

Va.-N.C. Regional NSA Meet Gets Underway Here Today; National Officer Will Speak

Students Here To Represent 20 Schools

Bob Delahanty, executive secretary of the National Students Association, will be the featured speaker at a convention here today through Sunday of the Virginia-Carolina region of NSA, Ben Jones, regional president, said yesterday.

The three-day meeting, which will be attended by students from approximately 20 colleges and universities in Virginia and North Carolina, will hold its opening session tonight in the Di Hall in New West. Registration will take place at 6 o'clock and will be followed by a welcoming address by Marshall Roberts, newly-appointed chairman of the local committee.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock W. D. Carmichael, acting president of the Greater University of North Carolina, has been requested to address the assembly. The meeting will be open to all University students, and President Jones has issued an invitation to all interested.

After the meeting the delegates will divide into three groups for clinics on regional assembly, publications and student government.

The student government clinic will be led by Bill Mackie and Bill Prince. Last year the clinic was conducted by Don Shropshire, and according to Jones, was one of the most successful parts of the convention.

Charlie Gibson, senior member of the Publications Board, will conduct the publications clinic, which will include in addition to discussions on all types of publications, a visit to Colonial Press, where the Daily Tar Heel and Tarnation are printed.

The regional assembly clinic will have as its main objective the revision of the regional constitution. It will be led by Ben Jones, former regional president Jesse Dedmond and regional secretary-treasurer Dan Bell.

Saturday night administrative officials from several of the schools will hold a faculty forum to discuss what has been gained from the Saturday clinics. These officials are attending the meeting to see how NSA functions.

Following the faculty forum Delahanty will speak to the delegates on implementation of an active regional program with emphasis on the purchase card system and the international affairs program.

Delahanty, who was recently elected executive secretary of NSA, is from the University of Louisville and is making a special trip from Madison, Wis., to speak at the meeting.

Saturday night the delegates will also attend the Planetarium showing of "Eclipses of the Sun and the Moon."

Sunday morning the delegates will prepare reports which they will give at a meeting Sunday afternoon.

Members of the Carolina-Virginia region of NSA are the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State, Duke University, (See NSA, Page 4)

Mistaken Identity

The time: 11 o'clock Wednesday night.
The place: Outside the side entrance to McIver Dormitory.
Action: The porch light goes out and the door begins to close. The usual scramble of coats to make it inside takes place. One lone couple is left entwined at the bottom of the steps for a final goodnight.
Dialogue:
Housemother: "I'm sorry, but it's time to come in."
Sweet Young Thing: "But we don't live here."

AT A SPECIAL CEREMONY at Columbia University, New York, General of the Army Dwight D. Umstead To Speak On Graham, Scott

Rep. John Umstead, Orange County's representative to the State Legislature, will speak on "Scott, Graham and Daniels" Tuesday night at 9 o'clock in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2 in Graham Memorial.

Rene Mayer Takes Over French Reins

PARIS, Oct. 20—(AP)—Rene Mayer, a moderate political leader with a background of business experience, was confirmed tonight as the new Premier of France. The National Assembly gave Mayer, a member of the radical Socialist party, 341 votes. This was 31 more than he needed to get the nod from the Assembly for the complex job of trying to solve France's pressing wage-price problems. There were 183 votes cast against him.

In 1932 Mayer was a vice president of a French railway company. When the French railroads were nationalized he became a member of the directing committee.

Mayer, 54 will now proceed to form a cabinet to succeed that of Henri Queuille.

Love Went Down Drain

Dashing Dilly Swims Last Swim, Dies Of Sad Heart Over Fishbowl Mate

WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 20—(AP)—Dashing Dilly, playmate of Darling Dally, the Goldfish who went down the drain earlier this month has died of a broken heart. Now Dilly and Dally are dilly-dallying together again wherever little goldfish go when they leave this world. The two goldfish were purchased by Miss Nelma Tedder, secretary of Solicitor Walter E. Johnson, in March of this year, to keep her company in the office. They soon became the pets of everyone in the courthouse as they splashed gaily in the little bowl on Miss Tedder's desk. But, as previously reported, Dally dallied too near the brim of the bowl one morning when Miss Tedder was changing the water and flipped out of the bowl and down the drain. Dilly was completely at sea for several days, but the grief-stricken Miss Tedder finally bought two more fish as playmates for Dilly. The two fish, a goldfish called Dally, Jr., and a jet black fish named Popeye, made quite a splash in the little bowl and everything was happy again—everyone thought. But not Dilly, however. Never a fish to wear his heart on his fin, Dilly apparently thought something was fishy and couldn't accept the newcomers in his bowl. Dilly soon lost his appetite. He couldn't eat. He couldn't sleep. He was going around in circles. It got worse daily. Dilly's love had gone down the drain and his only wish seemed to be to follow dear departed Dally to a watery grave. The other day, when Miss Tedder came to work, she found

Pep Rally Set On Gym Steps At Noon Today

Norm Sper Calls For Big Turnout By Student Body

Carolina's undefeated footballers will leave for their tangle with Louisiana State today at 12:30 and will take with them the University band and students not handicapped with 12 o'clock classes.

A pep rally with all the trimmings will be given the team from the steps of Woollen Gym at that time, Head Cheerleader Norm Sper said, to make up for the sendoff they missed prior to the South Carolina game.

Loud speakers will be set up, and portable speakers will make the rounds of the campus, calling students to the rally, Sper said.

There will be no official escort for the team to Raleigh-Durham Airport, where their chartered airliner will be warming up for the flight to Baton Rouge, he said, but there also will be no restrictions against an impromptu cavalcade.

Buses will carry the 44 players and company to the airport, minus only end Kenny Powell, still out of action because of injuries. Their plane will take to the air at approximately 1:30 for the non-stop flight to the LSU Tigers' lair.

Scheduled to land in the bayou country about 5 o'clock tonight the team will stay at the Heliberg Hotel in Baton Rouge until their grapple with the LSU eleven. Saturday night under the lights.

Radio Show Will Feature Lanier Davis

Lanier Davis, a member of the University Quartet, will be the feature vocalist on a 15-minute broadcast over WDUK from the Rendezvous Room tonight at 9:30. The broadcast, run by Mark Barker, will include a musical quiz, with Rendezvous Room patrons as the contestants.

Following the broadcast the Room will have its regular Friday night floor show. Taking part in it will be vocalist Bill Saunders; Jim Wilson, who will dance the Highland Fling; Bill Cook at the piano; and the University Quartet composed of Lanier Davis, Jack Clinard, Dick Smith and Milton Bliss.

Last Friday night the floor show drew one of the biggest crowds that has ever assembled in the Rendezvous Room, and entertainment director Mary Jo McLean expressed the hope that tonight's show would draw as big a crowd.

New University Golf Course To Open For Play Monday

By Billy Carmichael III
The long-awaited University golf course will be awaiting its first players this coming Monday.

That was the announcement made by the University Athletic Department yesterday, which said that nine of the proposed 18 holes will be available for play by the students, faculty and alumni use come the first of the week.

The new layout, to be named the Finlay Golf Course in honor of the Raleigh constructionist who was so instrumental in its building, is the only college owned course in North Carolina.

Designed by the nation's leading golf architects, the course should serve as a true test to any golfer, according to University Golf Coach Chuck Erickson.

Narrow fairways coupled with well-trapped, rolling greens should keep the majority of players away from par figures. Par for the nine holes to be opened in 36 with five par 4's, two par 3's and two par 5's making up the aggregate.

And there is water on the course to add a bit of difficulty. The 8th hole has a pond in front of the green.

Dance Team To Compete In State Fair

The Greenwood team, winner of the 1949 Carolina Folk Festival square dance contest, will compete in the square dance contest at the North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh tonight.

The team, composed of University students, has given numerous exhibitions all over the state, and last summer was invited to a festival in Europe.

The State Fair competition has been going on all week, but tonight will be the first time the local dancers have participated in it. There will be no final elimination contest, and all the teams that have danced will be judged by their own performance.

Members of the Greenwood team making the trip to the Fair are Bob and Ginger Callahan, Arnold and Linda Wilson, John and Clarice Brady, Nick Fisher and Mary Ann Rhodes, Bud Reagan and Nell Evans, Harold Cummings and Betty McMahon, Ed Currence and Sue Carter and Arnold McPeters and Tommie Olive.

Nick Fisher will enter the individual cloggers contest, and according to members of the Greenwood team, has a good chance of winning it.

Entrance in the contest is by invitation only, and teams from all over the state will take part in it.

Czech Says No Walk Out

LONDON, Oct. 20—(AP)—A spokesman for the Czechoslovakian Embassy said tonight there no prospect of the pro-Soviet Communist nations in the U.N. walking out as a result of Yugoslavia's elections to the Security Council.

"No doubt," the spokesman added, "this is what many western countries would like us to do."

The spokesman said the election will show the Yugoslav people "how far westward the Tito regime has moved." He charged the election was engineered by the western nations "against the wishes of Yugoslavia's neighbors and all of the truly Socialist countries."

Together with announcement of the opening came news of the appointment of a professional to be in charge of the course, fees to be charged, and the who, how, and when rules pertaining to play.

Ed Kenney, formerly with the Old Town Club of Winston-Salem, is the new home pro and will be in complete charge. In addition to his other duties, Kenney will give individual lessons at the rate of $3 for 40 minutes.

A greens fee of $.50 will be charged for play at all times including weekends. Students must show ID cards before play, as the large University demand will force the limitation of players to students, faculty and alumni.

The Intramural department is wasting no time in getting a fall tournament underway for all student golfers. Qualifying for the competition will begin Tuesday and run throughout the week. Each will shoot 18 holes in qualifying.

The following week flights subsequent to the opening of the course will be (See KENNEY, page 4)

VASYA (HAL SHADWELL) entreats Tonya (Florabel Wolff) to marry him during a scene in "Squaring the Circle," a satire of Communist Russia which is being presented by The Carolina Playmakers tonight through Sunday. The show started its successful run Tuesday.

Thad Eure To Speak At Theta Chi Dinner

Thad Eure, North Carolina Secretary of State, will be the featured speaker at the formal reactivation banquet of the Alpha Eta chapter of Theta Chi fraternity, announced yesterday.

Eure, a Theta Chi alumnus of the University, will head a list of distinguished guests at the banquet including, Ralph G.

Grismer, Chairman of the National Counsel, O. F. Randolph Bruce, Theta Chi regional counselor, of Richmond, Va., Edward T. Quillen, deputy counselor of Sanford, and James D. Russ of Asheboro and Guy W. Rawls of Raleigh, both University Theta Chi alumni.

Dance Group Adjusts Classes, Girl Shortage

By Don Maynard

Because it "just ain't any fun to dance with your fellowman," ratio-ed men attending the Monday night Woollen Gym-sponsored dance classes have organized a girl-getting committee, designed to escort, invite or just drag coeds to the classes.

Odds at the weekly classes have risen to almost 150-25, the normal 6-1 campus man to woman ratio, instructors Lib Stoney said.

Therefore, at 7 o'clock Monday night, 15 minutes before Miss Stoney and her partner, John Lehman, begin their dance class in the South American mood-rumba and tango—a contingent of 38 men will move out in groups of six to the six coed dorms on campus.

The groups are numbered and will invade the dorms in numerical order, one going to Spencer, two to Carr, three to Smith, and so on through Alderman, Kenan and McIver.

"It's not a blind date proposition," Miss Stoney hastened to explain, "but merely a way of getting the girls to the classes. Of course, there's no telling what arrangements may be made."

Sorority girls may go to any of the dorms at 7 o'clock to be picked up by the groups, she said, adding, "Please be there on time, girls."

Miss Stoney and Lehman give the lessons in different phases of dancing each Monday night in Woollen Gymnasium under the auspices of the Intramural Department.

Frosh Voting, Chest Change Pass Quickly

Vote Set Nov. 29; Tarnation Money Is Recommended

By Roy Parker, Jr.
The report of Election Board legislative reapportionment and the passage of "primary" election amendment to the voting laws after a wrangling debate were the main features of the Student Legislature's meeting last night.

Two other bills were passed, one was recommended to committee, four new members were sworn in, and four bills were presented to round out the solon action.

Reapportionment of the legislative representation included adding seats to men's dormitory districts 1 and 3 and to women's dorm district 1. Town men's districts 2, 3 and 5 lost a legislator.

The reapportionment took town men's total representation, but the districting law gives the district a representative only if it has 100 or more students. It had only 73. Its voting population

Jim Gwynn, Elections Board chairman, also announced that there would be 34 legislative posts up for change in the December election. They include 25 year seats and nine six-month seats.

The "primary" election bill passed by a 28-1 vote with a committee amendment that it be held on Tuesday, Nov. 29, instead of Nov. 30. A motion to recommit presented by Bill Prince (SP) was voted down, but not until Prince himself asked to withdraw his motion. It was pointed out that, under the bill, there might still have to be a runoff after the Dec. 6 regular election, but the general consensus was that the bill was the best that could be devised until the Constitution was amended.

A bill to allow the Campus Chest Board to set its own drive date and a bill to allow freshmen to vote for their officers at regular polling places passed without debate, the freshmen vote bill with some technical amendments.

Tarnation's $1000 appropriation bill was sent back to committee unanimously. Bills to do away with infirmity ballots, pay poll-watchers, do away with men's town district 5 and to appropriate $242 dues to national, regional and local groups of the National Students Association were presented.

University Party legislators Marnell Rodman, were sworn in. Emily Bostwick and Stanly Linn—although appointed, didn't get up to be taken in. Bootsie I (UP) was elected to head Coed Affairs Committee by 28-7 vote over Dolly Colwell (SP). She replaces Ann Green who has resigned from the Legislature.

Work Begins

Work has begun on the building of the addition to the University library by the J. A. Jones Construction Company of Charlotte. Collier Cobb, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees Building Committee, said yesterday.

Trees have been cleared from the site for a week to make room for the addition, which will be built in back of the main library building. The cost of the complete structure will be some $1,500,000.

Cobb also said that construction of the new Law School building will begin sometime around Jan. 1.
