Radio Group Will Present 'Star' Show

Marshall Slated To Be Narrator Christmas Day

A 30-minute radio program presenting the story of the Star of Bethlehem with emphasis on the scientific and astronomical aspects has just been completed and recorded by the Communication Center Radio Department, Arthur V. Briskin, director and producer of the show, said yesterday.

Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Morehead Planetarium, is the narrator for the show, which will be released for presentation on Christmas Day. Professor Errol Wynn, Radio Department head, will handle the Scripture readings which are included in the script.

Others taking part in the production are John Clayton and Frank Groseclose. The latter is playing the part of Johann Kepler, a famous German astronomer of the 17th century who first made an attempt to scientifically explain the traditional story of the Star of Bethlehem. Clayton portrays Rudolph, an assistant to Kepler.

Briskin said that the transcriptions of the show will be carried by at least two 50,000 watt stations in North Carolina and it is possible that the production will be made available to a national audience through the network medium.

Preparations Are Finished For Dance

Roy Holsten, president of the German Club, said yesterday that final plans have been made for the afternoon concert and two formal dances to be presented this weekend, featuring Gene Krupa and his orchestra.

The quarterly German Club-sponsored weekend will begin Friday afternoon with a concert in Memorial Hall from 4 until 6 o'clock and will continue with formal dances in Woolen Gymnasium Friday night from 9 until 1 and Saturday night from 9 until 12 o'clock.

Holsten said that since Gene Krupa's band has been known for its jump pieces, a contract stating that Krupa would limit the number of fast pieces was signed by the orchestra leader. "Emphasis will be on dancing instead of listening," Holsten said.

However, the German Club president said jump tunes made famous by the Krupa band, including "Gene's Boogie" and "Body and Soul," will be featured at the afternoon concert.

Features of the dance weekend will be the presentation of the German Club sponsors during the intermission Friday night, and the presentation of the Yackety Yack-sponsored beauty queen and court at the Saturday night dance.

"Down Beat," a musical magazine, said of the Gene Krupa band, which now emphasizes music for ballroom dancing. "At playing sweet-swing-sway, it can outblow Vaughn Monroe. Krupa's band is the most commercially salable item (especially as far as territory ballrooms are concerned) this reviewer has caught in years. Gene's current forte, showmanship is paying off."

History Book Disapproved

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 15.—(AP)—An American history described by its critics as "partisan, biased and prejudiced" was removed from the approved text book list by the Kansas Board of Education today.

The book is "The American Way of Life" by Harold Underwood Faulkner, Tyler Kepner and Hall Bartlett (Harper and Bros., Publisher). It has been in use in Kansas high schools under a five-year contract which ends next summer.

The board said its decision to drop the book from the approved list was the result of a poll of all American history teachers in the state. The text had drawn bitter criticism earlier from Lloyd Ferrell, banker and member of the Board of Education at Wichita, Kas.

Coed Senate Names Setup Of Election

Girls Will Have 20 Jobs To Fill In Fall Voting

All coed petitions for the coming fall elections must be turned in to Mac Copenhaver, chairman of coed elections, in 212 Spencer, by 6 o'clock Monday night, Coed Senate Head Pat Stanford said yesterday.

Petitions nominating girls for the Senate must contain the nominee's name, list of qualifications, statement by her that she will run and the signatures of 15 coeds.

Vacancies in the Senate include one each for McIver and Smith, two each for Kenan and Carr and four for juniors at large. All coeds vote for the members at large, and coeds running for the other posts are voted on only by the girls in their own dorms.

Petitions for the one vacancy in Student Council and the four vacancies in Women's Council must be signed by 25 coeds. This is in accord with campus elections law. To be eligible for Student Council a coed must have been here at least two quarters.

Five positions are open for women legislators. In Women's Dorm District I there are two one-year terms and one six-month term open. This district is composed of Kenan, Alderman and McIver.

One one-year term is open in Women's Dorm District II which is composed of Spencer, Carr, Archer House and Smith.

There is also a one-year term open in Town District, which includes the sorority houses and all girls living in town.

Vacancies on the Women's Council are for one graduate and three juniors.

Student Is Rescued In Atlantic Ocean

WILMINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Fishermen have rescued a University of North Carolina student after he was lost for five days in the Atlantic Ocean aboard his homemade sailboat.

Archibald Yow, 33, Henderson, was dragged from the sea after fighting adverse weather conditions aboard the "Elysia" without a watch, compass or a set of charts to guide him.

Yow estimated he sailed over 350 miles in the Gulf Stream before finally catching sight of land. When he saw land he put out in his seven-foot skiff and capsized as he reached the breaking surf. Buddy Benson, Johnny Volters, and A. C. Smith, all of Wilmington, were fishing in the surf and aided Yow to shore.

Wake Forest Student Will Conduct Vespers

Richard Smith, ministerial student at Wake Forest, will speak at the regular Campus Vespers service to night at 5:45 in Gerrard Hall, Ted Sellars, YMCA Worship Committee president, said yesterday.

The regular Campus Vespers service will begin as usual at 5:30, with approximately 15 minutes of soft music to give anyone the opportunity to come in for personal devotions. The planned service is the third in the Y's plan of having a speaker once each week, varying the night for the speaker from week to week in order that more may attend.

After the conclusion of Smith's talk, and for the remainder of the hour until 6:30, Gerrard Hall will remain open to all who may desire to come for silent worship. Gerrard Hall is converted into a non-denominational chapel each afternoon at 5:30, Monday through Thursday, and until 6:30 students and faculty members come in for a few moments of meditation and prayer. A cross is placed on the altar at the back of the stage, and candles are used to light the hall.

'Rain' Ticket Response Is 'Gratifying' --White

The response to yesterday's ticket sale opening for the Carolina Playmaker production of "Rain" was immediate and gratifying, assistant business manager Nat White said yesterday.

"We were surprised," he said, "when reserved seat requests poured in from Raleigh, Durham, Sanford, and from the campus, more than doubling the opening day sale for our first production."

Tickets for the production are now available at Ledbetter-Pickard's and at the Playmaker business office in Swain Hall.

Select List Cut To Exactly Dozen, Including Gray

RALEIGH, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Raleigh News and Observer said tonight the committee charged with picking a new president for the Greater University left for New York today.

The entire nine-man committee, said the newspaper, went on the trip for a Wednesday interview

O. Max Gardner, Jr., law student here and a member of the Board of Trustees special presidential selection committee said yesterday that the last official information to be given out by the committee was that only 12 names were left on the list.

Gardner, who left last night to join the other members of the committee in New York, would make no direct comment on the Raleigh News and Observer story that the committee's first choice was Dean Clyde De Vane of Yale University.

He identified the possible successor to Senator Frank Graham's old job as "Dr. William Clyde De Vane, native of Savannah, Ga., and professor of English and Dean at Yale College, Yale University, since July, 1938."

Headed by Chairman Victor Bryant of Durham, a committee of Greater University Trustees is seeking a successor to Graham, who left the Greater University presidency last spring. He was appointed to the U. S. Senate by Governor Scott to take over the seat of the late J. Melville Broughton.

The N&O account said: "The current choice, No. 1 is reported to be" Dr. De Vane, 51. It continued:

Reports that the native Southerner is at the top of a 12-man list of candidates gained credence from the fact that the entire committee made the trip to New York. Conferences with other candidates on the list of a dozen have been held by two or three committee members, who submit their report to the full group.

Other names known to be on the list of candidates include Army Secretary Gordon Gray, a Winston-Salem man; Undersecretary of State James E. Webb, a native of Granville County; Dr. H. W. Stope, President of Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, La.

The list of possible candidates for the University post reached a peak of 225 several months ago. Since then, it was cut to 33 by committee members, and then to an even dozen at a meeting several weeks ago.

The faculty council of the Greater University, composed of teachers at the three units—Chapel Hill, State College and the Woman's College—reportedly have recommended that the committee's choice not come from the faculties of the three schools. The committee has heard the ideas of the faculty members several times since they started their search several months ago.

The committee will hold its next meeting in late November.
