NEA Speaker Hits Schools As 'Phony'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—J. L. McCaskill, associate secretary of the National Education Association's Department of Higher Education, said today there probably are several thousand "phony" schools and colleges now operating in the country.

McCaskill told a reporter that most of these institutions began operating in recent years to "chisel" in on the veterans training program.

The N.E.A. Department last week appointed a new committee headed by James B. Edmonson, Education Dean at the University of Michigan, to promote a "program to expose and outlaw fraudulent schools and colleges."

McCaskill said names of about 60 institutions have already been submitted to that committee as suspected frauds.

He noted also that the Veterans Administration has expressed serious concern over the growth of fly-by-night schools catering to veterans.

McCaskill said the committee has no plans to investigate all the suspected schools.

"That is primarily the responsibility of the states," he said.

'Grass' Is First Drama In Memorial Since 1940

By Mark Sumner

Although Paul Green's "Tread the Green Grass" fills the season program spot usually held by the Playmaker production of a Memorial Hall musical show, it will be the first regular stage play to be produced there by the Playmakers since their 1940 production of Green's "The Field God."

"Tread the Green Grass" is simply too big a show to fit the tiny stage in the Playmaker Theater. The script calls for a cast of 50 and for many intricate staging devices.

Lynn Gault, Playmaker scene designer, explained that he had to design a setting which would allow the action of the play to move from a field, to a farm house, then inside the farm house, to a cabin, finally to a church, and then to shift from one locale to the other, all instantaneously.

"I built a model first," Gault said, "then worked from it, showing the two houses on a series of levels, with most of the walls cut away. Wes Egan, who is handling the lighting, has set the lights so that they can pinpoint one playing area, then quickly shift to another, or show several playing areas simultaneously."

"The scenery is not realistic," he added, "but is more to suggest a mental image, such as the settings for "Egyptian" last year, or "They Shall Take Up Serpents." If you remember that show, with the house structure outlined, rather than shown realistically, you will see how we plan to stage the church burning episode—suggestion rather than realism."

Robert Frost Will Speak Here Tonight

English Dep't. Sponsors Talk By Noted Poet

Robert Frost, America's most highly honored poet, will speak at Hill Hall tonight at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the English Department.

The public is invited to the lecture, at which Frost will read some of his own work and comment on poetry in general.

Frost has received the Pulitzer Prize for poetry four times, has been awarded the Gold Medal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and has been the recipient of many other honors during a poetic career which began in 1913 with the publication of "A Boy's Will."

Last year his "Collected Poems" received the Gold Medal of the Limited Editions club, as the book which, in the opinion of the judges, is most likely to become a classic.

Tonight's lecture will be Frost's fourth appearance at the University. His three previous lectures have been delivered to packed audiences and have had an enthusiastic reception.

Vespers Set This Quarter

"Campus Vespers," the regular devotional hour begun last quarter, is being sponsored by the YW-YMCA again this quarter, with Gerrard Hall poen from 5:30 to 6:30 each week-day afternoon through Thursday.

A reverent atmosphere is created in the Hall by using candles, a cross, and recorded music appropriate for worship."

Governor Scott Calls Gray Recommendation 'The Proper Decision'

RALEIGH, Jan. 24—(AP)—Action of a special committee in recommending Army Secretary Gordon Gray as the next president of the University of North Carolina was "the proper decision," Governor Scott said today.

The Governor told his news conference that the committee charged with selecting a new president for the university had made an exhaustive study before deciding on the millionaire Winston-Salem publisher.

More than 200 names were considered by the committee, the governor said, and although it decided at the outset it wanted an educator for the post, it finally decided that "Gordon Gray fitted into the picture better than any man it had in mind."

"I think it was the proper decision," Scott said. He added that Gray had told him he would accept the post if the committee's action is approved by the university's Board of Trustees.

Gray already has been approved by the trustee's Executive Committee, and the full board will meet Feb. 6 to act on the recommendation.

In answer to other questions, the governor told newsmen:

1. That the Prison Department is considering hiring Negro guards and other personnel for one of its camps for Negro prisoners "as an experiment."

2. That his program to extend rural telephone service may have a tendency to centralize phone service among a few large companies.

Dr. Graham Seeks To Weld For Peace

N. C. Senator Calls on Labor, Management, Public To Cooperate in Battling Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—Senator Graham (D-NC) said today cooperation between management, labor and the public is needed to fight communism.

Speaking to a group of North and South Carolina members of the CIO Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, he said:

"Cooperation between labor, management and the American public were back of our fighting soldiers, sailors and marines to win the war for freedom against a monstrous totalitarian tyranny—fascism."

"Now cooperation between labor, management and the public are just as strongly needed to win the war again—this time against another monstrous totalitarian tyranny—that's Communism."

He said that in the Carolinas industrialism is on almost virgin soil.

"We have an opportunity to work out cooperation between the public, labor and management," he added.

"You must be a responsible union member to do it."

He reminded the Carolinians that he served on the War Labor Relations Board during World War II where, he said, "I saw the crisis of human freedom."

"It was American production that determined the outcome of the war."

Open Meet Set By UP For 2 Today

Representatives For Dormitories Is Main Topic

By Zane Robbins

The new University Party dormitory representative set-up will be the main topic of discussion this afternoon at 2 o'clock when the UP holds an open Steering Committee meeting in the Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial.

The Steering Committee, in a call meeting Monday night, adopted a resolution drawn up by a special committee appointed by Chairman Paul Roth to investigate the possibility of adding dormitory representatives to the main body of the UP.

Roth said yesterday afternoon that the move has been under the consideration of the party for some time, and that one of the main aims behind the adoption of the new plan is to "build up a stronger general party membership."

The plan will involve the adding of seven new members to the Steering Committee. One representative will be picked from each of the five men's dormitory voting districts, and the two women's dorm districts.

The representatives, in accordance with the new party statute, will have to be non-fraternal men living in the district which they are to represent, and will have regular Steering Committee privileges after election.

Nominations for the dorm representatives will be opened today, and any interested candidates may be nominated from the floor in this afternoon's meeting, or may turn in their qualifications and announce their candidacy to Qualifications Chairman Howard Fogleman.

SP Beginning To Nominate For Election

The Student Party opened nominations for all except three elective offices to be filled in the spring elections at its Monday night meeting in Graham Memorial and came up with some 60 names.

On a motion from the floor, the SP voted to delay for two weeks consideration of the post of president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer.

Lengthy debate followed a report by John Harris of the SP's Principles Committee. Harris' committee, charged with rewriting the party's principles, recommended "continuation of the SP's practice of no deals, no strings, and ability rather than electability."

The proposed stand would leave the individual party member free to vote for any candidate he might choose, regardless of party affiliation.

Final action on the committee's report was postponed until next week. Harris called another meeting of his committee for 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Graham Memorial.

In a report from the Legislature, Floor Leader Graham Jones read a letter from SP legislators to the editor of the Daily Tar Heel. Some opposition was voiced to the letter.

Recognition Of Red China Is Di Topic

Senate To Debate Subject at Meet In Hall Tonight

The Dialectic Senate will discuss the recognition of the Communist government of China at 9 o'clock tonight in the Di Hall, fourth floor of New West building.

The bill to be reported out of the Di Ways and Means Committee reads:

"Whereas, The Communist government of China today holds the greater part of China under its control and thereby can represent the majority of the people of China, and

"Whereas, The Nationalist Government of China has shown its incapability of controlling the people of China and has been forced to flee from the mainland, and

"Whereas, The Nationalist government of China has shown to the world its corruption and fascistic tendencies, and

"Whereas, The United States can hope to gain nothing by a continued recognition of a defunct government and stands to lose a great deal by not recognizing the Mao Tse-tung government, and

"Whereas, If the United States takes prompt action and recognizes the Communist government and gives it aid, it has a chance of making Mao Tse-tung the Tito of the East,

"Therefore be it resolved by the Dialectic Senate, that the United States no longer recognize the government of Chiang Kai-shek as being the true government of the people of China and that the United States government give 'de facto' recognition of the Mao Tse-tung government as the government of China."

There will be a supper at 6 o'clock for those who would like to meet with the group informally before the discussion.

In addition to the law case, the group will consider various channels for educating the student body about discrimination in education.

Several new features will be added to the program of the 1950 University Summer Session, Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education, Director of the Summer Session, said yesterday.

The first term will run from June 12 to July 20 and the second term from July 21 to August 29.

Among them are a Workshop for Supervisors which will be conducted by the School of Education during the first term and a Master's Degree Program for School Librarians, which has been approved by the administrative board of the School of Library Science and the Graduate School.
