Constitution Revamp Passed By Legislature

Student Body Will Vote On Work April 4

Solons End Debate After Three Meets On Reworded Law

By Roy Parker, Jr.

The revamped student Constitution received the Student Legislature's unanimous stamp of approval last night and will go before the student body in the spring election April 4.

The Legislature, sitting as a constitutional convention, thus ended three nights of consideration on the 37-page work of the Constitutional Revision Committee. A simple majority of the students voting in the spring election will be necessary to ratify the reworked supreme law.

John Sanders, who headed the Revision Committee, moved for adoption of the entire Constitution at 11 o'clock. The Legislature had debated and voted on the work section by section.

The summer school student government articles, only major change in the streamlined Constitution, were passed with only four minor amendments.

The provision to require a freshman to sit on the Men's Honor Council, which had been the main point of controversy during both the other constitutional sessions of the Legislature, caused the major conflict at the final session, but a roll call vote of 15-13 defeated for the third time an amendment presented by Sheldon Plager, that would have killed the freshman member section.

Passed last night was an amendment to the judiciary article. (See CONSTITUTION, page 3)

VAUGHN MONROE

German Club Inks Monroe For Spring

Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra have been signed to play for the Spring German Dances on the weekend of April 28-29, Steve Jones, German Club president, announced last night.

The big German weekend will be opened on Friday night with a dance from 8 until 1 o'clock and climaxed on Saturday night with a final dance between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock. Monroe will lead a new twist to the usual Saturday afternoon concert, by playing the regular concert from 4:30 until 6:45, and returning at 7:30 to broadcast his weekly Camel Caravan show on a coast-to-coast hookup from Memorial Hall.

Monroe, who established himself as a campus favorite in his last appearance here in 1947 has since been acclaimed one of the top collegiate favorites in the nation.

Monroe will bring a 21-piece band here for the quarterly two-day social affair. Ziggy Talent billed as the "clown prince of humor," Vocalist June Hielt, the Moonmaids, and the Moonmen will also be here for the concert and dances.

Jones Slams Hauser Over DTH Article

Graham Jones, Student Party floor leader in the Legislature and leading opponent of the raise in block fees, yesterday took a crack at Chuck Hauser, Daily Tar Heel managing editor and chairman of the Publications Board.

Jones claimed he was misquoted in yesterday's newspaper concerning his participation in setting up the fee referendum, and charged Hauser with "having made the front page of The Daily Tar Heel a propaganda sheet to be used against things the majority of the student body want."

Jones claimed he did not suggest the 50 per cent vote requirement in the referendum and said that his statement was censored and rewritten.

Hauser, a staff-backed candidate for the editorship of the paper on the University Party ticket in spring elections, replied merely that Jones' charges "are not worth answering."

The SP leader commented that he "deeply admired Hauser's personality and capacity for hard work" and that in spite of his statements, "To keep the record clear, let me say I am not campaigning for (Bill) Kellam, Hauser's opponent for editor."

Clampitt Hits SP Chairman

Former chairman of the defunct Campus Party Bob Clampitt yesterday reported he was "threatened with the loss of my right to vote in the Student Party" by Chairman Dick Murphy because of his support for Toby Selby, independent student body presidential aspirant.

Clampitt is Selby's campaign manager.

Murphy replied to the charge saying "I do not consider him as a member of the Student Party. That is my personal opinion. Certainly the party wants no part of the responsibility for his action, which I consider irresponsible."

"He (Clampitt) has considered himself a member of the party for only three weeks and his name is not on the membership roll."

GM Stays Open

Although the Rendezvous Room will close Saturday night at its usual closing hour and remain closed until Tuesday night, March 21, Graham Memorial will remain open during exam week.

"Someone will be on duty in the main office most of the time," Director Jim Rathburn said, "and students will be able to use the lounges and the game equipment that is checked out through this office."

The Travel Agency on the second floor will observe its regular schedule through Thursday, March 16.

Collier, Bunting Selected To Run For Top Offices

By Zane Robbins

The University Party nominated candidates for sophomore class offices, CAA offices, and Student Legislature seats in its regular weekly meeting yesterday afternoon in Graham Memorial.

Bobby Collier of Statesville won out over Bobby Henning and Joe Nelson in a three-cornered battle for the sophomore presidential nomination in one of the early skirmishes of the meeting.

Ben Wilcox of Charlotte defeated Bobby Henning in a runoff for the vice presidential nomination.

Pat George of Chapel Hill was accepted by acclamation as the University Party Chairman.

Selby States Stand, Hits Present Regime

Promising to work for abolition of the Umstead Act, reduction of tuition rates, and greater economy in campus finances, independent presidential candidate Toby Selby released his platform yesterday.

Selby, who has before blasted the "do-nothing" attitude of the present student government, took off again on the "minority-controlled political empire which has long controlled UNC politics."

Selby charged that they should be "thrown out" and a student "who is truly representative of students and independent thought at this University be given the chance at public office."

Listing the major provisions of his platform, Selby promised to set up a student committee to go before the General Assembly and the Governor to seek repeal of the Umstead Act, which restricts student cooperative stores.

Describing the Act as "a vicious piece of legislation," Selby charged that it was aimed solely at the University and passed "because of pressure from Chapel Hill merchants."

Selby also promised that, if elected, he would fight for lowered tuition rates. He asserted that the present rates "work undue hardship on thousands of UNC students."

Promising if elected, to veto any measures raising student fees, Selby said he "stood alone" among the three presidential candidates in opposing any "further wasteful spending."

Rosemary Street Is Scene Of Fire

A grass fire, which was out when firemen arrived, late yesterday afternoon brought both trucks of the Fire Department to the home of Mrs. Mary Manning, 507 Rosemary Street.

The fire burned a small area close to a vineyard behind the house. There was no damage.

Chapel Hill police blocked off traffic preventing a tieup. Several weeks ago firemen were unable to get in front of a burning house because student cars blocked the way. Afterwards, Chief P.

Juniors Plan Shirt-Tail Day With Big Picnic

President Dowd Releases Setup For Class Fun

A "Straw Hat and Shirt-Tail" day has been planned for Friday, April 28, in conjunction with the mammoth junior class picnic which is to be held at Hogan's Lake on April 29, Junior Class President Ned Dowd announced yesterday.

The "Straw Hat" day, which will closely parallel the seniors' "Barefoot Day," will be an all-day affair. All juniors will be asked to wear straw hats and their shirt-tails out in typical "country" style to all classes. The first of the Spring German dances will be held in Woollen Gym on Friday night.

Dowd said that plans will be made with a local merchant to sell the straw hats at a reduced rate during the week prior to the big "shindig." Junior Class Vice President Bob Holmes heads the committee in charge of working out the arrangements.

Bill Hedrick and Franny Sweet, who are heading the refreshment committee for the Saturday afternoon picnic, reported at the last meeting of the class officers that arrangements are nearing completion for the serving of barbecue, slaw, and hushpuppies at Saturday's gala affair.

The "Straw Hat and Shirt-Tail" day is mainly to promote unity within the class, Dowd pointed out.

The entire two-day plan was decided upon by the class officers as a means of fulfilling the University Party platform which promised "increased social functions and more class unity" in last fall's election.

Plans Named For Choosing Head Cheerer

Filing Deadline Is Set March 23; Board To Choose

All candidates for head cheerleader must file their intentions to run for the post by the deadline of March 23 announced earlier by the Elections Board, Jim Gwyn, chairman of the Board said yesterday.

The new Cheerleading Board will announce its recommendations of candidates on March 26. The recommendations of the Cheerleading Board will include only those people who have filed their intention and petition with 25 signatures by March 23.

According to the plan which both the University and Student Parties accepted unanimously last week, upon its presentation by head cheerleader Norm Sper, the five-man Cheerleading Board will meet March 21-25 to interview candidates for the position.

There will be no candidates nominated by either party, but any person may run independently for the post. The recommendations of the Cheerleading Board will serve only as a guide to the voters.

The Cheerleading Board will meet with the intention of recommending two candidates, but will raise the number or reduce it to one only by unanimous consent of the five members.

Serving on the Cheerleading Board will be the Head Cheerleader, Sper; the president of the University Club, Jack Holcomb; the president of WAA, Jane Gower; president of CAA, Dan Nyimicz and chairman of the Card Board, Pat Faircloth.

Honor Board Meet Slated March 21, 22

To Pick Candidates For Men's Council; All Nominations Must Be In March 23

The Bipartisan Selection Board to choose candidates to run for the Men's Honor Council in the spring election will meet Tuesday and Wednesday, March 21 and 22, President Bill Mackie said yesterday.

The Selection Board is composed of representatives from each of the campus political parties and of the Council. It is headed by Council chairman Bob Payne.

Mackie emphasized the lack of time left for the selection board to choose candidates in urging all students interested to be on hand for the Board meetings. A schedule of meetings will be posted at the initial session.

Two sophomore, two junior, two senior, a graduate and a Pharmacy School seats on the Council will be filled in the selection. The board will choose two candidates for each post. Independents may seek the jobs by turning in a 25-name petition to the Elections Board.

With nominations due Tuesday, March 23, the board must rush its selections through. Mackie explained, and urged all students interested in running for the court jobs to be present at the first meeting, which is on the first class day of the spring quarter.

Judicial Revision Group Is Proposed By Sanders

Student Party presidential candidate John Sanders yesterday released plans for a Judiciary Study Committee as a major plank in his campaign for election in the April 4 balloting.

"For several years the judicial councils of student government have been in serious need of careful, conscientious study and revision," Sanders asserted.

The present weaknesses in the judiciary, Sanders admitted, were understandable in that the present setup "came about because of the response to needs of a student body of half the present size."

The candidate, who headed the Constitutional Revision Committee which wrote the student Constitution now before the Student Legislature, listed the weaknesses as the fact that the councils serve as investigator, prosecutor, judge and jury, and the fact that there is no definite procedure set up for the judicial councils.

Sanders proposes that the commission work out procedure to put the investigating and preliminary judicial procedure into the hands of a staff outside the council's membership.

The committee would also study and evaluate current procedures, practices, and general operation of all nine campus judicial councils.

Fox Reveals Plan To Use Senior Cash

Charging that, in the past, "senior class money has not been spent in the best way possible," Charlie Fox, rising senior from Roanoke, Va., and independent candidate for the presidency of the class of 1951, yesterday released his platform for the spring election campaign.

Fox, who is seeking the Student Party nomination, Tuesday stated he would begin his campaign without party backing when the SP postponed senior class nominations until after the spring holidays.

He added that he would run independently if he failed to get the SP nomination and that in any case, he was "still running."

Formerly sergeant-at-arms for the Student Legislature and at present a member of the Men's Honor Council, Fox said his plans for the senior class were aimed at an effort to "leave something tangible and useful here at the University from monies appropriated plus other monies gained by group action of the senior class."

He said he wished to see the class of '51 have something tangible and useful left behind "for the University and the class to remember." As examples, Fox suggested the class leave to the University a scholarship fund, a loan fund, or any one of "many other possibilities."

"My belief is," Fox asserted, "that the senior class in working toward such a goal as their class gift will achieve greater class unity and further the Carolina spirit."

He is fellowship chairman of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, a member of the YMCA cabinet for the last two years, has served on the National Student Association committee and is a member of Delta Psi social fraternity.

Red Stickers To Be Allowed In Two Areas

Bell Tower Lot, Emerson Field To Be Available

By Don Maynard

Student car owners' hopes for continued parking rights were completely exploded late yesterday as all parking areas on campus, except Emerson Field and the Bell Tower area, were ruled out of bounds to red sticker holders, effective some time during the spring quarter.

Even the Plantarium lot behind Graham Memorial received a "keep out" designation in the sweeping student-faculty Traffic Control Committee recommendations passed by Chancellor House yesterday.

Physically handicapped students, faculty and staff members are the only individuals who escaped the drastic slash of privileges. The move came about because of what the committee called the "critical campus parking problem."

Only two areas will be available for red sticker parking when the all-encompassing ban goes into effect—the east end of Emerson Field until 2 o'clock in the afternoon during the baseball season and spring practice) and the road east of the Bell Tower leading to Kenan Stadium.

The report of the committee, headed by Joe Bach, stated that "seven days prior to beginning the actual construction of the New Business Administration buildings behind Memorial Hall, notice will be given that all parking privileges in this area are terminated." Construction is expected to begin sometime in the spring.

The move adds another hour to the daily restriction period. Monday through Friday, the ban will be in effect from 7 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. (See PARKING, page 3)

"Of Ladies and Lightning Rods" is the second play that Miss Savage has had staged by the Playmakers.

The play will be taken to Raleigh for the annual meeting of the North Carolina Education Association on Friday. It will be presented at Wiley School.
