Bricker remarked this afternoon that the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee apparently was not going to make an investigation. He said he called for it because he merely wanted all the facts on Dr. Graham's clearance aired in public.

Distinguished persons sitting in the Senate galleries for the ceremony included Under Secretary of State James E. Webb, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, Editor Jonathan Daniels of the Raleigh News and Observer, and U. S. Controller-General Lindsay Warren.

Chancellor Robert B. House, Dean of Students Fred Weaver, and Assistant Dean of Students Bill Friday were present to head a delegation from the University at Chapel Hill, which included more than a score of students who had driven up to see their beloved President become the new Senator.

Senator Hoey's office estimated that over 300 persons, the great majority of whom traveled to Washington from North Carolina for the ceremony, were given passes to the Senate galleries to watch the proceedings.

Mrs. Frank Graham, much more nervous than her smiling, genial husband, sat in the senate gallery throughout the ceremony. Also looking on from a gallery seat was Hubert Robinson, Dr. Graham's Negro chauffeur from Chapel Hill.

Senator Graham today occupied Senate desk number 65 beside Senator Hoey-one which

with Charles McCorkle A Discussion of the University Party Platform,

Which Is Neatly Broken Down Into 10 Concise Points to Benefit University Students HERE IS THE SECOND IN OUR SERIES of discussions of the platforms the three campus political parties are presenting to the student body for the spring elections of 1949. This one is on the University party's platform . . . . we will discuss the Student party planks in Friday's column, according to the The first plank in the UP platform says the University party will strive for a recreation center for dormitory men. We understand that there is a possibility that the Vets' Clubhouse will be available for such a purpose sometime in the future. Plank number says the UP will work for the advancement of the Greater University Student council, the organization made up of delegates from here, WC and State. The University party next promises to "provide a better system of parking at the University and fight any measure that would restrict student cars." Plank four pledges the UP to 'maintain the court system as it is today." Which means the boys and girls in the UP camp are satisfied with the present appeal system and the way it works. The UP says it will "demand" the grading of instructors by students, and pledges to "establish a Campus Chest with quarterly solicitations." Which means that the campus would no longer be bothered with a new drive for funds every time it turns around. The Campus Chest, as its name implies, would be modeled after the national Community Chest, and would take in all the minor organizations which ordinarily would conduct their own private drives for funds.
