The student house, or apartment, composed of three large rooms and a kitchen, is located in the wooden frame house across the street from the Baptist Church.

The importance and value of interpreting archeological remains in Peru, Columbia, Ecuador and various other South American countries was stressed by Dr. Wendell C. Bennett of Yale University in an address given here last night in Gerrard Hall at the University of North Carolina.

This was Dr. Bennett's first visit to the University in Chapel Hill. He was introduced by Dr. John Gillin, professor in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University.

Dr. Bennett was scheduled to meet informally with several student groups Friday morning, these sessions being arranged by Dr. S. E. Leavitt, Director of the Institute of Latin-American Studies.

'It Is Our Fault'

Leonard Tells New Legislature Apathy Not Fault of Students

By Charles McCorkle
Ted Leonard, newly-inaugurated vice-president of the student body and speaker of the Student Legislature, told that assembly last night "it is our fault" that students are "just not interested in student government."

Leonard addressed a special session of the body which held the first meeting of the Seventh Student Legislature in the hall of the Dialectic Senate.

"All of you have undoubtedly run into the same type of thing I have," Leonard told the group. "Students just aren't interested in student government. I believe that is not the fault of the students, but is our fault."

"Our job is not just to meet here on Thursday nights," the new speaker continued. "We must find out what the students want and then carry out their wishes."

Leonard said students seem to "ascend to a higher plane" when they are elected to office. "If anything," he said, "they should descend to a lower plane. They are servants of the student body and should serve humbly."

Bill Miller, retiring chairman of the Orientation Committee and a former member of the Legislature, spoke to the group at the request of Leonard and retiring President Jess Dedmond. Miller told them that contrary to rumor, student government was not "on the rocks. It is alive and functioning daily."

Legislator Al Lowenstein, addressing the final session of the old Legislature, moved that a gavel be presented to retiring Speaker Pro Tempore Joe Leary for his service to the assembly. The motion passed unanimously.

'Repple Depple'

Hirsch Production Will Include Plenty of Authenticity, Realism

By Ed Moss
In all their stage productions the Carolina Playmakers strive to obtain a high degree of authenticity. A new high in realism has been reached in Sam Hirsch's full length original play "Repple Depple" which will be presented in the Playmaker Theater April 28 and 29 at 7:30. This hilarious comedy about life in an army replacement depot in France should find particular favor among the veterans on the campus.

From the opening scene to the final curtain it is obvious that the author is well acquainted with his subject matter and has spent some time in a replacement depot. Added to this is the fact that many of the veterans in the cast know all too well the feeling of frustration, despair and cynicism which go hand in hand with life in a repple-depple. Remarkable finesse has apparently been used to select a cast which fulfills the delineations of character made by the author in the script.

A fine example of good casting is the character of "Mama," a French madame of the type familiar to so many G.I.s who were in France during the war. Lois Latham, a graduate student (See PLAY, page 4)

Candidate Ed Lanier Lashes At Incumbent Mayor Madry

By Margaret Gaston
Edwin S. Lanier, candidate for mayor in the Chapel Hill municipal election May 3, yesterday blasted the incumbent, R. W. Madry, in a statement in which he accused the present mayor of becoming his self-appointed campaign manager.

Declaring that he was dropping

Alderman Charges Official With Being 'My Self-Appointed Campaign Manager'

this "triple-threat opponent" from his campaign staff, Lanier said he did not see "eye to eye" with candidate Madry. He pointed out that Madry had asserted that there were no issues, but that he would not be running for mayor if that were true. The race for mayor, just two weeks off, between Madry, and Lanier, a member of the Board of Aldermen since 1945, is gaining momentum, as Lanier promises to have more to say in a meeting of the League of Women voters next Tuesday night.

"The League of Women voters have scheduled a forum meeting for candidates to be held in the Town Hall next Tuesday night, April 26. I hope to be present. Candidate Madry has been playing one tune since March 29—namely, 'My opponent seems to see things eye to eye with me and apparently there are no issues.'"

"Candidate Madry, therefore, will probably try to sit on the same chair with me at the League's forum meeting," Lanier said. "He and I do not see things eye to eye. If I were in agreement with him on all things, I would not be running. Nor do I agree with him that there are no issues. But about that conclusion of his I will have more to say next Tuesday night."

Continuing his attack, Lanier said, "Beginning Monday afternoon, March 28, soon after 3:30 o'clock, the day and hour I filed with the Town Clerk notice of my candidacy for mayor of Chapel Hill, Mayor Madry, for the first time in four years, abandoned his slow-motion and ears-to-the-ground techniques and went into a frenzy of activity."

Lanier pointed out that "by 5:30 that day, Madry had filed notice of his intention to run for re-election, added himself to my campaign staff, started preparing news releases on a sidewalk program and a proposed new zoning ordinances 'to be adopted in April.'"

Lanier then said "If whistle team of that kind by candidate Madry had been for the past four years, used by Mayor Madry to help the aldermen turn wheels, I think we would be further along with many items of considerable importance to this town."

Coed, Faculty All-Stars To Play Ball Next Week

The star-studded contest will be held in Kenan Stadium on Wednesday at 3 o'clock. There will be no admission charge. The committee in charge of the game is composed of Charlie Foley, chairman, Jane Pruitt, Gene Carpenter, and Paul Stevens.

One entry may be made for each position in the two lineups. The 10 coeds and the nine faculty members receiving the highest number of votes will fill the starting lineups. When casualties occur during the game, runners-up will be substituted.

Only Public Ceremony

Fleece Tapping Monday Night Is 46th in University History

By Charlie Gibson

For the forty-sixth time in University history, Memorial Hall will be the scene of a Golden Fleece tapping Monday evening at 7:45. This will be campus's one opportunity to see a public ceremony of its leading honorary organization.

Formed in 1903, the Order of the Golden Fleece was first conceived in its mythological entirety by Dr. Eben Alexander, then Dean of the University and past envoy to Greece where he helped reestablish the quadrennial Olympic Games. Dr. Alexander was a member of the Skull and Bones at Yale, the first honorary society on an American college campus. He wished to see the University become second in the nation to honor its outstanding campus men, and thus the Fleece was founded.

Mackie to Set SDA Keynote At Conference

Bill Mackie, president of the student body, will deliver the keynote address at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Bingham Hall, opening the two-day Civil Rights conference sponsored by the Students for Democratic Action.

The theme of the conference, as Mackie will point out, is directed toward the working out of a reasonable Southern approach to Civil Rights which realizes the need for some change and the national trend toward this change. The conference will emphasize the participation of Southern liberals in facing the various racial issues squarely and in the finding of solutions through a rational rather than an emotional approach.

Three student seminars including representatives from many North Carolina colleges will meet simultaneously in two sessions. These will be held at 3 and 8 o'clock Saturday in the Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial.

The seminar subjects will cover the three main fields of the Civil Rights program.
