

Acheson Accuses Russians Of Aggression In North China

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today accused Russia of taking over four vast areas of northern China, including Manchuria, in a far reaching sweep of Soviet communist imperialism.

He pictured this development as a great opportunity for U. S. foreign policy in the Far East. The best way for this country to win friends and stop communism, he contended, is to pursue its policy of fostering the independence of Asiatic peoples and their economic well being.

By contrast, Acheson declared, Russia's actions in northern China will arouse the "righteous anger and wrath of the Chinese people and show up the Soviet Union as an imperialistic power through-out Asia.

"The only thing that can obscure it," he said, "is the folly of ill-conceived adventures on our part. Nothing we do or say must be allowed to obscure this fact."

The areas which Russia is in the process of taking over, Acheson said, are Manchuria, Outer Mongolia, Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang. His accusation was the first such to be made by a top western official although authorities here have let it be known that they suspected Russian expansion was under way in northern China—despite the fact that China has come under Chinese communist rule.

For the first time since the issuance of the China White Paper last summer, Acheson spoke out publicly on the Far East in a speech at the National Press Club here. His blue ribbon audience of congressional leaders, state department officials and reporters applauded "long and loud when he sat down.

He touched only briefly upon the continuing controversy over whether the United States should intervene with armed forces—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and others have suggested using the navy to protect Formosa. But Acheson heavily emphasized his warning that the United States should avoid any "adventures" which would turn the expected anger of the Chinese from Russia to the United States or cover in any way what the Russians are up to.

Dr. Aptheker Misses Topic, Praises Reds

By Dick Daniels

Dr. Herbert Aptheker, Negro historian and self-admitted Communist, delivered an address on "The Roots of Negro Oppression" to 75 people gathered in Gerrard Hall Wednesday night, but after a few minutes seemingly forgot what his speech was intended to concern.

Using as a basis for the talk the Marxist supposition that the disease of racism is an outgrowth of our exploitive social system, Dr. Aptheker progressed steadily farther from the Negro problem and ever deeper into the Communist theory of workers' immortality.

"We need," said Dr. Aptheker,

"a thorough-going and radical change in the entire setup of our society. It is not an overnight business and may take years, but regardless of the time element, the change must eventually come.

For twenty minutes he lambasted the class system in general and then, adamantly shaking his fist, declared that there was indestructible class, the workers of the world. To him to worker are as powerful as an unbeatable prize fighter.

GM Looking For Talent To Present Stunt Night

By Wuff Newell

A search is being conducted on campus by Graham Memorial, and the object being sought may be any one of the 7,000 students enrolled here.

The search will end at 8 o'clock Sunday night, Jan. 22, when Graham Memorial presents its first annual Stunt Night. At this time all the talent that the search has uncovered will be on hand to present a variety show which, according to entertainment director Mary Jo McLean, would be hard to beat.

"We know that there is just loads of talents on this campus," she said, "and we intend to find it. Our search will not be complete until we have presented to the campus every entertainer or group act that we can uncover."

Graham Memorial's staff would like to conduct the talent search personally, but it would be much easier for them if the talent would come to them. All entries for the contests should be in by Thursday morning, Jan. 19. Any organization or individual may enter.

Winners of the contest will be selected by a board of three judges. A prize of $15 will be awarded the winner and prizes of $5 each will go to the runner-up and the third place winner.

Each act must furnish its own accompanist or any props that it needs. All kinds of entertainment are wanted for the show.

legislators." In reference to his stand on Governor W. Kerr Scott's "Go Forward" program, Gardner—a supporter of Charles M. Johnson in the 1948 primaries—said, "I am pledged to consider every proposal that comes before the General Assembly fairly and with an open mind. I have no chips on my shoulder and no axes to grind."

Gardner supported the Scott road and school bond proposals last year. After the appointment of Dr. Frank Graham to the United States Senate, the Governor appointed Gardner to the special trustee committee to select a new president. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of Meredith College and Treasurer of Gardner-Webb Junior College. Occupation in Japan.

A graduate of State College in Textile School, Gardner expects to receive his law degree this month.

His announcement culminates a series of rumors that he would seek political office in this state. Last summer his name was widely mentioned as a successor to Congressman Bulwinkle. Called by some "the heir-apparent" to his father's political organization, which was long recognized as the dominant political force in N. C., Gardner is reliably reported to have the sympathy of organized labor as well.

like to have the revisions ready for the student body to vote on in the spring."

Speaker Ted Leonard delivered a to-the-point charge to his Legislature, warning them that the real work of the body is done in committee and not on the floor once a week.

"In your hands is $105,000," he commented. "You'd be surprised how many people would like to get their hands on it. We're not like the national government. We can't do deficit financing."

Two new bills were introduced on the floor by John Sanders just before committee appointments and adjournment took the limelight.

One, a bill setting academic qualifications for all candidates for office, had died in committee at the close of the last Legislature. The other concerned a permanent collection of student government records set up in cooperation with the University Library.

a day and fined $500.
Felton, Duxsee and four other students were suspended by the college shortly after Cirrotta's death.

Cirrotta died "of a blow or blows" several hours after he had been visited by a group of students, several of whom had been drinking. They told investigators they had objected to his wearing a Dartmouth athletic letter.

Attorney General William L. Phinney said the state was willing to accept Felton's plea with a suspended sentence because "it wouldn't have done any good to jail him."

Dartmouth College officials had no comment on the sentencing of Felton.

A spokesman said, however, that all the suspensions still are in effect.

bling dictator in Detroit, how Dan Corotello of the Sicilian society dominated Chicago, how territory was divided between gangsters, how "it was impossible for a night club or tavern to operate without buying ice cubes, towels and beer, renting tenders through the old Capone syndicate.

The gangsters not only had gone in for gambling, but they had set up an empire controlling every activity connected with the night club, tavern, beer hall business. It was monopoly more tightly run than anything ever conceived by big business.

Returning to Washington, I placed the facts before Attorney General Tom Clark and J. Edgar Hoover.

Jack Regan, I told them, knew where all the bodies were buried in Chicago gangsterdom for years back, and he had promised to cooperate.

And he did. The Justice Department assigned 12 FBI men to act on the tips Regan gave them, and for a time it looked as if Chicago gangland was in for a cleanup.

But suddenly, Regan was shot. He had told me that he probably would be shot, and had hired a bodyguard to be with him night and day. But driving home one afternoon, his car stopped for a red light. Alongside him, as he waited, pulled up a vegetable truck; and from under the crates blazed a volley of gunfire. Regan crumpled in his seat.
