The Daily Tar Heel

Continued fair and warm

WOUNDED SOLDIERS OF THE NATIONALIST ARMY (top) are pictured as they passed through Nanking, fleeing the powerful Communist juggernaut moving down on them from the north. Below, scores of refugees fill a small train, one of the last to leave Nanking for Shanghai, before Red spearheads severed the line. Now completely abandoned as the capital by Government forces, Nanking has been taken over by Red underground leaders, pending arrival of Communists armies, which have crossed the Yangtze River.

Madry Stands On Past Acts In City Contest

No Tax Hike Seen, Mayor Tells Women

Appearing with the other candidates before an open forum meeting sponsored by the Chapel Hill League of Women Voters at the elementary school last night, Mayor Robert W. Madry, a candidate for reelection in the town election May 3, said he would stand on the record of the town government during his tenure of office, "bearing in mind that proper credit should be given the aldermen, town manager and other appointive officers, and other municipal employes for whatever we may have been able to accomplish by working together."

He said he felt that Chapel Hill had been extremely fortunate in that it has had over a period of years exceptionally able aldermen, capable city managers, good police and fire departments, considering their limited personnel, and a hard working, loyal labor force.

The Mayor said that "many long-felt needs have been met during the last several years, including the construction of a new sewage disposal plant and connecting lines; the paving of a number of streets and the resurfacing of others, and the acquisition of new equipment for the town's labor force."

Through the cooperation of the University, which shared in the cost, these improvements were made with a $260,000 bond issue and without increasing the tax rate.

"And no tax rate increase is contemplated for the coming year. "In recent years the University has made substantial increases in its payments to the town government for joint services rendered."

In this connection, he said, the Legislature had just passed an act which enables cities and towns to issue revenue producing bonds for the purchase of public utilities, with the cost to be liquidated by receipts from such utilities.

He said the Legislature had (See MADRY, Page 4)

Di Will Discuss Communist Bill

An accidental duplication of topics by the Di Senate and the Carolina Political Union indicates today that the Carolina campus is becoming as conscious of the Red menace as the national United American Activities Committee. Both of the organizations have scheduled for their debates tonight, Resolved: That the Communist Party should be outlawed in the United States by congressional action.

Sam Manning, chairman of the Di Ways and Means Committee, explained today that the duplication was entirely accidental and that if any of the debaters from the CPU would desire to join in the Di debate later in the evening, they would be welcome to do so.

Two Concerts To Be Given By Symphony

Swalin to Direct Hill Hall Music

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Benjamin Swalin, will present two concerts in Chapel Hill on Monday, May 2, in Memorial Hall, it was announced yesterday.

The afternoon concert, which will begin at 2:30, will be a free program for all school children in Orange county. About 1,000 children will hear the concert. This group will include students from the Chapel Hill high school and the pre-school children in the kindergartens of the village.

Other pupils will come by bus from Carrboro, Hillsboro, White Cross, Aycock, Effin and the Orange County Training School. Adults accompanying children to the concert will be able to buy tickets at the door for 75 cents. There will be no advance ticket sale for this afternoon presentation.

Miss Josephine Cunningham, young soprano of Asheville, will be the featured soloist on the evening program, which will begin at 8:30. Among the compositions Dr. Swalin has chosen for the local audience are: Sibelius, Symphony No. 1, and Gluck, Ballet Suit No. 1.

A composition by Dr. Edwin Stringham will be heard on the latter part of the program. Dr. Stringham, formerly associated with Queens College and Columbia University, is now living in Chapel Hill. His composition, Nocturne No. II, was originally commissioned by the Chicago Orchestra, and has since been played by the major symphony orchestras of the country.

Members of the North Carolina Symphony Society will be admitted to the concert on presentation of their membership cards. These cards will also enable the member to attend all other concerts sponsored by the Society throughout the state. The Symphony will play a concert in Durham, May 18.

Single admission tickets for this concert are on sale at the Intimate Book Shop, Leebetter-Pickard, Graham Memorial, and Harold Weaver's office in South Building.

Coeds to Play Against Profs In Game Today

Carmichael, Greer Are Team Captains

Today the faculty will show the coeds "what's what," or vice versa.

The Coed-Faculty softball game will be played today in Emerson Stadium at 5 o'clock. Sponsored by the University Club, the "All-Star" softballers will perform for seven innings before an expected large crowd of cheering students and faculty members.

The line ups include the names of those receiving the most ballots in the election held at the Y. Both teams boast the "cream" of the local softball talent as witnessed by the following line-ups:

Charleen "Slugger" Greer is captain of the coed "All-Stars." Other members of the team include Bo "Homer" Welch, Ann "Jefty" Luellen, Joan Sloan, Peggy Misenerheimer, Betty Laurence, "Tut" Barbee, Martha York, and Midge Crawford.

Dean "Babe" Carmichael, as captain of the Faculty "All-Stars" will attempt to lead her team to victory today. Her team includes Dr. Harlan, Dr. Hobbs, Dean and Mrs. Spruill, Col. Shepherd, Dr. "Woody" Woodhouse, Dean "Fireball" Weaver, and Dean "Gus" Guthrie.

The balloting was very close, and the following runner-ups will serve as alternates in the absence of elected players:

For the faculty team Chancellor Robert House, Dean D. D. Carroll, Dean Ernest Mackie, Professor Roland Giduz, and Dean Bill Wells will serve as alternates.

Coed alternates are Jane Govert, Katie Thompson, Phyllis Ferguson, and Frankie Johnson.

Placement Office Asks Graduates To Sign Up Soon

Students graduating in June, July, or August should complete their registration with the Placement Service immediately, Joe Galloway, director of Placement Service, advised yesterday. Companies are sending representatives to the campus for interviews, and those registered with Placement are in a position to take advantage of this opportunity, Galloway pointed out.

Students should not rely solely on the Placement Service for jobs, he continued. They are encouraged to make their own contacts and to use the Placement office as their main reference. Folders compiled from personal records on file in that office will be mailed to prospective employers.

The Placement office does not limit its service to arranging interviews, Galloway said. One of its most important functions is the maintenance of a reference file on individuals. This file consists of personal data supplied by the applicant, a photograph, confidential ratings by instructors and acquaintances, and a transcript of courses and grades at the University.

Galloway pointed out the importance of registering with Placement service before leaving school. Since the enrollment at the University is large, instructors have a difficult time remembering former students about whom they are asked to give references.

Radio Examination To Be Held Monday

Local Chest Fund Will Be Presented To Senate Session

Plans for an overall Campus Chest Fund, approved unanimously Monday night by the Interdormitory Council, will be presented to the Student Legislature for adoption tomorrow night, Peter Gerns, IDC president, said yesterday.

The plans, which would limit student solicitations for charity purposes to one drive per year, call for the organization of an "Administrative Committee, which will be composed of the presidents of the Men's Interdorm Council, the Women's Interdorm Council, the Pan Hellenic Council, Interfraternity Council, Town Men's Association, Town Girl's Association, Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, the Editor of the Daily Tar Heel and the Mayor of Victory Village.

According to the bill scheduled for the Legislature, the Community Fund drive will be held once each year during the week of the second Monday in November.

However, the bill adds, the committee will have the authority to permit, in case of an emergency, solicitations for a fund other than the Campus Chest Fund. The Committee will, however, publish in the DTH any information on any group which might attempt to solicit money without authorization.

Gerns said yesterday that mimeographed copies of the IDC bill will be presented to party caucuses before the Legislature meeting. He added, that all three parties had included planks endorsing the proposed drive in their platforms and that he expected no opposition to the move.

Other provisions of the bill will allow student contributions to the drive to designate any portion of their contributions to the organization of their choice. Any contributions not specifically slated for a particular organization will go into a general fund.

This fund, the bill states, will be distributed on a percentage basis to charitable organizations designated by the committee.

Scott's Program For Rural Roads Faces June Vote

RALEIGH, N. C., April 26—(P)—North Carolina citizens will vote Saturday, June 4, on whether the state shall issue $200,000,000 in bonds for Gov. Kerr Scott's Rural Roads Program and $25,000,000 in bonds for school building.

If the road bonds are approved by the people they will pay an additional penny tax on each gallon of gasoline starting next Jan. 1.

Some 200 friends of the Governor's program met here today to set up the machinery for the intensive campaign Scott promised to wage for the bond issues.

"This is a citizens' movement," Scott told the group. "North Carolina moves on two things—the education of its children and its roads."

The group moved swiftly with little time out for oratory and elected a central steering committee to work out details of the organization necessary to put the program across. Members of the steering committee were Capus Waynick, Chairman of the State Executive Committee; John Harden, former secretary to Gov. Gregg Cherry and now Assistant vice president of Burlington Mills; State Sen. B. C. Brock of Mocksville; former state Sen. Wade Barbour of Pittsboro; and Dr. I. G. Greer, executive vice president of the business foundation of the University of North Carolina.

Lecture On Tom Wolfe To Be Given By Walser

Richard Walser, one of the South's outstanding Thomas Wolfe scholars, will lecture on Wolfe tonight at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker I, in Graham Memorial.

Mr. Walser, a native Carolinian and a graduate of the University, was an instructor in the English Department for a year in Chapel Hill and in 1946 became a member of the same department in North Carolina State College.

In 1941, he edited "North Carolina Poetry" and later "North Carolina in the Short Story." Mr. Walser is the first scholar to delve into Wolfe's reputation abroad and in the Winter issue of the "Carolina Quarterly" he revealed some of his findings.

According to Mr. Walser's article, Wolfe's reputation abroad has been just as widespread as it has in the United States and one or more of his books have appeared in England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Switzerland, France, Russia, and Holland.

In his lecture tonight, Mr. Walser will give for the first time in America the untranslated criticism of Wolfe by Pierre Brodin, French critic. Wolfe has been popular in France for he spent much time there and included in "Of Time and the River" long accounts of his stays in Paris and the French provinces.

Red Ban Measure Will Be Subject

The first of a series of "town meeting" style debates and open discussion sessions will be held tonight at 8:30 in Gerrard Hall. The question under debate will be "Resolved: That the Communist Party Should Be Outlawed."

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse of the Political Science Department and student Bill Duncan will take the affirmative side of the argument. Dr. Paul Guthrie of the Commerce School and student Dortch Warriner will defend the negative.

The four debaters will argue the question in formal debate style, after which they will engage in an informal discussion of the subject, sitting as a panel with a moderator. Then the audience will have the opportunity to ask the four speakers questions on the topic.

Following the program, a reception will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial for the speakers and all members of the audience. Refreshments will be furnished by the CPU.
