McGinn Tagged For 3-1 Loss; Lewis Silences Carolina Bats

By Lew Chapman
 DEVEREAUX MEADOW, RALEIGH, April 19—The thunder of the Tar Heel bats was far from audible here today as the Carolina nine collected only three scattered safeties off State's Lunsford Lewis and succumbed to the Wolfpack in a tight game, 3-1.

The setback was the fourth straight for the Carolinians as once again lack of offensive power offset a good Tar Heel pitching performance. In the last three defeats the Tar Heel hitters have been able to come up with a total of only two runs.

Bill McGinn and Dean Cassell were the unfortunates today as together they held the highly regarded Wolfpack sluggers to a total of only five hits. McGinn went the first six, and although was tagged with his second defeat, the stylish lefty permitted only four hits and two earned runs while his mates were being held at bay by Lewis' assorted deliveries.

Cassell came on the scene in the seventh when McGinn tired after putting two men on with none out, but the Tar Heel ace was equal to the occasion as he put down the State threat with a quick double-play.

The Raleigh collegians scored first in the fourth when center-fielder Bill Fowler doubled into the left-field corner and then eventually scored on errors of commission and omission by McGinn. Fowler advanced to third on a wild pitch and then was waved home when McGinn balked.

The only Carolina threat of the afternoon and one that gave them their only score materialized in the sixth. Joe Brookshire got the Tar Heel's second hit, a twisting double to left. The Carolina shortstop advanced to third on McGinn's infield out and then continued home when the State's first-sacker's throw to third went into the box seats on the edge of the diamond.

DIAMOND DUST . . . State's Smith, a neat if somewhat small first-sacker, is attracting many a scout but McGinn still picked him off base twice during the afternoon . . . Infield play was

Duke Victor Over Frosh In Lacrosse

By Art Greenbaum
 The University of North Carolina freshman lacrosse team was upset by the Duke Blue Imps here yesterday afternoon by the score of 9-5.

Scoring four times in the opening quarter, the visitors compiled a lead that the Tar Babies could never surpass.

The Blue Imps took the opening face-off and within 30 seconds Nolan Rogers took a pass on the crease and slammed it into the nets for the first score. Before three minutes had elapsed in the first period, the visitors had rolled up a 3-0 lead.

In the second canto, the Blue Imps were held scoreless while the Carolina stickmen tallied their first point. At 5:58 of the (See SPORTS, page 4)

Stowe's Triple In Ninth Wins Tar Baby Game, 8-7

By Ken Barton
 A three run ninth inning, climaxed by John Stowe's triple with the bases loaded, enabled the Carolina freshmen to break their three game losing streak and defeat the visiting freshmen nine from N. C. State yesterday on Emerson Field, 8-7.

The victory, evened the seasonal record for the Tar Babies at three wins and three losses and was the first victory against a Big Four team for the freshmen.

Both squads struck early with three runs apiece in the first inning. Dave Murray got off to a wild start against State by walking three batters and hitting two others. These walks added to a single produced a three run lead for State.

However, the Tar Babies came charging back in the last of the inning. An error by the third baseman for State Bill Wright allowed Bob Henning to get on base. Ed Hooks followed with a single and Ham Crowder with a double, scoring two runs. Crowder scored from third on a fly into left.

A single by Bob Morris, a double by Herb Fuscoe, and a single by Jack Kennedy produced three more runs in the top of the fifth inning for State. Kennedy scored on a fielder's choice. Bill Kohlbecker tripled in the fifth and scored on a fielder's choice to give State its 7-5 lead going into the ninth.

Golfers Meet Wake Forest Here Today

Revenge for their only Southern Conference defeat will be the prime objective for the Carolina golfers at 1:30 today when they engage Wake Forest divoters at the Hope Valley course.

The same team that lost to the Deacons last week will probably tee off in the return match. Harvie Ward and Roy McKenzie will handle the number one, two, and three spots. Stubb Sapp and Frank Brooks playing out of the second.

Rod, McKnight will be the position.

number five man with either Frank Eckert, who played against the Deacs at Raleigh, or Jack Brantley rounding out the final pair.

Wake Forest will probably come back with Southern Conference champion Arnold Palmer, Frank Edens, Dick Tiddy, Mickey Gallagher, Jennings Agner, and Bud Worsham. Palmer, Gallagher, and Worsham won their matches against the Tar Heels in the first meet. Agner did not play.

Virginia Here To Play Local Netters Today

The netters from the University of Virginia will open the lid on the roughest week of tennis the Carolina squad has thus far encountered when they go against the undefeated Tar Heels on the varsity courts at 3:00 this afternoon.

The Carolina team has gone through 14 consecutive matches, most of which were against Northern teams, without giving up more than one point to the opposing side and the Cavaliers will be the first of five teams that will try to end that record during the next week.

Fencing Meet

There will be a meeting at 5:15 today in 304 Woolen Gym of all members of the Fencing Club, fencing officials said yesterday.

Anyone interested in plans now being drawn up for next month's novice fencing competition is welcome to attend along with all members of the club.

In 61 years of football, Notre Dame teams have won 388 games, lost 77 and tied 30.
