GUSC Requests Scott To Let Students Help

Formal Meeting Discusses Plans For Coming Year

The Greater University Student Council has asked Gov. Kerr Scott for more student participation in the selecting of a new president to succeed Sen. Frank P. Graham, North Carolina's 1949 Governor.

Meeting in Greensboro Sunday, the council made a formal request to Scott that students be allowed to sit on the special presidential selection committee as observers.

Soon after Governor Scott appointed Graham to the United States Senate, the council asked him for student participation on the committee. The Governor complied by naming O. Max Gardner, Jr., to the group. Gardner is a student and a member of the Board of Trustees.

The council also voted Sunday to dispatch a letter to Senator Graham urging him to accept the position on the National Advisory Council of the National Student Association. Graham was selected at the recent NSA Congress in Urbana, Ill., but has said nothing definite yet about whether or not he will accept the appointment.

The Student Council, meeting officially for the first time this year, heard several new projects suggested for the year which were referred to committee. The Projects Committee will discuss them and report on them at the next meeting.

Some of the projects listed were round table discussions on the air, clinics on student government, arrangements for outstanding speakers to appear at all three institutions, exchange of foreign students; exchange of professors, and appointment of a committee to do research on prospective candidates for the presidency of the Greater University.

The Grail is bringing Freddy Martin and his orchestra for two dances and a concert over Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28 and 29.

Gordon said tickets for the musical events will go on sale Tuesday, October 18, in the Y court. Tickets for all three activities may be purchased in a block for $6, or for $1.50 for each dance and $1 for the concert. Playmakers Set Tryouts For Today

Tryouts for "The Spirit of Cedarhurst", new full length play by Mildred E. Danforth, will be held by the Carolina Playmakers this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Playmakers Theater, tonight at 8 o'clock in Murphy Hall.

The play will be the first full length experimental production of the new Playmaker season, and it is scheduled for production on October 27 and 28. It follows the major production, "Squaring the Circle", a Russian comedy slated for a six day run beginning October 18.

"The Spirit of Cedarhurst" is to be directed by Bill MacIlwain, graduate student from Fayetteville, who will conduct the tryout sessions.

All students who are interested in taking part in the production, either in acting or technical work, are cordially invited to attend. Twenty-three roles will be cast, including eight men and 15 women.

The action of the play takes place in an exclusive school for girls, and is centered around a personality struggle between the dean and the principal.

Playmakers Seek Rare Instrument

There are many things that make a play director, especially one who is directing a comedy, want to tear out his hair, and Kai Jurgensen, directing the Carolina Playmaker production of "Squaring the Circle", is no exception.

This time, Jurgensen says it is the playwright who is to blame. The script of "Squaring the Circle" calls for a button style accordion or concertina.

The Playmakers have launched a search, unsuccessful so far, for an instrument answering the description. Jurgensen asks that anyone who has an accordion, or concertina, for loan or rent please contact the Playmaker business office in Swain Hall.

Phi To Debate Faculty Oath In Open Meet

A proposal that University faculty and employees be required to sign non-Communist affidavits will be debated before the Phi Assembly tonight at 7:30 in Phi Hall, New East Building.

Prof. Phillips Russell of the Journalism Department, will appear to express his views on the bill. Leading opposition will be Dave Sharpe, political science major and member of the student legislature. Sharpe is a past speaker of the Phi.

In announcing the subject for the evening, Speaker Pro-Tempore Hugh Griffin said that the bill was worded for the Phi to go on record opposing the anti-Communist measure. He also reported that privileges of the floor would be open to the public.

Other business for the evening will include a report from the Phi's "Go Forward" committee by Chairman Herman Sieber. The committee recently has made plans for several improvements in the Assembly, and these will be brought before Phi members for the first time tonight.

Speaker Graham Jones reported that following the regular meeting would be an executive session in which applications for membership into the Phi would be considered. Committee appointments will also be made at that time, he said.

Elwood Clinard, chairman of the Membership Committee, urged all applicants for membership to be present at tonight's meeting.

Robbers Hit Three Spots In Weekend

Occupants of the Chi Psi fraternity, Pi Beta Phi sorority and B dormitory lost more than $600 in cash and valuables to thieves during the excitement of the past football weekend, police officers said yesterday.

Harshest hit in the raids was the Chi Psi house where more than $500 worth of money and clothing was taken. The thieves first entered the house about 4:30 Saturday morning and left with approximately $60.

Unsatisfied with this haul, the thieves returned during the football game and this time left with an $80-suitcase belonging to Roy Gilliken containing a number of suits.

Later evidence revealed that the two thieves had been spotted by the Chi Psi cook who, being suspicious, questioned them. They replied that they were "moving out." The cook also reported that the two men left in a '37 Ford coach.

Pi Phi rushing parties Friday night provided opportunity for more thievery. While the party was in progress, the girls' rooms upstairs received a thorough going-over. An average of $8 was stolen from each girl. One graduate, Elizabeth Eaddy, found her $60 pay check missing. After the party the rusees found that all the valuables had been taken from their coats.

J. M. Eppes, of B Dorm, reported that $31 was stolen from a table drawer in his room on Sunday between 9 and 2:30 o'clock.

Solon Quorum Not Available For Session

Council Position Is Still Unfilled; To Meet Thursday

By Roy Parker, Jr.
Roy Holdsten still is "chairman without portfolio" of the Men's Honor Council today because a special session of the Student Legislature, called for last night to consider his appointment to the judicial body he has already been tentatively elected chairman of didn't get a quorum.

With general confusion reigning because of a misunderstanding about the time of the meeting, resignation of several solons, and conflicting engagements, the Legislature could only garner 21 members, four short of enough to do business.

The body will try again at its regularly scheduled session Thursday night at 7:30. It is expected to have plenty of business then, with Holdsten's appointment still on the fire and several other governmental posts lacking an office-holder. Nearly a dozen seats in the Legislature itself must be filled.

The Student Party met immediately after the legislative dud to get a slate of replacements ready to fill nearly a dozen SP vacancies in the body. The University Party meets tomorrow to fill its vacancies and the Campus Party has already filled a single seat.

Besides appointments, Thursday night's regular session may have amendments to the Campus Chest bill to consider. Chest head Dick Murphey has several changes being mulled over at the present time.

Debate Group Sets Tryouts For Tonight

Debate Council President David J. Pittman announced yesterday that try-outs for debate teams for this year will be held tonight at 8:30 in Roland Parker lounge no. 1.

The first tournament the debaters will take part in is the Carolina Forensics which will be held in Columbia, S. C. on October 21 and 22. A northern trip is also planned to the University of Richmond, Georgetown University, Princeton, and Columbia during the week of November 7-12.

Last year the Carolina debaters won 75 per cent of their contests. The Council has six returning varsity men. Expectations for this year are very good, reported Dave Pittman.

Special Ceremony

University Celebrates 156th Year Next Week

The University will celebrate its 156th birthday on Wednesday, Oct. 12, with annual exercises staged on the campus and elsewhere in the country. Chancellor R. B. House said that exercises will be staged on the campus area between South Building and the Library.

For many years October 12 has been called University Day and by tradition there is a central celebration on the campus with many alumni groups holding meetings to commemorate the date throughout the country.

On the University campus the program will feature a re-enactment of the cornerstone-laying. From a platform to be built to the south of South Building the Carolina Playmakers will stage the symbolic cornerstone laying of Old East dorm, at which General William R. Davie, founder of the University, first presided.

The program will begin with a band concert immediately following the 10:50 bell. At 11 o'clock a massed chorus representing the Men's and Women's glee clubs under the direction of Joel Carter will sing from the steps of South Building.

The exercises, which will be presided over by Chancellor House, are scheduled to take only about 20 minutes. The program will be concluded by the assembled students and faculty marching behind the band to Davie Poplar where "Hark the Sound" will close the formal birthday party.

In observation of the occasion classes will be suspended following the 11 o'clock hour and students, faculty, and university officers will be granted a half-holiday, it was announced by Chancellor House's office.

Activity Day Is Scheduled For Freshmen

Any campus organization that wishes to do so may erect a booth at Memorial Hall today for the purpose of giving freshmen information on the organization's activities, Chairman of the Freshman Orientation Committee Al Lowenstein said yesterday.

The third in the series of freshman assemblies this morning at 10 o'clock will mark Activities Day on campus, and will feature several speakers whose aim it will be to familiarize new students with the organization, purpose and function of extra-curricular groups on the campus.

The speakers will cover such topics as forensics, dramatics and music, religion, scholastic and honorary groups, non-fraternal social activities, campus politics, and other political organizations represented in the student body, publications and athletics.

Sanford Gives First Address Since Elected

300 Democrats Attend Meeting In Gerrard Hall

By Bill Buchan
"The Democratic Party stands a chance of becoming self-satisfied, dictatorial, and stagnant in thought," Terry Sanford, president of the North Carolina Young Democrats, told an audience of some 300 persons last night in his first public speech since his election as YDC President at New Bern on Sept. 17.

"The primary objective of the Young Democrats Club, he said, is to keep the party alive. We need to bring a youthful approach to our organization," Sanford spoke before a group of students and faculty members at a local YDC meeting.

"It is up to the younger generation to keep the democracy alive and to prevent an ever increasing bureaucracy from strangling it as we know it today," he continued.

Sanford spoke on an hour-long program with W. D. Carmichael, Jr., Acting President of the Greater University, and Miles Smith, Jr., secretary of the state YDC organization. O. Max Gardner, Jr., local club president, presided.

Carmichael, who made a welcome address to the club, told the Young Democrats, "faith has made North Carolina a great state—faith in Almighty God, ourselves and each other. We have a state where all the people have worked cooperatively together to build a healthier, wealthier, economically sounder and happier state.

"We must at this time," he continued, "stand steadfastly together, determined that in our zeal to improve the lot of those citizens who have not shared freely in the distribution of material, we do not divide our people. We must work together to achieve benefits for those who do not have them."

Senior Class Heads Meet

Officers of the class of 1950 held their initial meeting of this year to discuss organizational plans in Graham Memorial yesterday.
