

UNC Delegates Back NCAA 'Sinners'; Basketballers Win

Will Not Vote Against Any League Members--Fetzer

By Buddy Vaden

University of North Carolina representatives to the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting in New York feel that the problem of financial aid to athletes, particularly football players, is a matter of conference regulation and that accompanying conditions are applicable to sections rather than to the nation as a whole, it was disclosed last night in a telephone conversation with R. A. (Coach Bob) Fetzer, Director of Physical Education and Athletics.

The Tar Heel delegation, with Dr. A. W. Hobbs, head of the University Faculty Committee on Athletics, the voting delegate, will stand behind the seven Southern schools accused of violating the "Sanity Code," Mr. Fetzer said.

"We will certainly not vote for the expulsion of any member of the Southern Conference from the NCAA," Fetzer said. North Carolina will stick with the other members of the Southern, Southeastern, and Southwest Conferences who are bucking the NCAA's regulation controlling the awarding of athletic scholarships.

The Citadel, one of the seven Southern schools accused of violating the sanity code, had already dropped out of the NCAA as a protest against the code. Other schools put on the carpet by NCAA President Carl Leib were Virginia, Virginia Military Institute, Virginia Tech, and The Citadel.

In an Associated Press report quoting a prominent athletic official, the three remaining violators were said to be the University of Maryland, Boston College, and Villanova.

The South's main objection to the NCAA is that with the adoption of the sanity code in 1948 the NCAA has acquired more governing power than was intended. Previously the NCAA had acted only as a schedule-making body.

"The NCAA should continue to be a regulatory body with high educational ambitions," Fetzer said, but he pointed out that the sanity code should not be a national problem, but rather should be left in the hands of individual conferences.

One factor in the sanity code that brought protests from the South was the section prohibiting year-round training tables for football players. The Southern delegation has proposed an amendment that would provide for all year training tables and North Carolina will "join in support of this amendment."

"Carolina has been and will continue to make an honest effort to comply with the sanity code. We have not been questioned by the NCAA as to our athletic policies. We have complied with the code and will continue to do so," Fetzer said. However, the North Carolina delegation is opposed to the sanity code as it now stands and will join with other Conference schools in strongly proposing amendments that will give more governing power to the individual conferences.

"The NCAA regulations do not specifically regulate financial aid from outside sources such as alumni groups and apparently a good deal of aid is coming through this channel. How to control the outside agencies is

Ouster Vote Sets Future of NCAA, Says Executive

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—The South's Sanity Code Rebels girded for tomorrow's showdown in quiet, private caucuses today while learning three Eastern institutions probably will line up with them in their fight against the NCAA.

Boston College, Villanova and Maryland were reported to be the other three teams on a list of seven scheduled to face the wrath of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in its windup meeting.

The matter is to be brought before the convention tomorrow with a two-thirds vote of those present needed to expel.

Boston College's Athletic Director John P. Curley admitted this morning his school was one of those on the griddle, Boston informed the NCAA, as did the others, it could not conform with the new code relating to athletic subsidies.

Villanova had made no official statement but Coach Jim Leonard said, "Sure, we make no pretense. We are paying the tuition and board of some of our athletes."

Maryland's militant president, Dr. H. C. Byrd, is a long-time advocate of athletic scholarships under university administration. He appeared before the NCAA Council yesterday, along with representatives of the well known "sinners."

The next to last day of the convention was otherwise on the mild side with these main developments:

Dr. Karl Leib, president of the NCAA and father of the Sanity Code, warned that tomorrow's session would be "the most important in the history of college athletics."

L. R. (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian sharply criticized bowl games as responsible for the instability in the coaching profession and for proselyting of athletes.

another problem which will probably be taken up in tomorrow's business session," Fetzer said.

"Athletic scholarships now in effect in Chapel Hill are in accordance with those prescribed by the sanity code," he added.

The North Carolina delegation, composed of Mr. Fetzer, Dr. Hobbs, and C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, Assistant Director of athletics, will stick with the Southern bloc in tomorrow's business sessions and will not have a complete line on just how the University of North Carolina stands until the meeting is over.

Hogan Stumbles In First Round Of Crosby Test

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 13—(AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan and his golfing comeback ran into a temporary road block today in the first round of the Bing Crosby $10,000 Invitational Tournament.

The little gamester, back on the tournament trail after 11 months recovering from an auto accident, found nothing but trouble in the closing holes of his first round over the Cypress Point Course. He tacked up a five over par 77 after a provoking session that saw him three-putt two greens and twice visit the ocean beaches to cost himself extra strokes.

Hogan, winner of the professional end of Crosby's tournament a year ago, thus got off to a miserable start. He was one of the co-favorites.

The 54-hole event is played on three courses. Tomorrow's second round will take place on the Monterey Peninsula layout. The final round Sunday will be over the championship Pebble Beach Course.

After his sensational tie this week with Sam Snead for first place in the Los Angeles Open, Hogan's stock soared sky-high for the Crosby tournament. His comeback was launched in spectacular fashion.

For 13 holes today, Hogan held his own. In fact he was a stroke under par going into the 14th. He three-putted the 388-yard 14th to take a one over par five.

On the 15th, a 113-yard downhill soft touch most of the time, Hogan's ball landed on the rocky beach. He tried to play it out, missed one shot and got on the green in three. He needed two putts to go down and carded a five on the par three hole.

Tar Heels Meet Powerful Ohio State Mermen Today

Sporting a season's record of two straight wins, Carolina's Blue and White swimmers will meet a strongly favored aggregation from Ohio State at 2:30 this afternoon in Bowman Gray Pool.

Coach Mike Peppe's outfit arrived in Durham late yesterday afternoon and were met by members of the Carolina team in their cars and brought to Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels took a light workout yesterday in order to loosen up for today's competition.

Fans will have an opportunity to witness some of the nation's most talented mermen in action in the persons of Bruce Harlan, Bob DeGroot and Jack Taylor of the Buckeyes and Carolina's Jimmy Thomas and Norm Sper.

Thomas and Taylor will clash in two races, the 220 and 440-yard freestyle events, which should be among the top races of the day. Also swimming in the distance events for the Tar Heels will be Cecil Milton and Ray Edmundson, two sophomores.

Sper will meet DeGroot and Joe Prata, outstanding sophomore for the Buckeyes, in the 150-yard backstroke and will be assisted by letterman Eddie Clements. Kent Williamson and Kirby will perform in the 50-yard sprint event against tough opposition from Ohio State's Kobayashi.

Charlie Bartlett will team with Bill Burgess or Andy Taylor in the 200-yard breaststroke event.

The varsity meet will provide the first half of the afternoon's entertainment, the last part being the freshman encounter with the Duke Yearlings.

Local Thinclads Compete Tonight In Indoor Meet

By Frank Allston, Jr. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The Carolina twelve-man indoor track squad arrived here early tonight to compete in the annual Washington Evening Star—District of Columbia AAU Invitation Indoor Track Meet tomorrow.

It was not known until noon time, only an hour before the meet was scheduled to leave, that Albans would be able to defend the high jump crown he won here last year. University and Duke Hospital doctors declared him physically fit and recovered from his grid injury.

The Tar Heels have four men in the open divisions of the meet and they all competed here last year. Sam Magill, who will face an exceedingly tough two-mile field, will run that event; Bob Morrow, the 70-yard high hurdles and Bill Albans and Jack Moody get the high jump nod in probably the toughest competition of them all.

Carolina's two relay teams will find the competition somewhat relaxed, but not easy by any manner. The Carolina foursome of Percy Flowers, Gene Bingham, Bill Crimmins and Clarence McLain will face strictly Southern Conference schools in the mile relay.

In the two-mile event Tar Heel Coach Dale Ranson has entered a quartet of Gordon Hamrick, Frank Hooper, Halsted Holden and Laddie Terrel.

'Snaeve' Elected VP

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf of California was elected president of the American Football Coaches Association today to succeed L. R. (Dutch) Meyers of Texas Christian University.

At the same time, the coaches decided to hold their meeting next year in Dallas in connection with the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association sessions.

Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth was reelected secretary-treasurer of the Coaches Association. The following officers also were named: Lloyd Jordan of Amherst, first vice president; Carl Snavely of North Carolina, second vice president; and Don Faurot of Missouri, third vice president.

Deasy Shot Gains Victory As Final Buzzer Sounds

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 13—(AP)—A bitterly contested long range field goal by North Carolina's Howard Deasy as the final buzzer sounded tonight ended the University of Miami's eight-game basketball winning streak and gave the Tar Heels a 55 to 53 triumph before 4,172 fans in the Coral Gables Coliseum.

The long, desperation shot swished through the hoop after the game actually had ended.

Coach Tom Scott and his weary Tar Heel squad vigorously protested as Timekeeper Joe Tatal declared the buzzer had ended Deasy's hands, but Referee Shorty Deasy's hands but Referee Shorty Younts announced that he had heard the horn ending the game and seen the ball in flight at the same instant.

After trailing 35 to 24 at the half the Miami Hurricanes rallied to deadlock the score at 53-53 with less than 20 seconds remaining.

With 30 seconds in the game, Miami's Bob (Whitey) Campbell dropped his 22nd point of the evening to give the Hurricanes a one-point lead, 53 to 52.

Notes on Coeds

The coed ping pong and shuffleboard tournament will begin Monday, Jane Gower, WAA president, said yesterday.

The schedule for the games is posted in the Women's Gym, and contestants will have a week in which to play off their games. Any game not played during the time limit will be defaulted.

The games will be played in the WAA room where the equipment is kept.

Carolina Clowns To Open Season In Woollen Next Thursday Night

By Andy Taylor

They may carry Charlie Justice out in a coffin or they may come up with another routine just as effective. One thing's certain, the fans will love it. It will all be as part of the colorful spectacle to take place Thursday night in Woollen Gym when the Carolina Clowns take to the court for their season's opener.

This is probably one of the few appearances Charlie will be able to make with the Clowns this season due to previous commitments. But there will be two other All-Americans of Tar Heel grid fame on hand to add to the color on the basketball court in the persons of ends Art Weiner and Kenny Powell. Bob "The Toe" Cox, famous in seasons past for his ability at kicking extra points on the gridiron, is another of the Clowns' top contenders.

Then there's the All-Southern forward, Coy Carson, who made a name as high scorer on last year's varsity squad, and Rip Ryan, another basketball letterman and captain of the 1949 Tar Heel baseball team. Taylor "Teapot" Thorne is also an old timer of court fame who will add to the Clowns' roster. Other men comprising this, the fourth edition of the Clowns, are Sandy Hoff, jayvee ace of two years ago, softballer Gordon "Choo" Reagan, soccer letterman Lee Glarmis and player-manager Bernie McKierman, who came to Carolina to play basketball but was counted ineligible because of his short service with a New York team.

Claude Crocker, a Carolina baseball player, organized the Clowns in 1947 and has been their manager for the past three seasons. His idea was to get together a group of outstanding Tar Heel athletes, mostly football players, to perform for charities and other such organizations. Most of the competition was provided by all types of amateur and semi-professional teams throughout North Carolina and in Virginia.

This year, however, things will be different. With their services in great demand the Clowns have decided to go professional. Bernie McKierman will take over where Crocker left off as manager and handler of the team's schedule and other affairs. They will take on more teams in the professional bracket and will ask for guarantees for all of their appearances. They will, of course, continue to play many games for charity.

The Clowns have always managed to put out a number of top-notch performers. They are a good team, as witnessed by their impressive record of 56 straight games without a defeat over the three-year period of their existence. They are able to play a fine brand of basketball and still provide an unusual type of entertainment for the spectators.

Tar Baby Cagers Face WF Tonight In Roseboro Gym

Wake Forest's strong freshman basketball team will provide the opposition when the Tar Baby cagers take the court in Roseboro High School's new gym tonight at 8:30.

The contest between Coach Jim Hamilton's Carolina five and the Baby Deacs has been billed as the top attraction in the dedication program of the new gym, and it should prove to be just that.

Both Big Four frosh outfits have turned in some good performances thus far this season, with the Tar Babies possessing a three-game winning streak.

In junior Big Four competition the Carolina quint has a 1-1 record, being outscored by the N. C. State frosh, 71-49, for their only defeat, while posting a 58-41 victory over Duke.

The overall record of the local hoopsters is five wins and one loss.

Big Jack Wallace, a forward, and sharpshooting Vince Grimaldi are waging a hot battle for scoring honors with the local frosh, with Wallace holding a slight lead after the first six games. He has a total of 74 points, but Grimaldi is close behind, with 68 markers. In the last three games, the Tar Baby guard has poured in a total of 43 points.

Starting for the Tar Babies, in addition to Wallace at forward will be Ernie Schwarz, who is third in the scoring race, with an even 40 points. At the pivot position the starter will be either Bud Maddie, who has 25 markers, or Jimmy Carter, with 37 points to his credit.
