Dr. Polgar Show Is Slated Tonight

Hypnotist Will Be Final Attraction Presented By SEC

By Charlie Gibson

Dr. Franz J. Polgar, telepathist and hypnotist extraordinary, will be presented in his "Miracles of the Mind" show tonight at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall as the final attraction on the Student Entertainment Committee program for the current year.

Polgar's exhibition of mind reading, memory feats, and mass hypnotism with volunteers from the audience will be admission-free to all University students. However, admission will also be sold to non-students, according to Scotty Venable, chairman of the SEC which is appropriated funds by Student Legislature to bring varied attractions of interest to the campus. For 75 cents each, faculty members, student wives, and townspeople may purchase tickets when the doors of Memorial Hall open at 7 o'clock—one hour before the show begins.

This will be a return engagement to the University for the mental wizard who scored such a hit in an appearance here last year that he was brought back the next week to his second capacity crowd in Memorial Hall. His making different student volunteers from the audience imagine themselves three years old, stuck to their chairs, or intoxicated on ordinary water could not be explained by sceptics here but was generally enjoyed by all who witnessed his stunts at that time.

It is understood that "The Amazing Dr. Polgar" will open his program tonight with his standard trick—that of letting the audience hide his check for this performance anywhere in the building while he is taken offstage and watched by three local students. If he is unable to find the check upon returning onstage, Polgar stipulates that he will perform tonight without any charges to the SEC. Previously he has located checks secreted in women's hats and even under a man's upper plate.

Dr. Polgar has been tested by psychology professors and specialists at many universities and medical centers, and his powers for actual thought transference have never been disproved. Having toured for many years since he gained these unusual mental abilities following a head wound in World War I, this showman is held in high esteem in the entertainment world. Evidence of that is his being the only member of his profession to be listed in "Who's Who in America."

Cosmopolitans, CCUN will Hear Talk by Brandis

"The Atlantic Pact and the United Nations," will be the topic of Dr. Henry Brandis' address before a combined meeting of the Cosmopolitan club and CCUN tomorrow night at 8:15 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Dr. Brandis' address will close a day of activities for the two organizations.

Tomorrow afternoon, a state-wide radio network will carry a panel discussion on the same topic. The panel is made up of Dr. Brandis, dean of the law school; Dr. Arnold Nash, head of the department of religion; Mr. Russell Gramman, director of the extension division; and Mr. Ken Lawry, graduate student from Devon, England. The broadcast has been arranged through the communications center and was transcribed last week for re-broadcast.

The Cosmopolitan club will hold a supper meeting for its members Wednesday night at 6:30 at the First Baptist church. Members who wish to attend the supper are urged to secure tickets from Ken Lawry, 105 "B" dorm.

Dr. Franz Polgar, above, noted hypnotist, will entertain University students tonight in Memorial Hall. Dr. Polgar is making a return engagement after a successful appearance here last year. His publicity releases warn readers to avoid staring at the above picture for there is a possibility that a person can become hypnotized from looking at it.

NC Symphony Opens Member Drive This Week

The annual membership drive of the North Carolina Symphony Society is being conducted on the campus this week as a prelude to the May 2 appearance of the Full Symphony Orchestra in Memorial Hall.

The drive will be highlighted by a fund-raising competition between fraternities, sororities, and men and women's dormitories. The particular fraternity, sorority or dormitory which collects the largest amount of money will have the privilege of naming one of the selections to be presented by the orchestra on the local program. The money, which will be collected through ticket sales and contributions, will be turned over to the Symphony Society. Student membership will cost $1.20 and the tickets, which can be purchased at the Pan-Hellenic booth in the "Y," will enable the holder to attend all concerts of the orchestra prior to the local presentation.

The North Carolina Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Benjamin Swalin, is the only organization of its type to receive yearly grants of money from the state government. The orchestra tours the state each year, carrying symphonic music to all the people and presenting special free programs for children.

Russian Art: Bad and Tawdry

Emma Lou Davis, Renowned UNC Sculpturist Wants To See Art 'Returned To The People'

By Henry Albricht

A solo flight to California in her private plane and back during Spring Holidays is nothing to Guest Art Instructor Emma Lou Davis.

As a matter of fact being a noted sculpturist, visiting in many foreign nations studying art, and working and teaching in all sections of the United States is just an every day occurrence to Miss Davis.

"I love to just bum around and meet new ideas of art and sculpture, and I'll probably never settle down to one locale for too long a period of time," the attractive sculpturist said. "If you have the desire and the push, you can visit anywhere in the world and do exactly as I have," she continued.

When asked about her impression of the Russian artist and his work when she visited in Russia in 1935, the artist said, "The Russian popular taste is toward bad and tawdry styles in painting and sculpture. Russia has not a broad or intelligent popular base of appreciation of beautiful projects."

But she continued, "I believe that the Soviet artist enjoys the happiest situation in the world from an economic-social standpoint: as a trade union member he enjoys protection and social security, he never lacks employment, and building and decorative projects are broad enough to include all varieties of work—except good work, as I have said."

Madry, Lanier Speak at Town Meet Tonight

Ed Lanier Answers League's Questions

The Chapel Hill League of Women Voters have scheduled a forum meeting for tonight at eight-thirty in the school building in which all candidates for Mayor, Recorder's Court Judge, and three Aldermen's places have been invited.

The League has asked the candidates to state their position on four questions, and have notified the candidates that each will have five to seven minutes to answer the questions and to state his views "on any other issues he believes to be of importance." The election will be held in Chapel Hill May 3.

Yesterday Edwin S. Lanier, candidate for Mayor, said, "The League's questions are important and I want to answer them. However, I want to do so before Tuesday night. There are other important matters I want to discuss at that time. I cannot cover those items and the League's questions in seven minutes." Lanier then outlined his reply to the League's questions, as follows:

"Would I favor an ordinance change limiting School Board, Recreation Commissioners and Planning Board Members to one term, prohibiting a member from succeeding himself?—These offices are appointive by the Board of Aldermen, which Board keeps itself informed about the interest, activity, and diligence of these officers. Appointments which prove unsatisfactory have a slim chance of getting four of the six aldermen's votes for re-appointment. A conscientious, competent, alert member of either of these groups may not be willing to succeed himself, but he should not be, by ordinance, declared ineligible to do so.

"Would I favor financial support for recreation in Chapel Hill, the money to come from other than tax funds?—I believe in the values of organized, supervised recreation programs for our children, but I am unwilling to appropriate from the town's revenues the funds necessary for such programs without a vote of the people. I am willing and ready to submit that question to a vote of the people, provided the people are given prior to the election a statement from the Board of Aldermen of the other urgent, unfulfilled community needs. We simply cannot, within our present fees and taxable resources, have (See LANIER, page 4)

Wiley Will Give Humanities Talk In Gerrard Hall

Dr. W. L. Wiley of the Romance Languages Department will give the Faculty Humanities Lecture for the current quarter in eGerrard Hall at 8:30 tonight. His subject will be on "A Gentleman's Code of Honor in Renaissance France."

This lecture, one of a series of faculty lectures sponsored by the Division of Humanities, closes the 1948-49 series. The lectures are intended to present members of the University faculty in talks adapted to non-specialists, undergraduate and graduate students, members of the faculty in all departments, and townspeople.

Within three lectures a year the sponsors make an attempt to present something of the range of arts and literature within the humanities departments. The lectures this year, for example, presented medieval Italy, England of the Restoration period, and now Renaissance France.

French Farce Is Now in Rehearsal

Rehearsals for the 17th Century French farce, Moliere's "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," are now in progress as the Theatre Francais is preparing to present their annual production on May 5 and 6 in the Playmaker Theatre.

Directed by Walter D. Creech, of the Romance Language Department, "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," will be performed next week by the following cast: Florence McCulloch, Yvonne Creech, Urban T. Holmes, Jacques Har-dre, Ed Draper-Savage, Otis Beeson, Walter Raturemore, Robert Hooper, and Bill Rutherford.

Fleece Taps Parker, 18 Others; Chi O's, Sig Chi's Take Sing

Groups Repeat For Second Year In Valkyrie Sing

Repeating for the second straight year, Chi Omega sorority and Sigma Chi fraternity won the annual Valkyrie sing last night in Memorial Hall. The winners received loving cups, presented by Sally Woodhull, president of the Valkyries.

The Chi Omega's won their cup for a rendition of a "Southern Medley" of eight songs. The Sigma Chi singers rendered ofur "Hobo Junction" tunes.

The sing, built around a "Once Upon a Banquet Night" theme, opened with a recitation of the Valkyrie legend.

Other entrants in the sing included:

Woman's Division: Alpha Delta Pi, "Window Shopping," Alpha Gamma Delta, "Indian Legend," CICA, "Arboretum Jamboree," Tri Delta, "Delta Party," Pi Phi, "Carolina Merry-Go-Round."

In the men's division: Alpha Tau Omega, negro spirituals; Phi Gamma Delta, "Wine, Women, and Song."

The committee in charge of the affair included Jo Butler, Sue Stokes, and Teenie Royall. The continuity script was written by Sue Stokes and recited by Stokes and Edie Knight.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Samuel Selden and Foster Fitzsimmons of the Dramatic Art Department, Jane Grills of the Radio Department, Mrs. Robert Wetach and Norman Gordon.

The championship cups will be kept by winners for one year. The awards are rotating and retired when won by one group three consecutive years. Sponsors of the annual song-fest, the Valkyries are the highest honorary organization for women on the campus. Limiting their membership to two per cent of the coed enrollment, the group selects members on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Atom Bomb Planes Going to England

WASHINGTON, April 25—(UP)—An Air Force spokesman said today the 509th Bomber Group is being sent to England for training as part of a regular rotation plan that has no connection with its atom bombing experience.

THE LONE SURVIVOR of the 1944 Christmas season massacre at Malmedy, Belgium, in which 150 U. S. soldiers were slaughtered by the Nazis with machine gun fire, Kenneth R. Ahrens (right), Erie, Pa., is shown in Washington with D. A. Scalise, of Warren, Pa. Ahrens, who escaped by playing dead, told the story of the massacre to a Senate subcommittee inquiring into methods used to obtain confessions from the Germans accused of the killings. Scalise witnessed the Malmedy trials.

CICA Fashion Parade Scheduled For Tonight

Carolina Theater Will Be Show Scene As Local Models Display Campus Styles

What the well dressed college student will wear this spring will be displayed tonight at the spring fashion show sponsored by the Carolina Independent Coed Association at the Carolina Theater from 9 to 11 o'clock.

A variety of spring activities will be featured, with the proper clothes for each being modeled by students chosen from the five sororities, CICA, Town Girls Association, and the Monogram Club.

Script for the show was written by Pete Strader, who will also act as master of ceremonies. Music will be furnished by the Town Talk trio.

Formal wear for a dance or a wedding, dress up clothes for such affairs as dormitory teas; outfits for graduation weekend; for picnics, sports and beach parties, or for classes and Y courting will be displayed to show the clothes necessary for the typical Carolina coed or gentleman.

Clothes were obtained from Robbin's of Durham and from the Varsity Shop, Julian's College Shop, Lipman's, and Milton's Clothing Cupboard of Chapel Hill.

Admission to the show, sponsored annually by the independent women, will be 50 cents per person. Tickets are on sale today in the Y lobby, or may be purchased at the door.

Climax to the show will be a wedding scene, with apparel for both guests and bridal party being displayed. Betsy Ross will model as the bride; Barbara Dalton, maid of honor, and Betty Long and Patty Ann Frizzell as bridesmaids.

DTH is Awarded All-American In Annual Rating

The Daily Tar Heel was one of 15 college dailies in the United States receiving an All-American rating in the Associated Collegiate Press's annual judging of newspapers, it was announced this week. The rating is the highest given by the group.

Scoring 905 out of a possible 1,035 points, the paper made the highest possible rating on news coverage, vitality of news, editorial page, and features. Judging was done in 21 different departments.

The Daily Tar Heel did best in the editorial and feature division, scoring 240 out of a possible 270 points. It scored lowest in typography, headlines and makeup, getting 200 of a possible 265.

Concert by Band Set for Sunday

The University Band, directed by Earl Slocum, will present the first of three lawn concerts to be played during the month of May this Sunday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon near Davie poplar. Other concerts will be held on May 15 and May 29.

This Sunday's program will be conducted by six graduating seniors in the Music Department who are to be band directors in the various high schools of the state beginning next September. These future band directors are as follows: Harry Hall, Edwin Litaker, Dwight Price, James Rodgers, Kenneth Stroup, and Gene Stryker.

In case of rain the concert will be played in Hill Music Hall.

Marshall To Speak To Faculty Club

Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the planetarium will address the Faculty Club meeting tomorrow at 1:00 o'clock in the Carolina Inn. Dr. Marshall will talk on "Preview of the Planetarium Plans."

Berryhill Picked As Faculty Man; Justice Chosen

Along with 17 University students and a faculty member, Judge John J. Parker, of Charlotte, Judge of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, was honored last night at the annual Golden Fleece tapping ceremonies in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Walter Reece Berryhill, head of the University Medical School, was the faculty member selected this year for membership in the Fleece, highest secret honorary order for men on campus.

The 17 students chosen for their distinctive records in special activities and general all-around excellence of character and leadership were:

The Fleece officers for 1948-49 who were revealed for the first time last night in the Order's one public meeting of the year were Bill Miller, Jason; Wayne Brenengen, vice-Jason; Bob Coulter, Grammateus; and Basil Sherill, Christopher.

Judge Parker's retapping into the Fleece for his record as a University alumnus was in keeping with a precedent started last year when the Order so honored Kay Kyser, Tar Heeldom's famed band leader and radio star instrumental in promoting a good health program in the State.

Parker was presented a plaque bearing the Fleece insignia in recognition of his service to the University and the country as the recipient of the American Bar Association's award in 1943 for distinguished service to American jurisprudence and his service as judge on the Nuremberg war crimes tribunal. He was appointed to the federal bench by President Hoover and was a former Republican candidate for Governor of North Carolina. He graduated from the University in 1907.

Parker and the other neophyte Fleece members were inducted into the select order after they were singled out from the audience by black-robed figures moving slowly up and down the aisles of the darkened Memorial Hall while weird music was played over a loud speaker with a large portion of the student body looking on in suspense.

The chosen 19 were not notified in advance of the ceremony. Only when each initiate was poured upon by one of the black-robed figures did a beam of searchlight identify him. The new members along with Fleece alumnus from all over the State invited back for the occasion were honor guests at a private supper in the Carolina Inn following the public ritual. At this banquet, Judge Parker was the featured speaker.

All-Star Game To Be Tomorrow

The Coed All-Stars will meet the Faculty All-Stars tomorrow in a softball game to be sponsored by the University Club as a part of Blue-White Week.

Balloting will take place in the Y, and all ballots should be in by 11 o'clock.
