

Sanford Will Talk At First YDC Meet

Terry Sanford, newly-elected president of the state Young Democrats Club, and W. D. Carmichael, Jr., Acting President of the Greater University, will be featured speakers at the first fall meeting of the University YDC, O. Max Gardner, Jr., club president, announced yesterday.

The meeting, which will be held in Gerrard Hall Monday night at 7:30, will climax an extensive membership drive which began during registration last week. Over 273 new members were obtained during the two-day registration period, Gardner said, bringing the total club membership to over 400.

Sanford, a native of Fayetteville and graduate of the University Law School, defeated George Fountain, of Tarboro, for the state presidency in elections held at New Bern last month. His speech here Monday night will be his first public appearance since his election.

Miles Smith, Jr., student here who was elected secretary of the state club, will also appear on the program. Smith was the first college student ever elected to a state YDC office.

Also slated for the hour-long program is the election of three officers of the club. A new secretary-treasurer, to replace Marvin Horton who left school this year, and two members of the executive committee will be elected.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Gardner added, tables will be set up at the rear of Gerrard Hall in order that students who did not join the organization during registration may do so if they desire.

House Sends New Aid Bill To Senators

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—The House today overwhelmingly passed a $5,809,909,000 bill for foreign economic aid to top of $1,314,010,000 just approved of $1,314,010,000 just approved for military help overseas.

Taken together, the $7,124,000,000 measures are designed to strengthen the non-Communist world in the cold war against red aggression.

The House shouted the multi-billion-dollar aid bill to passage in a chorus of "ayes," with a few to a waiting Senate for final disbursements, and then sped it to the Senate for final disbursements, and then sped it to the Senate for final disbursements.

As passed by the House, the bill represent a compromise on separate measures already approved by each chamber. It gives Marshall Plan Administrator Paul Hoffman about 10 percent less than he originally requested for European Recovery Program spending.

Rep. Taber (R-NY) led an eleventh-hour fight on the House floor against including $150,000,000 in loan money, which is part of the overall amount.

However, the House voted 177 to 123 to accept the figure.

House and Senate approved the arms measure yesterday and sent it to the White House for President Truman's signature.

Meanwhile, ECA Chief Hoffman announced an outlay of $91,802,000 from new Marshall Plan spending, including a $40,000,000 grant to Britain for use in buying Canadian wheat.

Last Chance

Today is the last day for students whose names begin with A through D to have their pictures taken for the Yackety Yack, Editor Bill Claybrook said yesterday.

Students in this category who miss their chance will not be able to get their likeness recorded for posterity in the 1950 yearbook unless they try to buck the expected long line of latecomers who will be flooding the Yack Graham Memorial office.

Students whose names start with E through K will start posing Monday at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Chapel Hill TB Hospital Receives OK

Money Available To Construct 100-Bed Unit

RALEIGH, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Advisory Budget Commission has approved a recommendation that a 100-bed tubercular hospital be erected at Chapel Hill, a spokesman said today.

The Commission yesterday gave its okay to the recommendation of the board of directors of the N. C. Sanatorium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis.

When the last General Assembly met, the tubercular board suggested that a new hospital be erected at Chapel Hill so it would be near the University of North Carolina Medical School.

The State now operates sanatoriums at Black Mountain, McCain and Wilson.

Assistant Budget Director D.S. Coltrane, in whose office the Advisory Commission met, said the University has agreed to donate five acres of land for the sanatorium site. The General Assembly appropriated $471,250 for building the TB hospital.

Rendezvous Schedules Show Tonight

Emceed by local radio announcer Mark Barker and starring a group of favorite campus entertainers, the Rendezvous Room floorshow will get underway at 9 o'clock tonight.

Appearing for the second week in a row will be Frank Matthews at the piano. He will accompany Earl Hall, who will do several tap dance routines.

Rounding out the list of entertainers will be two Sound and Fury stars, Forrest Covington and Ann Martin. Covington will play his guitar and sing several ballads, and Ann will sing some blues numbers.

A regular Friday night feature will be Wally Andrews and his combo.

Progressives To Meet Tonight

The Chapel Hill chapter of the Young Progressives of America will hold its first club meeting of the year in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial at 8 o'clock tonight.

Featured at the initial meeting will be a discussion on the purposes of the YPA on the campus, election of officers, and the formation of several subcommittees.

One Hit, No Misses

Grail Dance Scheduled For Woollen Saturday

By Don Maynard

Proof positive that a hit is not as good as a miss will be given at the second in the series of Grail-sponsored football weekend informal dances tomorrow night in Woollen Gymnasium.

Squar' Dance Will Be Held On Saturday

For the second successive year, square dances will again be held in the Presbyterian church each Saturday night, dance publicity chairman Rex Reckendorf said yesterday.

The first dance of this school year will be held Saturday night at 8 o'clock, he said, featuring caller Hibbard Thatcher. The program will feature North Carolina mountain dances, New England dances and European folk dances.

Everyone is welcome, Reckendorf said, stag or couples. No admission will be charged. Refreshments and singing will be a part of the evening's entertainment at 10 o'clock.

The hit, of course, will be Roy Cole and his orchestra, who will play for the dance from 8:30 until 11:30. But the misses here last weekend, all 700 of them from the Woman's College, won't be in evidence.

It appears that the student body is in complete accord with this weekend dance series, Grail President Page Harris said yesterday, because 2,000 happy students showed up on the dance floor after the Tar Heel victory over State last week.

Admission to the dance will again be 75 cents for couples, $1 per stag. Tickets may be obtained at the Y.

The Dance Committee wished to stress that an informal dance implies the wearing of coats and ties for all males. Harris announced that members of the University of Georgia team will be present at the dance as guests of the Grail, win, lose or draw.

It has been the custom in the past to hold Grail-sponsored dances after every home football game, he said, and he expressed the hope that this renewed series will meet with continued enthusiasm.

He added that the dances will probably be continued for the student body benefit, whether or not the Grail makes a profit from the sale of tickets.

The Dance Committee reminded all students that is against Committee rules to bring intoxicating liquors on the dance floor.

Tarnation Staff Will Meet Today

Various departments of Tarnation, campus humor magazine, will meet today and tomorrow for organizational purposes, Editor Tom Kepr announced yesterday.

Those interested in layout, art work, advertising, and editorial work should attend the 4 o'clock meeting which will be held this afternoon in the basement of Graham Memorial, Kerr said.

There will be a meeting at 9 o'clock in the morning for persons desiring to do work in any phase of the sales or business set up of the magazine.

Get 'Em Quick

ND Game Hotel Space Announced By Sper

A host of hotel accommodations for Tar Heel fans in New York for the Notre Dame football game on the Nov. 12 weekend have been secured by the University Club's big weekend committee, Chairman Norm Sper said yesterday.

Seven hotels, all within a dozen blocks of Times Square, have set aside accommodations for students and their friends. They will keep them open until Oct. 8. Information and arrangements for the rooms may be made at the University Club's booth in the Y lobby.

Sper explained that it is important for fraternity, sorority, and other large contingents make arrangements for reservations as soon as possible.

Hotels offering reservations so far include:

Hotel Bryant, Broadway at 54th Street, has 10 two and three-person rooms; Hotel King Edward, on West 44th Street, has room for 100 students in double rooms for $7 a room, or $8.50 for a three-man room.

Henry Hudson Hotel, on West 56th Street, has room for 200 students in double rooms at $7 a room; Chesterfield Hotel, Broadway at 49th Street, has 10 large rooms, four persons to a room for $4.50 per person.

Royalton Hotel, on West 44th Street, has rooms for three-six-person parties in two-room suites and three four-person rooms, all for $4.50 per person.

Hotel Holland, on West 42nd Street, can accommodate 100 students in double rooms at $7 a room; Hotel President, on West 48th Street, has 40 rooms, doubles at $3.15 per person and $2.63 per person in triples.

Sper also urged groups who wish to charter buses to the big town should work out arrangements as soon as possible at the Y booth or at the Graham Memorial Travel Agency.

Bulletin

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel) RALEIGH, Sept. 29—The Advisory Budget Commission decided in a meeting here yesterday to build one large dormitory instead of the three new ones originally planned on the University of North Carolina campus, a spokesman said today.

The dorm, to cost a cool million dollars, will be located on Country Club Road to the right side of the Monogram Club. Lack of space on campus was given as the reason for the decision, and the big dormitory will contain as many rooms as the three scheduled at first.

CAA Clears Airport Plan For Parking

Final arrangements for football game parking on the Horace Williams Airport are complete and the scheme has been approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration safety inspector, University Assistant Business Manager J. A. Williams said today.

The plan, worked out by the Safety Committee, will go into effect at Saturday's game. All car-owners using the space get a shot at winning a free pair of ducats to the Notre Dame game and a round-trip Pullman reservation to get there. Second prize will be two more Irish tilt tickets, and third place gets two tickets to the Carolina-Duke contest.

According to Williams, a 100-foot wide strip on the west side of the northeast by southwest runway will be used for parking space. This will leave room for planes to land on the strip. Cars will enter the parking area from the Orange Church road, instead of the regular airport road.

The area and the entrance will be plainly marked and there will be student traffic directors. Free bus service will operate between the area and Chapel Hill. They will work from 10 o'clock until noon and will start return trips in front of the Scuttlebutt at 5:30.

The University Club is handling arrangements.

Reed Praises N. C. Beauty

GREENSBORO, Sept. 29—(AP)—You'll never anger a Tar Heel by praising the beauties of North Carolina.

That's what Associate Justice Stanley Forman Reed, of United States Supreme Court knew when he dodged questions about the Supreme Court today when interviewed here.

Justice Reed was visiting his boyhood pal, N. S. Calhoun, president of the Security National Bank. They grew up together in Matesville, Ky.

Blaze Parade Starts At 7:15 Up Franklin

Rally to Feature Cordon; Cheerers To Direct Yells

By Rolfe Neill

The Georgia Bulldogs will be burned up tonight!

For the first time in the infant 1949 grid season, a torchlight parade will be held preceding the weekend's football clash, which tomorrow will pit Carolina's Tar Heels against Georgia's Bulldogs.

Part of a pep rally sponsored by the University Club, the marching inferno is scheduled to leave Graham Memorial at 7:15 and go to Memorial Hall by way of East Franklin to Columbia where it will turn left and proceed up to Cameron, turn left again and thence to Memorial Hall for final activities.

Torches will be available for all desiring to participate in the "line of fire," and can be picked up at Graham Memorial. Norman Cordon, former Metropolitan Opera star, will be the featured speaker at the Memorial Hall meeting.

Head Cheerleader Norm Sper and his fellow pepsters will lead the cheering in the pre-game demonstration of Carolina spirit. Those who aren't too sure about the words of the Carolina yells and songs needn't worry, however, for sheets will be passed out with all the school battle cries printed on them.

Efforts are being made to include Harry Wismer, nationally known sports announcer, on the program, Nemo Nearman, chairman of the pep rally committee, announced yesterday. He said Wismer will be on hand to broadcast tomorrow's game.

Exhibit Set For Sunday

The opening of the Person Hall Art Gallery George Kachergis Exhibition will be marked Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by a tea in the gallery sponsored by the friends of Person Hall.

Kachergis has just joined the staff of the University's Art Department coming here from Bradley University. During the coming school year he will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John Rembert.

The majority of Kachergis work is done in the abstract idiom. In his work, he said, he has attempted to make the contemporary art speak by means of contemporary media. In this way, he continues, he achieves expression rather than illusionistic effects.

Holding a master of arts degree from the Art Institute of Chicago, Kachergis' works have been shown in exhibitions in New York, Chicago, Denver, Oakland and Omaha.

On the Cover

Chalk up another one for Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

The Asheville Amler feinted his way right onto the cover of Life Magazine today, and gets top billing in a football spread story on the inside of the mag.

Just for laughs the editors of Life threw a picture feature of the Debutante Ball in Raleigh into the issue, too, in case you want to see a snap of yourself doing some mighty fine partying.

Carter To Go To Music Department, Will Take Over Glee Choral Clubs

Joel Carter, formerly of the faculty of Stanford University, has been added to the staff of the University's Department of Music, and will fill the vacancy left open by the resignation of Paul Young this past June.

Carter, who will take over the post of Glee Club and Choral Club director, received his A.B. at San Jose State College in 1935. He received his M.A. degree from Stanford, and is at present working on his dissertation for a Doctorate, which will also be taken at Stanford.

While at Stanford, Carter directed the University's Glee Club, taught voice and music appreciation, and directed the choir of the Presbyterian church in Palo Alto. He was stage director of the Intimate Opera Players, a professional group of Californians; he taught music theory and voice at the San Jose High School; and, he has also taught dramatics and speech correction and has participated in lecture University with Harry Wilson. Carter has studied at Columbia recitals with Alfred Fisenstein. He has sung a leading role in performances of Benjamin Britten's recent and highly successful opera, "Peter Grimes" in the San Francisco Opera House, and has sung solo concerts with various orchestras and choral societies in California.

In Chapel Hill now with his wife, (a Greenville, S. C. girl whom he met while stationed there in the army) Carter is living in the home formerly occupied by the late Professor Harner on Laurel Hill Road.

"I have long been aware of the splendid choral tradition at Carolina," Carter said, "and I am looking forward to a pleasant and profitable time here, going ahead with the choral work as has been previously established."
