Tar Heels Meet Wolfpack In Kenan Today

Greater University To Be Featured In Day's Activities

Greater University Day gets under way today with a full schedule of activities on the agenda for Carolina students and their guests from the other two branches of the Greater University, Woman's College and N. C. State.

This is the first post-war Greater University Day and it is believed to be the first one ever instigated, organized and carried out by students.

First on the schedule of activities is the meeting of the Greater University Student Council at 10 o'clock in the faculty club room in the Morehead Planetarium. Following the meeting there will be a 12 o'clock luncheon honoring the Board of Trustees. Present at the luncheon will be Governor Kerr Scott, Acting President of the University W. D. Carmichael, Jr., and Senator Frank Graham, former president of the Greater University.

The special committee set up by the GUSC, sponsors of the day, announced a change of plans for the dating of W. C. girls by State and Carolina men. Instead of giving the girls numbers and working a blind date bureau, Ted Leonard, chairman of the special committee, said that the girls will be present at a reception in the Graham Memorial after the game and that the men will meet the girls there and make individual dates.

At 2:30 the State-Carolina game will begin. The Woman's College students have reserved seats for the game. Leonard said that extra cheerleaders from both State and Carolina will be present to lead the girls in cheers for both schools.

Following the game there will be the reception in Graham Memorial for all guests.

At 11 o'clock and at 5:45 there will be special showings in the Planetarium of the show, "Reasons for the Seasons." The showing at 5:45 will be for W. C. girls and their dates, with admission at the regular price.

Climaxing the activities will be the Grail dance in Woollen Gymnasium, featuring the music of Roy Cole's orchestra. Tickets for the dance will cost $7.75 for a couple, and $1.00 for stags.

Featured events at half-time of the game will be short talks by Governor Scott, Mr. Carmichael, and Chairman of the Greater University Student Council Dorch Warriner; card stunts; and band exercises. Leonard will preside over the activities at which time Chancellors W. C. Jackson, J. W. Harrelson, and R. B. House will be recognized.

Leonard said that maps of Chapel Hill and programs of the day will be given to the Board of Trustees and the guests from the Women's College.

Much of the credit for the success of the day, Leonard said, must be given to Dean of Men Bill Friday, Dean of Women Carmichael, to the administration at W. C. and to the students at all three branches of the University.

Blanket Strike

—Most of Eureka College's 400 EUREKA, Ill. Sept. 23—(AP) students struck today for shorter hours and blanket demands.

They left classes yesterday for a protest meeting and planned another demonstration today. They object to one hour and 50 minutes class sessions, instead of the old one hour system.

They also said the college doesn't furnish its football team with enough blankets.

Vets' Checks May Be Late For Transfers

Added Form Is Cause of Trouble

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—Many World War II veterans attending school under the GI Training Bill may have to pay their own tuition and living expenses for a while this fall, the Veterans Administration said today.

The veterans involved are those who failed to arrange before Sept. 12 for approval of so-called supplemental certificates of eligibility. These certificates are required for a new course or new school.

The Sept. 12 deadline was not disclosed until Sept. 15 when the VA announced a new, tougher policy on course and school transfers. VA officials said the agency was late in fixing the deadline because it could not make definite plans until Congress had approved its appropriations for the year.

However, these officials said, "We have always insisted that veterans planning to change courses or schools apply well in advance."

They added that those who missed getting in under the deadline will have to support themselves "for the few days or the two or three weeks" that it takes to get the certificate approved.

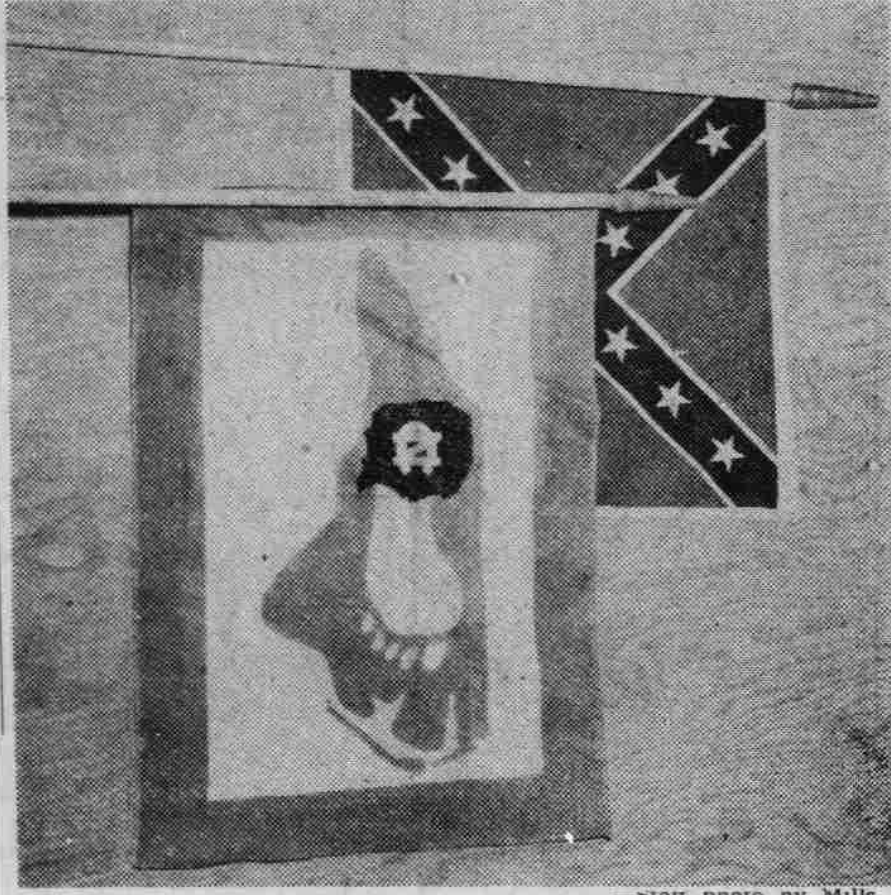

They conceded that it will be a hardship for some students, but reported the VA is trying to ease the situation by hiring employees overtime to process applications quickly.

The amounts paid by the veterans for their school expenses cannot be refunded by VA, they added.

Veterans applying for GI educational benefits for the first time are not affected. They file so-called initial certificates, which become effective on the date of application.

President Coltrane reported that the college had started the new school year with a capacity enrollment of 405 students.

On the president's recommendation, the board voted full approval of plans to secure approximately 75 new students for the spring quarter to replace those who will be graduated at the end of the fall semester or who may be forced to withdraw for various other reasons.

TWO FLAGS that are scheduled to go places with Tar Heel followers this fall are the Confederate Stars and Bars (for the benefit of Yankee readers, the one in the upper left hand corner), and the new Tar Heel Booster flag, which will see action this season for the first time. Kemp Nie of Chapel Hill designed the new flag.

Council Cracks Down On Wrongful Pass Use

Students who wrongly use their athletic passbooks will get in plenty of hot water this season, according to spokesmen for the Men's Honor Council in announcing a crack down on violators yesterday.

Passbook holders are warned to pay strict adherence to the rules printed in the book, especially the one prohibiting the transfer of the books.

Clarification on the status and use of the passbooks has been made by North Carolina Attorney-General Harry MacMullin. In answer to a letter from Acting President W. D. Carmichael, he has made it clear that the books are simply a membership in the Athletic Association and not a transferable "ticket."

According to the fee setup, the tickets are issued upon payment of the matriculation fee, and the holder immediately becomes a member of the Association.

MacMullin's opinion was that, "from a study of the whole program and history of the athletic fee at the University at Chapel Hill, it is clear to me that it was never proposed by the University to charge students.....any fee whatever for attendance at athletic events in which the University participates as Chapel Hill. They pay exactly the same matriculation fee, whether or not they attend any of the athletic events, and no deduction is made because they fail to use the passbooks which are furnished to them for admission."

The Attorney-General's ruling does not have the force of a court decision on the matter, but such decisions usually follow the rule of his opinion. He simply gives advisory opinions when asked by governmental agencies and private citizens.

In effect, this means that students are admitted free to University home athletic events. There is a 20 percent amusement tax on general admission tickets and this tax is avoided by the use of the passbook system.

Since transferring of the passbooks would mean a breakdown of the entire system and a possible revoking of the University's right to use the system to avoid taxation, violators will be punished by the Men's Honor Council under the Campus Code.

Capacity Crowd Sees Norm Sper Lead Pep Rally

Sigma Chi Sextet Headlines Program

By Don Maynard

"I have a prediction to make," woeful Digby O'Dell wailed to a capacity crowd of Tar Heel supporters last night in Memorial Hall. "If you footballers are as good tomorrow as your yelling tonight, I'll have some business in west Raleigh tomorrow afternoon."

And the applause of the enthusiastic mixture of freshmen and veteran grid fans echoed his words. On hand for the pep rally led by head cheerleader Norm Sper, whose antics proved his name still rhymes with "cheer," were Chancellor Robert B. House and his harmonica, the Sigma Chi Sextet, and the University Band headed by conductor Earl Slocum.

Present in the wings to hear the debut of his song "All The Way Choo Choo" before a live audience, "All The Way, Choo Choo," was lyric writer Orville Campbell. Hank Beebe composed the melody.

State College also joined the festivities from Raleigh via the airwaves of station WPTF, for six minutes. The Cow Collegiates delivered several cheers, then sang a parody on the Phil Harris novelty, "That's What I Like About State."

University students reciprocated in their six minute portion as the Sextet again gathered to sing "It Ain't No Use, State," and roared at the lines, "But when they come to Chapel Hill, they run like Carter's Liver Pills."

After several more songs by the Sextet, Chancellor House rose to say, "Boys and girls, I'm proud of you... I think I'll play my harmonica."

The Chancellor played two songs, then bargained with the audience. "I'll play one more song, if you'll listen to my speech." The students accepted his terms.

"This demonstration is a high point in University history," he said, then drew a laugh with, "I haven't seen a thing here that isn't characteristic of Chapel Hill or the University."

He went on to praise Kay Kyser and Sper for being "highlights in cheerleading history here at the University."

Only a smattering of Tar Heel pennants were visible, though something new was in evidence on stage in the hands of the cheerleaders: blue and white puffed balls.

Sper and his cheerleaders ran the gamut of fight songs and yells, then closed the hour and a half long program with "Tar Heels on Hand," and "Hark the Sound."

Carolina Favored In Opening Game Of Grid Season

State College is scheduled to meet Carolina here this afternoon at 2:30 in a gridiron contest that will open the 1949 Southern Conference football schedule. So far, neither team has backed out.

Card Stunts Explained By Cheerer

There are a few things that are hard in this world, but if students will follow the detailed instructions that have been worked out, the card stunt programs that are to be a feature of the halftime festivities at today's game will be a success.

The stunts will be worked by the student cheering section and the area covered by the display will be 45 rows high and 53 wide, according to Head Cheerleader Norm Sper.

Students will be issued instruction cards just before halftime and will also be given four 13 by 13 cards, each with two colors, eight shades in all. All you have to do is read the card and follow the sixth-grade-IQ instructions.

On the instruction sheet will be a set of numbers. Corresponding to the numbers will be colors. Now, when Head Cheerleader Norm Sper calls for a numbered stunt, look at the card and find what number. Then see what color is indicated beside it. That's the color you hold up.

And remember to hold the indicated color away from yourself. People working the cards cannot, unfortunately, see their handiwork.

If there is no color indicated beside the number, hold up your white card. In order to make the instructions even clearer Sper will explain carefully each stunt beforehand.

Remember to wait for the Head Cheerleader's commands. When stunts that require the executor to flip the card, hold it between the thumb and index finger. That makes for a quick, uniform flip and makes the stunt even more interesting.

Cannon Acquitted In Assault Case

J. Cannon walked out of Buncombe County Superior Court a free man today, acquitted by a blue-ribbon jury of any guilt in the roadhouse brawl from which Police Court Solicitor Will C. Hampton emerged battered and bruised last August 14.

The jury of 11 white men and one Negro, chosen from a special venire summoned for his trial, deliberated only 24 minutes.

Its verdict was greeted by a burst of applause among some 200 spectators in the courtroom.

Cannon received the verdict calmly at first. Then, grinning for the first time since he went on trial, he jumped from his seat and shook hands with the jurors.

SP Meet Scheduled For Monday

The Student Party will hold the first political rally of the year Monday night in Gerrard Hall inviting new students and old campus politicians. A business meeting will follow the rally.

Biggest item on the agenda at the business meeting, also open to all, is to recommend persons to be nominated by the party to fill three governmental posts vacated by resignations. A Student Council seat and two legislative positions must be filled.

Barbara Lowe, Larry Botto, and Chuck Lineberry are the resigned officials. Lowe resigned the Student Council on advice of her physician. Botto and Lineberry will resign from the Student Legislature at its first session. They have been disqualified for their offices by moving out of the districts from which they were elected.

The three nominated persons will probably be appointed to the posts, since the elections law stipulates that the President must appoint persons of the same political party as that of the resigned. All three are Student Party members.

Botto was elected out of Town Men's district 4, while Lineberry is a representative from Dormitory district 4. Botto also serves as assistant Attorney-General.

Rendezvous Room Opening To Be Tonight; Combo Will Provide Music

By Wuff Newell
There'll be entertainment galore—and free, too—tonight when the Rendezvous Room in Graham Memorial holds its fall opening.

The room will open at 7:30, and Norman DeLancey's Combo will be on hand to furnish music until the 1 o'clock closing hour.

And that isn't all, for at 9 o'clock Jimmy Mills, who kept freshmen, transfers and returning students rolling in the aisles at the Sound and Fur show Thursday night, will emcee a star-studded floor show.

Sam Green of Sound and Fury will present several vocal numbers, and Frank Matthews will entertain at the piano with his own compositions.

"Tonight marks the opening of our fall calendar," said Mrs. Mary Jo McClain, entertainment director of Graham Memorial and one of the new additions to the staff. "We're going to have a good combo and floor show every Friday night. Beginning next week Wally Andrews and his combo will be a regular attraction, and a week from next Friday we'll be on the air with our regular weekly program over WDUK."

Mrs. McLain also said that Mark Barker will emcee the show which will be broadcast right from the Rendezvous Room every Friday night at 9:30. University talent will be used on the shows, and next week talent tryouts will be held in the Rendezvous Room. "We haven't made any big changes in the room," Mrs. McLain explained, "but we do have table cloths on all the tables now and big glass ashtrays for each table."

AS A REACTION to the devaluation of the British pound, Ludwig Mueller, a foreign car salesman, displays a reduction in price of a British-built Singer car at the Fergus Motors show-rooms in New York. The price of the Singer car was reduced from $2,150 to $1,650. The reduction in price on British-built cars was made by Fergus Motors "in anticipation of a reduction by manufacturers."
