

Weaver, Dedmond To Make Speeches

Will Talk at University of Mississippi On Problems of Student Governments

Fred Weaver, Dean of Students, and Jess Dedmond, retired president of the Student Body, leave tomorrow for the University of Mississippi, where they will discuss student life on a college campus.

R. Malcolm Guess, Dean of Men at the University of Mississippi, invited Weaver and Dedmond to this weekend's meeting, which he calls "Resource Study of Student Life." Weaver, as a resource leader, will speak on "Student Government Philosophy" at a banquet Saturday night.

Guess sent Weaver an outline of 21 problems that have arisen at Old Miss, and he was asked to discuss them at the meeting. These problems include such items as attendance, amendments to constitutions, the honor system, exemption of seniors from final examinations the last semester, and the problem of a paid secretary for the student body president.

Guess said he hoped to study and rework a student life program in the following areas: student government's scope and function; fraternities and sororities, their councils, rushing regulations, housing projects, social life, etc.; the independent students; and social affairs.

Silvia Sommer, president of the Women's Student Government Association at Duke University, will attend the meeting with Weaver and Dedmond.

The University representatives both said they hoped to gain invaluable knowledge from the meeting. They will return to the University Sunday.

Joint Recital Slated for Hill Tomorrow Night

A joint student recital will be presented tomorrow evening at 8:30 in Hill Hall when Miss Barbara Young, soprano, and Milton Bliss, baritone, will be featured.

Miss Young is a junior in the Music Department and is now a native of Chapel Hill, though originally from New Jersey. Having entered the University in her freshman year, Miss Young has been active in both the dramatic and music fields. As a freshman, she had a leading role in the Playmakers' production of "The Skin of our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder, and appeared in several one-act experimental.

Milton Bliss is a junior music major from Thomasville. He transferred as a sophomore from Mars Hill Junior College where he studied voice with Miss Elizabeth L. Souther and was baritone soloist in the Glee Club at that school.

Bliss is performing a group of early Italian songs, which include works by Scarlatti, Handel, Caccini, Cavalli, and Durante. Debussy's "Beau Soir" and "Mandoline" open the French group followed by other representative neo-French composers.

Mr. Bliss and Miss Young will close their program with two operatic duets, Mozart's "La Ci Darem La Mano" (Don Giovanni) and Ambrose Thomas' "legeres Hirondelles" (Mignon).

Sings To End; Stars' Music Will Continue

University Club Makes New Plans

The University Club Monday night voted to discontinue the Community Sing sponsored by the Club. Tentative plans are now underway for continuation of the Music Under the Stars series, a club spokesman said.

The outdoor series has met with inclement weather during the past few weeks, and recently it was learned that the Forest Theater, planned to be the location of the Sunday evening music presentation, would not be available for further use by the club. The Theater is now in use for Playmaker spring rehearsals.

A motion to change the club meeting date from Monday evening at 7:30 to Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock was defeated.

New members of the club were present for the first time Monday night to familiarize themselves with the workings of the organizations in preparation for the fall, when they will become voting members.

Two committees were appointed at the meeting; one to complete plans for the University Club party May 16, and the other assigned to work with the Interfraternity Council in a move to organize the student body when it visits New York next fall for the Carolina-Notre Dame football game.

The club voted that a member of the Daily Tar Heel staff be accepted for membership and given voting power in the club. This move is subject to approval by the Student Legislature, the club spokesman said.

Campus Party Calls Caucus for Tonight

There will be a caucus meeting of all Campus Party legislators in Roland Parker No. 3 tonight at 7:30, according to an announcement made today by Chairman Vestal C. Taylor.

It is urgent that all members be present and on time, Taylor said.

Efthimios Mariakakis Is His Name

From Rags To Riches, Or Out-Algering Horatio, Such Is The Saga Of Our 'Ptomaine Tommy'

By Jack English
When Efthimios Mariakakis was born in Cheyenne, Wyo., in 1914, there was little indication that some day his life would out-Alger Horatio or that Efthimios would ever come to be affectionately and otherwise known as "Ptomaine Tommy" to thousands of students at the University of North Carolina.

When young Efthimios (let's call him Tommy) was five years old, World War I ended and the Mariakakis family, which had come to America to escape the conflict, moved back to Crete.

Back on the island, young Tommy was sent to school and eventually succeeded in finishing the European equivalent of the American junior college before he was bitten with the idea of returning to the land of his birth to finish his education. In 1934, a 20-year-old Tommy stepped from a ship onto Ellis Island. Although he was a natural-born American citizen, he could speak no English and knew no one in

'Le Theatre Francais' Stages Play Tomorrow

Le Theatre Francais, a small, select acting group on the University campus, will stage a Moliere Festival as the 10th production of the group since 1934. The production will be staged in the Playmakers theater tomorrow night, at 8:30. The play to be presented is "Le Medicin Malgre Lui" written by Moliere.

On Sunday night, May 7, the Duke University French Club, under the direction of Mrs. Neal Dow, will join with the Carolina group in presenting two Moliere plays. Beginning at 8 o'clock the Duke players will present "Bourgeois Gentil Homme" and the Carolina club will repeat its Thursday night performance.

There is no admission charge for any of the three productions, but to create the atmosphere of the French theater, pretty usherettes will sell programs, which contain full English synopses of the plays, for whatever price the customer wishes to pay. Proceeds go for the benefit of American Aid to France.

Le Theatre Francais was organized back in 1934 by Prof. Walter Creech of the Department of Romance Languages for the purpose of aiding students of French in their pronunciation by giving them an opportunity to meet together to speak the language and put on a French play each year.

Zionists to Hold Celebration Party

A party to celebrate the first anniversary of Israel's independence will be held by the International Zionist Foundation of America this afternoon in the YM-CA from 4 until 6 o'clock. Palestinian singing and dancing will feature the program.

Tonight Rabbi Simon Gulstrom of Durham will speak to the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity on "Zionism and the American Jewish Scene."

The two events will bring to an end the independence celebrations which began last Saturday afternoon when 40 delegates of the IZFA met in Graham Memorial to form a subregion of the IZFA, the purpose of which is to coordinate student Zionist educational activities. Elaine Naiman was elected president of the local organization and Elaine Fischer was chosen as the group's secretary.

Formal Debate Is Scheduled Wednesday

Outlawing Reds To Be Subject

Professor E. J. Woodhouse of the Political Science Department will lock horns with graduate physics student Hans Freistadt, self-styled member of the Communist Party, in formal debate on "Should the Communist Party Be Outlawed?" next Wednesday at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

Freistadt challenged Woodhouse to the debate after the same subject was debated by Woodhouse and student Bill Duncan for the affirmative, Paul Guthrie and student Dortch Warriner for the negative, last Wednesday in Gerrard. The debate was sponsored by the Carolina Political Union.

Freistadt, president of the Karl Marx Study Society, revealed himself as a member of the local Communist Party some time ago. He came to this campus from the University of Chicago, where he was reportedly president of the student Communist Club.

John Sanders will preside over Wednesday's debate, and graduate student W. E. Haisley will act as time-keeper. The debate is being sponsored by the Karl Marx Study Society.

Each speaker will have 10 minutes of rebuttal time. Then an informal discussion period will be held, followed by questions from the audience. The speakers will conclude the program with short summaries.

Student Will Turn Farmer To Aid Brethren in Israel

Conquest of the deserts and swamps of Israel, and fulfillment of the biblical name, "The Land of Milk and Honey," is the goal of Morton Rubin, University graduate student and over 40 other college students throughout the nation.

Rubin and his colleagues are planning to establish an agricultural collective settlement in the lately freed nation, which celebrates the first anniversary of its freedom today, to practice cooperative living and working together with the people of Israel.

Rubin, 26, a native of Boston, and now working on his doctor's degree in Sociology and Anthropology, is the head of this social science research team. He hopes to obtain about 10 students from the United States to travel with him to Israel to study the nature of cooperative living in the Palestinian area. They plan to do this in the fall of 1950.

Members of the Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America, to which Rubin belongs, have formed a group called Haeleh (Ascending), which at present numbers more than 200 students. Its purpose is to organize collegians all over the country so they may effectively settle on farms in Israel, to guide and aid returning displaced persons in getting back on their feet.

Rubin rebutted critics who say the plan is "un-American." "It is very important to establish Democracies in the far corners of the world," he said, "and Americans are the best carriers of Democracy."

Rubin has been a Zionist all his life, and feels that by combining his social science work (See STUDENT, page 4)

Manning Defeats Henry Whitfield For Court Seat

Ed Lanier, genial director of the University Central Records Office, waltzed into the Chapel Hill mayor's office yesterday as a record turnout of 1,442 voters created a turnover in the municipal government of this University town.

Lanier captured a total of 811 votes to defeat R. W. Madry with 589 votes. Madry has served as mayor for the last seven years and spent three years on the Board of Aldermen before that.

Physically Fit

Chapel Hill's mayor-elect proved himself physically fit yesterday morning as he turned up well before 6:30 in the fire station at town hall to be the first person in line to cast his ballot.

But that wasn't how Ed Lanier proved himself physically fit.

Whimsical early-morning poll-keepers told him he couldn't ever be mayor unless he proved himself in top physical condition. And to prove it he would have to climb to the top of the slick 20-foot firemen's pole in the station.

Which is just exactly what the "physically fit" Mr. Lanier did—and he slid back down without bodily injury, too!

Lanier resigned his post on the Board recently when he entered the race for mayor.

John T. Manning, local attorney, won the post of Recorder's Court judge with 830 votes over seven-year incumbent Henry A. Whitfield with 575.

Kenneth E. Putnam, high man with 850 votes, R. B. Fitch with 842 and R. L. Fowler with 815 won the three vacant seats on the Board of Aldermen, while Mrs. Roland McClamroch with 706 and Rev. J. H. Jones with 607 were left out in the cold. Fitch and Fowler were re-elected to their seats.

The 1,442-vote election set a new record in Chapel Hill for election turn-outs. Slightly over 1,700 voters were registered and eligible to vote. The last highest Chapel Hill vote was 941 in 1945.

The new officers will be sworn in at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Wednesday night.

Mayor-elect Lanier had this comment on the election results (See ELECTIONS, page 4)

'Merrily' Staff Winds Up Work

Signs of bustling activity are in evidence around Memorial Hall, the scene shop and the Sound and Fury work shop as the last minute touches are applied to "Merrily We Love." Time is closing in on the cast of the new musical production revue and as is the case in any production there is plenty yet to be done before curtain time tomorrow night.

The entire staff consisting of writers, producer and director have tried all through the rehearsals to remember the gripes heard following the last two Sound and Fury production and stick to the idea of pure and simple entertainment. Forrest Covington has written a simple plot that has just enough story in it to give the show a sequence and no more. He has purposely avoided complicated entanglements and sub-plots that are likely to make the main plot bog down and over shadow the music.

Frank Matthews has written 25 songs for the show, some of which are certain to be show stoppers. He has painstakingly written a variety of numbers in order to please everyone in the audience.
