

Tar Heels Will Depart Today For SC Clash

Locals Go By Air To Renew Series With Gamecocks

The Tar Heels of North Carolina will leave Chapel Hill at 12:30 this afternoon and travel by bus to the Durham-Raleigh airport where they will board a 50 passenger plane and be in Columbia, S. C., by 2:15. They will take a short workout at ten o'clock.

It will be the first meeting between Carl Snavey's Tar Heels and Rex Enright's Gamecocks since 1944 when the Birds copped a 6-0 win over the Carolinians. The Tar Heel squad, 44 strong, will make the Columbia Hotel their headquarters in Columbia. Wingback Johnny Clements and End Ed Washington will be the only Tar Heel regulars missing from the lineup. Both are suffering from ankle sprains and neither will dress for the game.

Former Tar Heel
Rex Enright, who coached the Gamecocks to a three-five season last year, is an old Tar Heel at heart, having coached the backfield at Chapel Hill under Jim Tatum during the war. Enright is a graduate of Notre Dame and was a first string fullback under Knute Rockne. George Terlep, an assistant coach at Columbia, is another Notre Dame grad who will be working against the Tar Heels Saturday.

Down in South Carolina, where they call the Gamecocks "Carolina", there is a story going around that the Birds are going to give the Tar Heels a good fight before the day is out. Palmetto Staters are counting on the efforts of backs Steve Wadiak, Tommy Woodlee, and Johnny Boyle, all of whom played in Kenan Stadium last year when they were defeated by the Carolina freshman squad, 27-26. Boyle is being called the "most talked about sophomore in the Southern Conference." His passing has delighted our neighbors to the South, but as yet has failed to win a game for the Gamecocks. So far the Birds have played two ball games, losing their opener to Baylor, 20-8 and to little Furman, 14-7.

Not A Breather
Some local sports are calling the South Carolina-North Carolina game a breather for the Tar Heels. But Snavey and his growing band of coaches aren't taking any chances. They worked hard on preparations for the Gamecocks all week and didn't let up until last night.

Considerable time was spent on punt and kickoff returns, with Choo Choo and Goo Goo doing the safety man work. Both of the scatbacks scatted back several good times, Gant ripping up the middle on one occasion and doing tricks that would have made Houdini look sick.

Defense Trouble
The Blue and White defensive forces were still having trouble stopping the little freshman squad that was acting like South Carolina. The defenders-of-our-goal have had trouble all week deciphering the T antics worked out by the frosh.

In the Carolina-South Carolina series the Tar Heels are way ahead, having won 16 of 24 games played. The Birds have flown off with four wins and the remaining four were stalemates.

The game, which starts at 2 o'clock, will be aired from Carolina Stadium by WPTF's Jim Reid. South Carolina officials have announced that the game is a sellout at 34,000.

Chapel Hill at Oxford

Coach Bill Grice and his Chapel Hill Wildcats will take to the road for the second straight week tonight as they travel to Oxford for a night game scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock.

Gunning for their fourteenth consecutive win, they've been tied three times, the Wildcat eleven will be minus the services of two of their most outstanding regulars, Joe Hoening and Howard Stewart. Hoening will be out for the season with a separated shoulder incurred in last week's game with Graham. Stewart broke his ankle in practice a few days ago.

Oxford boasts a record of four wins so far this year. The only defeat suffered last year was at the hands of Chapel Hill. The Wildcats have won two and tied one during this year's play.

Fencing Club Announces Practice Plans, Officers

Beginning this past Monday, the new Fencing Club has scheduled four practice sessions a week as the foilsmen prepare to put together a squad for meets with other collegiate teams in this area.

The four-day-a-week program was decided on at the Club's first business meeting last Thursday night which was attended by 40 men. About a dozen of the 40 have had some fencing experience, reported Club President Don Williams.

Also present at the organizational meeting was Franz Ross, the head coach of the group and five of the club's instructors.

The election of officers at the meeting Thursday helped to form a link with last spring's fencing club, which held exhibitions with N.C. State, when Ed Williams was elected secretary and Bob Seybolt was chosen treasurer. Both men held those offices in the old club. Don Williams is the newly-elected president.

All further business gatherings are to be held during the actual workouts on the main floor of Wollen Gym.

An exhibition with State College has been tentatively scheduled for some time this quarter while Kentucky and The Citadel are also on the list for future engagements. The practice schedule: Monday...4-6 o'clock Tuesday...7:30-9:30 o'clock Wednesday...4-6 o'clock Friday...4-6 o'clock combe, did in his heartbreaking loser yesterday. The Yanks nudged the cool Preacher for six hits, two of them in the eighth and ninth frames, but only once during the tense duel did the American League Champions push a man around to third. Not until the eighth inning did they ever have two runners on base at the same time.

Eighth Inning Trouble
In the eighth, after his own error on a sacrifice bunt by Phil Rizzuto had put Yanks on first and second with one out, Preacher forced Tommy Henrich, hero of the opening game, to pop weakly to left field and stopped Hank Bauer on an infield roller.

When Joe DiMaggio opened the ninth with his first hit of the series, a slow roller which third baseman Spider Jorgensen couldn't handle in time, the predominantly Yankee throng raised a ruckus and told themselves excitedly that the Bombers were going to pull it out in the ninth again.

But they didn't reckon with the Preacher. Johnny Lindell went down swinging at a sweeping curve—Roe's third strikeout of the day—Billy Johnson sent up a weak pop which Robinson gobbled, and Gerry Coleman lofted to right for the game-ending out.

To make his performance all the more dazzling, Roe pitched from the fourth inning with a fingernail torn from the fourth finger of his right, or glove, hand.

He received the injury when Lindell drilled a savage drive back at the mound with two out in the fourth. Roe knocked it down in self defense and tossed Lindell out, but there was doubt for some minutes that he would be able to continue pitching in the fifth, and several Dodger pitchers warmed up hurriedly between innings.

Second Inning Lapse

Except for his one lapse in the second, when Robinson and Hodges jolted him for clean hits, Raschi was just about as effective as Roe. Twice after their scoring inning the Brooks got a man around to third, but they died there as the Yank righthander bore down with superb control in the clutches.

Before retiring for a pinch-hitter in the last of the eighth, Raschi gave up six hits, struck out four and issued only one walk, that intentional to the dangerous Roy Campanella to get out of the second inning jam.

The Dodgers nicked Joe Page for their seventh hit, a lead-off single into left by Duke Snider. Robinson sacrificed the Duke to second but neither pinchhitter Carl Furillo nor Luis Olmo could knock Jones' stuff past the infield.

Col. Matt Winn Dies

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 6. (AP)—Mr. "Kentucky Derby"—88-year-old Col. Matt J. Winn—died here early today.

The president of Churchill Downs and the director of the annual mile and a quarter turf classic for three year old thoroughbreds crossed life's finish line at 2:45 A.M. central standard time, at St. Joseph Infirmary.

He had been seriously ill for several weeks following two operations to correct a stomach disorder. Three of his four living daughters, other relatives and several business associates were at his bedside when he died.

Footballers Rank Among Leaders In Figure League

The National Collegiate Athletic Board football statistics released yesterday revealed that North Carolina's Charlie Justice again leads the nation's punters and that Art Weiner is third among the pass receivers.

Justice has punted 17 times for an average of 47.9 yards, almost four yards better than the record he set last year. Weiner has caught 13 passes for 195 yards and two touchdowns. Carolina is fourth in punt returns with an average of 26.5 and 23rd in total offense, averaging 311 yards per game.

The Tar Heels' potent passing offense that has been largely responsible for their victories, placed Carolina 14th with 22 completions in 36 attempts for 334 yards and three touchdowns, an average of 61.1.
