Tar Heels Spark To Top Bulldogs, 21-14

Weiner Makes Two Markers, Justice Other

By Buddy Vaden

Not since Davie sat under his tree and declared, "This is the spot!" has there been such a display of spirit, determination, and just plain guts as was exhibited by the Tar Heels yesterday in their 21-14 triumph over a fighting band of warriors from Athens and the University of Georgia.

Another sellout crowd of 44,000 fans were on hand to see the Tar Heels take an early lead, later in the third period, and then go on to sew up the ball game with a desperate last minute touchdown drive that meant the difference between a 14-14 tie and the thrilling victory that it surely was.

Carolina scored first and last, with Georgia managing two in the middle. The ball game was all tied up when the clock on the field showed one minute and 20 seconds left to play. The Tar Heels were on the Georgia 33, with the remaining seconds ticking away.

The fans at home hadn't seen the Tar Heels lose in Kenan Memorial Stadium since Wake Forest set them back in 1947. And yesterday didn't appear to be the day to start what once was a habit. Billy Hayes uncorked a pass to Art Weiner, who took the ball in on the 15, shook off Bulldog Gus Hiebovy on the ten, and ran on to score six points and win himself the title of "most valuable" player of the day.

The last Carolina touchdown drive started on the Tar Heel 15 yard line where Skeet Hesmer took Bob Walston's kickoff and returned it to the 38. From there it was only a matter of four plays before the Carolinians were behind the Georgians on the field and ahead of them on the scoreboard.

After Hesmer's kickoff return, passes were tried to Weiner and Kenny Powell. Both were incomplete. Coach Carl Snavely motioned the Tar Heel flankers to the sidelines and asked them if they wanted a breather—they had already done a good day's work. Weiner replied to the effect that both were willing and able to go some more. One play later Weiner scored.

Justice pitched a nicely executed screen pass up the middle to Hayes who advanced the ball to the Georgia 33. On the next play Hayes passed, Weiner romped, and the ball game was as good as over.

The Tar Heels entered the ball game hesitantly and were pushed around for ten minutes before they realized they had a game on their hands. It wasn't until there were only five minutes remaining in first period that the local club did anything that even resembled a winning team. They even had trouble getting 11 men on the field at one time.

Fullback Dick Wiess opened the ball game by kicking to Georgia's Jack McHugh on the 14. McHugh raced back to the 44 before he was finally pulled down. From that point until Goo Goo Gantt returned Pat Field's punt 46 yards behind beautiful blocking, the Tar Heels were compiling a list of errors that would take a week of practise sessions to go over.

But they settled down quickly, put up two goal line stands that would make even Marvin Bass smile, and then went on to put on a sparkling offensive program that had Carolina fans screaming and drinking with joy.

The first Carolina score came in the second period after a scoreless first quarter. The Tar Heels

GEORGIA END BOB WALSTON lets one slip through his fingers at a crucial point in the fourth quarter of yesterday's thrill-cramped grid battle in Kenan Stadium. Dick Bunting, bless his heart, is the Tar Heel breaking up the pass play. Daily Tar Heel Photographer Jim Mills handled the camera which caught these boys in mid-air.

Georgia Leaders Hold Talks Here

Using a prolific and fact-full group of University student government leaders as a teacher, a delegation of 20 University of Georgia student leaders went through an intensive two-day orientation program here over the weekend on the ways and problems of forming a responsible governmental organization at their school.

The delegation held its first meeting with local governmental experts Friday night, meeting first in the Morehead Planetarium and then moving to Graham Memorial. At the meeting they heard talks by Dean Bill Friday, President Bill Mackie, vice-president Ted Leonard and a host of other campus office-holders. A general discussion period was held after the talks.

A decision to do all in their power to institute a student governmental system at Georgia came out of a two-hour session yesterday morning. A general discussion period, lead by former Student Body President Jess Dedmond and Secretary Nat Williams was held.

The visitors were entertained at luncheon yesterday by acting president W. D. Carmichael in the planetarium.

Cox Passes Blue Devils To 21-7 Licking Of Vols

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 1 —(AP)—Billy Cox, a slender halfback with the marksmanship of a frontiersman, put on a sensational passing show today to lead Duke to a well-deserved 21-7 victory over Tennessee.

Cox, a 180-pound junior from Mount Airy, N. C., dazzled a crowd of 40,000 with his rifle-like passes. He connected for eight of the first nine he tossed. In all he completed 11 of 18 for two touchdowns and 172 yards. A fighting Tennessee line, led by brilliant sophomore guard Ted Daffer, forced the Southern Conference Dukes to take to the air. And the hoped-up Blue Devils were ready with some brilliant aerial pyrotechnics.

shutout when Harold Payne, a Tennessee barely escaped a flashy sophomore halfback, grabbed Bob Bickel's kick on the Vol 10 and raced 90 yards down the sideline to score.

But before this run late in the fourth quarter, the Dukes had piled up a comfortable 21 points.

Michigan Wins

PALO ALTO, Cal., Oct. 1 —(AP)—Mighty Michigan steam-rollered over a willing but outclassed Stanford football team today by a 27 to 7 count.

A crowd of 88,000 fans, the largest of the season here, saw the Wolverines' wingback attack pulverize Stanford's defense for three touchdowns in the third period, after being held to a 7-0 lead at half time.

Michigan, undefeated since October, 1946, when Illinois turned the trick, racked up its 25th consecutive victory since then. Coach Benny Oosterbaan's Wolverines came out west defending their mythical national championship. So far as the shirt-sleeved, near-capacity throng who saw them batter the Stanford defense to bits was concerned, they're a good bet to retain their laurels this season.

Cosmopolitan Club Meeting Set For Today; India Show To Be Given

Inshu Bangdiwala, foreign student of the Cosmopolitan Club said yesterday the first meeting of the Club for the present school year will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Horace Williams Lounge of Graham Memorial.

The Club, which boasted a roll-call of some 50 students at the close of school in June, issued an open invitation to all students, particularly freshmen, is primarily for students from the various countries represented to the meeting. Though the Club ed on campus, membership is not restricted.

Inshu said this first meeting will feature a general get-together, and discussion of a program for the coming year, including the election of Club officers to be held in the near future. Films from India will be shown after the meeting.

The Cosmopolitan Club meets every Sunday afternoon for a tea at which time the members hear students from various countries describe their home lands from the social, economic and general interest standpoint. Featured on the programs are debates and conferences comparing the various nations.

The Club's motto, Inshu says, is: "know the people of America and of other countries". For are earnestly asked to participate in this reason, native Americans pate, he said, to help students from other nations understand the American way of life.

Among the other activities of the Club are frequent visits to historic and interesting points in this state and surrounding states. The Club's most recent trip was to the Tennessee Valley Authority, where they inspected the huge hydroelectric facilities.

Notre Dame Grinds Washington, 27-7

Seattle, Oct. —(AP)—The grinding power of a Notre Dame football machine driven by the piston legs of squat Emil Sitko wore down the University of Washington today and earned the Irish a 27 to 7 victory.

Stunning a crowd of 41,500, a Washington team that was unimpressed by the reputation of the green-clad Notre Dame giants pitched a touchdown pass in the first quarter and held the score to a 7- deadlock at halftime.

But the vicious drive of the Irish forward wall took its toll of Washington players in the second half. The invaders from South Bend, Ind., playing for the first time in the northwest, capitalized on two fumbles and a blocked kick to score twice in the third quarter and once in the fourth to wrap up the game.

Time and again the Notre Dame attack was bogged by 15-yard penalties for holding, clipping and unnecessary roughness. Two of them came on successive plays in the final quarter. The 135 yards lost from penalties did more to check the Irish than the courageous stand of the hometown huskies.

The touchdown that broke the scoring ice was set up at the flag end of the opening stanza. Lawrence Coutré of Notre Dame fumbled on the Washington 45 and tackle John Bechek recovered for Washington.

On the first play left halfback Rolly Kirkby got beyond the Notre Dame secondary defense and cradled a 30-yard pass from quarter Don Henrich scampering to the goal untouched.

It took Notre Dame almost all the second period to get even, finally launching an all-the-way drive from its own 39. Quarterback Bob Williams mixed his plays shrewdly, threatening with "six-yard" Sitfor steady gains.

ko and feeding his other backs on the two and slanted over. With the bill on the 20, Williams logged a pass to Leon Hart and the huge end grabbed it half ended and soon Kirkby and Stephen Oracko booted the first of his three successful tries for point to tie it up at 7-all.

The Huskies lost Heinrich with a kidney injury before the first Irish counter. Guard fullback Henry Tiedemann joined him on the sidelines, hurt in the rough play.
