

First Unified Campus Chest Will Hold Drive February 5-10; Coordinator Releases Plans

Campaign Aims To Cut Number Of Fund Drives

Groups Are Named To Receive Aid Under 'Experiment'

Next month will see the University Campus Chest Program on trial when the experiment which passed the Student Legislature last May by an overwhelming vote opens a six-day intensive student-help fund campaign, Feb. 5-10.

Specifically designed to cut down the number of drives held on campus each year, the drive will consolidate over a half dozen different drives into the Campus Chest campaign.

Dick Murphey, co-ordinator of the drive for this year, yesterday released the names of campus organizations represented on the Board of Directors. They are: the Men's and Women's Interdormitory Councils, the Interfraternity Council, Town Men's Association, Town Girls' Association, the Daily Tar Heel, Alpha Phi Omega—Boy Scout service fraternity—and the Mayor of Victory Village.

An advisory Board, composed of representatives of the faculty and administration and authorities from the student body in publicity, solicitations and organizational work will be selected soon to direct the drive.

In addition, Murphey invited the heads of all campus organizations to attend future meetings of the Board of Directors which will be announced in the Daily Tar Heel.

Formerly, Murphey pointed out, the campus was asked, on almost a weekly schedule to donate to some worthy cause. After coming against so many requests for donations, he explained, the students became hardened to campaigns and response dropped.

This drive, however, he said, will incorporate all the drives into one comprehensive one-week campaign, "to give the student a chance to catch his breath."

Absent from the list of organizations which will receive benefits from this drive are national organizations such as polio fund, American Red Cross, the cancer fund and other similar organizations.

Murphey declared that it wasn't by an oversight that those organizations were left out, it was because "they refused to participate in a Campus Chest Campaign."

And these organizations will not be permitted to solicit contributions on the campus in the future, because of this lack of cooperation, he said.

Never Too Late

RALEIGH, Jan. 11—(AP)—A Wake County school teacher bought the first ticket to North Carolina's 1950 Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner.

Mrs. Harriet B. Sheron, a small teacher with white hair and a big smile, explained that she "had a little Christmas money left." With that, she handed over $50 and got ticket No. 1 for the big Democratic Party meeting here Jan. 28.

"Besides," she added with a smile, "I've always been told that when you start getting old, you ought to do what you want to do. So many times, I've always wanted to go to one of the big dinners. This year, I'm going."

"This is the first time I've been able to shell out for something like this. I have four children—but they're all through college now."

KAREN LESLIE, 19 year old actress who portrays vivacious Bianco in the Margaret Webster production of "The Taming of the Shrew," is shown with Preston Hanson, who plays Lucentio. Hanson also appears as Titinius and Decius Brutus in "Julius Caesar." Both plays will be presented in Memorial Hall here next Monday.

Allen Hails Coming Play Entertaining

By Jerry Weaver

John Allen, part-time instructor in the English Department and Ph.D. candidate, saw the Margaret Webster production of "The Taming of the Shrew" at Princeton while home during the Christmas holidays. He called the production, "One of the most entertaining dramatic performances that I have ever seen."

Allen was impressed by the spirit of the Webster troupe. He found their approach fresh and their performance full of gusto and downright enjoyment. Unlike many professionals on a lengthy tour, the Margaret Webster actors seemed to approach each performance as something new and exciting. According to Allen, their enjoyment shared by the audience.

The performances of Kendall Clark as Petruchio and Louisa Horton as Katherina, Allen found especially entertaining. He found them "highly amusing and quite believable within the nonsensicality of the plot." When asked about the supporting roles, Allen reported that one of the outstanding things about the Webster production of "The Taming of the Shrew," was the fact that even the minor roles had been perfectly cast with experienced actors.

The audience at Princeton, since the school was on Christmas holidays, was composed largely of soldiers from a nearby army camp. Shakespeare received many "backhanded" compliments from them during admission. Allen overheard many of the soldiers expressing amazement over finding a Shakespearean play so entertaining.

When asked about the costuming of "The Taming of the Shrew," Allen reported that they fitted the production perfectly. "They were full of color and were a hilarious mixture of periods and styles," he said.

The Playmakers are again sponsoring the Margaret Webster productions in Chapel Hill. Last season the company played to capacity houses here for two performances. Another sellout is anticipated for both the matinee performances of "Julius Caesar," and the evening performance of "The Taming of the Shrew," January 16th in Memorial Hall. All seats will be reserved and tickets are now on sale in the Playmaker Business Office in Swain Hall.

Boys Eager To Receive Dancing Girls

CHICAGO, Jan. 11—(AP)—A Chicago business man may not want the four beautiful Egyptian dancing girls he says he inherited, but plenty of American males are ready to take them off his hands.

Three students at Mississippi State College, signing the names of Guy, Skeeter and Ernest, wrote: "We three lonesome, desolate, disgusted boys at this uneducational school will be pleased to relieve you of your entire burden."

The letter was one of scores of offers—mostly for marriage or adoption—which Christopher G. Janus, Chicago exporter and importer, says he has received for the girls.

Janus, 38 and married, said last week that he inherited the responsibility for the welfare of the girls. It all came about, he said, when his uncle died leaving him a one third share in an Egyptian cotton plantation. Under that country's custom, Janus said, a property owner is responsible for the welfare of everything on his land. The families of the plantation workers include 12 dancing girls, and Janus said four of them are his private property.

(The Egyptian embassy in Washington said slavery was ended in Egypt 10 years after Lincoln abolished it in this country.)

OU Students Burn Cross As Red Talks

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 11—(AP)—A group identified as University of Oklahoma students burned a 15-foot high cross on the campus here tonight as the Communist Party chairman in Oklahoma spoke to some 40 persons.

The group demonstrated against Allan Shaw's address, which was made at Hill House and sponsored by the newly-created Civil Rights Committee.

Reporter Glenn Wilson, who works for the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman, said three persons attacked him after he left the house to telephone his story to his paper. He was uninjured.

Shouts of "dirty Communists" and "come out before we burn the house down" echoed near the house as the cross blazed and Shaw made his speech.

The appointment of Everett Wilkinson as Assistant Director of Purchasing was announced yesterday by J. A. Branch, Director of Purchases and Stores.

Wilkinson will replace Robert Walker in that position on Jan. 19, when Walker's resignation is effective. Until that date, Mr. Wilkinson will work with Walker in the position.

Wilkinson is a graduate of Asheville High School, and had worked with Slayden, Fabes and Company before coming to Chapel Hill.

"Mr. Wilkinson came to us highly recommended by his employers and by several alumni," Mr. Branch said.

Thank You, Suh

It wasn't the value of the articles a young transient attempted to steal from the residents of Nash Hall early yesterday morning—it was the principle of the thing.

A young man who called himself "Le Gaul" and claimed to be on his way to Columbia, S. C., accepted a towel, soap, a blanket and a place of sleep, and reciprocated in the early morning hours by relieving his hosts of a cigarette lighter, a set of cuff links and over $20 in cash.

About 5:30, Charlie Morris was awakened to see "Le Gaul" helping himself. Started at the appearance of Morris, the thief scampered out of the building, and escaped from the pursuing occupants of Miller and Nash Halls.

Resignation Of Williams Is Announced

Ballot Scheduled For January 26 Cornish To Run;

A special election to fill the vacant Student Body Secretary-Treasurership was called yesterday by President Bill Mackie.

The election set for Jan. 26, is necessary because of the resignation of Nat Williams, who was elected to the post in last spring's general election. Williams was forced to drop out of school this quarter because of illness in his family.

Andy Cornish, Chairman of the Student Audit Board, is the only candidate who has announced for the post. He will, in all probability, seek a three-party in-dorsement.

Meanwhile, Cornish has taken over as acting Secretary-Treasurer until the election. Mackie, who ordered the move, said it was necessary because of the urgency required in the preparation of the 1950-51 budget, which is the job of the Secretary-Treasurer.

In his order for the special election, the Student Body President made it easy on the Elections Board by stipulating that if only one candidate has been nominated for the post by the day before the election, the Board declare the single candidate elected without opening the polls.

Deadline for the filing of nominations or independent petitions was set by Mackie for next Wednesday. Independent petitions must contain the signatures of 25 students.
