Camera School

An attempt to reorganize the camera club on campus and incorporate a new feature, a camera school, will get under way tonight at 7:30 in Roland Parker Lounge 1 of Graham Memorial.

Yackety Yack editor Jim Mills yesterday asked that all persons interested in any way in photography come to the meeting in which an attempt will be made to set the organization back on its feet.

Frosh Paper Is Scheduled For Tomorrow

Freshman Topics, the first known attempt at publishing a class paper, will be distributed tomorrow morning to the 1400 members of the freshman class.

The four-page paper, edited by Gene Oberdorfer, will be delivered to the freshman dorms. Those freshman not living on campus, can pick up their copies at the booth in the Y set up for the sale of Freshman-Sophomore dance tickets.

The purposes of the new paper are to give credit to deserving freshman, promote class spirit, and to highlight the activities of the class.

The paper undertaken as a project last quarter by the class officers, was made possible through class money and local ads.

Articles in the paper include sports roundups of freshman activities, and reports of freshman class social and class activities.

The paper is part of the freshman program of class unity and information, Oberdorfer said. The freshman-sophomore dance, scheduled Saturday night is also part of the program.

The new paper is edited and written entirely by members of the freshman and sophomore classes. Most of the writers are in publications at present.

Southeastern Photogs Open Meeting Today

Photographers from throughout the Southeast—approximately 100 of them—were arriving here last night for the opening this morning of the first Southern Short Course in Photography which gets under way at Carolina Inn at 9 o'clock and continues through Saturday night.

Speakers at the morning session will include Bob Garland, former photo editor of the Saturday Evening Post, now manager of Grafex photo journalism department; Bill Davis, chief photographer for the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal; Bill Sharpe, public relations director, Carolina Power and Light Company, former director, State News Bureau; Don Mohler, General Electric Lamp Department; and J. Wenton Lemen, manager, professional sales division, Eastman Kodak Company. John Hemmer, photographer for the State News Bureau, will serve as moderator.

Other members of the "faculty" for the three-day course include Harold Blumenfeld, New York, editor of Acme Newspictures; Joe Costa, chief photographer for the New York Sunday Mirror Magazine; Alfred DeLardi, Holiday Magazine photographer and television, Birmingham, Ala., News Company; Harold Davis, Louisville Courier-Journal; Frank Scherschel, Life Photographer; and Ollie Atkins, Washington staff member, Saturday Evening Post.

A photo contest will be open to all those registered for the course with the following classifications in which to enter photographs: spot news, feature, sports and scenic. Stuart Schriest of the University Journalism Department, is in charge of arrangements for the contest.

The group decided to concentrate its efforts on the North Carolina primary elections and on an investigation of violations of academic freedom at the University.

These requests must be submitted by 6:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 26 to the main office in Graham Memorial.

Prince Named As Orientation Group Head

Major Post Filled By New President; Was Veep Nominee

Bill Prince, rising junior from Rochester, N. Y., yesterday was appointed chairman of the Orientation Committee by new student body president John Sanders.

A veteran of student government service, Prince replaces Harry Sherrill as head of the orientation group. Sherrill was appointed in December by then president Bill Mackie to the post vacated by Al Lowenstein.

Last year Prince was on Mackie's Orientation Committee, acting in charge of the schedule. He has also been on the constitutional revision committee, former chairman of the faculty evaluation committee, and a legislature member for one year.

The last in a series of three Monday night meetings will be held next week for prospective counselors. Sherrill, in charge of the lectures, said the meeting program has been worked out with Charlie McRae, John Sanders, and Toby Selby.

While attendance at the meeting is being taken, Sherrill said it is no guarantee that all those attending will be selected.

Orientation, an important part of each fall's school program, is designed to introduce incoming students to Carolina. Discussions are held by counselors concerning the honor code, tours of the library are conducted, and assemblies are given.

Pat Bowie, junior from Cumberland, Md., has been serving as women's orientation chairman.

Over 100 counselors will be chosen by the Committee for next fall's program of new student training. Last fall the program was a three-day affair, beginning two days before the opening of the session.

The Orientation Committee will work on a budget of $620 for the coming year.

SDA Elects New Officers

Students for Democratic Action officials yesterday announced the election of the following officers: Vice Chairman, Dick Simpson of Chevy Chase, Md.; Treasurer, Alan Perry of Charlotte; and Secretary, Mary Hatley of Hudson.

The group decided to concentrate its efforts on the North Carolina primary elections and on an investigation of violations of academic freedom at the University.

Capps To Be MC For Music Under Stars

Jimmie Capps, popular Emcee of radio station WPTF's Our Best To You, will be the announcer and master of ceremonies for the first in a series of Music Under The Stars program to be presented on Sunday, April 30.

Jerry Sternberg, president of the University Club, said today that Capps will present a program similar to his regular broadcast, and will read only requests from Carolina students.

These requests must be submitted by 6:00 p.m., Wednesday, April 26 to the main office in Graham Memorial.

Classical Concert By Pearce Tonight

World-Renowned Metropolitan Tenor To Present Program In Memorial Hall

By Charlie Brewer

House lights will dim at 8 o'clock tonight in Memorial Hall for the Jane Pearce concert, rated as one of the top features of this year's SEC schedule.

Chairman Dick Allsbrook repeated yesterday that all students will be admitted free upon presentation of their ID cards, and tickets will go on sale at 7:40 for faculty, student wives and townspeople at one dollar each. Doors will be opened at 7 o'clock.

Top Positions Are Open, Says Editor

The positions of editor and business manager of the Carolina Quarterly have been declared open for applicants, according to present editor Harry Snowden.

All letters of application should be mailed to the Faculty Advisory Board, Box 1117, he said. These letters must be post marked before May 1, 1950.

"Both the editorship and the business manager positions are open to any student, either undergraduate or graduate, Snowden said. "Applicants should state in their letters their qualifications, their proposed plans, and their intended editorial or business policies.

"All the applications will be read carefully by the Advisory Board, and then the candidates will be notified when to appear for a personal interview."

Because the Carolina Quarterly does not receive any funds from Student Government it is essential that all applicants outline their plans for financing the publication, he said.

The new editor and business manager will be announced about May 15, and will take over their duties at that time.

The Advisory Board members, Dr. Lyman Cotten, Dr. H. K. Russell, Charles Eaton, Phillips Russell, and Walter Spearman, together with Snowden and John Taylor, business manager, are responsible for the appointments.

'Apartment For Rent' Signs Here, But Low Rents Still Just A Dream

By J. C. Brown, Jr.

Not since before the war has Chapel Hill had so many "Apartment for Rent" signs, but the dream of low rents still is just a dream, according to James E. Wadsworth, University Housing Director.

"Privately owned apartments now rent from $40-$135 a month and at least 20 of these apartments are vacant. Rents may be lowered temporarily as a result of the 314 new apartments in the Glen Lennox development but when the medical school is completed in 1951, the demand for housing will force rents up again," he said. "Glen Lennox will be completed by May 15. Apartments will rent for $59, $69, and $79, including heat and water, electric stove and refrigerator," Wadsworth said.

Demand for University-operated Victory Village apartments remains unchanged in spite of the fact that veteran students are becoming fewer in number. Veterans have exhausted their savings paying high rents and are anxious to obtain the $15-$30 per month apartments in this veteran's housing project.

Soviet Withdraws From Israel Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, April 19 — Russia withdrew support unexpectedly today from the United Nations plan for international rule over Jerusalem.

The Soviet reversal apparently knocked the last remaining props from under the project. The plan was pushed through the General Assembly and Arab nation delegates.

New Budget Passed; Tarnation Gets Raise; DTH Remains Same

(See insert in fifth paragraph)

By Roy Parker, Jr.

Tarnation received a $575 increase in its appropriation and the Student Legislature move into consideration of the Daily Tar Heel item—last in the 1950-51 campus budget—at 10:30 last night.

Lack of a quorum at first, and long wrangles over class appropriations and the Tarnation money, slowed consideration of the money measure.

Daily Tar Heel Editor Graham Jones had taken the floor at 10:30 in order to explain that with the money proposed in the bill, the DTH would either be forced to eliminate 10 issues a year or cut out several items "necessary to the maintenance of the DTH as an effective organ of student opinion and University representation."

Ninth Legislature To Convene Tonight

The Ninth Assembly of the Student Legislature will open tonight, and the University Party bids fair to retain its traditional control of the body.

The UP has 24 members in the new legislature, two less than a majority, but of six double-endorsed legislators, four received UP nominations first, and should mean the difference.

The Student Party will have 15 legislators in the new assembly, and there are five independents. Officers to be chosen at the session included a Speaker Pro Tempore, Clerk, Parliamentarian, and Sergeant-at-Arms.

Speaker Herb Mitchell will appoint members to the Ways and Means, Finance, Coed Affairs, Archives, Rules and Elections Committees.

Student Body President John Sanders said yesterday that he would put off a "State of the Campus" speech to the assembly until sometime later in the quarter, although several presidential appointments are expected to be presented for approval to the legislators.

Hillel To Pick New Officers

The B'nai Brith Hillel Foundation will have its annual election of officers today, Leonard Liberman, director of Publicity, said yesterday.

Nominees for President are: Jay Joseph, from Vineland, N. J., who is seeking his second term as head of the group, and Sol Kimerling, from Birmingham, Ala.

Voting is from 9 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the Hillel Lounge of the YMCA Building.

Candidates for Vice-President are: Ted Frankel, Bernice Margol, Dick Schwartz, and Henry Shavitz. Seeking the office of Secretary are Joe Arnold, and Harry Lerner. The position of Treasurer is sought by Paul Kaplan.
