 4:30 at the Ash Wednesday service.

Further services during the Lenten season are being held Monday through Friday afternoons at 5:15. At these daily services, which last about 30 minutes, Mr. Yates presents a series of talks about the services of the Episcopal prayer book. Students of all denominations are invited to attend the services.

Pan Hellenic 'Olio' Set for 2-Day Run March 25 and 28

The Pan Hellenic council will present a variety show March 25 and 28 in the Rendezvous room of Graham Memorial featuring skits of individual singing and dancing, by the five campus societies, and a "sophisticated" melodrama, Ferne Hughes, president of the council announced yesterday.

The show will be titled the "Olio," which in theater circles means the vaudeville part of a burlesque performance or minstrel show. Tickets will cost 50 cents each or two for 99 cents.

The Pan Hel is sponsoring the show in an effort to raise money for adopting a European war orphan through the Foster Parents association. Money sent through the association will provide food, shelter, medicine, and schooling for the orphan for the period of one year.

Pete Strader will direct the melodrama with Edie Knight as assistant director.

The Rev. E. C. Cooper will speak at the first of the Lenten services of the Lutheran church this Sunday at 5:30 o'clock in Gerrard hall.

Under the direction of Edlyn Freerks, devotional chairman for the Baptist Student union, short meditation periods are held each week-day at 1:00 o'clock in Gerrard hall. The Presbyterian Westminster fellowship will meet Friday evening at 6 o'clock for supper and a discussion program. And Saturday night the Presbyterians will have their last square dance of the season.

YWCA, Pine Room To Give Big Party In Lenoir Friday

Decorations of balloons and bright colored crepe paper will greet guests at the first big combination party and dance sponsored by the recreation committee of the YWCA tomorrow night in the Pine room of Lenoir hall. Given in honor of law, medical and pharmacy students, members of the Y Junior council, Y cabinet, Advisory board, and second floors of Spencer, McIver, and Alderman dorms, the dance will last from 9-12 o'clock.

A floor show featuring a tap routine by Becky Holton, comic ballet by Eleanor de Grange and songs by Anita Gates will highlight the evening. Nancy Curtis will accompany dances and singers on the piano and Norm Sper is to be master of ceremonies. Lime ice and cookies will be served during intermission.

A second social event is planned for spring quarter and will honor various other groups and departments on campus.
