The $1,000 was entirely from contributions mailed in to the drive treasurer, Gilbert Ray, and from the "tag day" which the Chapel Hill and Carrboro Girl Scouts carried out.

New Officers Hear Weaver Deliver Talk

'Atmosphere' Is Subject of Dean

Dean of Students Fred Weaver told a large group of newly-inaugurated student government officials last night that student government on this campus "is not a plaything or a make-believe affair," and that it operated "with more efficiency than the governments functioning at Raleigh, Washington or Lake Success."

Weaver was the principle speaker at a Lenoir Hall banquet of student leaders which wound up the Leadership Training Program carried on in the last two days. At the close of the evening Ex-President Jess Dedmond asked the Student Legislature to pass a law setting up the event as an annual affair with the name "The Frank Porter Graham Inauguration Banquet."

Weaver began his talk by announcing his subject as "atmosphere." He expanded his point by explaining that in Carolina campus life and student government, there is something that no other school can claim.

"It is an atmosphere," Weaver continued, "of freedom, democracy, good-fellowship, friendliness and cooperation. And you, the student leaders, are the guardians of that atmosphere—it depends on you more than anyone else."

Referring to a recent deans' convention in Chicago which he attended, the University Dean of Students commented, "It would be tragic if on this campus we practiced the tyranny that is carried on at some of the other schools represented here."

"Don't just be a consumer of Chapel Hill's greatness," Weaver concluded. "Be a producer. Because if you just take away and do not produce and put back in, we won't have that greatness 'or very long.'"

'Jes One Drink' Costs Defendant 30 Days in Jail

"I won't drink, I jes had one drink," was Melvin Pendergrass' oft repeated phrase as he appeared in Recorder's Court here before Judge Henry A. Whitfield yesterday morning.

Mel, charged with being drunk, had been picked up just three hours after being released upon paying a fine for the same charge. He put up such a pitiful plea that he was sick and had taken 'jes one drink that Judge Whitfield said, "Mel, if you sit here long enough, you'll talk us into giving you a drink."

To help Mel keep his promise not to get drunk again Judge Whitfield sentenced him to 30 days in jail, execution to issue on motion of the prosecuting attorney.

Other cases on the docket included: Bill Markman, Negro, female, disorderly conduct, $5 and costs.

George H. Eubanks, Negro, driving drunk, $100 and costs.

William N. Harrell, improper equipment, no lights, costs.

SDA Civil Rights Meet Will Open Saturday

Conference To Include Other Schools; 'No Particular Program,' Says Lindsey

Students for Democratic Action will open a civil rights conference at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Bingham hall.

The group has invited students from other campuses in the state to come to Chapel Hill this week end and discuss the problem of civil rights in a group of three seminars.

"SDA doesn't have any particular program to put over," Bob Lindsey, chairman of the group said today. "We think, however it's time to approach the problem of civil rights with a positive attitude, instead of shouting about it and never coming to grips with it."

"The purpose of the conference this week end is to stimulate students at the conference into some hard thinking on civil rights. We Southerners will never get the answers to this problem if we don't first ask ourselves the questions."

Dan Bell Elected Council Chairman

Lowe Selected Clerk; New Chairman Wins Over Holston; Was High Man in Elections

Dan Bell, rising junior from Pittsboro, was named chairman of the Student Council for the 1949-50 term yesterday. Barbara Lowe, rising senior from Washington, N. Y., was elected clerk.

The Council, in its first meeting since the election, picked Bell as chairman over Roy Holston. The new chairman replaces Bill Mackie, newly-elected student body president.

Bell is a Commerce-Law major and a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. He ran first among the men's council candidates in both the general and runoff elections.

Lowe is a former member of the Woman's Council and a member of the NSA committee. She was picked for the clerk post by acclamation.

All of the nine members of the high court are first-termers. New members besides Bell and Lowe are Roy Holston, Peggy Martin, Ted Young, Cam West, Kitty Altizer, Sally Osborne and Kyle Barnes.

In accepting the chairmanship, Bell stated, "I consider it a great honor to be chosen chairman of such a fine group of council members and look forward to a very successful year."

Lenoir Pine Room To Be Available For Free Dancing

Beginning Monday evening, April 25, the Pine Room of Lenoir Hall will be opened at 6 o'clock for dancing.

In a joint announcement, made yesterday by the YMCA, the YWCA, and Mr. L. B. Rogerson, manager of Lenoir Hall, it was stated that the Pine Room would be opened from 6 until 7:30 Monday through Thursday for students who wish to dance. No charge will be made and music will be continuous.

A representative from each of the Y's will be on hand each night to act as host and hostess. Their purpose will be to introduce people and to see that the dances are conducted in an orderly manner.

A "Y" spokesman said yesterday that "the new innovation is being presented for the students on a trial basis. If it meets with the success that we anticipate it will become a permanent thing. Mr. Rogerson has offered us the Pine Room in accordance with his policy of striving to give the students better service. If everything works out as planned, we may be able to make more services available in the future."

Alumni Meeting To Open Tonight

University of North Carolina alumni who gather here tonight for their annual alumni assembly, will hear talks by Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., and Chancellor R. B. House.

Judge Henry L. Stevens of Warsaw, alumni association president, will preside at the assembly which will center around a dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the Carolina Inn. Special invitations to attend have been issued to officers of county alumni associations and organized alumni classes, but it was pointed out today by alumni association officers that any alumnus is eligible to attend. Reservations are asked to be made by notifying the alumni office in Chapel Hill.

In addition to talks by Controller Carmichael and Chancellor House, the meeting will be featured by a "town meeting" discussion of University matters in which all alumni will be invited to participate.

Here at Last! Ten-Cent Beer In 8-Oz. Mugs To Be Served Only At 'Cocktail Hours'

New York's nickel beer hasn't gotten quite this far south yet, but for two hours each day, beginning today, Danzigers' Ramshackel Rathskellar will offer Chapel Hill's first post-war dime beer.

Ted Danziger, owner of the "old country" type tavern said yesterday that the new beer will be served in an 8 inch mug. Questioned as to the whys and wherefores of the important change in beer prices, Danziger said, "It's springtime, I get up earlier, I come to work sooner and I might as well have company while I'm about it."

"We're limiting our dime beer sales to the 'cocktail hours,'" he said, "mostly because I don't want to go broke. The beer will be sold practically at cost, because I think there are lots of boys and girls who might have an extra hour or so before supper and will enjoy the 'cocktail hour beer.' 'Of course,'" he added, "we'll still be offering our regular chicken suppers and other services from 5 o'clock on."

What effect the new price of ten cents for a mug of beer would have in other restaurants and cafes which sell the popular suds could not be determined yesterday.

Friends Speaker To Appear Here

Bob Forsberg, representative of the American Friends Service Committee in Italy for the past year, will speak in the YMCA tonight at 8 o'clock.

Forsberg, who spent three years in Europe working mainly with the International Work Camp Movement in Italy, will talk informally about his experiences there and give his views on the present situation in Europe.

Speaking upstairs in the "Y," Forsberg will show colored slides of pictures he made in Europe.

It Can't Happen Here!

Reports Reveal Feminine Invaders Crashed Men's Dormitories Here

By Charles McCorkle
It was a bewildered group of freshmen that chased two masculine-dressed girls out of Alexander Dormitory late Tuesday evening, according to campus reports yesterday.

The intruders, as nearly as could be ascertained, were the same two who crashed several men's dormitories at State College in Raleigh on Saturday night, April 2. The State student newspaper, "The Technician," described them as "two very, very brave girls from a nearby college dressed in blue jeans and shirts, with their hair rolled up under baseball caps."

The descriptions of Tuesday night's Carolina invaders had them clothed in men's slacks, white shirts, and saddle shoes, with one wearing a rain hat and rain coat and the other sporting a man's jacket and a white "party" hat.

Reports yesterday indicated that the imposters had visited not only Alexander, where they were discovered, but also Whitehead, "C," and Battle-Vance-Pettigrew. In each dorm they went through, they left their "calling cards"—short notes such as the one found in Alexander which read, "Who would believe two girls were here? Well, we were!" The note was on green paper and had two peering eyes drawn at the top. Some of the notes were signed "J. and H."

Bob Hamer, a resident of the freshman dormitory, yesterday named roommates Lacey Walters and John Thorpe as two of the men who had seen the "strangers" wandering around the dorm halls Tuesday night.

At State College, the two girls were recognized by a student who spied them in Bagwell Dormitory, but was too slow to catch them. At State, the girls bragged in a letter to "The Technician," that
