Tennis Team Beats Harvard; Baseballers Meet Yale Today

Victory Here

By Harvey Ritch

It was Carolina all the way when the veteran varsity netters traveling Ohio University team tourney Thursday through Sunblasted Harvard University 13-0 at the Hope Valley course, and their six straight match.

The two teams will face each other again today with the singles starting at 2 o'clock.

Its Last Of Ninth 'N Whot Hoppin?

From the sporting angle the current election situation looks somewhat like this:

Its the last of the ninth and bases are loaded. Ace outfielder Chuck Hauser is on third. He singled to start the inning off and moved to second on a sacrifice by pinch hitter Graham Jones, who was sent to the plate on a strategic move by Coach Sandy Harris.

Shortstop Bill Kellam singled with a blooper over Dorm Row, moving Hauser to third. Pitcher Dick Jenrette walked to fill the Opposing pitcher John Sanders, the curve balling right hander, had struck out eight-three batters in the previous eight innings, but but it looks now like he may be pulled out of the game due to a streak of wildness.

There are two outs and Plate Umpire Jim Gwynn has warned the players that this is the darndest game he ever saw.
