High School Seniors Tour Campus Today

Blue-White Contest Will Feature Today's Sports Schedule

Afternoon Clash At Kenan Stadium

Dual Track Meet With State in Morning; Wake Forest Ball Game Follows Football

By Buddy Vaden

The Fourth Annual Blue-White Football game, sponsored by the University's Monogram Club will get under way at Kenan Stadium this afternoon at 2 o'clock. One of the features of "North Carolina High School Day," the program will include a presentation by the sponsors to the outstanding coaches of the year.

It will be freshmen against upperclassmen in today's gridiron battle that culminates five weeks of spring football drills. Crowell Little, who piloted the frosh team through an unbeaten season last fall, will mastermind the freshmen "White" squad. Russ Murphy, veteran varsity backfield coach, will coach the upperclassmen "Blue" team.

Although the Blues are rated a three-touchdown favorite, the freshman contingent will present an attack based on Fullback Dick Wiess, Skeeter Hesmer, 170-pound tailback, and flashy Ends Bill O'Brien and Joe McIntyre.

The Blues will offer as their main dish All-American Charlie Justice, with running mates Eddie Knox, Johnny Clements, and Billy Hayes spotted in the backfield. In addition, they will have flankers Art Weiner and Kenny Powell, as well as top flight defensive Center Irv Holdash.

The frosh line that played so well last fall will have nothing but trouble for any running attack the Blues might offer. With a pair of tackles who tote a total of 420 pounds stuck in the middle, the White line might well show the Blues that crossing the line is dangerous business. Supporting tackles Julian King and guards in Dick Bestwick and Joe Du-deck.

But with Justice, Fullback Hayes, and Wingback Clements doing the ball-toting for the Blues, the White line is going to have its hands full. In addition (See BLUE-WHITE, page 4)

Hirsch's Comedy To Be Held Over For One Showing

Sam Hirsch's "Repple Depple" will be held over for an extra performance this evening at the Playmakers Theatre at 7:30, announced Samuel Selden, director of the Playmakers. The overflow audiences at this farce-comedy of life in a replacement depot overseas were responsible for the decision to extend the run of the show, originally scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights only. Mr. Selden said. Admission is free.

A unique feature of the original experimental series by the Playmakers is the discussion session after the performance. The audience is invited to talk back to the author and give him criticism, suggestions, and objections to aid him in his re-write of the play. Since these performances are the first opportunity the playwright has to see his play on a stage it is an ideal time to see where his play succeeds and fails before an audience. In addition to comments to the author, the audience also has the privilege of jotting down additional remarks on cards distributed with the programs.

"Repple Depple" is the third original play of the new series of student-written full-length plays started by Mr. Selden this year. This is part of a plan to encourage beginning playwrights to write in the longer form.

Chicago Says Red Charges Are All False

Trustee Chairman Answers Reporter

CHICAGO, April 29—(UP)—The University of Chicago today denied 49 of 50 charges that some of its professors, including atomic scientist Harold C. Urey, were connected with "Communist-front" groups.

Laird Bell, chairman of the University Board of Trustees, said that the allegations either were "false or no longer applicable."

Bell attacked the testimony of Howard Rushmore, New York Journal-American reporter, before the Illinois Seditious Activities Committee. Rushmore claimed seven Chicago faculty members held a total of 50 memberships in organizations he said were "Communist fronts."

The committee heard Rushmore last week in its investigation of alleged subversive activities at Chicago and Roosevelt College, Chicago.

Bell branded Rushmore's charges as "irresponsible" and said that only 11 of 38 organizations he listed were identified by the U. S. Attorney General as "suspected" Communist fronts.

Sworn affidavits were submitted by the faculty members either denying membership in the groups listed by Rushmore or saying that membership had been terminated.

The lone exception was Wayne McMillen, professor of social service administration, who admitted membership in the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, but denied other connections listed by Rushmore.

Affidavits were prepared for all the faculty members named except Dr. Maude Slye, who retired five years ago. Bell did not explain the absence of her rebuttal.

Urey, who played a leading role in development of the atom bomb, denied membership in four groups with which Rushmore's testimony identified him. In four others he said his activity ended before or during World War II.

21 UNC Students To Go To NCSSL

Selection Committee to Meet Monday To Name Delegates to Mock Assembly

Gran Childress, Interim Council Secretary-Treasurer for the State Student Legislature, said yesterday that a 10-man committee had been named to select University delegates to the 13th annual mock General Assembly.

Childress pointed out that the University will send 18 representatives and three senators to the session. He will attend as a voting representative through his position as Secretary-Treasurer.

The selection committee will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial. All persons who wish to represent the University at the meeting on May 13 and 14 have been asked to either be at the meeting Monday or submit an application listing their qualifications and reasons for wanting to attend sessions to any member of the committee.

The 10 members of the selection committee are:

Bill Duncan for the Philanthropic Assembly, Don Shropshire for the Dialectic Senate, Dave Pittman for the Debate Council, Herb Alexander for the Carolina Political Union, Ted Leonard for the Student Legislature, Dorch Warriner and Gran Childress for the State Student Legislature Interim Council, Al Lowenstein for the executive branch of student government, Patricia Denning for the Coed Senate, and Ann Chandler for the YWCA.

Aquinas Breakfast Set for Tomorrow

A communion breakfast sponsored by the University Aquinas Club will be held in the Carolina Inn immediately following the 8 o'clock Catholic mass in Gerrard Hall tomorrow morning, Aquinas Club vice president Dan McLaughlin said yesterday.

Tickets for the communion breakfast are available from all members of the Club, and will be sold for 85 cents each, he said. McLaughlin urged all members to attend the breakfast.

Truman Won't Get Paycheck on Time

WASHINGTON, April 29—(UP)—President Truman won't get his $12,500 April pay check on schedule tomorrow, and it's all the fault of Congress.

The lawmakers raised Mr. Truman's salary in January to $100,000 a year, plus a $90,000 tax-exempt expense account. But thus far they have neglected to appropriate the money.

The April check ordinarily would be due at the White House no later than tomorrow, the last day of the month. However, there's only $4,167 in the presidential payroll fund, with no chance for Congress to add more this month since it's not in session tomorrow.

Emperor's Birthday Ignored by Papers

TOKYO, April 29—(UP)—Tokyo's biggest newspapers ignored today the 48th birthday of Emperor Hirohito. One paper published a six-line story. Before the end of the war, all newspapers used to publish four-column birthday pictures of the emperor on their first pages, with descriptions of his health and his concern for the people's welfare.

Nachman Is New Tarnation Managing Ed.

Carmichael Re-elected To Board Presidency

Herb Nachman, rising junior from Augusta, Ga., will serve as Tarnation's managing editor for the coming year, editor Tom Kerr announced yesterday.

Nachman, who is a journalism major, has been a member of the Daily Tar Heel staff since he entered the University in the fall of 1947.

Before taking over as Tarnation managing editor, he served as DTH reporter, night editor, news editor, town and city editor.

His other experience in journalism include a summer as a reporter on the Augusta Chronicle and a summer in the continuity department of an Augusta radio station. At present he is also the International News Service correspondent for Orange county.

Nachman was approved for the Tarnation job by the Publications Board at a meeting Thursday. At the same meeting, Bill Carmichael III, DTH sports editor, was re-elected president of the board. Charlie Gibson, Tarnation staffer and DTH columnist, was elected vice-president; Dick Jenrette, editor of the DTH, treasurer; and Tom Wharton, former Tarnation editor, coordinator.

Keynote Address To Mark Opening Of Zionist Meet

Rabbi Samuel Perlman, Director of the University Hillel Foundation, and Rabbi Simon Glustrom of Durham will be the keynote speakers at the Inter-collegiate Zionist Federation of America subregional conclave to be held here this afternoon. The conclave scheduled for 1:30 today on the second floor of the Y.

The assembly is part of a week-end celebration of the first anniversary of the independence of Israel and will see students from five colleges participating. The University chapter of IZFA will play host to representatives from North Carolina State College, the Women's College, Duke University and the University of South Carolina.

Rabbi Perlman's topic before the delegates will be "Israel as a Liberal Force in the Middle East." Rabbi Glustrom will speak on "What Does Zionism Mean to Us Now?"

The IZFA conclave will conclude its program with the formation of a sub-regional executive and election of officers.

The weekend program began yesterday with evening religious services. An Independence dance will be held tonight in the Main Lounge, Graham Memorial. Refreshments are being furnished by the Jewish Sisterhood of Durham, and door prizes will be provided by Chapel Hill merchants.

Publications In Discussion At NSA Meet

Students Register From 10 Colleges

The regional National Students Association publications clinic opened on campus yesterday with some 35 students attending from more than 10 colleges and universities in North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

Schools in South Carolina, also a member of the regional NSA, are holding their own collegiate press convention this weekend, and were not able to attend the meeting here.

Schools represented, besides the University are Concord College of Athens, W. Va., Virginia Union University of Richmond, Bennett College of Greensboro, Atlantic Christian College of Wil-son, Johnson C. Smith of Charlotte, West Virginia State College, North Carolina College of Durham, Duke University, Sweet Briar College of Lynchburg, and North Carolina State College.

Bill Mackie, president of the student body, and Dick Jenrette, editor of the Daily Tar Heel, made short welcoming speeches to the delegates at their first meeting early yesterday afternoon. Pete Gerns, who is chairman of the regional publications clinic, presided at the meeting. Gerns handled all preparations for the clinic.

The students held two sets of panel discussions yesterday, at dinner at the Presbyterian Church, and traveled out to Colonial Press, Inc., to watch the Daily Tar Heel being put to press.

This morning another set of panel discussions will be held, followed by lunch at 1 o'clock. This evening a picnic will be held for the delegates at University Lake.

The final session of the clinic will be held tomorrow morning in Graham Memorial to hear consolidated reports and discussion of the weekend. Dean Fred Weaver will speak to the delegates at a final dinner session at noon.

Playhouse Offers Stage Scholarship

Robroy Farquhar, Director of the Lake Summit Playhouse near Hendersonville, has offered a scholarship, valued at $350, for this summer season to an enthusiastic, skilled theater man. The scholarship includes the ten weeks course and maintenance at the Playhouse. "I would like for him to be above all a very congenial fellow," Mr. Farquhar said, "someone with a well-rounded interest in the theater arts, as both actor and technician."

The Lake Summit Playhouse is operated by the Vagabond Players, Inc., an Equity "A" Company, which formerly played at the Cherry Lane Theater in New York. This is their fourth season in the Lake Summit Playhouse. Last summer they produced eleven plays and toured.

Chase Will Lecture On Music Tomorrow

Gilbert Chase, well-known critic and musicologist, will be in Chapel Hill Sunday and Monday to give lectures on "Latin-American Music" and "Latest Trends in Recording and Television." The lectures will be held in Hill hall Sunday evening at 8 o'clock and Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the public is cordially invited.

5,000 Expected To 'Invade' UNC

Mackie Extends Welcome to Visitors Who Will Attend Blue-White Game

Some 5,000 high school seniors from all corners of North Carolina will invade the Carolina campus today to try to find out what makes a big University tick.

Graduation Schedule Set By Saunders

Dr. Repp to Speak For Baccalaureate

Dr. Walter Mark Depp, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, Winston-Salem, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon in Memorial Hall on Sunday, June 5, J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary said yesterday. Degree candidates dressed in caps and gowns, will assemble at the Old Well, and will go from there to Memorial Hall.

The 155th Commencement program will begin Saturday, May 4, ending with graduation exercises Monday night at 7 o'clock in Kenan Stadium. Saturday's program will feature a "dutch" luncheon for seniors and their guests at Lenoir Hall at 1 o'clock. After the luncheon Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Morehead Planetarium, will give the first show at the Planetarium. That night at 8:30 he will repeat the performance. Marshall will give three shows Sunday and three graduation day.

Sunday afternoon at 4:30 the University band, under the direction of Earl Slocum, will give a concert under the Davie Poplar. Following the concert, Person Hall Art Gallery has scheduled a gallery talk to be given in conjunction with the 14th Annual Exhibit of Student Art.

Sunday night's program also includes Alumni Class Reunion Suppers at 7 o'clock and an open air reception and orchestra concert that night at 9:30 at the Kessing Pool.

The last class meeting of the graduating students will be held in Gerrard Hall at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Seniors will wear their caps and gowns. At 11 o'clock a faculty reception for Commencement guests at the Davie Poplar is planned.

An Alumni luncheon scheduled for 1 o'clock Monday at Lenoir Hall will feature Henry L. Stevens, Jr., Class of 1917, as toastmaster. Installation of new Alumni officers, presentation of "Golden Anniversary Certificates" to the Class of '99, and the induction of Alumni Class officers of the Class of 1949 will be included on the program.

The Carolina Playmakers Theatre at 2:30, and will give a repeat performance again at 4 o'clock.

A band concert, beginning at 6:30 will be given in Kenan Stadium just before Graduation exercises at 7. As yet, plans for the commencement speaker have not yet been released. In case of rain, exercises will be held in Woolen Gymnasium.

The high schoolers will tour the campus, watch a track meet, and see a spring-time football game when the Tar Heel team puts on its annual Blue-White grid battle.

The day's activities will begin when the seniors arrive between 9 and 11 o'clock this morning. Their busses will unload at the Old Well, where members of the University Club will be on hand to welcome the boys and girls to the University.

At 11 o'clock, the track meet between the Tar Heels and State College will take place on Fetzer Field, from where the high school students will go to eat lunch on campus and in town. The group will split up, some going to the Monogram Club, some to Lenoir Hall, some to the Carolina Inn and some to restaurants downtown.

By 1:30, most of the seniors will be in Kenan Stadium, watching the University band conduct marching maneuvers prior to the football game, which will begin at 2:30.

Bill Mackie, president of the student body, yesterday said he extended "a sincere welcome" to the visiting high schoolers.

"I hope that you will enjoy the game, be pleased with the campus, and more important, be able to sense the informal friendliness that is our way of life here," Mackie said.

"Your impression of the University is very important," the student body president continued, "for many of you will return soon—to stay. So make yourselves at home and find out all you can about your University. Enjoy yourselves here today as I know you will next fall."

Gardner Outlines YDC Mass Rally

Plans for a Young Democrats mass rally to be held Tuesday, May 10, were outlined Thursday by O. Max Gardner, Jr., club president, at an open executive committee meeting held in Graham Memorial.

Gardner stated that the meeting will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial with H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen, State YDC president as the featured speaker. Stormy Weathers and his orchestra will provide music for the occasion and refreshments will be furnished by the Farmer's Dairy Co-op, Gardner said. A resume of the activities of the State Legislature will be presented by a member of the Institute of Government, Gardner added.

Gardner announced the names of four members who have been approved by the organizations' officers to be members of the executive council. Those selected are Hugh Wells, Ed Tenney, Jess Dedmond and Bill Buchan.

Square Dance Slated Tonight in Tin Can

A square dance will be held tonight at 8:30 in the Tin Can, sponsored by the Montreat Social Committee.

There will be no admission and everyone, stag or couples, is invited to join in the fun. The Chatham Ramblers will furnish the music.
