

Yack Schedule Is Announced By Claybrook

Photos Will Be Shot by Letters

The schedule for the taking of individual pictures for the 1950 issue of the Yackety-Yack was announced yesterday by Editor Bill Claybrook and calls for a rigid four-week photographing program.

Starting Monday morning at 10 o'clock, all students whose names begin with A through E will have their pictures taken. They have a week, and then on Oct. 1 those starting with F through K and on Oct. 8 those with L through R and on Oct. 15, will come S through Z.

The studios on the second floor of Graham Memorial operate from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night. Saturday schedule is 9 through 12 o'clock.

Freshmen have been having their pictures taken since the first day of orientation. Those who miss their chance will have to take their regular turn in the schedule.

"We hope to eliminate excessive line-forming under the present schedule, but it will take cooperation on the part of all students," explained Editor Claybrook.

All students should drop back by the Yack office in Graham Memorial before going to the studio, to pick up cards. Boys should wear dark coats and ties, girls should wear white blouses. An additional fee of $1.00 is being levied on graduate students.

University Gets Grant For Research

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—The University of North Carolina, along with Duke University and the Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Winston-Salem, has been awarded a portion of $111,354 in grants for nine heart and research projects. The grants were announced today by the Federal Security Agency and the U. S. Public Health Service.

The University will conduct a single project, while the larger medical schools at Duke and Bowman Gray will conduct six and two respectively with their shares of the Federal appropriations.

The North Carolina projects were included in a total of $8,614,737 in Federal funds awarded to 85 medical schools and research institutions in 34 states and the District of Columbia.

The funds, which are administered by the National Heart Institute of Public Health Service, will be used for stepped-up heart research, expanded programs of heart teaching in medical schools, and for building heart research laboratories throughout the country.

The government agencies announcing the awards stated that these grants are entirely new and in addition to those announced in July.

Address Cards

All students not living in dormitories or fraternity houses and who have not already filled out a Daily Tar Heel address card this quarter must do so before the DTH can be delivered to them.

Address cards may be left with the Circulation Department, second floor of Graham Memorial, or in special boxes located at the following points: Street at airport development

- (1) Entrance to Justice for students living in that area.
- (2) Corner of Country Club Road and Raleigh Road for students living there and in Laurel Hill vicinity.
- (3) Entrance to Oakwood Drive for residents there, Rogerson Drive and vicinity.

ACTING DEAN OF STUDENTS Bill Friday and Mrs. Friday pass the time of day at Sunday's Orientation Week reception with Sen. Frank Porter Graham, former president of the Greater University. Senator Graham, taking a brief break from his Washington chores, dropped into Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon to say hello to some of the many hundreds of freshmen and other new students who came to the reception to meet members of the faculty and administration.

S&F Show Scheduled For Tonight

Sound and Fury will give the freshmen some high class entertainment tonight when they present their traditional opening week variety show at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall. All students are invited, however.

Jim Hammerstein and Mark Barker will act as co-masters of ceremonies. Both are veteran Sound and Fury members, along with the other performers.

Vocalists for the evening will be Forrest Covington, singing ballads, Daisy Belle Anderson, Bill Talley and Larry Pearce, son of opera star Jan Pearce. Buck Crell will be Anderson's accompanist.

The chorus from the S&F spring production, "Merrily We Love" will be on hand to make music. Bailey Hobgood will entertain with a monologue.

Bulletin

Roy Holsten, member of the Student Council, resigned his post on the highest campus court late yesterday to take over the vacancy left on the Men's Honor Council by the resignation of Chairman Bruce Sanborn, who did not return to school this fall.

Holsten was chosen to fill the open seat on the council by the tri-partisan selection board meeting in Graham Memorial.

Freshman Writer Describes Life At Pre-Orientation Camp

By Ken Barton

An advance guard of 135 freshmen assembled at the YMCA on Wednesday, Sept. 14, for the YMCA Freshman Camp which was held at Camp New Hope halfway between Chapel Hill and Hillsboro.

This sprinkling of the class of 1953 spent the better part of three days in cabin conferences, general meetings, and recreation periods; in getting acquainted and learning the ways of Carolina; and in planning to establish a Freshman Council to present a beneficial program for the entire first-year class back on the campus.

The opening assembly of the camp on Wednesday night consisted of words and music from

Friday Will Serve As Dean For Year

Students returning to the University this week found that last year's Assistant Dean of Students, Bill Friday, had assumed the duties of Acting Dean in the absence of Fred H. Weaver, who is attending the Harvard University Graduate School.

Weaver's leave of absence, which was granted by the Board of Trustees last April, will extend throughout the current academic year.

During the past year Friday's chief concern has been various student organizations and student government. As the youngest man ever to occupy his present position he has been popular with the students and has been instrumental in affecting a closer tie between the administration and student groups.

A former president of the University Law Association and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece, Friday joined the University administration last September. Before entering law school here he attended both Wake Forest and N. C. State College. During the war he served in the Navy as an ordinance officer.

Until Weaver returns next year to resume his old post, Friday will be in complete charge of all matters pertaining to the office of the dean of students.

Military Rule Ends In Western Germany

BONN, Germany, Sept. 21—(AP)—Military government rule in Western Germany ended formally today.

Chancellor Robert B. House and Roy Armstrong, Director of Admissions, J. M. Saunders, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, also extended his welcome to the class. Group singing and a supervised introduction of the names and faces at the camp followed during the course of the evening under the direction of Ben Jones, chairman of the Freshman Camp Committee.

Three sessions were held the second day of the camp. In the morning various student leaders participated in a forum on the life at Carolina. Introduced by Bill Friday, acting Dean of Students, these speakers were Sam Magill, YMCA president; Bill

Albright Set To Deliver Phi Address

R. Mayne Albright, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina in last year's primary, will deliver the principal address at the first meeting of the year of the Philanthropic Assembly in Phi Hall, fourth floor New East, at 7:30 Tuesday night.

Albright, who in his undergraduate days at the University was president of the student body, Speaker of the Phi, a champion wrestler, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, has been prominently mentioned as a probable candidate for governor in either 1952 or 1956.

In accepting the Phi's invitation to keynote its 155th annual session at Carolina, Albright agreed to speak on "The Political Situation in North Carolina Before and After the Last Election."

Herman Sieber, co-chairman of the Phi's "Go Forward" Committee, announced yesterday that the meeting will be open to the public and extended a special invitation to new students to attend Tuesday night's meeting.

According to Sieber, inauguration of new officers will precede the Albright address and plans will be mapped for this year's activities.

At present Albright is practicing law in Raleigh. While in graduate school here he was director of Graham Memorial and won the William Jennings Bryan Award in political science. His affiliation with the Democratic Party began in the Young Democrats Club in which he became a State and later a national officer.

In 1936 he was admitted to the State Bar. From 1937 until 1941 Albright served as the North Carolina Director of the United States Employment Service. In 1941 he was elected president of the International Association of Public Employment Services.

During World War II, Albright saw service in the European Theater. He rose from lieutenant to major and now holds the rank of Lt. Col. in the Active Reserve.

Huge Building Program On; Enrollment Exceeding 7,000

Half Students Are Veterans; 1,500 Frosh Faculty Changes Are Announced

By Roy Parker, Jr.

A student body of well over 7,000 will head for the first day of classes this morning, according to estimates from University administration officials. No complete figures on enrollment are yet available.

Included among the estimated enrollment are some 1,200-1,500 freshmen, who have been on campus for a week undergoing orientation. Adding to the number of students here for the first time are an estimated 600 transfer students.

According to Veterans' Advisor F. C. Shepard, approximately half the student body are former members of the armed service. The veterans are expected to number around 3,400.

The six-to-one ratio between coeds and men students is expected to still be the rule. An estimated 300 new coeds are enrolled, but they barely replace the large number graduated during the spring and summer quarters.

A total of 31 new faculty members will greet students this morning, and 10 faces will be missing before first-day classes. Including among the absent will be Dr. W. F. Prouty, head of the Department of Geology and Geography, who died in June.

The new faculty ranges from a department head to visiting lecturers. Dr. Charles W. Hooker, formerly of the Emory University faculty, is new head of the Department of Anatomy.

Included among the absent are Dr. C. B. Robson, head of the Department of Political Science, who is on a year's leave of absence to work with the Civil Affairs Division of the Military Government for Germany. Two others are on leave and there were six resignations.

Phillips Appeals For More Teachers

More and better teachers "must be trained to meet the increased enrollment and improved quality of education being demanded," Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education said yesterday.

Referring to the increased appropriations for education voted by the last General Assembly, Dean Phillips said, "The action of the people in voting additional state money for buildings create opportunities for extended activities in teacher education institutions."

Rides Senate Herd

Dr. Frank's Humor Replacing Veep Wit For Cooling Tempers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Now that Alben Barkley has been promoted from senator to vice-president, he doesn't get quite so many chances to exercise the Barkley wit officially. And the Senate is the worse for it.

Barkley used to be an expert at jumping into a Senate squabble that threatened to get out of bounds. He'd come through with a snappy crack, or more often, a long winded, but witty, story with a near tagline.

In short, he was a tension-breaker. Every meeting, whether its the U. S. Senate or your local PTA, needs one.

BAD WEATHER FAILED to dampen the spirits of more than 1,800 students who were on hand to get acquainted with Acting President W. D. Carmichael, Jr., Chancellor R. B. House and other deans at the traditional reception for new students. The reception, a feature of freshman orientation week, was held in Graham Memorial. Acting President Carmichael (left) is shown greeting Reginald Greggin, Goldsboro, while Jay Zink, Mendocville, W. Va., is being welcomed by Chancellor House.

Acting President Says 'No Doctor'

W. D. Carmichael, Jr., appointed Acting President of the Greater University by the Board of Trustees on Sept. 11, told freshmen and other new students this week that he planned "no major surgery" for the consolidated schools during his temporary term in office.

Carmichael, who regularly holds the position of University Controller, explained at a meeting in Memorial Hall Saturday night, "I was a boy scout once; I know what first aid is and I can apply a tourniquet. But I'm not a doctor and will attempt no major surgery. I'll wait until the doctor gets here."

The acting president had been serving in that capacity in everything but name since last March when Dr. Frank Porter Graham was appointed to the United States Senate. He will continue in the job until the Board of Trustees appoints a successor to Senator Graham, who ran the University for 19 straight years before his appointment.

Victor Bryant, Durham attorney and chairman of the special Trustee committee selected to recommend candidates for the presidential job, said the group will (See CARMICHAEL, page 5)

$19 Million To Be Cost Of Expansion Medical Building Is Biggest Unit

By Chuck Hauer

"There'll be mud; there'll be inconveniences; and this old campus will be mighty torn up for the next year or so, but when we get through we will have more than $19,000,000 worth of new buildings and equipment," Assistant Controller C. E. Teague mused yesterday on the University's gigantic postwar expansion program which is finally putting on a full head of steam.

Teague said the total expansion program will cover the sum of $19,028,800. The 1947 General Assembly appropriated $7,844,800 of the amount, and the 1949 Legislature added a $6,042,500 supplement plus an additional $5,141,500 appropriation.

The Assistant Controller, quoting figures from his "Bible," the 1949-51 biennium state budget, seemed concerned over the students' reception to the general havoc the multi-million dollar building program will cause on campus.

"If students will just bear with us while the building's going on," he said, "we'll eventually get things cleaned up, landscaped, and we'll have a much more beautiful campus."

Teague said work has already begun on the 3,000,000-gallon-per-day filter plant, at a cost of $840,000, and the new $400,000 disposal plant being paid for jointly by the University and the town of Chapel Hill, has already been completed.

The new Medical School and teaching hospital contracts have been let at a cost of $3,663,954, and work should begin soon. The General Assembly originally appropriated $5,344,000 for the work, but the state saved $1,396,000 on the contract bids.

In addition to the Meo School, plans are on the drawing board, Teague said, for a $1,618,000 nurses home and training school. Also being built is a $610,000 building to house internes and residents and $100,000 is going into building and equipment for the School of Dentistry.

A $200,000 addition will be built on the old Medical School building and a $175,000 VD research laboratory is in the process of being completed. A $900,000 addition to the chemistry building is on the drawing board and $259,000 worth of equipment will be added to that.

Three new dormitories will be built to the southeast of the Monogram Club at a cost of $930,000 for buildings and $700,000 for equipment. The addition to the Law School will encompass (See BUILDING, page 5)

56 Years

With this issue The Daily Tar Heel begins its 56th year of service to the campus.

Complete leased wires of the Associated Press, editorial columns by Drew Pearson, strips, crossword puzzle and Billy Rose and others, comic other features supplement complete campus news coverage to give the student body a well-rounded newspaper.

The Colonial Press, Inc., and its president, Orville Campbell, have added $10,000 worth of new headline type and equipment this fall to improve "The South's Oldest College Newspaper."

Regular and prospective staff members of the DTH will meet on the second floor of Graham Memorial at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.
