Pell Still Leads In Cover Race; Frazer Second

Ellyn Pell, Kappa Alpha entry, held on to her lead in the Collier's Cover Girl Contest yesterday as drive-sponsoring Alpha Phi Omega released the second-day top 10.

Ellyn led on the first day of the penny-per-vote race among 20 coeds who seek to adorn the front cover of the national magazine.

Several changes in the top ten were reported, with Louise Robbins pulling from outside the select circle to fourth place, Peggy Williams to sixth, and Glenn Harden to tenth.

Top 10 are Ellyn, Nancy Frazer, Old East dorm; Carolyn Bishop, Phi Gamma Delta; Louise Robbins, Beta; Betty Ann Yowell, Pi Beta Phi and Chi Psi; Peggy Williams, Kappa Sigma; Dolores Boyer, McIver; Lillian Lawing, Chi Omega and Phi Delta Theta; Anne Wellons, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Glenn Harden, Daily Tar Heel.

Other 10 in the race are Jackie Merritt, TGA; Phyllis Costner, Spencer dorm; Sue Black, TMA; Joyce Richert, Pi Kappa Alpha; Billie McCalla, Phi Kappa Sigma; Ruth Van Camp, CICA; Arden Boisseau, Monogram Club; Caroline Cubine, Alpha Delta Pi; J. K. Rickardson, OGB, Alderman dorm, and Nancy Norwood, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

School Swept By Big Blaze

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 22—(P)—Fire raged through Ferris Institute, a state trade and business college, destroying the commerce and pharmacy building last night. Only three of the school's 1,200 students were injured.

The Alumni Building, housing administration offices and the gymnasium also were afire.

Six persons, including three students, suffered burns fighting the flames. They were not identified immediately.

Connor III

Dr. R. D. W. Connor, emeritus holder of the Craig Chair in History and jurisprudence, was in "poor" condition in Watts Hospital last night after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday afternoon.

Connor, who first came to the University as Kenan professor of history in 1921, is a noted historian. He is author of "North Carolina—Rebuilding An Ancient Commonwealth," considered one of the best histories of the state.

Dr. Connor, who graduated from the University in 1899 with a PhD degree, is a former head of the U. S. Archives Bureau and founder of the North Carolina Historical Commission. He served as head of the History Department from 1931 until 1934.

Star Rainbows Will Replace Winter Show

New Performance To Begin Monday At Planetarium

The last presentation of "The Winter Stars" in the Morehead Planetarium will be given on Monday, at 8:30.

On the following evening "Star Rainbows" will take over, and will continue for the two weeks before the Easter show begins.

"There is a classic story," Dr. Marshall relates, "about the sweet old lady who came up to speak to an astronomer after he had given a public lecture about the universe."

"You know," she said, "I can understand how you astronomers find out what's in the stars, how far they are, how much they weigh and how fast they travel. But for the life of me," she complained, "I don't know how you learn their names!"

The names of the stars are about the only item of information that one does not determine from the rainbows of the stars, according to the director of the Morehead Planetarium.

"By passing the light of a star through a prism, to produce a colored band of light we call the spectrum, we have something that can be analyzed to tell us the chemical composition, the temperature, the distance, the mass, the motion of the star," Dr. Marshall explained.

"So much of our information about the universe is today determined by the instrument we call the spectroscope that it is a pity that the well-nigh magical workings of this field of science are not better known."

In the demonstration "Star Rainbows," this technique will be demonstrated and explained. A giant spectrum will be spread across the projection dome of the Planetarium, to illustrate the points under discussion.

"As an exposition of how we learn what we know about these distant points of light, the new show in the Morehead Planetarium is one of the most spectacular and at the same time informative," he said.

From Feb. 28 through March 13, performances will be given at 8:30 every evening, and at 2 o'clock matinees on Saturdays and Sundays.

Lf. Governor Not In Senate Battle

WADESBORO, Feb. 22—(P)—Lt. Gov. H. P. (Pat) Taylor said tonight he would not be a candidate for the U. S. Senate in the coming primary.

Taylor issued the statement following rumors that he would enter the race against Senator Frank P. Graham.

NANCY FRAZER

THREE MORE campus beauties who are in the contest for Colliers Cover Girl are Joyce Richert, Nancy Frazer and Arden Boisseau. Joyce is sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Nancy is sponsored by Old East Dormitory and the Monogram Club is sponsoring Arden.

Evans, Roth Leave Today For Debate

Bob Evans and Paul Roth leave today for Atlanta where they will participate in the Southeastern Debate Tournament held at Agnes Scott College tomorrow and Saturday. They will represent the negative side of the proposition.

The question is "Nationalization of all Basic Non-Agricultural Industries."

This debate tournament includes all of the colleges from Mississippi to Washington. Each college sends one team to compete.

William and Mary will debate Friday at 2:30 in the Philanthropic Hall against Carolina's Hershell Keener and Bob Hutchinson. William and Mary will be the negative team, Carolina the affirmative. The public is invited to attend this debate.

Durham Nays Atom Confab

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(P)—Rep. Durham (D-NC), vice chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said tonight that the pressure for an atomic conference with Russia is "dangerous."

Endorsing President Truman's decision to match power with power and build up atomic defenses while trying to bring the Soviet Union into an agreement for effective atomic controls, Durham declared:

"It disturbs me to read newspaper statements—some of them issued by scientists—suggesting that we retreat from realism and pin our hopes to some scheme or other that could succeed only if all men, and particularly the Communists, were completely enlightened and unselfish."

"Keeping our atomic defenses in order can only buy us time," he said.

Loesser Will Give Concert Thursday

SEC Presenting Distinguished Pianist Who Is Brother Of Popular Songwriter

Arthur Loesser, distinguished concert pianist, will present a program of modern and classical selections in Memorial Hall next Thursday at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee.

This recital, Loesser's second in Chapel Hill, is an encore engagement since his appearance here on Nov. 16, 1947, met wide general acclaim.

This fourth program on the current SEC series will be admission-free to all University students who present I.D. cards. The doors open at 7 o'clock.

Faculty, student wives, and townspeople will also be admitted at 7:40 for $1, including tax. Tickets will only be sold at the door on the evening of the concert.

Rated as one of the nation's top concert pianists, Loesser has toured extensively throughout the United States, Europe, and the Orient. During World War II he served in the Army's Military Intelligence Service.

It was during this period that Loesser is believed to have been the first American officer in uniform to appear in a musical performance in Japan before a native audience.

Arthur Loesser is the brother of Frank Loesser, popular songwriter who composed such Hit Parade tunes as "Where Are You?" "Stormy Weather," and

50 Grand For Chest

S&F Will Give Income Of One Show To Chest

The Campus Chest will benefit from the opening performance of "50 Grand," Sound and Fury's new show, Vestal Taylor, publicity chairman, said yesterday.

Final arrangements have been made between the representatives of the two groups, and all proceeds from Sunday night's show will go to the Chest Drive.

The show, which will treat college life for the last decade with songs, dances and laughs, will center around two couples. William Jones and Bill Rogers will take the parts of the romantic couple, and Jim Mills and Jane Milligan will take the part of the comic couple.

There are five acts, and each is about a different period of time beginning with the 10 years previous to the first World War.

"The show will be patterned after such prewar hits as 'Black-out' and 'Bagdad Daddy,'" Taylor said.

The newest addition to the cast is Mary Jo McLean, entertainment director of Graham Memorial, who will tap dance in the show. At present she is instructing two tap dance classes for the student union each week.

The show will open at 8 o'clock Sunday night and will run for three nights.

Playmaker Cast To Be Thespians, Technicians

By Mark Sumner

The cast of the Carolina Playmakers' next major production "Angels Full Front," has been rehearsing every night for almost a month, but tonight they will start rehearsals for something else.

In addition to being actors, they will have to be the electricians, stage crew, and property crew for the play.

Since the comedy, which opens here next Tuesday for a six-day run, will also be the Playmakers' touring show for the year, the cast will run the local performances just as though they were on the road, and tonight they will begin technical rehearsals.

Gene Jouse, who handles the role of Happy Moriarty will be master electrician, and his crew.

2 Are Granted Reinstatement By Council

Honor Code Cases Mean Dismissals For Two Students

Recent action of the Men's Council has included hearing of two Honor Code cases and granting of two applications for reinstatement, Council Clerk Pete Gerns said yesterday.

Two students had been reported to the Council because their papers showed similarities in the true-false section of their examinations, Gerns said. During the hearing, one of the two admitted having received information from the other's paper without his neighbor's knowledge.

The other student testified to having given no help whatever and to having had no knowledge of the accused's transposition of quiz material.

The guilty student was suspended for a minimum of one quarter with the recommendation that he be shown leniency upon application for reinstatement.

In sentencing him, the council recommended that he keep up with his studies as much as possible under the circumstances. The other student was exonerated of all charges.

In another Honor Code case, the student in question admitted, having copied test material from his notebook. He said he realized that he had done wrong and that he regretted having used outside information on the examination, being fully aware of his obligations under the honor system.

The council suspended this student with a recommendation for leniency because of his honest attitude during the hearing.

Two students who had been suspended last year applied for reinstatement in the spring quarter, Gerns reported. Both students' records were carefully reviewed by the council.

Both of them had worked while under suspension and had attempted to review some of their previous school work in order to facilitate the continuation of studies after reinstatement.

The Council acted favorably on both applications.

Polysci Man To Give Talk

Dr. Rene de Visme Williamson, editor of The Journal of Politics and Professor of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock in the Faculty Lounge of Morehead.

Dr. Williamson, author of Culture and Policy; The United States and the Hispanic World, will discuss "Spanish Character and Politics."

The meeting is being jointly sponsored by Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honor fraternity.

Public Kiss Stirs Town; Cops Prowl

Bethany, Oklahoma Students Walk Out Regarding Action

BETHANY, Okla., Feb. 22—(P)—Police cruisers guarded the Bethany High School grounds today.

But there wasn't any trouble among students over yesterday's expulsion of five teen-age leaders in a student walkout.

About 30 students walked out Friday following a kissing incident when the basketball queen was crowned. The "strike" was against strict school rule in this strait-laced town of 2,500 a half dozen miles west of Oklahoma City.

Police Chief O. F. McLain sent two officers to the school "to protect school officials," Superintendent Harry Edwards and Principal Mrs. Alonzo Norwood.

The officers remained all day and when school was dismissed they were joined by four others in cruisers.

The climax of the 5-day affair may come tonight. The School Board meets then to review the matter. Parents of the students are expected to attend and protest too harsh discipline and severe control over student activities.

A committee of parents met last night. They voted to retain an attorney and carry their fight to District Court if necessary.

The rhubarb started last Thursday when Riddell Riggs, 16, crowned Charlotte McLain, 16, as basketball queen—then kissed her.

Public kissing is frowned on in Bethany, where parishioners of the Nazarene Church dominate affairs. Beer, cigarettes and women in shorts also are taboo.

The students walked out Friday but were back in school Monday. Five of them, though, were suspended for their role in the protest. They were Jay Strader, 18, Paul Witherspoon, 16, Robert Hale, 16, Charles Wiman, Jr., 16, and Jennell Ellard, 16, all were still out of school today.

One parent spoke out today for calmness. He was Charles Wiman, registrar at Bethany-Peniel College, a Nazarene school. His son was among those expelled.

"There's been too much hysteria about the whole thing," Wiman said. "I believe the kissing incident had nothing to do with the walkout."

He attributed student dissatisfaction to "outside influences," which he identified as parents and others who "tell their children what to do and seem to encourage acts of rebellion."

Before the nominations, the party heard platform committee chairman Wilson Yarborough outline a tentative draft of the UP spring election platform. It included support for the Campus Chest, continued work for better parking conditions, support of the Greater University Student Council, and support of the block fee raise.

The party will continue its nominations at regular meeting time next Wednesday, chairman Paul Roth said after today's session.

Colleges Are U.S. Lifeblood

DURHAM, Feb. 22—(P)—Colleges and universities today "are fighting on the front line for civilization," Dr. Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy of Earlton College, said at Duke University this afternoon.

In this fight, the problem, the distinguished educator said, is to determine how moral influence can be brought to bear. "We cannot make people good by telling them to be good," he stated.

Educators face a challenge today to make their institutions "pumping stations of civilization," Dr. Trueblood said. "Unfortunately, not all education is good; not all colleges are equally concerned with their tasks."

Too many colleges graduate, he said, can't read and don't understand what they read after leaving the campus.

Chuck Hauser, Herb Nachman, Woodhouse In

Four Publication Board Nominees Placed On Slate

By Roy Parker, Jr.

Ben James, Chuck Hauser, Herb Nachman, and Jack Woodhouse won major University Party nominations yesterday as the party rolled the nominating process for spring election into high gear.

James was named UP Secretary-Treasurer candidate by acclamation. Hauser is the party nominee for Daily Tar Heel editor, Nachman for Tarnation editor and Woodhouse for Yackety-Yack editor.

Also selected were four candidates for Publications Board seats. Senior nominees are Chuck Hauser and C. B. Mendenhall. Junior is Zane Robbins, and at-large is Frank Allston.

James, head of the Student Legislature's Finance Committee and member of the Budget Committee, was unopposed for the party nomination for campus money boss.

Hauser won 17-5 over Zane Robbins, whom he beat out, 30-8, for the staff nomination Tuesday. The nominee is present managing editor of the DTH, and said Tuesday that he would seek endorsement from both the University and Student Parties.

Nachman was a 16-6 choice over Bob Sturdivant for the humor mag nomination. He is present Managing Editor of Tarnation.

Yackety-Yack nominee Jack Woodhouse won 14-8 over Jim Mills. He was unanimously endorsed by the yearbook staff last week.

Hauser and Mendenhall came out on top of a three-way race for the two senior Publications Board nominations. Buddy Vaden, DTH Sports Editor, was the other man up.

Zane Robbins, DTH reporter, was named the junior post nominee by acclamation.

Allston beat out Vaden and Bill Warren for the at-large nomination. He received 11 votes to four for Vaden and three for Warren. He is a DTH sports staff member.

Before the nominations, the party heard platform committee chairman Wilson Yarborough outline a tentative draft of the UP spring election platform. It included support for the Campus Chest, continued work for better parking conditions, support of the Greater University Student Council, and support of the block fee raise.

The party will continue its nominations at regular meeting time next Wednesday, chairman Paul Roth said after today's session.

Coeds Injured

Two University coeds were in "fair" condition yesterday afternoon at Watts Hospital in Durham after the car in which they were riding overturned on the Durham-Chapel Hill Road, according to hospital officials.

State Highway Patrolmen said that Jean Bailey, 20, of (Shawnee Hills) Wheeling, W. Va., sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries when she lost control of a new Chevrolet near the Durham County line about 4 o'clock.

Jane Connor, 20, who was riding in the car with Miss Bailey at the time of the accident, received severe facial lacerations. Patrolman E. C. Parnell said.

An unidentified male student who was riding with the coeds escaped injury, Parnell stated.

No charges have been made pending further investigation.

THE MEN'S GLEE CLUB will appear in concert tonight in Hill Hall at 8:30. Two of the outstanding numbers of the evening will be accompanied by a group of guest performers—a brass ensemble. Joel Carter is director of the Men's Glee Club which makes an annual tour over the state in the spring. This is Carter's first year with the club.
